REPUBLICAN TICKET. National. For President—THEODORE ROOSEVELT, New York.

Mr. Davis can just as reasonably declare himself as standing firmly on the silver side of the democratic platform.

The way the Russians have been luring the Japanese on to their doom is an art of war that appears to be more disastrous to the lurers than to the lured.

President Roosevelt's surprise party is scheduled to take place on the 27th, when the news will be gently broken to him that he was made the nominee of the Chicago convention.

Inasmuch as Judge Parker takes a horseback ride every morning, the cartoon of the man on horseback which the democrats have been working the limit will now have to be retired or substituted.

Premier Laurier has advised the Canadians to prepare to whip the United States, but in the face of this dire threat the United States has not slunk off into the gulf of Mexico.

The real issue for the Nebraska opponents of republicanism is to be fought out on August 10, when it will be determined whether the democrats who want to fuse can coerce the populists into their way of thinking on the subject.

The government has called in all the $10,000 bills and there is now but one out. There is a suspicion that someone has got it, but haste is made to divert suspicion from the treasury department of this office.

When Mr. Bryan and his party were assaulting plutocracy hip and thigh they had no means of knowing that it would some day invade democracy and take the whole works.

gains. Four years hence Mr. Bryan hopes to again get in the saddle, then there will be other changes among the rank and file.

While chief interest in the political contest centers in the battle to be fought out by the republicans and the democrats, there is a certain interest in the battle between the two middleweights, the populists and the prohibitionists.

The estimate of 70,000 registrations for a chance at the South Dakota land drawing appears to have been none too small with more than 64,000 now registered in and the last four days of the registration season to be heard from.

It was reported quite generally that Sunday was a quiet day both at Sagamore Hill and Rosemont. It may be difficult to believe, but inasmuch as it is asserted in papers that have no streak of yellow in them.

The registering for homesteads on the Rosebud will close with Saturday night and the books will be packed up and hiked away for the drawing.

The World-Herald and other papers, as well as the democratic orators will need to tread very lightly on the "railroad candidate" pedal.

When the Parker men have gone in for control, in a majority of instances they have captured things in such an emphatic way that there has been no prospect of even an interesting fight.

Mr. Tibbles says very emphatically that the populists of Nebraska cannot "be coaxed, forced, coerced or led into supporting or co-operating with men that support Parker."

Mr. Bryan may not say so, or even believe so, but there are many people who will believe for him, that he would not be keenly enthused over the returns if the "reorganized" democrats should show an increase.

Two weeks from today Norfolk will have as its guests the members of the Nebraska State Volunteer Fire-

The next battle is due to take place at Lincoln on the tenth of August.

Judge Parker has proven that the cat has not got his tongue in several and varied incidents recently.

There are not so many Nebraska farms on the market that the investor can afford to pass up a good chance when he gets it.

Mr. Bryan says he will vote for Parker and Davis, but at the same time gives notice that he will have a long and sharp knife out and ready for use four years hence.

The knowledge that Parker is the preferred candidate of Wall street and that he is a declared admirer of the gold standard, will not help him in the least in the west.

In politics the movement appears to be all in one direction. Scores of democrats are deserting the party that chose a gold standard candidate.

The democrats will not need to go out among the "common people" to solicit subscriptions to their campaign fund as Mr. Bryan was compelled to do during his two battles against monopoly, plutocracy and imperialism.

The World-Herald and other papers, as well as the democratic orators will need to tread very lightly on the "railroad candidate" pedal.

It is a cruel joke these recent years to pin a democrat down and make him explain why he is a democrat. He may have quite firm convictions on important national questions.

Mr. Bryan may not say so, or even believe so, but there are many people who will believe for him, that he would not be keenly enthused over the returns if the "reorganized" democrats should show an increase.

Tammany may be out of the national political game if there is not something in the way of recognition coming soon from Esopus.

Two weeks from today Norfolk will have as its guests the members of the Nebraska State Volunteer Firemen's association and the running teams that will compete for the pursuing to be given. It is one of the most important meetings of the state this year and the people here will endeavor to see that their visitors are so well entertained that they will wish to come again.

Mr. Bryan found a number of principles in the democratic platform that were sufficient to influence his loyalty. Had he looked further he would have found many more of the new democracy's ideals enshrined in the platform of the people's independent party.

The national democratic committee has fixed it all right with Mr. Bryan—or think they have. They promise that if he will be good, elect a democratic legislature in Nebraska and get the consent of the members of that body and their votes, he may be the Nebraska senator to succeed to the position of Senator Dietrich.

The eastern gold bugs are not pleased with the omission of the money plank from the St. Louis platform, neither are the western silverites, and the party and its candidates are getting keen thrusts from both wings of democracy.

Frank J. Mann, chairman of the democratic party for an Indiana county, for four years, and in 1900 candidate for attorney general on the democratic ticket, is among those who have declared that they cannot vote for Parker and Davis.

Belle Fourche will soon be attracting a share of the prospective settlers of South Dakota with the irrigation project that is being handled by the government, and other portions of the west will shortly be appealing to those who want to own farms in the same way.

decade, with the opening of fertile reservations to settlement, the creating of section homesteads and the placing of semi-arid lands under irrigation by the government.

The World-Herald is quite anxious about the fusion end of the deal on state offices and a considerable portion of the valuable space that might be used in assaulting the republican ramparts is just now being used in an endeavor to convince the populists that, though the democrats are fully divorced in the national political life, there is yet reason why they should continue to help the democrats in their endeavors to get office.

The argument is quite appealing, but there are many populists who are sick of the whole fusion business and if the leaders of their party endeavor to make them support democrats for state office after what has been done in the national convention at turning down every thing populist, including Mr. Bryan, they will have nothing to do with either party.
