

GOOD MEETING AT LYNCH

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES VISIT THRIVING COUNTRY.

WERE STRUCK WITH COUNTRY

J. L. McBrien Was Mistaken for W. J. Bryan, Because of the Similarity in Name and Appearance, and Considerable Fun Resulted.

Yesterday was a great day in a political way for Lynch. A rousing republican rally was held up there, and the population of Boyd county turned out with an enthusiasm that was refreshing.

The candidates with the party were A. Galusha, candidate for secretary of state; H. M. Eaton, candidate for commissioner of public lands and buildings; J. L. McBrien, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction.

"That was the liveliest town you ever saw anywhere," said one of the candidates when they arrived in Norfolk this morning, after having been up the greater part of the night to catch the early train.

The party relate a good joke on Mr. McBrien. As he was introduced about the town, a few people caught the "Bryan" part of his name and mistook him for the famous Nebraska orator.

The candidates could not say enough about Lynch and Boyd county today. "That is a great country," said one of them, enthusiastically. "Oats up there ran as high as 113 bushels to the acre and there is prosperity on every hand."

The Story of a Picture.

Several months ago the little children of Will M. Maupin, who is so well known to all readers of Nebraska newspapers, laid their childish hands upon a little tin chest which they found in a closet, and in that chest they found a faded daguerrotype of a young woman.

Several of the players were knocked out of breath, but no one was carried off the field. Charles Kearney of Stanton refereed a portion of the game and Al Marshall acted as timekeeper.

TILDEN PIONEER IS DEAD

J. H. Kierstead Passed Away Last Night at His Home in that City. Tilden, Neb., Oct. 8.—Special to The News: J. H. Kierstead, one of the pioneer and best known business men of this city, died at his home here last night, aged sixty-two years, after a sickness of about a year from paralysis.

Mr. Kierstead homesteaded a claim north of the river here in a very early day, when the country was first opened up to settlement. About 1882 he moved to town and went into the general merchandise business, continuing at it until sickness compelled him to give it up about a year ago, when he suffered a stroke of paralysis from which he never fully recovered.

He was much loved and admired by all his acquaintances and they included about everyone in town and vicinity. Besides his wife Mr. Kierstead leaves two sons and two daughters.

FOOTBALL AND MR. BRYAN

TWO ATTRACTIONS MAKE BIG DAY AT STANTON.

DOANE WINS GAME, SCORE 39 TO 5

The South Dakota Boys Were Completely Outclassed in Their Playing. Good Crowd, Which Had Come for the Game, Heard Bryan at Night.

Stanton, Neb., Oct. 8.—Doane college football team won an easy victory over the team from Yanpton, S. D., here yesterday afternoon, with a score of 39 to 5. The boys from South Dakota were entirely outclassed. There was a good sized crowd out to see the fun. No one was severely hurt. Several of the players were knocked out of breath, but no one was carried off the field.

Charles Kearney of Stanton refereed a portion of the game and Al Marshall acted as timekeeper. The cheering favored the Nebraska boys, both on account of their bugearer proclivities and because they knew the game of football so much better.

The game in the afternoon preceded the speech of William J. Bryan in the evening. Mr. Bryan drew a large crowd, there being about 150 who were unable to get into the hall at all. He reiterated generally what he had said on his trip during the week.

Patrick E. McKillip also spoke for a short time. Altogether, with the two football teams and the two speakers, it was a day of note in Stanton.

C. SUNDELL DISAPPEARS

Building Contractor Suddenly Leaves Norfolk, Unannounced.

C. Sundell, building contractor, who was in business here for two years, has suddenly disappeared from Norfolk and left no trace as to his definite whereabouts.

Several business firms in the city want a settlement with Mr. Sundell, but he has gone without the formality of that. He lived in a rented house on North Twelfth street, which is owned by Tracy & Durland. Sunday the firm's attention was called to the fact that the house was empty.

One Norfolk man saw Mr. Sundell on an M. & O. train bound toward Sioux City. He had told a friend that he was going to Wakefield. Yesterday word was heard that he was in Battle Creek.

J. R. Smith, former partner of Mr. Sundell, after dissolving partnership, has gone to Lincoln to live. He will be here in a few days. Lumbermen state that Mr. Sundell's tools are still here, and they believe he will return to settle up.

The body was brought here early Saturday morning. Death resulted instantly from two bullet wounds in the head, together with a wound inflicted by the barrel of a revolver.

Much indignation is felt here as the deceased was well and favorably known and a member of the Eagle lodge of this place. C. D. Cook and Henry Caver are under arrest at the Rosebud agency. Deputy United States Marshal Belding arrived yesterday from Deadwood to take them back for trial.

An autopsy was performed by Coroner A. Lewis of this city and Dr. Hamilton, the agency doctor.

The delegates from the coast states will arrive in Omaha in their special car tonight and will there be joined by the delegates from southern states and a special train will convey them to Minneapolis.

SEN. BROWN BOLTS TICKET

CANDIDATE FOR MANY OFFICES IN KEYA PAHA COUNTY.

NOW RUNNING BY PETITION

Having Been Candidate for Nomination in Several Capacities, Mr. Brown Would Now Leave the Regular Convention.

Springview, Neb., Oct. 10.—Special to The News: A petition is being circulated in Keya Paha county for the purpose of placing in nomination for the office of county attorney, Hon. W. C. Brown of Springview, present state senator from the Fourteenth senatorial district. Mr. Brown has served as county attorney of this county for five terms and was in 1902 elected state senator from this district on the republican ticket. In 1902 he was a prominent candidate before the republican convention for the nomination for judge of the Fifteenth district but was defeated and this year was a candidate for renomination for state senator but was defeated by Chas. P. Broese of Rushville. He then announced himself as a candidate before the republican convention for the office of county attorney of this county. In the county convention, however, he was defeated by the present county attorney by a vote of 24 to 11. Mr. Brown, however, does not propose to abide by the decision of the county convention and will, if sufficient signers are obtained, be a candidate by petition for the office of county attorney.

A majority of the signers, up to date, are populists and old line democrats. If Mr. Brown accepts the nomination obtained in this manner a number of prominent republicans have announced it as their intention to request his resignation from the state senatorship.

Fusion Convention Today. The populist and democratic representative conventions are to be held here this afternoon for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for representative for the Fifty-second district. The district comprises the counties of Cherry and Keya Paha and the two parties will probably fuse. A. M. Morrissy of Valentine, Ant. Poitevin of Norden and Elmer Vifquain of Springview, are possibilities.

At the last meeting of the county commissioners the Springview State bank was made a county repository.

Neiter Pleaded Guilty. Bassett, Neb., Oct. 10.—Special to The News: William Neiter pleaded guilty to a statutory charge and was sentenced by Judge Harrington to three and one-half years in the penitentiary.

Fly Nets. A discount of from 15 to 20 per cent on all flynets the next thirty days. Now is the time to buy them. Paul Nordwig.

Saloon Moving. The saloon formerly known as the Pacific Annex, in the Pacific block, is being moved today into the building formerly occupied by the Palace shoe store.

AT CREIGHTON AND PIERCE

W. J. BRYAN VISITED THOSE CITIES YESTERDAY.

SPOKE IN THE COLD, RAW, AIR

But the Silvery Toned Orator of the Platte Felt no Ill Effects From it. He Said—Mr. McKillip Accompanied Mr. Bryan.

W. J. Bryan and Patrick E. McKillip continued their speaking tour through northern Nebraska yesterday, addressing two large crowds. One stop was made at Creighton and another at Pierce, both county seat towns, and both places large crowds flocked out to listen to the democratic leader and the congressional candidate.

At Creighton the crowd which gathered to listen to the speakers was so large that a hall, in which the speaking was to have taken place, had to be abandoned for the open air. Although the wind was severe and the air chilly, Mr. Bryan spoke at some length and felt no ill effects, he said to The News, last night. There were about 1,000 people, according to Mr. Bryan's own estimate, who assembled in Creighton to hear the speeches.

From Creighton the party returned to Pierce on a freight train which was slightly delayed, bringing them into Pierce shortly before 8 o'clock. The meeting there was indoors, and a good crowd wag on hand.

Mr. Bryan pursued the same general lines of address which he has followed throughout his trip into northern Nebraska. He spoke of political ideals and of imperialism and the Philip-pines. On state issues he spoke at length regarding the present revenue law and urged voters to stand for Berger.

Mr. McKillip spoke of the revenue law, and tried to make the people think that they were paying more taxes, without telling them that their property was more valuable than ever before.

Very early this morning the party arose to catch the passenger train, breakfasting in Norfolk at 6 o'clock. This afternoon they will speak in West Point at 2 o'clock and tonight they will be in Stanton.

Stanton has made great preparation for the event, with a big football game this afternoon as a side attraction. The game will be played between Yanpton college, S. D., and Doane college.

WORLD'S FAIR WANDERERS.

After Inspecting Totem Poles They Start on Tour of Japan.

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—We were glad to find something that was not marked "please do not handle" and that was the reason we gazed long and lovingly at the Alaskan totem poles. Some exhibitor could make a great hit at this exposition by labeling everything he had to exhibit "please handle this."

The strain is telling on John. He likes to handle things. The privilege of feeling things is as grateful to him as a lot of fresh mud to a boy of children. But even the big locomotives and heavy railroad iron over in the Transportation building are labeled "please don't handle." In a part of the building we saw a comfortable looking bench with a nice back to it, but it bore the words, "This bench is not to sit down on; it is for the display of steel rails."

The big model of the Pennsylvania Railway station to be built in New York was labeled "Don't Handle." John vows he will pick up and carry off the first thing that doesn't wear a don't handle tag, even if it is one of the Indian squaws on the Pike.

The totem pole it seems, is the Alaskan's "family tree." It is a record of the doings of his ancestors. If a great, great grandfather died, got married or was hung a new notch was cut in the totem pole or a new figure carved. These poles which surround the native houses on either side of the Alaska building are the first ever brought to this country and were only obtained through the influence of Governor Brady. They are highly prized, some of them having been carved by the aborigines many years ago. After looking at these ancestral monuments we took a trip all through Alaska, up the great Yukon river, the second river in the world, to Dawson and the Klondike region. We took a journey on dog sleds, climbed a great glacier and went up the White. We did all this and more with a young man and a biograph while seated in comfortable chairs in a sort of theater in the Alaska building. The biograph which shows a series of beautifully illuminated and life-like pictures is extensively used in the exposition. We came upon young men lecturers everywhere who use the biograph to illustrate and demonstrate in great manufacturing industries. Preaching to the world's fair visitors in pictures is in happy accord with the spirit and purpose of the exposition, which is to show how things are done. No other kind of an exposition would go in the state of Missouri anyway. The Missourian asks questions. And after you have answered him he will ask the same question over again. When the guide in one of the cars of the Ferris wheel says, "Now if you will look over to your left you will see Jerusalem and the Philippine village in the distance," every Missourian in the car will look to the right and very soon will ask "Where did you say Jerusalem was?" On every hand we hear the trite remark, "I am from Missouri, you will have to show me." I have just solved a question that has been bothering me ever since a Japanese woman lectured before our club on Japanese art. She told of the extreme simplicity of the Japanese home and its furnishings, how across they were in lumbering up the home with useless furniture and bric-a-brac. I wondered why people so artistic and so skillful at making things should be satisfied with a screen and footstool with a blue cap and sancer on it and a few toothpicks as the only furnishings of a room. The reason is plain. I peered a screen in the Japanese section of the Varied Industries building and I found it would take $750 to induce them to part with it. A vase was marked $250. After the frugal Jap has bought a screen and a vase he has reached the limit of his purse. His home is furnished. He needs no chairs or tables so long as he has a screen and a vase. T. A. D.
