Telephones: Editorial Department, No. 22. Business Office and Job Rooms, No. 322. It was a great snowfall.

The shouting is about all over also. Hurrah and a tiger for the winning side. The star spangled banner still waves.

Those who "stand pat" were quite numerous. Democratic forecasts are now subject to revision. Now wait for the democratic prophecies to come true.

The great west is satisfied, whether the east is or not. Have no vain regrets. It might have been worse—or better.

A piece of withering intelligence—Texas has gone democratic. All sorts of enterprise and progress are now ripe for the gathering.

Roosevelt is authorized to captain four more years of prosperity. It appears quite likely that Mr. McKillip's own county was for him.

How do you like the appearance of the "doubtful states" by this time? And it was attempted to show that the results in Ohio were in the realm of uncertainty.

The people seem to have landed on Parker's indefensible campaign tactics all in a bunch. If you have any regrets it is more than half likely that you failed to vote the republican ticket.

If you like it you like it pretty well. If you don't like it you should grin and bear it like a man. Complete details may be lacking, but the result is no longer in the realm of doubt and uncertainty.

mine which has the better claim to being the idol of the rank and file of the party. The weather was fine part of the time and clouded up for a portion of the day.

If the returns show that Parker polled a smaller vote than Bryan did four and eight years ago, Mr. Bryan is in a position to assert that he told the party so, and if it is shown that there was a gain he can reasonably lay claim to have done his best to contribute to the result.

It did snow—figuratively and literally. Nebraska has evidently sworn off for good. Mr. Bryan probably has the best right to exclaim, "I told you so."

There is no doubt about the present-day opinion of the people regarding a return to Clevelandism. There is not much chance to doubt the republicanism of Nebraska even though the vote was close on government.

At least the injunction to voters to register will be missing from the columns of the city papers for a few months. The doubtful states are hereafter quite likely to include Missouri, and the solid south is no more solid than the solid north.

Prosperity to the nation seems to be of vastly greater importance to the American people than the returning of the democrats to office. It is quite apparent that the majority of the populists have clambered into the democratic band wagon, or at least those who are not permanently enrolled in the ranks of the republicans.

Which would be wiser for a man past fifty to do; marry a trained nurse or a good cook? If a secret is kept a secret, this is one sign that it was not considered important enough to tell.

When a school teacher pronounces "dahlia" the ordinary person doesn't know what she is talking about. It is said of an Atchison woman that the only times she overdoes is when she tells of how much she accomplishes.

When the man of the house leaves town, his women folks have a well-known-we-can-accomplish-something look. When mothers hear of a young girl who likes to take care of babies, they make as much of her as if she were pudding.

After a woman has been married long enough to know men well, she wonders that she ever had enough faith in one to announce her engagement. We do a great many foolish things, and make mistakes every day, but we wish to call attention to this proud record: We never use the word, "erstwhile."

About the only advantage the wife of a preacher seems to have over other women, is that her husband is home more and has more time to hang shelves. Here are a few items we have compiled from the Globe: "Johnny Forley expects to become a guard at the world's fair."

It would almost raise the venerated Mark Hanna and the deplorable William McKinley from their tombs to give one shout of approval of the action of the American people. Now if Mr. Bryan had been contented to ask for something like the governorship there is no telling what might have happened.

Complete and final returns will probably show that there never has been such a sweeping victory for any party as that which was won by the republicans of the nation on Tuesday. President Roosevelt timed his refusal of another term to better advantage than did his democratic opponent.

If the complete returns only prove the growing suspicion that Missouri has gone republican the entire country will join with the republicans of that state in celebration of the momentous event. The eastern democrats will now probably recognize the fact that the trouble has not heretofore been the fact that the candidate during the two preceding campaigns was from the west and had free silver for an issue.

The republican pre-election claims had to be revised. They were not large enough or strong enough. Nevertheless they did not have to undergo the same revision as the democratic claims, and were a much nearer approach to accuracy.

The judges have given their verdict regarding the merits of the McCarthy-McKillip debates, and if the impetuosity of Mr. McKillip's management had precipitated him into a few more joint discussions it would simply have been an avalanche.

The electoral college will not lack a great deal of being two to one for the republican nominee for president. Perhaps the democrats will charge the election with being a cut and dried affair, and ruled by a big stick as they charged against the Chicago convention.

It was right and showed a generous spirit, of course for Parker to telegraph his congratulations to Roosevelt, but some way his message of congratulation does not look well in comparison with his charges against the character of the president, made before the election.

It was a flattering endorsement of a business-like administration of national affairs by a business-like set of officials, and the kind of endorsement that cannot afford to be violated in the smallest detail. The people have placed their confidence in the republican party and every individual official should undertake to see that this vote of esteem encourages them to renewed efforts in behalf of their constituents.

If there is one thing more manifest than another it is that the people are quite content to leave their public affairs in the hands of the republican party so long as that party will be true to her trust and treat the people justly and with equal consideration between rich and poor and the great and humble. If there was one influence more powerful than another in winning the election it was that the record of honesty and justice established by the republicans since they have been in power has been satisfactory to the sovereign people.

This confidence has nobly withstood the assaults of a desperate enemy who would not hesitate to batter down fact with demagoguism, and confuse truth with fiction, and the same serene confidence in the majority party will undoubtedly be manifest as long as the party's representatives abide by their sworn duty and uphold the common public in matters pertaining to their welfare.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS. An Atchison wife holds her husband responsible because of the fact that she is old. We are glad money is an object to us, and that we do not belong to the 400 which study extravagant and ridiculous methods of separating themselves from their wealth. We are glad we have some useful employment, and that we do not ride in a trolley as a swell, and blow a horn to call attention to the fact that we do not have to work. An Atchison man was married in his overalls the other day. He had better clothes, but the sheriff wouldn't let him go home after them.

It is a cheap notion that a man who votes for a candidate is influenced by a drink of whisky, a cigar, or a dollar. Nine voters out of ten want candidates to let them alone. Those of you who have been watching the movements of the Baltic fleet, will be glad to know that it won its first battle: a battle with a lot of defenseless fishermen.

Once upon a time a Globe reporter told the truth about an amateur entertainment, and the paper hasn't succeeded in seven years in making up with those who took part in it. Talk about women's quarrels; sometimes male members of committees and male members of boards of directors quarrel in a ridiculous way that is worse than the spats of women.

An Atchison girl will carry a muff this winter that weighs ten pounds, getting in good training for the day when she will carry a heavy baby around the house and do work at the same time. A man was in town today trying to induce Atchison people to go to Kansas City to see a football game. It seems to us that this is carrying things too far.

An Atchison man lately sold out his business. He didn't really care to sell out, but he was offered more than he thought the business was worth, so he let it go. He has been idle six months, and has already lost more than the amount he made on the sale. Now he will be compelled to build up a new business and spend all he received from his sale, and a good deal more. The man is now able to figure out that his sale was foolish and very unprofitable.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Sold by druggists, 75c. Toledo, O. Take Hall's family pills for constipation.

NEW JERSEY LAUNCHED ONE OF MOST POWERFUL BATTLE SHIPS IN THE WORLD. COST THE GOVERNMENT $5,000,000 In the Matter of Electrical Appliances the New Naval Vessel Will be Superior to Any Other Owned by this Government.

Quincy, Mass., Nov. 10.—Christened by a daughter of the state whose name she is to bear, the magnificent battleship New Jersey was launched today from the yard of the Fore River Ship and Engine company. Hundreds of persons saw the ship plunge into the water, and for some time after their cheers echoed along the river banks.

Mothers Praise it. Mothers everywhere praise One Minute Cough Cure for the sufferings it has relieved and the lives of their little ones it has saved. A certain cure for coughs, croup and whooping cough. A. L. Spafford, postmaster of Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved and cured her and I cannot praise it too highly."

constructed with double turrets. The New Jersey is the last ship with double turrets the government intends to build. The double turret has its disadvantages, according to naval experts. After considerable delay the keel of the New Jersey was laid in 1901. Since then the work has gone rapidly on, but it will be another year before the vessel will go into commission.

The total cost to the government will be about $5,000,000. The New Jersey's length on loadwater line is 425 feet, breadth 76 feet and full load draft 26 feet. Her displacement will be 15,000 tons. The New Jersey will have a speed of at least 19 knots. She will be propelled at this high speed by twin screws driven by two four-cylinder engines of 19,000 indicated horsepower.

The New Jersey's armament will consist of four twelve-inch guns, mounted by pairs in balanced turrets, one turret being located forward of the superstructure and the other aft. Of the eight eight-inch guns, four will be mounted by pairs in turrets, and four in two broadside turrets located amidships. There will also be a broadside battery on the gundeck of twelve six-inch rapid-fire guns, mounted six on each side.

The secondary battery will consist of twelve three-inch fifty-calibre rapid-fire guns, twelve semi-automatic, eight heavy-automatic, two thirty-calibre machine guns and six thirty-calibre Colt Automatic guns. She will also be fitted with submerged torpedo tubes. To make her defensive qualities proportional to her offensive qualities she is provided with a complete water line belt of armor, eight feet in width, eleven inches thick at the top and eight inches at the bottom. The New Jersey has also a casemate armored belt extending over 245 feet of her entire length.

It is the intention of the government to make all the vessels of the New Jersey and Virginia class flag-ships. With this end in view accommodations were made for one flag officer, one commanding officer, one chief of staff, nineteen wardroom officers, ten junior officers, eight warrant officers and a crew of 772 men, including a force of about sixty marines.

In this matter of electrical appliances the New Jersey will be superior to any other battleship ever constructed for this government. A Good Complexion. BRYAN MAKES A DENIAL Says He Will Not Go to New York to Help Organize New Party. Lincoln, Nov. 9.—Hon. W. J. Bryan today denied the report that he would meet W. R. Hearst and Tom Watson in New York soon for the purpose of taking steps toward the organization of a new party.

ROBBERY AT BONESTEEL Hardware Firm in the Rosebud Metropolitan is Touched. Robbers broke into the hardware store of McClain & Griffin last Saturday night and played havoc to their thorough satisfaction with the stock in general. Owing to the fact that Bonesteel has been remarkably free from thieving throughout its history, this unlooked-for attack comes with a great degree of surprise.

It is plain to be seen that there are yet a few stragglers in town who should forthwith be eliminated, and we trust a thorough investigation will be launched with this purpose in view. The culprits, whoever they were, forced the rear window of the tin-shop and thus placed themselves in possession of more, and perhaps better tools. Picking up a crow-bar in this room, they pried the spiked hinges from the door connecting with the main room and thus cleared the field. The store was dark, no light having been left burning, hence the burglars could operate without being seen by anyone passing the front of the building.

Two or more pistols of 38-calibre were taken from the case, several pocket knives were pocketed, the safe rifled, and the till of the cash register relieved of $5, its entire amount. A visit was then made to the ammunition shelves. Being unable to see the numbers on the cartridge boxes in the dark, the thieves were compelled to fall back upon the sense of touch. Box after box was torn open disclosing shells of every size, before the desired ones were found.

It has been found impossible so far to place an exact estimate on the value or amount of goods stolen. Something over $30 worth has been found missing though this sum may be increased by later discoveries.—Bone-steel Pilot. Letter List.
