TEN YEARS A POLICEMAN

SOME INTERESTING EPISODES IN CAREER OF KANE.

HANDLED MANY BAD CROOKS

Sent Dozens into Striped Clothing. For Three Years on Street Work, He Never Missed a Night's Work. How He Fought a Desperate Thug.

[From Saturday's Daily.] With a dozen years of active service behind him, as officer and chief on the Norfolk police force, Martin Kane, who has just resigned his life-position to accept an equally permanent offer from Uncle Sam, in the new government building here, has perhaps the most interesting string of incidents to relate, that can be claimed by any other chief of police or private citizen in the northwest. Having served through the early days of Norfolk, when this city was the center of the boldest gangs of robbers and thugs who have ever been hunted down by the law, having been through many a fierce battle with bullets against criminals, having been the direct cause for putting easily a hundred convicts into striped clothing and having found homes for a dozen homeless babies, and protected scores of young girls from ruin, his career abounds with episodes that are intensely dramatic.

It was Officer Martin Kane who hunted down the Carson outfit—a bold band of robbers who operated thoroughly in Stanton county—and sent them all to the Lincoln penitentiary. It was he who got the Eddies, another band with headquarters here, and convicted them to prison sentences; it was he who detected the Clark outfit, another crowd of burglars, and sent them along the same road, together with many another crook.

Got Big Rewards. "The biggest reward I ever got," remarked the veteran chief, as he took off his star, pulled his gun from his pocket and laid it on the table, and then changed his blue coat for a citizen's garment, "the biggest reward I ever got was $250 for a horse thief named Burns, from Yankton, S. D. He had slid away up there and I happened to spot him after dark, in the railroad yards at South Norfolk. That year I made more than $500 in purely 'velvet' rewards, picking up foreign crooks who had dropped into Norfolk. "And the fiercest fight I ever had," continued the citizen, Kane, "was with a jailbreaker from Sioux Falls—a penitentiary convict there, who called himself Kid McCoy. I had to go against a gun in that fight, which poured fully a dozen lead chunks toward my target frame, but I got the man without wounding either of us, and a reward of $100 to boot."

"What was your hardest arrest?" "The fellow was a daylight robber," said the ex-officer. "His name was Dwight. He dropped in here from Sioux City, robbed the store of Anton Buchholz at 5 o'clock in the morning and was just making his getaway at the Junction when I rode up. When my horse approached near enough for him to make out my features, he drew a gun and fired into my sleeve. I spurred on the animal, rode almost over him, reached down with my gun and, using the butt end, laid him flat. That boy got two years."

Among those now serving time for crimes which Kane worked on, are Max Spahr, who slashed the throat of a negro in this city from ear to ear about three years ago; Forger Mills alias Wynn, who created a sensation among bankers all over the country; Clark, a Madison rapist, and a dozen horse thieves.

Max Spahr was one of the most desperate criminals ever caught here. After having, enroute to a low resort, cut the negro's throat with an eight-inch gash, robbed him and left him for dead in the road at 2 o'clock in the morning, rolling his wound about in the dust, Spahr fled, was caught, imprisoned, and paroled by Gov. Mickey. During the parole he escaped to Pennsylvania, committed more crimes, and was only last spring returned by Eddie Bauman, clerk, who made the trip to the east.

Mills, alias Wynn, the forger, now making brooms behind the bars at Lincoln, and who was caught under Kane's administration, broke jail at Madison and was gone just forty-four days before a Pinkerton man recaptured him in Chicago, his beard shaved and wearing spectacles. Mills had operated everywhere, and caught farmers' signatures, using them later on notes which were sold to banks. His forgeries were so clever that the farmers, themselves, failed to recognize the counterfeit for their own names. A mis-spelled name was his undoing.

During Bonesteel Rush. During the Bonesteel rush through here last summer, Martin Kane was about the busiest man in town. With hundreds of desperate crooks and thugs passing through the city every day, and with all sorts of tricks to go against, he maintained most admirable order in Norfolk. "Cook and every gambler, from Beefsteak Bob to Deadwood Pete, knew him, greeted him and asked, 'What's doing?'" "Nothing doing," the chief would reply, and there wasn't either—except a jailful every night.

During his entire service, Officer Kane was never hurt in the slightest particular. He never killed a man, though he shot at dozens, and he gave many a bad beating. During three years of constant night service, he never missed one night's watching, and during his whole career no prisoner ever escaped from his clutch when once caught.

A number of young girls who would undoubtedly have gone, long before this, to quarters that could not be called homes, were saved their lives of shame by the timely words of advice from the generous chief. Many, for this reason, who would otherwise have gone to jail, were not locked, despite their offenses, and are today living in a better way.

It was hard work to take off that star of his—that star which had been worn through all changes of city administration, but the fascinating career of the policeman is now over and the civilian's routine life has begun for Martin Kane.

In his police work, Kane was for a time under Chief Spaulding, who started the young officer out and taught him the business. Spaulding had a record as a chief that was as good as ever came over.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier, New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the pharmacy board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. When taken in time it prevents pneumonia. This remedy is for sale by Leonard the druggist.

A Happy Death. "Death is dark enough," says Collier's for December 17, "but to Mrs. Gilbert it came in as happy a manner as it knows. The actor usually loses more than the rest of us by old age. The really great actress Janauschek had died a few days earlier than Mrs. Gilbert, forgotten by the public, bittered, in a charity home—her death worth to the average newspaper but an inch or two of type. Mrs. Gilbert made the luckiest of exits. She never lost the favor of that fickle public by whose whim the actor lives. In the last years of her life one success was followed by another. The younger players with whom she was associated loved her. She was cheerful, spirited, and never dependent. Her salty humor never left her. When she became a star, for the first time, this year, at eighty-three, she was kept warm by the plaudits and sympathy of every one. When death approached it made no threats. It gave no time for longing and regret. Often cruel, it was as merciful in this case as it could be. Death seemed to vie with life in giving its best to one who had asked no favors of existence—who had never made complaints."

The leap year dance given by the young ladies of Trinity Social guild at Marquardt hall last evening was a success in every particular. About forty couples of merry makers enjoyed the crisp night, the splendid music afforded by the Norfolk orchestra, and the delightful program arranged, until long after midnight this morning. The young women ordered the cabs, called for their partners and escorted the delighted men to the dance. Once there, the ladies made out their own programs, asked those whom they chose, to dance with them, and made mistakes which the men are wont to make. Although great fun for a novelty feature, they almost unanimously conceded that they prefer, as a positive rule, the part of the woman at the dance. Punch was served in the hall.

H. R. Ward today opened an establishment in the recently remodelled building at 411 Norfolk avenue, which will prove an innovation to Norfolk men, in the way of a smoke house and news stand. The furniture for the new store is decidedly complete and attractive. Every feature has been arranged with an idea toward effecting the comfort and pleasure of the smoker or seeker of news, who wants at the same time a pleasant place to get it. Mr. Ward has adopted a very unique method of advertising, and his system has been exceedingly successful. During this week the display, "4-11-44: What is it? Guess" has caused hundreds of people not only in Norfolk but throughout the northern part of the state, to wonder what it all meant. Mr. Ward today explained that the number of his store is 411 and the number of his telephone is 44—and no doubt Norfolk will remember those figures from now on.

ANDY TEAL SAVED THE DAY

WELL KNOWN ENGINEER PREVENTED SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

WAS JUST THIS SIDE OF TILDEN

With a Farmer and a Wagonload of Corn Standing Across the Parallel Strings of Steel Ahead, He Stopped Within a Few Inches.

The rare presence of mind of Engineer Andrew Teal, on the Northwestern line, prevented what might have been a serious disaster one mile east of Tilden Wednesday afternoon. Stopping his locomotive within a few inches of a load of corn which, with its driver, had been left on the track before him, he not only saved the grain and the farmer, but saved his train, as well, from a likely accident.

The passenger train that day was two hours late, on account of an eastern connection. And it wasn't losing any time between Norfolk and Long Pine. The farmer, naturally presuming that the cars had gone on ahead, didn't pay very much attention to the sign across the road which instructed him explicitly to look out for the cars. If he did look, he failed to see the cars, anyway, and drove on.

When the wagon had reached the rails, of a sudden the double-tree broke, the horses went on and the wheels stood stock still on the path of the fast approaching passenger.

Rounding the curve, Engineer Teal saw the hazardous situation. With a lurch the throttle went back, the air choked up the tubes all along the train, there was a heavy exhaust—and the train stood still, with the nose of the big iron monster just reaching out to boost the wagonload of corn off the track into the tall air.

ARTESIAN WELL FOR FAIRFAX

A visitor in the city from Fairfax says that the city has just voted $3,000 bonds for the purpose of sinking an artesian well, with which to supply the town's water.

The firm doing the work guarantees to get a good flow of water. Insurance rates used to be twelve cents at Fairfax, have now been reduced to four and will probably be further cut by the new well.

HEALTH AND EDUCATION GOVERN THE WORLD

THE WEAK, SICKLY AND EMACIATED CAN HOPE FOR BUT LITTLE SUCCESS.

BY DR. ORA CALDWELL, CHICAGO.

In compiling the statistics of the different races of people of the world, it is of interest to note the article of diet, the manner in which it is taken and the extent of medical attendance as practiced in the civilized world. It has been demonstrated conclusively that the meat eaters are the strongest, healthiest and the best educated people in the world; therefore it is reasonable to believe that they are the people who govern the world. As demonstrated by Dr. Caldwell, the American people consume on an average of six pounds of meat per week; the English four; the German, three; the French, two; and the Italian, one-half. Statistics prove that epidemics of contagious diseases more largely prevail among those people, whose diet partakes of less meat and more farinaceous foods. Good meat is the most wholesome of all foods to be taken. True, it is not as fattening as the cereals or farinaceous foods, but it is more strengthening and contains more blood and nerve producing elements, so necessary to strength and good health. What is required specially for perfect health is good digestion, plenty of outdoor exercise and special care as to hygiene and all the laws of nature. Dr. Caldwell is a specialist of many years' experience, and has devoted much of her time to the study of diseases of the stomach, diseases of the brain and diseases of the nervous system. From conclusive proof it has been demonstrated that a little food properly served and well digested is far better than a great quantity of an unwholesome character improperly digested.

Dr. Caldwell has been afforded special advantages in studying the characteristics of the people, their diet, their hobbies and the special conditions governing medicine as a specialty. She has been awarded, in contests with the greatest schools in the world, the highest prize and a number of medals. She has been making a specialty of chronic, nervous and surgical diseases, diseases of the eye, ear, nose, throat, lungs, diseases of women and diseases of long standing character. No matter how long such patients have suffered or who has treated them, she never failed to cure these ailments. In over a quarter of a century in the experiment, study and practice of her profession in the diseases of men and women, she has cured thousands who have been pronounced helpless by other physicians. People come to her from far and near to receive her treatment and her offices are crowded at the places of her appointments and all speak in the highest praise of her treatment. By permission we are pleased to publish a few of some of the cures she made throughout the state of Nebraska. These are only a few, as time and space will not permit us to publish more.

Mrs. Sloan, Akron, Neb., cured of consumption and nervous trouble. The treatment she took improved her at once, and she was soon cured of all her ailments. C. A. Lundeen, Grand Island, Neb., was troubled with muscular rheumatism and dyspepsia. Those troubles soon disappeared. Mrs. R. McBeth, Harder, Neb., cured of female and nervous troubles, was told by doctors operation would be necessary. Cured in four months' treatment. Mrs. J. Dobbins of North Platte writes, "she had been doctored for years without relief for kidney trouble, female and general debility." Mr. Michael McCabe, North Platte, cured of cancer of fact with two injections. Oscar Emmitt, Columbus, Neb., cured of what other doctors called incurable blood disease. Mrs. Ella Johnson, Grand Island, Neb., cured of chronic eye trouble and catarrh. Mrs. John Connelly, Akron, Neb., cured of cancer. Mrs. E. Zurig, Bluevale, Neb., cured of female trouble, diabetes and stomach trouble. S. E. Fuller, York, Neb., cured of stomach and bowel trouble and kidney trouble. Miss Debore, Waco, Neb., cured of skin disease of years standing, had been treated by many doctors. Mrs. Oscar Lange, Tekamah, Neb., cured of ——— and other female trouble. Louie Harper, Columbus, Neb., cured of Bright's disease, heart trouble and nervousness. Mrs. J. Jorgensen, Cozad, had suffered many years from nervous disease, loss of vitality and general weakness. She now feels healthy and like a new woman. Mrs. J. H. Sommers, Craig, Neb., cured of female trouble, general weakness and loss of flesh. Cured in three months. Mrs. Sommers had doctored with many doctors. W. H. Larson, 65 Nesbitt St., Newark, N. J., says: "Dr. Caldwell, after suffering for 30 years I have found no treatment equal to yours. I write you these few lines to speak of the excellency of your treatment and I think it due you."

Mrs. Mary Krakon, Wayne, Neb., cured of chronic rheumatism, swollen limbs, heart trouble, headache and general debility. Had almost given up hope, when she heard of Dr. Caldwell, her treatment soon cured her and she is now thankful. Mrs. Charles Shaw, Pender, cured of rheumatism, almost had consumption. Mr. Nulph Wyndure, Beaver, Neb., cured of gall stones of liver. Joe Carlson, Ft. Wayne, Ind., cured of large cancer of breast. S. J. Blessen, Platte Center, Neb., cured of stomach trouble of long standing, nervous debility; was treated by many doctors. Nebraska's most popular specialist, Dr. O. Caldwell, registered graduate of the Kentucky School of Medicine, will make her next visit to Norfolk THURSDAY, JANUARY 12.
