

MEANS FOR ADVANCEMENT

THE NORFOLK COLLEGE STARTS YOUNG PEOPLE RIGHT.

FITS THEM FOR A LIFE'S WORK

Almost Every Pupil Who Has Taken a Full Course Now Holds a Profitable Position at Congenial Employment—A Fine School Room.

The young man and young woman of Norfolk and north Nebraska have convenient to them an institution of learning that is prepared to and will elevate them from drudgery to congenial and profitable employment and that institution is the Norfolk business college occupying the third floor of the Cotton block and presided over by Mr. C. H. Brake as principal and Mrs. Brake as assistant. It has proven its capability in this direction and will continue to be of advantage to ambitious young people as long as it endures. Many young people not aware of its advantages are neglecting the golden opportunity for preparing themselves for a life work of clean and high character.

During its brief existence the Norfolk business college has established an enviable reputation in the accomplishments of its pupils. Behind bank counters, in counting rooms in railroad offices, large manufacturing plants, business houses and other industries are found the pupils of the Norfolk college, receiving excellent salaries at agreeable work. Of the pupils who have finished the course it is not an exaggeration to say that ninety-five per cent and better are now well employed at good wages and in steady situations. Thirty per cent of the pupils who have taken instruction at the school are employed, but the best results are shown by those who have completed the course. Six pupils hold positions in banking houses, two are employed in St. Paul, Minn., one in Denver and one in Omaha and soon there will be scattered over the country in all lines of important achievement men and women who were fitted for their duties in the Norfolk school. Flattering reports come from the pupils now out. Their work averages with the best of them and better than most of other clerks and employes in similar lines of endeavor. The achievements of the school are as good as any business college in the state. Some offer more and make greater bluster, but the Norfolk college is fitting its pupils for their chosen work while others are talking of what they can do, but fail in the proof.

Professor Brake is a thoroughly competent instructor as is also Mrs. Brake. They have had years of experience in public school work and also in the special branches that they now teach and are fully qualified to reach the needs of the ambitious young man and woman. Mr. Brake says it is astonishing what a fifteen-months' business course will accomplish toward brightening up and fitting for business pupils who have attended the public schools. In the Norfolk college individual attention is devoted to the pupils in a much larger degree than in some of the large schools of a similar character. Each one is instructed according to his individual requirements instead of being placed in large classes where he must catch on the fly what instruction is given out to the entire student body.

Then, too, the work is made congenial. There are pleasant rooms and interesting companionships. The first three weeks is said to mean hard work and earnest concentration of thought but after that the work is easy and it is a flattering comment on the Norfolk school that the pupils who get well started in the work usually stick and enjoy every moment that they are in the school room. In other schools and other towns the pupils pay more for board, greater tuition and larger incidental expenses and get half the attention that is given in the Norfolk college.

Board is very reasonable in Norfolk, the railroads make it a convenient point for the attendance of young men and women from all over north Nebraska and it is hoped that in a few years the attendance at the Norfolk business college will include everyone seeking the instruction that is there given in the entire territory contiguous to the city. There is opportunity awaiting the young men and young women who can take this instruction and there is no better or less expensive place to secure the learning than in the Norfolk business college.

Everything required in a business life is taught, the following studies being pursued in the regular business course: Book-keeping, rapid mathematical calculations, business practice, office drill, commercial arithmetic, banking, business correspondence, corporation and voucher accounting, penmanship, commercial law, practical grammar, spelling.

In the shorthand and typewriting course the following studies are taught: Gregg shorthand, touch typewriting, business correspondence, grammar, practical office work, manifolded letter copying, spelling, legal forms, plain penmanship.

Ben Beemer Tells What Led to His Attack on Paul Bryant.

Ben Beemer takes exceptions to The News' account of the gallery disturbance in the Auditorium the other night at the play "The Heart of Chicago," and it is conceded that perhaps he was not the chief offender in the act not on the program after the facts have been related. Mr. Beemer had his wife at the performance and directly back of her sat Paul Bryant. "Bryant placed his feet on the back of the seat in which my wife sat," said Mr. Beemer, "and she having on a neatly laundered waist naturally resented the familiarity. I told the young man man to take his feet down. He replied, 'I don't have to,' and I proceeded to demonstrate the fact that he did have to by hitting him."

Mr. Beemer feels that he was justified in the action and would do it over again if occasion offered and undoubtedly popular sentiment would uphold him in it even if the law did not approve.

Battle Creek.

Joseph Brozek shipped a carload of hogs Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Koester were Norfolk visitors Friday.

Some of the sidewalks have been in very bad shape on account of the snowfall for about a week past.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Werner, jr., are rejoicing over the arrival of a little daughter at their home Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Luehrson with their son and daughter departed Monday for their home at Logansport, Wis. They have been visiting here for about five weeks with Mrs. Luehrson's sister, Mrs. Chas. Flores, and her brothers, Herman, Charles and Gustav Werner.

Chas. T. Richardson, assessor in Highland precinct, has moved to Battle Creek and is making his home with Landlord Best.

There was no service at the Lutheran church Sunday night because of the fact that Rev. J. Hoffman is still suffering from sore throat.

Although it was pretty cold last Friday, two of the Battle Creek boys became so hot that Marshal Flood was compelled to cool them off by locking them in the city refrigerator.

A very attractive entertainment was given by home talent at the opera house before a large audience Saturday night. It was a benefit for the improvement of the Union cemetery.

Joseph Severa, proprietor of the Farmers' cash store, has had his entire stock of general merchandise closed out by a Chicago firm this week. After matters are settled Mr. Severa will lay in an entirely new stock of goods.

The members of the Battle Creek Driving Park association held a meeting and have set the dates for the races for the coming season on August 30, 31 and September 1. Financially the association is in very good shape. Geo. W. Losey is president; Thos. Morris secretary and T. D. Preece superintendent.

R. E. THIEM BUYS OUT KARO

Karo Meat Market Changes Hands. Fred Karo to Deal in Live Stock.

Rudolph E. Thiem, who has had charge of the meat market department of the Fair store for a number of years, yesterday purchased the Karo meat market on Norfolk avenue and will take possession on February 1. Fred Karo, who has been in business for a score of years in Norfolk, will engage in the livestock business.

Mr. Thiem is known as one of the best men in his line who has ever been in Norfolk. With a pleasing skill, cleanliness as a hobby and an expert judgment in selecting high grade meats which has not been surpassed in this city, he has made for himself an enviable reputation in Norfolk, and on that account his friends feel assured that he will be eminently successful in the management of a market of his own.

Mr. Karo has been in business in Norfolk since the early days and has been one of the most substantial of business men. He has made a great success and built up a trade which assures future success in the market which bears the Karo name today. The Karo building is one of the finest meat markets in the state.

Farmers are Retiring.

C. F. Haase had a public sale of his farm and household effects yesterday at his farm north of the city and will move to town soon. He expects to build on Tenth street.

Frank Dederman, who had a public sale at his farm north of town expects to move to Norfolk soon to make his future home.

THIRTY DAYS FOR THEFT

WILLIAM ZORGE STOLE OVERCOAT, MITTENS AND GLOVES.

DIDN'T KNOW HE TOOK THEM

Wandered into Norfolk With the Appropriated Property on His Back and His Hands—Elbridge Cox Was Victim—Both Worked on Ranch.

Thirty days in the country jail was the sentence pronounced upon William Zorge for stealing a wardrobe, pretty nearly, yesterday. An overcoat, a pair of mittens and a pair of gloves constituted the articles with which Zorge was charged with having appropriated to his own use. He was employed at the ranch of W. H. Butterfield & Son, north of the city, and Elbridge Cox, another employe, was victim of the theft.

Zorge wandered into Norfolk with the stolen overcoat on his back. Cox pursued and gave the police a hunch. Without a very long interval between, Chief of Police Larkin had the fellow behind the bars. This morning he was brought before Police Judge Hayes and found guilty. He was taken to Madison today to serve time. Officer Pilger took the prisoner over to the county seat on the afternoon freight train.

Zorge had a grip at the ranch which delayed the game of transferring him to Madison. He said he didn't know that he took the things.

Ex-Lieutenant United States Navy and Ex-Lieutenant Confederate Navy Uses and Recommends Pe-ru-na.

Pe-ru-na Is a Safeguard Against the Ills Incident to Inclement Weather.

Hon. James Morgan.

HON. JAMES M. MORGAN, 1735 Twentieth Street, Washington, D. C., Ex-Lieutenant U. S. Navy, Ex-Lieutenant Confederate Navy, and Ex-Consul General to Australia, writes: Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen:—The use of your Peruna as a remedy or cure for catarrh by many of my friends who have been benefited by the same, as well as my own experience as to its efficacy and good tonic properties causes me to recommend it to all persons, and to state my endorsement and my photograph.

night. Both parties were greatly enjoyed by the guests.

The force of men on the new Union Pacific round house are rapidly completing their work and the building will soon be finished. The work of laying the roof is now engaging their attention, and when this is finished the building will be practically complete. It has been painted a deep red. Engines are already being cared for under its cover.

A door has been cut through the west wall of the Davenport cold storage plant for the convenience of placing ice in the vault above the storage rooms. Hitherto the ice has been put in through a door in the east wall, but owing to the railroad tracks on that side of the building the work has been done very inconveniently. The door was originally placed there with the belief that during some seasons the ice would have to be shipped in, but there has not been a failure of the crop since the building was erected. Two cars of ice were shipped in at one time from Sioux City, but that was compelled by an exceedingly long summer, when the ice supply ran short here. Since that time an auxiliary vault has been built in the rear of the storage plant which is now filled each season.

Kierstead-Clark.

Judge Hayes performed a marriage ceremony last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, South Eleventh street, when their daughter, Miss Caroline Clark, became the bride of George A. Kierstead. A bountiful supper and merry music followed the wedding. Mr. Kierstead resides in Norfolk.

Business College Notes.

Those who have access to the rolls of the Norfolk business college notice a fact that is flattering to Mr. and Mrs. Brake and their instruction. It is that after a pupil has entered for one term he almost invariably returns for another, whether it be the consecutive term or a year in the future. He falls in with the work and finding it agreeable and useful he usually has the ambition to complete the course. Arthur Weatherholt of Norfolk who has attended the college for a term has re-enrolled for another at the school.

Otto Pitzeke of Norfolk, having attended the business school for two terms has placed his name on the rolls for another.

William Boche of this city is a new pupil at the Norfolk business college. Miss Lillian Thiem of Omaha has entered the Norfolk business college for a term of instruction.
