

THE NORFOLK WEEKLY NEWS-JOURNAL.

NORFOLK, NEBRASKA, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1905.

WAR WILL CONTINUE

RUSSIAN EMPEROR HAS ELECTED TO PRESS FIGHTING.

HE IS FIRM IN HIS POSITION

EASTERN CONFLICT WILL GO ON WITH UTMOST ENERGY.

TROUBLE AT HOME SUBDUE

The German Court Has Been Advised
That Czar Nicholas Will Not Permit the Operations Against Japan to Stop at This Time.

Berlin, Feb. 23.—The emperor of Russia has elected to continue the war.
His position is absolute. The German court has been advised in that sense.

The war will be pressed with utmost energy, the domestic situation being now within control of the authorities.

BLESS SERGIUS' REMAINS.

Solemn Ceremony This Morning Amid Tolling Bells.

Moscow, Feb. 23.—The solemn ceremony of blessing the remains of Grand Duke Sergius was performed this morning in the midst of tolling of bells in all of the churches and the monasteries of the ancient capital.

STRIKERS AGAIN ACTIVE.

Soldiers Fire on Rioters in the Czerniakowska District.

Warsaw, Feb. 23.—Workmen have struck in all the factories of the Czerniakowska district, the chief manufacturing suburb of Warsaw.

There has been serious disturbances and strong forces of police and troops have been summoned to quell the rioting.

The soldiers fired into the mob but no casualties were reported. The police arrested many persons, but threats of mob violence compelled them to release their prisoners.

The employees of the Lodz Koluska railroad have struck and Lodz is entirely cut off from railroad communication.

PASS PANAMA CANAL BILL

SENATE ACCEPTS THE MEASURE
WITHOUT AMENDMENTS.

HITCHCOCK MUST SHOW PAPERS

House Has Called on the Secretary of the Interior for Information Regarding the Funds Expend for Indian Schools and Foster Lease.

Washington, Feb. 23.—The senate today passed the Panama canal bill without material amendments.

The house today adopted resolutions calling on the secretary of the interior for information as to whether any Indian appropriation funds had been expended for the support of any sectarian Indian schools and also requests copies of the original Foster oil lease in the Osage reservation and of the approval of the same.

NIEDRINGHAUS READY TO QUIT

Republican Leaders in Missouri Say
They Will be Released.

Kansas City, Feb. 23.—A special to the Star says: "Niedringhaus is getting ready to release us," was the information passed among republican members today.

Jefferson City, Feb. 23.—The thirtieth ballot for United States senator resulted: Niedringhaus, 65; Cockrell, 74; Kerens, 12; McKinley, 5; Pettijohn, 1; Albus 1. The only change in the thirty-first ballot was Walmsley's change from Albus to Blittinger.

COLLECTOR OF REVENUE.

A. C. Smith of Storm Lake for Northern Iowa District.

Washington, Feb. 23.—President Roosevelt has decided to appoint A. C. Smith of Storm Lake, Iowa, collector of internal revenue of the northern district of Iowa to succeed J. W. Sammis, resigned.

Charges had been preferred against Mr. Sammis, who is a LeMars man. The president considered them serious enough to ask his resignation.

Glass Eater Ends His Life.
St. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 23.—George Bailey, known over the country as a glass eater, committed suicide here by drinking carbolic acid. He was twenty-eight years old and was born and reared in St. Louis. Disappointment in a love affair is said to have been responsible for his suicide.

Train Strikes Light Engine.
Altoona, Pa., Feb. 23.—The Pittsburgh special, a fast westbound train over the Pennsylvania railroad, was wrecked between here and Tyrone by running into a light engine. Fireman J. C. Grove was scalded and one passenger was cut about the head by flying glass.

ROJESTVENSKY JUSTIFIED

SEMI-OFFICIAL STATEMENT SAYS
RUSSIA WINS NORTH SEA CASE.

LONDON PAPERS ARE INDIGNANT

Call Dogger Bank Decision Death
Blow to Arbitration—Gives No Opinion as to Presence or Absence of Japanese Torpedo Boats.

iris, Feb. 23.—A semi-official statement appeared relative to the work of the international commission which has been considering the North sea incident. It is as follows:

"The Hull commission met in the ministry of foreign affairs in order to proceed to a final examination of the report recapitulating its conclusions. The report is rather long, comprising about ten large pages. The principal author is Admiral von Spaun (Austrian), but all the members of the commission collaborated in drawing it up. The commission gives no opinion on the question of the present or absence of Japanese torpedo boats in the North sea, declaring merely that the Russian admiral quite legitimately believed that his squadron was endangered and that he had the right under the circumstances to act as he did. The commissioners refer to the Russian government's engagements to indemnify the victims or the deplorable incident."

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is still hoped that the publication of the full text of the commission's report may modify the impression produced by the preliminary version, which is one of intense disappointment.

The Daily Mail goes so far as to declare that the decision has dealt a death blow to arbitration. Some of the newspapers blame the government strongly for ever consenting to subject such a matter to arbitration, while some of the government organs find cold comfort in the fact that the country by doing so avoided war with Russia. No question is raised that the decision must be respected, and Great Britain's share of the heavy costs will be reluctantly paid, but it is said that the decision leaves the question of a neutral's right on the sea in a deplorably unsatisfactory state and creates a dangerous precedent.

London, Feb. 23.—A strong chord of indignation is sounded by the London daily newspapers over the semi-official statement relative to the decision of the North sea commission giving to Russia the victory, but it is