

HAKES IN THE CODY CASE

FORMER NORFOLK FAMILY FIGURE IN THE DIVORCE.

THEY WILL GIVE TESTIMONY

Buffalo Bill's Attorneys Have Gone to Denver to Get the Depositions of Mr. and Mrs. Hake—Their Relation to Case is Not Known.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hake, formerly of Norfolk but now of Denver, will figure in the notorious Cody divorce case which is now attracting attention of the sensational world over. After closing the deposition of Col. Cody, himself, at Omaha, Attorney Ridgely left for Denver to get the testimony of Mr. and Mrs. Hake. Just what connection they have with the case is not known, nor do the dispatches indicate. Mr. Hake was in the cattle business here.

Buffalo Bill admitted that he had kissed his show girls when he paid them off in 1877. He said they had done well and he thought there was no harm in that, as he was merely bidding them goodbye. His wife happened to be in the next room and heard the osculation.

Mrs. Cagle and son, Ollie, were visiting in the city yesterday from Pierce.
J. O. Peterson and John F. Marriott were in the city yesterday from Wakefield.
Mrs. H. Roberts and daughter of Oakdale were shopping in Norfolk yesterday.
Mrs. Mary Davenport and Miss Davenport have returned from the east, where they have been visiting since last October.
Misses Josephine and Etta Durland have returned from St. Joseph, Mo., where they have been to purchase their spring stock of millinery goods.
Dr. J. M. Alden, superintendent of the Norfolk hospital for the insane when it will be opened, was here yesterday looking at the progress of the work.
Miss Laura Buckendorf will go to Hartington to trim in the millinery store of Mrs. Ballantyne, where she has been employed during the past four seasons.
Word was received yesterday that John Stafford is still very seriously ill at the home of his parents in Scribner. Dr. Tashjean was sent for again yesterday.
Mrs. A. Fishback, writing to a Norfolk friend from Trenton, Mo., says that her mother died on the sixth, and that she expects to be home in a few days.
Little Walter Hasenpflug, the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hasenpflug, who has been so seriously ill with brain fever and complications, is just holding his own, though brave efforts are being made to save the little fellow's life. A trained nurse from Clarkson hospital, Omaha, is attending the child and everything that medical science can do is being done for him.
The Zirfas restaurant re-opened in new quarters last evening.
Damascus Commandery No. 20 held a special session yesterday afternoon and evening. There was work in the Red Cross and the Black Cross departments. Right Eminent Sir William J. Turner, grand commander of the Knights Templar of Nebraska, who resides in Lincoln, was present. After the work there was a banquet served.
Albert Rehfield, formerly of Plainview, who is building a home on South Sixth street, has moved to town and will occupy the Jenkins house on North Eighth street until his new home is completed.
"If stalls were built for grazing stables on the grounds north of the city here, it would not be a difficult matter to secure horsemen who would take advantage of the opportunity," said a Norfolk enthusiast today, who is interested in making this city a center for fast horses.
The Norfolk avenue sewer, which had been giving serious trouble, was finally repaired yesterday afternoon. Street Commissioner Conley found that the main sewer was blocked with almost a solid plug at a point between Fourth and Fifth streets. By digging down to the sewer the trouble was located and has been removed.
Company L, N. N. G., is now under command of First Lieutenant Carl Pilger, Captain Fuller having resigned.

There is a bill now before the Nebraska legislature which may provide more funds for the running expenses of the national guard companies. It provides for $250 per year instead of $100 as heretofore. It has passed the house but not the senate. The expenses of the Norfolk company invariably amount to $250 per year or more.
"If the old sugar factory could be turned into a plant that would make up binding twine, giving an opportunity to the farmers around Norfolk to raise and sell hemp, it strikes me that it would be a good proposition," said a Norfolk farmer today. "In the country about Lincoln and about Fremont, hemp is raised very successfully, and there is no reason why it could not be raised here. There isn't a pound of hemp binding twine to be bought today, and it might be a good thing."

Columbus Journal: Last evening about 11 o'clock, in the west part of town as a young lady whose name we will not mention was reading, she noticed that one of the window shades was hardly down, leaving perhaps six inches of the window bare, and framed in the six inches, brightly illuminated by the lamp, was a man's face. The rest of the family had retired and were called, but before they could appear on the scene the peeper had made his escape. The countenance of his peepership was indelibly fixed upon the memory of the young lady and it is possible that an arrest may follow.

The breath of winter which has been threatening for several days settled down in earnest from the north this morning and has enveloped this vicinity in a chilliness that bears a close resemblance to the outer edges of the real thing. The scurrying clouds and the howling waves of breeze, are promising that there will be a continuance of the temperature for some days and it may become worse. The minimum temperature recorded last night, however, was twenty above, and there is a matter of doubt whether Boreas will be able to again depress the mercury as low as zero this season. The several warm weeks with which February closed and March opened, have warmed the air and the soil until if winter is to again reign he will be compelled to exert himself in a December fashion.

The firemen's benefit performance of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" at the Auditorium last night when Joseph Shipman presented Miss Charlotte Burnett as Viola, was not of material benefit to the fire fighters. The agreement was that the firemen were to have the receipts from the entertainment when they should exceed $300, but they did not get that high. The company was fairly good, and all know of the character of the play which has been on the boards off and on for the past 400 years, but there was lent and other things to take into consideration and the "standing room only" sign was not displayed. The company was evenly balanced and their interpretation of one of the best comedies of the immortal bard was very satisfactory. Miss Burnett at times showed great strength, contrasting the girl's timidity of battle and the idea of how a man should plead his love. F. J. McCarthy as Sir Toby Belch and Joseph Wilson as Sir Andrew Aguecheek were prime favorites while Geo. L. Seybolt approvingly carried out Shakespeare's idea of Malvolio, the easily flattered steward. Throughout the company was very carefully selected. A rare treat of the evening was the orchestra music by the nine local performers, who gave the best of the season in that line and their work was doubtless appreciated by the audience although there was a lack throughout the evening of the evidence that usually goes with appreciation.

TITTERINGTON FOUND GUILTY.

Alleged Cattle "Rustler" Convicted of Larceny.

North Platte, Neb., March 10.—The jury in the case of the state against Titterington, returned a verdict of guilty as charged. The jury had been out for about twenty-four hours when the verdict was returned. Delmar Titterington, the defendant, was charged with unlawfully converting to his own use cattle given into his possession by George Bently. The evidence was very conflicting, the strongest being the testimony of Lee Case, who had been jointly charged with Titterington in another offense. Case pleaded guilty after having been in jail for some weeks. Titterington and Case had been partners in the butcher business in the town of Sutherland, and Titterington had a trial last week, in which the jury disagreed and were discharged.

It is stated that the present case will be carried to the supreme court for reversal, the evidence showing that there was a dispute of accounts between the complaining witness and the defendant, and that the defendant claimed that the plaintiff was indebted to him for $125 more than the complaining witness admits, and the defendant says he took the cattle in payment of the debt.

The second trial of the state against Del Titterington for cattle stealing is now being tried.

Winside Buildings.

R. H. Reynolds of this city has secured a contract at Winside for building two brick structures there, one for a hardware store and the other for a general store. They will have a 50-foot front of pressed brick.

WHO OWNS OLD WEST WING

MORE TROUBLE ARISES OVER NORFOLK HOSPITAL.

THE CONTRACTORS CLAIM IT

Capital City Brick and Tile Company Say That the Bricks in the Wing That Was Not Rebuilt Belong to Them—Appropriation Bill Changed.

According to a Lincoln report it seems that the Capital City Pipe and Brick company which constructed the new cottages at the Norfolk asylum is making a claim to the ruins that the legislature is seeking to rebuild. A penalty for delay in finishing the buildings may be enforced by the state under the contract and the information is that through some agreement had, the contracting company claims a right to the brick and material in the ruins sought to be rebuilt. The matter came out in testimony submitted to the committee that is acting under the Jones resolution. The inference in this was that this right was obtained through State Architect Tyler who had derived his authority from the state board of public lands and buildings. If this right exists, it is a surprise to many as at one time, Treasurer Mortensen, a member of the board, stopped the company from using material in the new cottages that they were getting out of the ruins.

The bill that has passed the house making an appropriation of $35,000 to rebuild the burned building at the Norfolk asylum was amended to cut out all provision for the construction of new cottages so that the state board might not see fit again to build cottages and not to rebuild the burned building. The claim of the contractors has since been made known to the committee and some members of the legislature are considering in what condition the state would be with an appropriation to rebuild ruins the state did not own.

It is understood that the contractors have sought to yield their right to the ruins, if any, in return for a clean bill on the penalty of $10 a day for delay in completing the new buildings at Norfolk. It was to have been completed last November but is not yet finished.

The penalty will undoubtedly be enforced. Architect Tyler had nothing to do with the ruins. The board's contract agrees to pay the contractor so much a thousand for brick from the ruins laid in the new buildings and a certain price for each cubic foot of stone taken from the ruins, but the right to say what part of the ruins should be torn down was exercised by the state board. Architect Tyler did require the contractor to comply with the plans and was the cause of removing Mr. Hester from the work on account of incompetency. Mr. Hester has since testified against Mr. Tyler.

SENSATION AT BONESTEEL

SOCIETY THERE HAS SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT.

STRIKES ATTORNEY WITH GUN

Wealthy Young Married Man Gives the Lawyer a Whack and the Lawyer Flees—Married Man Follows and Stops Other With Bullet.

Bonesteel, S. D., March 9.—This place is in a flutter of excitement owing to a sensation inside the circle of the "400" and about all other topics have been dropped from the gossip card. The events which have caused so much interest are the alleged developments which followed a trip made by Frank Nunnemaker Monday morning to the residence of Mrs. Beck in the north part of town. Preparing for future events, Nunnemaker took two men with him and he declares that he found his wife in the room of Lawyer David Watkins of the firm of Watkins & Slaughter.

As Nunnemaker entered the room, he says, Watkins made a dash for liberty, but Nunnemaker blocked his way with a revolver and was only prevented from shooting him by the two witnesses who accompanied him. Watkins ran to Slaughter's livery barn and, securing the best team in the barn, started at full speed for the Nebraska line.

Nunnemaker ran to the office of State Attorney W. B. Backus, secured a warrant and, acting as deputy to Constable H. E. Lewis, the two men mounted fleet steeds and started after the fugitive Watkins, who had about one-half of a mile start.

In the meantime the whole town turned out to see the race, as the ground was level and open view commanded. The pursuers overtook the fugitive at Martin Schonebaum's house, three miles from town. Watkins alighted from the buggy as a bullet from the late husband penetrated the buggy top, ran into Schonebaum's house and hid in the attic.

Constable Lewis found Watkins in his hiding place, placed him under arrest and the whole party returned to town. Watkins was arraigned before Judge B. H. Howe and as agreement was entered into between State Attorney Backus and George A. Jeffers, who appeared for the defendant, to take up the preliminary trial Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Nunnemaker is a handsome brunette and considered one of the brightest and prettiest young women of this county. Watkins has always had a good standing in this community.

Bonesteel is excited and expectant, as both sides are up in arms and threaten to "give up" everything if certain facts are testified to.

Subpoenas have been issued by the state for some of the best people in town and the "400" are wondering what will take place next.

Nunnemaker is a well known and wealthy young man.

NO CARDINAL FOR AMERICA

BISHOPS CANNOT AGREE ON THE MAN TO BE HONORED.

MAY BE ONE FOR GERMANY

Pope Has Interviewed American Prelates and it Has Been Determined Not to Name a Cardinal at the Consistory Next Week, or for some Time

Rome, March 9.—It can be announced on the highest authority that no new American cardinal will be created at the consistory next week. Several things make this absolutely certain. It is believed that had the late Archbishop Corrigan of New York lived he would have been made a prince of the church and the same honor bestowed on Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul. This would have given the conservatives and liberals in America each a new cardinal. The death of the New York prelate put an end to this plan. The pope has interviewed every American prelate who has come to Rome since his elevation, to the chair of St. Peter regarding the claims of the church in America to a larger representation in the sacred college. As a result of these interviews he is convinced, it is said, that the American bishops are anything but unanimous regarding the choice of the prelate to be so honored. This renders it absolutely certain that no new American cardinal will be created for some time.

As to the possibility of a foreign cardinal being chosen from some European nation other than Italy, it is the general opinion here that if such a selection is made it will be that of a new cardinal de curia for Germany, whose creation has recently been arranged with the German government.
