

TREE PLANTERS ACTIVE

LARGE QUANTITIES OF TREES BEING DISTRIBUTED.

FRUIT DOES VERY WELL HERE

Last Year Was a Good Fruit Season, and Each Succeeding Year Promises to be Better—Orchards Come Into Bearing in a Few Years.

Although Arbor day is two weeks in the future the tree planters of the Tree Planters' state are getting busy and the men with the trees to sell are doing more business than a ward healer during a municipal campaign.

In addition to the big orders being handled by the local nurserymen, this is a big distributing point for foreign companies and agents are here with carloads of trees to be distributed throughout the towns and country and are making deliveries to numerous farmers who are starting orchards, groves and windbreaks.

The country is running stronger to fruit than ever before. It has been proven that fruit of all kinds will do well in this section of the state, and that orchards will bear more quickly here than in eastern states.

The village election at Atkinson was hotly contested, nearly 200 votes being cast. There was no particular issue except a fight for control of municipal affairs, the personnel of the board being the main factor.

The hook and ladder company held a meeting last night. A committee from this company was chosen to appear at the meeting of the city council tonight for the purpose of requesting a half dozen new rubber coats for the hooks members.

T. H. Slattery, formerly one of the force at the Norfolk hospital for the insane, has arrived with his family in Norfolk from Lincoln and will have charge of the laundry at the institution as soon as it has been shaped for operation.

There are an unusually large number of carpenters and builders in the city this season, but with 206 numbers of new houses going up and the improvements being made they are being kept very busy and the probability is that they will continue busy throughout the building season.

The ladies of The Heights who yesterday spent the afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. J. Morrow, presented Mrs. Morrow with a set of very handsome solid silver spoons as a token of their esteem by which she may remember her friends in Norfolk, after she has moved to the Pacific coast.

The board of public lands and buildings are expected in Norfolk on any train now to inspect the buildings last completed at the Nebraska state hospital for the insane here, before accepting them from the contractors. Dr. Alden will go to Lincoln as soon as this has been done and will bring up a score of patients.

The village election at Atkinson was hotly contested, nearly 200 votes being cast. There was no particular issue except a fight for control of municipal affairs, the personnel of the board being the main factor. The successful candidates were Nelson J. Fuller, elected for third term; Dr. W. J. Douglas, and Moses Campbell.

The hook and ladder company held a meeting last night. A committee from this company was chosen to appear at the meeting of the city council tonight for the purpose of requesting a half dozen new rubber coats for the hooks members. The company now has no rubber coats, the last two that they owned having been stolen during the fire at the cold storage some time ago.

With the mercury indicating ten to twelve degrees below the freezing point each night there is every indication that April needs some fixing to come under the requirements of a spring month. Garden truck that has been planted for a week has had no encouragement to appear above the surface and it is much better that it does not as long as these frosty, freezing nights continue.

Next week the annual election in the Norfolk fire department will be held. It is said that considerable interest has already developed in the contest for chiefship, R. H. Reynolds, S. R. McFarland and H. W. Winter being mentioned prominently as candidates to succeed Chief Kern, who is reported to have declared that he will not accept another election to the office. Every company has its candidates for officers and a lively meeting is anticipated.

Adjutant General A. S. Daggett of Governor Mickey's staff, was here over night on business connected with the future of company L, N. N. G., which it is said is to be mustered out. General Daggett is an experienced military man and a gentleman of pleasing manners and loaded with interesting reminiscences. He was with the United States troops at Pekin during the Boxer uprising and his conversation concerning that interesting epoch is wonderfully entertaining. He has acquired considerable reputation as a lecturer and his fund of information and anecdotes has entertained many audiences as well as private hearers.

As August Karo and his men were driving a bunch of cattle through the eastern part of the city a big animal broke from the bunch and made a desperate dash for liberty. He was cornered on the bank of the mill race and with an action illustrative of Patrick Henry's "Give me liberty or give me death," he plunged boldly into the mill race and it was the opinion of onlookers that he had chosen death as the water was deep, the bank steep and the footing precarious, but by his own efforts he finally succeeded in emerging from the cold bath and afterward proved more docile and content to assume the environment that had been chosen for him.

KOCH DETECTIVES.

Sleuth Agency Men Search Cities and Country for New Evidence.
New Ulm, Minn., April 5.—Detective Chandler, accompanied by two other employees of the Thiel agency in St. Paul, arrived in New Ulm yesterday afternoon. He is retained by the defense in the Koch murder case and has made frequent trips to this city, securing additional evidence for the trial in Mankato.

Chandler and his assistants were driven over the road between this city and Mankato to investigate as to the coat and trousers picked up by a farmer a few miles south of this city the morning after the murder. The farmer who found the articles says they were lying by the roadside and had the appearance of having been thrown away by some one traveling along the highway.

The theory advanced is that the murderer escaped from the authorities the evening of the crime and boarded a freight train at some of the smaller stations between this city and Mankato. In fact, a stranger was seen the following morning after the murder in the railroad yards at Mankato, and it is known that he rode a freight train from this city. He was not apprehended and the defense is working upon the theory that he might have been the murderer. Chandler and his assistants will remain in New Ulm and vicinity several days.

Biennial Elections Law.

The biennial elections law has been approved by Governor Mickey, and it will now become a law, pending a test of its constitutionality in the supreme court. While the law has many advocates in the state, it has some fierce opponents, among them being Editor Rosewater of the Omaha Bee. It is contended that the law is contrary to the letter and spirit of the constitution, which provides for a state election every year. A warm fight will be put up by those opposed, before it will be allowed to become effective.

NORTHWESTERN GREENING APPLES

Originated in Minnesota, it has been bearing good crops of apples for the last four years in northern Nebraska, but there have been only a few trees of this variety planted. It is a fine large apple, color green; rich acid; good cooking; excellent for eating; better in every respect than the New York Greening. It is a winter apple, good from November till May. If you have a vacant place in your orchard, fill in with the Northwestern Greening. If you plant a new orchard, plant one-third or one-half of it with the Northwestern Greening. It is so good in quality it will always sell for $1.00 per bushel. If you want trees of this variety to plant, call at Norfolk nursery or address E. D. Hammond, Norfolk, Neb.
