Each member of the company was master of two instruments, and three were cultured vocalists, thus affording a program of infinite variety. The music ranged from classical to popular and almost every number received a hearty encore. The gentlemen performer on the xylophone and zither, the lady performer on the cornet and the vocalists were especially popular with the audience.

Getting Rich Slowly. Ordinarily a great fortune is built up like a stone wall a stone at a time. The young man who declines to lay the first stone because it comes so far short of a wall will never make progress in financial masonry. An immense proportion of the people of this country live up to their incomes, lay log aside nothing for the traditional rainy day. Because they cannot save $1,000 in a bunch they save nothing. The greatest financial kings of the world have not been above taking care of the pennies even. The great financial institutions look after even the fractions of pennies.—Troy Press.

THE TORNADO DID DAMAGE

SMALL GRAIN IS INJURED EIGHT MILES SOUTH OF NORFOLK.

SEVERAL BUILDINGS DOWN

The Terrific Windstorm Which Swept From Southwest to Northeast Yesterday Afternoon at About 3 O'Clock, Wrought Destruction in Wake.

Late reports from the area eight miles south of Norfolk, over which a tornado swept yesterday afternoon, indicate that the storm was terrific in its force and that the damage in the direct path of the wind was complete. Small grain in the area, for a path three or four miles wide, is badly injured, being, together with the grass, battered down into the earth with tremendous force. Buildings were leveled, houses were stripped of their very paint on the windward side, fruit trees were barked and ruined so far as this year's crop is concerned, while the ground was covered with an inch of rainfall in ten minutes and with a white coating of hailstones as large as hen's eggs.

At the farm of George Tannehill three buildings were blown down, including a milk house, a chicken house and a cattle barn. The loss to Mr. Tannehill on these buildings is about $150.

At the Rehseld farm a new barn was blown down, the loss being about $100.

Came From Southwest.

As all tornadoes originate in the southwest, so did this yesterday, traveling with terrific force and cutting a hole three or four miles in width. It passed off toward the northeast.

Young fruit trees were peeled of their covering and the storm so fiercely beat against the houses and barns that the paint was knocked off. Fortunately no one was killed or hurt.

Yesterday was a bad day for tornadoes the country over. In Minnesota buildings were leveled and one woman killed. The report was received from Omaha last night that the casket building had been blown down and that four people at least were then known to be dead. Norfolk may be considered fortunate that the extent of the storm was no worse. Wires were tangled to some extent last night but they were got working today.

Very Much Colder.

The after effect of the hail and storm was a very decided and remarkable drop in the temperature over this section and what had been summer yesterday was turned today in the frigidty of winter. The mercury took a somersault down its capillary tube which made it dizzy and which also made people dig out their furs this morning, and call up the coal man. There was nothing to it for the ice cream man nor the soda fountain—it was buffalo robes and woens that proved a necessity in Norfolk today.

Since the storm there has been but little change in the barometer, which shows a rise of but four points since yesterday morning. The precipitation here was but 18-hundredths of an inch and the range of the thermometer was thirty-eight degrees, a drop from 78 yesterday to 40 this morning, the lowest being eight degrees above freezing. A new moon registered in this morning at 9:50 and if this has the effect that is alleged on the weather a change for better or worse may be expected.

BAD FIVE-DOLLAR BILL OUT.

Counterfeit Certificate is Abroad and Officials Send Out Warning.

The United States secret service department at Omaha has sent out a general alarm all along the line of the appearance of a dangerous $5 silver certificate and cautions all banks, merchants and others to be on the lookout for it. The bill is described as: "A new $5 silver certificate, Indian head, series of 1899, check letter C, plate No. 602, J. W. Lyon, register; E. H. Roberts, treasurer; portrait of Indian chief—a dangerous counterfeit, printed on two pieces of paper, between which silk threads have been distributed. The color of the silk threads has 'run,' showing red spots on the surface of the paper. The certificate is nearly one-fourth of an inch shorter and one-eighth of an inch narrower than the genuine. The shade of the blue of the seal and large numeral on the face of the note is very much lighter than the genuine. The number of the certificate, under examination, is poorly printed. The body of the face of the note is well executed. The back of the note is several shades darker than the genuine. The white oval spaces in the outer edge of the genuine do not appear in the certificate."

To Tackle the Russian Lion.

New York, May 4.—Seats are in great demand for Madison Square garden tonight to see the world's championship catch-as-catch-can wrestling contest between George Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion," and Tom Jenkins, the American champion. It will be Hackenschmidt's first appearance on the mat in America. Realizing that it will require his utmost strength and cleverness to gain the victory, Jenkins has trained as he seldom has before for a contest. Hackenschmidt has the advantage in strength and size, but the admirers of the American wrestler regard him as the cleverer of the two. Jenkins has a further advantage in the fact that the contest will be catch-as-catch-can, at which style he is the more adept, while the Russian favors the Graeco-Roman style. The articles call for the best two out of three falls.

$500 DEDUCTED FROM THE PRICE

Contractor Offered to Accept that Much Less Than the Contract Price and the Property is Now in Possession of the State.

The state board of public lands and buildings has at last effected settlement with the Capital City Pipe and Brick company, the contractors who agreed to build an administration building and three cottages at the Norfolk asylum for $97,000. The buildings were to have been completed last fall. The penalty of $25 a day was contested and so were some alleged defects or uncompleted parts of the building. The contractor also alleged that under the terms of the agreement entered into with the board he was entitled to use all of the stone and brick in the burned building. This he was not allowed to do. The board stood out for some steel ceilings and the contractor asserted that the ceilings were according to contract. Finally the board accepted an offer of the contractor to deduct $500 from the contract price.

IS STRONG AGAINST KOCH

STARTLING TESTIMONY INTRODUCED IN COURT.

IT TRACES POISON TO HIM

Banker at Little Town Testifies He Saw Koch at Station and Poison Box on Mail Car Few Days Before the Murder.

Mankato, Minn., May 3.—The promise of new and somewhat startling testimony was fulfilled.

E. G. Hage, a banker at Hanska, called by the state, testified that he knew Dr. Koch and saw him at the Hanska station on October 28 between the hours of 1 and 1:24 p. m., and that Koch was both inside the station and on the platform and on the train.

At that time the defendant, Dr. Koch, wore a black cravat and a stiff hat. Mr. Hage had mailed some letters of his own at the station at five minutes before 1 o'clock. He placed his letters on a small cabinet where there were other letters and there was a small box also. It was about two inches square and about two and a half or three inches long. It was lying on the top of the letters. "I did not notice the address."

Shown the pasteboard box:

"Yes, it was something like that. I did not see the box mailed. The southbound train was due at Hanska, 1:06; the northbound train was due at 1:24. I saw Dr. Koch get out at New Ulm. He got on the train at Hanska."

Mr. Hage is a dignified young business man and there can be no doubt of his standing and character.

Package Addressed to Gebhardt.

J. M. Thompson, the agent of the Minneapolis & St. Louis road at Hanska, was called by the state. He was agent in October, 1904.

"On October 28 a package was handed to me after dinner, some time. I knew the defendant at Hanska. The package was marked Dr. L. A. Gebhardt, New Ulm, Minn. I don't remember the color of the package. My brother mailed the box. I was on the platform at the time. The package was mailed on the train. The mail clerk received it at that time. I saw Mr. Hage in the depot."

A witness for the state was John C. Gronau. "I saw Dr. Koch in Dr. Reineke's office on the morning after the murder. He did not have an overcoat and he wore light clothes. I noticed him because he was leaning against a table while all the other men were doing something. We looked at each other for perhaps fifteen seconds. As soon as he saw me looking at him he turned and walked away. It was before 9 o'clock in the morning. I happened to go into Silverson's office and spoke about it. It might have been three days or a week later that I told Mr. Scherer, the lumberman, about it. I told Silverson before the New Ulm trial."

The witness was a carpenter and had been sent to Reineke's rooms to cut out pieces of wood to be preserved.

Want Sample Corn.

The Nebraska commission to the Lewis and Clark exposition at Portland has issued a call upon the patriotic farmers of Nebraska for samples of the finest corn of all varieties. Much fine corn yet remains in the state and the commission hopes to secure even at this late day, an attractive exhibit of Nebraska's many varieties. Any grower who has such corn is asked to send large, symmetrical and well filled ears of different varieties, properly labelled as to variety, to H. G. Shedd, secretary of the Nebraska commission, Lincoln, Nebraska. Such exhibits should consist of at least fifty ears of corn, although larger number of ears will make a better showing. In shipping this corn the ears should be wrapped in paper and boxed securely and the shipment sent by freight, the commission agreeing to pay the transportation charges.

Later the commission will ask for fine samples of wheat grains and any farmer wishing to exhibit such samples of this year's crop should communicate with the secretary.

All of these exhibits will be entered at Portland by the commission for awards. The present commission has been hampered somewhat by the fact that the St. Louis world's fair officials have failed to send the medals awarded last November. Mr. Shedd has learned, however, that this delay has been caused through an investigation demanded by certain large manufacturing concerns of the making of the awards. This matter is now about settled and President Francis has declared that all exhibitors will receive their diplomas and medals as awarded within a short time.
