Gathering in Denver.

Denver, Colo., July 3.—The international convention of the Epworth league opens here day after tomorrow. Visitors are already beginning to put in an appearance and indications point to a large attendance. Many of the early arrivals have scattered to nearby resorts to spend a day or two before the conventions begins.

What the Christian Endeavor is to the other evangelical denominations, such is the Epworth league to the great world of the direct followers of John Wesley and his teachings. Strong efforts have been made at different times to induce the Methodists to come within the fold of the Christian Endeavor, but the governing spirits of the denomination, reinforced in a large measure by the rank and file, have preferred to maintain and develop their own organization for young people. To this end they have labored with unabated zeal and energy, with the result that, in numerical strength and in spiritual influence, the Epworth League of Methodists is now second only to the church proper itself.

Notwithstanding the fact that the present convention is held so far west, remote from the great centers of the denomination in the eastern states and in Canada, the arrivals to date and the advices concerning the organized delegations and individual visitors who are en route indicate that the convention will be one of the largest ever held under the league auspices. It will be notable, moreover, for the number of distinguished people who are to take an active part in the proceedings.

Hart and Root to Battle.

Reno, Nev., July 3.—Marvin Hart of Louisville, who aspires to succeed to Jeffries' championship title, and Jack Root, the Chicago heavyweight who owns to a similar ambition, have completed their work of preparation and are ready for the gong to call them into the ring to engage in a finish fight to settle the question of their relative supremacy. James J. Jeffries is on hand to act as referee. An arena has been specially constructed for the battle with a seating capacity of 6,500. Many sporting men are arriving from out of town and from present indications seats at the ringside will be at a premium.

Reports today from their respective training quarters are to the effect that both Root and Hart are in first class condition and fit to engage in the battle of their lives.

He said that there would have been a large crowd of people from the Verdigre section of the state to attend the races if the weather had been favorable. As it was a number came to see the races who had to go back home disappointed because of the rains.

"Did you see the high dive?" was the common greeting yesterday after the man had made the leap for life.

The carnival company remains the balance of the week to help the people to ease off from the celebration of the Fourth.

Mrs. Henry Sixberry of Pilger died Saturday morning in an Omaha hospital following a surgical operation. The funeral was held at Newport.

The flag on the mast of the federal building is flying at half mast today in honor of the late secretary of state, John Hay, whose funeral services took place today.

The rain last night interfered somewhat with the fireworks, but after it had cleared away numbers of private parties sent up dollars worth of rockets, roman candles and balloons.

Fire in the second story of the building occupied by A. Wilde, between Second and Third streets on Norfolk avenue, broke out late Monday evening and an alarm was turned in. The damage was slight. The rooms are occupied by Marilla, a colored woman. The fire was in the vicinity of the stove pipe and was easily extinguished. Some damage was done by water.

George Tannehill and B. C. Gentle this morning created interest by climbing up the ladder that belongs to the high diver. A crowd quickly gathered, trusting that one or the other or perhaps both were about to make the perilous leap for life. They were merely sounding the water with a pole in order to learn whether or not there was a net in the tank to catch the man. They proved that there is none and that the man lights in pure, undiluted water.

One of the first and perhaps the very first conviction under the new law providing for the sending of dipomanics to the asylums of the state was made at Columbus Monday when Joseph Wells was convicted by a board of special commissioners and sent up to an inebriate asylum until such time as he could be cured of his uncontrollable appetite for intoxicants. Before being taken to the asylum, Wells was brought into district court by County Attorney Latham for a renewal of recognizance on the criminal charge which is now pending against him for shooting Ezra Mahaffey last spring.

Degner's hardware store and Humphrey's clothing and furnishing store have marks that will serve as reminders of the Fourth of July celebration and also emphasize the fact that some fools never know the limit when given a little license by a free-for-all good time. In each of these stores there are holes through the large plate glass windows. In the Degner store there is one hole and in the Humphrey window there are two perforations. Two of the holes are clean cut as though made by bullets and one is dug into the glass without going through, as though a blank cartridge pistol had been held close to the glass and the wad had dug into the crystal surface. It is such actions as these that are forcing the blank pistols and cartridges out of existence.

RAID NEGROES IN RESORT

CAMP OF THEM FOUND WEST OF LONG PINE.

MANAGER IS PLACED IN JAIL

The Sheriff of Brown County and a Deputy Visit the Scene of Disorder and Locate Black Women and White Women—Remy Takes Paper.

Ainsworth, Neb., July 1.—Special to The News: For some time past west of Long Pine there has been a negro, John Mayfield, camping on the creek with several tents and the sheriff was notified that he was conducting an ill-famed resort and selling liquor without a license. The sheriff and W. H. Kealy—a good imitator—investigated.

Kealy armed himself with a bottle of whisky and a fishing rod and went to the camp. By the time he arrived Kealy was supposed to be too drunk to fish, so he entered the tent. He saw both black and white women. The sheriff, finished fishing, started to find his pard and as Kealy was found with the outfit, the sheriff proposed he buy a drink. Kealy handed out fifty cents and got the beer, but took it along to drink on the road. Then the sheriff arrested the negro who was jailed and who has pleaded guilty to both charges and is awaiting the arrival of the judge to sentence him.

CELEBRATE KING'S BIRTHDAY II

Official Date for the Celebration is Observed.

London, June 30.—King Edward's birthday was officially celebrated today. The king's real birthday is on November 9, but as everybody is away from London at that time of the year, scattered at the shooting lodges in Scotland, at country houses in England, or else on the continent, another date is always selected by him for the celebration of his birthday during the London season. Today's celebration, however, was limited to the British Isles. In all other parts of the empire the day is celebrated on the actual anniversary.

The genuine affection with which the British regard their sovereign was evidenced as always in the keeping of a general holiday and the suspension of business. The towns throughout the kingdom were gaily decorated and the shipping at the various ports made a liberal display of bunting. The day was observed at all the home military and naval stations with parades and salutes.

The chief feature of the London celebration was the ceremony of "trooping the colors" on the Horse Guards parade. Thousands of persons lined the Whitehall route and cheered his majesty as the royal procession passed on its way from Buckingham palace to the scene of the ceremony. Stands covered with crimson cloth were erected about the parade and were occupied by thousands of privileged spectators, including the new United States ambassador, White-law Reid, his wife and daughter. The king was greeted with loud applause as he made his appearance with a brilliant escort that included many notables. The troops taking part in the ceremonies were the Grenadier guards, Scots guards, Irish guards and Life guards. After an inspection of the troops and the presentation of the colors, the ceremonies ended with a review of all the troops on the ground.
