The loss will be $1,000 and $2,000. Mr. Elder, manager for the boys, had quite a scare on the recent tornado passed through section, his windmill being destroyed, also taking most of the barn and other buildings. There was no insurance on the loss by fire yesterday.

A half mile south of Mr. Lutten's fire, lightning struck a grain stack for Harvey Cook. Mr. Cook was absent but neighbors turned out and saved the other five stacks after three hours of heroic work. The stacks were bunched and some of them had to be torn down while water was applied to the burning stacks by buckets as fast as possible. It was hot work and fast. The loss is covered by insurance.

Grombacher, near Youngstown, O. Charles Sterling, an innocent man was tried, convicted and hanged for the murder of this girl. If my body is ever found, notify my mother, Catherine Herzig, at Girard, O.

Plan Reception to President.

Washington, Sept. 14.—A movement is on foot to give President Roosevelt a cordial popular reception on his return to Washington, Sept. 30, from his summer home at Oyster Bay. It is intended that the demonstration shall be entirely of an informal character, without parade or speech-making, only an assembling of the citizens of Washington on Pennsylvania avenue to greet the president. It was originally proposed that the reception should be more formal and in recognition of the president's services in bringing the Portsmouth peace conference to a successful termination, but the simpler plan is believed to be more nearly in accord with the wishes of the president.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—A general strike of printers in Chicago, which will be part of a similar movement throughout the country, will be called today against all book and job printing firms that refuse to sign the union agreement providing for an eight-hour day. A strike is on at present against nineteen of the thirty-seven firms belonging to the Chicago Typothetae and it involves 450 members of the union. 2. The naval force of one of the belligerents shall not bombard territory belonging to or occupied by the other.

3. Maritime captures will not be suspended by the armistice.

5. The commanders of the armies and the fleets of the two powers shall determine in common accord the conditions of the armistice in conformity with the provisions above enumerated.

6. The two governments shall order their commanders immediately after the signature of the treaty of peace to put the protocol into execution.

The protocol was signed by M. Witte, Baron Rosen, Baron Komura and Mr. Takahira.

The announcement that maritime captures will not be suspended created consternation at Lloyd's, owing to the fact that some insurances had recently been effected at "peace" rates. It has been suggested that the underwriters hold a meeting and send a protest to the Japanese government.

Albers, an American citizen, and his brother are confined, pending a trial on the charge of resisting legal process and of insulting the president of Nicaragua. The officials of the state and navy departments decline to make any statement whatever on this subject just now, but it is known that it has received serious attention and that the lack of information as to the nature of the offense charged against Albers and the possibility of his not receiving a fair trial, have caused an effort to be made to get in closer touch with the prisoner. The gunboat Princeton, now at Panama, is the nearest warship to Ocotual, where Albers is imprisoned. PROBING MUTUAL LIFE

TREASURER FRED CROMWELL DEFENDS SYNDICATES.

OFFICER'S PERSONAL PROFITS

Says He Made Quarter of a Million Dollars in Five Years From These Transactions—Must Go to Syndicates to Make Investments.

New York, Sept. 14.—A vigorous defense of syndicates and their operations in connection with the insurance business and a frank statement of personal profits gained through their operations, made by Frederick Cromwell, treasurer of the Mutual Life Insurance company, was the feature of the session of the special legislative committee appointed to probe methods of life insurance companies in this state. The defense of the syndicate was made by Mr. Cromwell soon after he was called in the morning. Before he was asked a question, he begged leave to say a few words, and on being directed to proceed said:

"The law of combination, which affects finance as everything else, has made syndicates necessary. When I became treasurer of the Mutual Life Insurance company the total assets of our company were $100,000,000. The transactions in my department are now over $100,000,000 per annum. When our receipts were less, twenty years ago, it was quite possible for us to buy from bond dealers and pay the successive profits, now it is impossible to buy advantageously large blocks of securities, except as they are floated by these combinations of capital, popularly called syndicates."

The acknowledgment of personal profits was made in a tabulated statement. It showed that Mr. Cromwell had made a personal profit of $230,261 from syndicates during the last five years in which he individually and the Mutual Life Insurance company participated.

Mr. Morton said: "Some of our neighbors have lately been on the gridiron. We are all sorry for them, but it is not for us to rejoice at their trouble. Some disclosures have recently been made by the legislative investigating commission so different from the virtues attributed to the insurance companies that they are hard to believe. William M. Day said that when he took the office of comptroller of the Equitable he was to be trustee of a fund of $195,000,000 in the Equitable vault. He said he was almost overwhelmed by the amount, but he was staggered when on investigation he found not $125,000,000, but $726,000,000."
