Neligh Register: Norfolk has the wholesale fever and several firms are fitting up wholesale establishments since the railroads have agreed to do the right thing on the freight rates.

Last night was the coldest thus far for the fall, the mercury dropping down to the 24 mark. The warmest spot in the whole day yesterday was thirty-eight above zero, so that furs were not at all uncomfortable at any time.

Rev. T. H. Dabney, for several months pastor of the Baptist church of this city, preached his farewell sermon to the congregation yesterday morning. He has decided to return to evangelistic work, in which field he was formerly occupied.

Hallowe'en is tomorrow night and it is said that preparations are being made in Norfolk by a number of boys and young men to tear things up pretty generally. Mayor Friday has not yet determined whether or not he will have a force of extra policemen out to keep track of the mischief makers.

Pierce Leader: Mrs. H. F. Barnhart and daughter, Miss Mae, were visiting with their husband and father, Lawyer Barnhart from Creighton the first of the week. The Barnhart family will move their household goods down to Pierce next week and they will occupy the house on the east which was recently built by J. A. Long. This residence is two-story and is located directly east of the Judge McDonald home.

The funeral of John Bankston, a colored boy who formerly worked in Hartford's barber shop here, and who died at Sioux Falls, S. D., was held yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted at the home of Sadie Du Bois by Rev. J. F. Poucher. The deceased was a nephew of Jane Gordon. Frances Coleman, Frankie Young and Burt Gordon accompanied the remains to Norfolk. The funeral was largely attended by the colored people of the city.

Traffic on the main line of the Northwestern was delayed for about nine hours yesterday afternoon by the derailing of three cars of coal in an extra westbound freight train at Newport, a station 100 miles west of Norfolk. The damage was not serious. Superintendent Reynolds left on a special train for the scene of the accident and remained until the wreckage had been cleared. No one was injured in the accident in any way. The cars went off the track at about 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Clearwater Record: On Tuesday John Anderson and Miss Katherine Kent surprised their friends by going quietly to Neligh and getting married, the ceremony being performed by County Judge Finch. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Kent of Norfolk, and by association with the people of Clearwater and vicinity has made a large circle of friends in this neighborhood. The groom is a son of Mrs. Hollenbeck, living just east of town. During the years of his residence here John has gained the confidence and respect of everyone. We understand that Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will live on the Hollenbeck place and that Mr. and Mrs. Hollenbeck will move into their house just north of town which is now occupied by the Moses family. We extend congratulations to the happy couple.

Pierce Leader: Northeast Nebraska was creditably represented in the St. Louis American league team this season in the persons of Jim Buchanan and George Stone, both of whom returned home last week, Jim going to an uncle's living near McLean and Stone going to his home at Coleridge. Jim was on the pitching staff and played remarkably good ball during the season, and especially during the latter part. Stone was right fielder and was universally recognized as one of the best in the business, both in the field and at the bat. During the fore part and greater portion of the season he led the American league in batting but during the last few weeks he fell down and finished eleventh place. Both Buchanan and Stone are well known to some of our ball players, they having played here during their earlier baseball careers.

Bixby in State Journal: People of Boone and Greeley counties are chafing some because of the commutation of Mike Lamb's sentence from nine to six years. There are many who believe that the man deserves as complete and well-rounded a sentence as a judge might be permitted to give without violating the letter of the law or the spirit of the same. Mike Lamb was rich in land and cattle when he began the career of crime that has given him two terms in Nebraska's boom factory. Greed of gain, when he already had more than he would ever need, is the only excuse he could ever give for grafting upon the heads of other people. He may be no more culpable in the sight of high heaven than the president of an insurance company who, because he can, connects up with rolls of cash money belonging to policyholders, but the way he went at it lacked all the delicacy and refinement of the legalized methods of robbery associated with high finance. The man who pays large lifetime premiums on twenty years' endowment, has the promise of some return upon the investment in the dim and uncertain future. Not so the man whose live stock is hustled off toward the Niobrara country at night. He is lucky to retain the pasture and the wire fence enclosing it. It might console him were he to be informed that the man who broke in just before the cattle broke out had no other visible means of support; but when the fearful truth is borne in upon him that an accessory to the theft was a neighbor financially able to buy and sell him half a dozen times, he feels a bitterness that could not be committed to paper without scorching the fabric. The neighbors of Mr. Lamb whose cattle used to wander away and never return, when Mike was in the hey day and ha ha of industrial activity, desire that their old neighbor be permitted to peacefully serve out the limit of his sentence, with the usual time off as a reward of good behavior. It is up to the governor to say what.

Butte, Neb., Oct. 30.—Special to The News: Fate will not permit the life of Mrs. Herman Wipvern, the young woman recently restored to her parents in Boyd county after having been kidnapped eighteen years before, to go long without a mystery.

Saturday morning Mrs. Wipvern came down town to do some shopping. She left her 1-year-old babe at home sound asleep and apparently in good health. When she returned she found her child unconscious. A physician was summoned but the child died a very few minutes after the arrival of the doctor.

DESERTER BREAKS JAIL

PRISONER IN NORFOLK CAGE ESCAPES DURING NIGHT.

BLOODHOUNDS ARE TRACING

Either Aided in the Escape or Performing a Miracle, the Fugitive Army Deserter Held Here Flew Out of His Cage Last Night.

The army deserter who was being held in the Norfolk city jail escaped last night and has not been found. Bloodhounds are tracing the fugitive today. The dogs took the trail west of town.

The deserter, who gave his name wrongly as C. R. Carter, was to have been taken to Omaha this morning by Jack Larkin, former police chief. John Ray was in town yesterday and paid $15 to Mr. Larkin for the three railroad fares and was to have given more when the reward of $50 was secured at Fort Crook. But when Mr. Larkin came to get his prisoner this morning he found that the jailbird had flown and the cage was empty.

Jones Discharged.

Fairfax Advertiser: The case of the state against Lovell Jones, a quarter-breed Indian who has been confined in the county jail the past two weeks, came up before Justice Gaughen at Bonesteel Monday for trial. Jones was charged with stealing a harness from C. A. Hasford, who resides at or near Dallas, Chas. Milner, attorney for the defendant, called for a jury, and a jury trial was held. While the defense introduced no testimony, the case was submitted and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, whereupon defendant was discharged. The case attracted considerable attention as the defendant had gained some notoriety on account of many alleged wrong doings. The state was represented by State's Attorney W. B. Backus and Chas. A. Davis.

Conroy Indicted.

Fairfax Advertiser: Two indictments have been returned by the grand jury against John Conroy, a noted mixed-blood Sioux Indian desperado, who was captured a few weeks ago, having been a fugitive for some time. One of the indictments charges him with having stolen eight head of horses from parties living on the Pine Ridge reservation, and the other charges him with having driven the stolen animals from the reservation, which constitutes a separate offense. Conroy was arraigned before Judge Carland at Sioux Falls Saturday and pleaded not guilty to each of the indictments. Since his arrest he has been an occupant of the county jail in that city. He will be tried by a federal petit jury in the United States court this week.

BETTER CARE FOR BABIES.

Chicago Nurse Emphasizes the Need of the Training of Parents.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Cash for Healthy Babies and "Office of Baby Commission" are two new signs needed at the city hall, according to Miss Harriet Fulmer, member of the City Visiting Nurse association, who delivered an address before the West End Women's club, late yesterday. Miss Fulmer's subject was the "Unhealthy Condition of Babies in the Congested Districts of the City."

She told of the method Napoleon Bonaparte adopted by which he gave the mother of each newly born child a gold piece, and duplicated the present if the baby was shown to be in a healthy condition when it was four months old. The inference was that if Mayor Dunne would make a similar offer, the population of Chicago would be increased materially.

Miss Fulmer told of the success of the tent hospitals for babies, experimented with last summer in the Polish district. Only two deaths occurred among the 310 babies cared for, while previous to last summer the district had a larger baby mortality than any other district in the city. The speaker urged the club women to make a demand on the special park commissioners, that many baby hospitals be established in the congested districts during the summer months.

SERIOUS AFFRAY AT HERRICK.

Charles Auerswald Hit Over the Head With Post Hole Digger.

Bonesteel, S. D., Oct. 31.—Charles Auerswald of Herrick, one of the new reservation towns, was nearly killed by Henry Ousley, a citizen of the same place, over a dispute about some town lots. Auerswald was fencing some lots claimed by Ousley, and in the mixup Ousley struck Auerswald with an iron post hole digger, making a very serious wound over the left eye. Auerswald was running at the time he was struck, and the blow glanced on the side of the face, saving the skull from being crushed. A warrant is out charging Ousley with assault with intent to kill and the hearing was had in Judge Higgins' court Monday. Several shots were exchanged during the fracas by others who took part in the fight, but fortunately no one was seriously hurt except Auerswald.

BOYD IN AN ACCIDENT.

Center Register: An accident that has not yet been chronicled by the press of the country happened to Judge Boyd's party as it was returning to Center from the Bloomfield carnival in Sherman Saunders' automobile.

An enterprising road overseer had driven several piling across the road east of Bloomfield, evidently with the intention of building a culvert there some day. The heads of these piling would clear the bottom of the benzine truck board in some places, but the shifting of a couple of inches to one side caused the machinery under the car to collide with the piling and court was not opened that morning just on time.

STARVED HIMSELF.

Prisoner at Butte, Mont., Ends Life of Crime in Jail.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 27.—James F. Barnes of Chicago, held at the county jail on the charge of murdering Patrick Hanley in this city Sept. 3, died last night, apparently having starved himself to death. For three days he had neither eaten nor left his cell, and was so weak just before he died that he was unable to speak.

Fearing mob violence, Sheriff Quinn removed him to Anaconda the day following the murder, and the same day friends of Hanley made an attack upon the jail, battering down the main door. They were held back with rifles in the hands of deputies and were finally dispersed.

Barnes had a horror of being lynched by a mob of Butte miners, and when he found that he had to go back to camp, he attempted to commit suicide in the Anaconda jail by eating the tops from sulphur matches. His stomach was weak and resisted the poison and for days he lived on whisky alone. For the past two weeks he had been morose and felt that nothing could save him from the gallows. He also had a constant dread of a mob getting him.

The crime was one of the most cold-blooded in the history of Butte. Hanley had refused to drink with him, and feeling insulted, he went to his own place, a few doors from the scene of the tragedy, and returned with a revolver, shooting his victim without a word of warning. He was to have been tried in about three weeks. He served a two years sentence at San Quentin for shooting a man at Chico, Cal.

DRINK SLAVE IS RUINED

FORMER WEALTHY NEW YORKER HAS FALLEN HARD.

GOT THE HABIT IN ONE DAY

Five Years Ago a Prominent Commission Man in New York, Martin F. Black Now Asks Sentence to the House of Corrections.

Philadelphia, Oct. 26.—Five years ago Martin F. Black was a prosperous commission merchant in New York city with a fortune estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000. Today, 62 years old, broken in purse, spirits and health, Black appeared before Magistrate Eisenbrow and begged to be sent to the house of correction, where he would be sure of food, a bed, warm clothing and shelter during the winter months. His request was granted for a three months' term.

"I was ruined by gambling, drink and women," Black said, while he was waiting for the van to take him away. "Five years ago I was one of the most prominent commission merchants in New York. I had a big place on Courtland street, and my fortune was between $150,000 and $200,000."

"One day a big buyer paid me a visit. Until that time I had been a teetotaler. My customer asked me out to 'take a little something.' I excused myself and said I never touched liquor. 'Oh, all right, if you set yourself on a pedestal and think you're better than other men I guess I'm through with you,' the buyer declared angrily. 'I didn't want to offend this man. I placated him and consented to take a drink. The stuff seemed to run through my veins like fire and that afternoon after I'd left my friend I went back to the saloon and had several more drinks.'

"While there I met a smooth young chap, who invited me to go out with him. We drove to a gambling house where I was introduced to stud poker without a limit. Soon all the money I had with me, about $1,200, was gone. 'Although I saw the folly of my

BELIEVED TO HAVE HAD A HAND IN SPRINGFIELD ROBBERY.

SOUTH DAKOTA BANK ROBBERS

The Men Who are Thought to Have Blown a Bank Safe Near Niobrara, Neb., Have Been Taken at Aberdeen, S. D.—Were Armed to Teeth.

Armed to the teeth with large caliber revolvers and lighting desperately to avoid arrest, "Jacko" Wilson and a "pal" who gave the name of Paray Carroll, but who is believed to be none other than Paray Carson a cloyer or "young" man, were arrested in a saloon at Aberdeen, S. D., last night, charged with complicity in the robbery of the Bank of Springfield, S. D., on the morning of October 3.

"Jacko" had $500 upon his person, and it is believed that this is a portion of the loot which was secured from the blowing of the bank's safe, when the "mob" got away with $5,200 in currency.

Carroll and Wilson gave the Aberdeen officers a hard battle before submitting to arrest, but the officers disarmed them and after a stiff fight on either side landed these desperate criminals in the city jail. Carroll has just completed a four years' term in the Sioux Falls, S. D., penitentiary for robbery, and he is thought to be one of the men who was seen with "Jacko" before the Bank of Springfield was touched off.

Springfield is a town just across the Missouri river from Niobrara, Neb., and it was thought for a time that the robbers might have escaped into this territory.

NO. 1 LEAVES.

Man Who Drew First Claim on Rosebud.

Herrick, S. D., Promt: William McCormick and his sister, Miss Mary McCormick, will leave tomorrow for Lincoln, Neb., where Mr. McCormick will enter the law department of the University of Nebraska. As "No. 1" in the great Rosebud drawing in which over 100,000 persons participated, Mr. McCormick a year ago last August suddenly found himself the most famous person in the middle west. His good judgment at that exciting time in locating his claim on the mile strip adjoining the town of Herrick on the north has been repeatedly displayed during his eight months' residence in our midst, while as cashier of the Rosebud bank, captain of the Herrick baseball team and the incumbent of other public positions, he has contributed materially to the growth of Herrick. It is with regret that his hosts of friends here see him depart, but they look forward to the comparatively short time of two years hence, when as an attorney-at-law "Mac" will hang out his shingle in the then bustling little city of Herrick.

Although a member of our community for a shorter period, Miss Mary McCormick has taken a prominent part in church and social circles and her departure also is a source of regret to many friends. Miss McCormick will keep house for her brother the first winter, at least, of his college course.

PROTECTED WITH GUNS.

Secret Service Men Draw Revolvers at New Orleans.

New Orleans, Oct. 31.—It was learned today that twenty secret-service men were on duty to guard President Roosevelt during his stay here. Two of them rode in an open cab directly behind the president's carriage, which also contained Frank Terree, who was in command of the government detectives.

Two men made an attempt to shake hands with Mr. Roosevelt, but they were intercepted by the secret service men drawing their revolvers. One incident occurred at the city hall, where a stampede almost occurred because an officer had flashed his pistol. Four local anarchists were placed in jail the night before the president's arrival for safe-keeping. After his departure they were liberated.

Officers of the naval militia carried loaded revolvers and every policeman here was detailed to protect Mr. Roosevelt.

way, I could not break away from the habit which in a single day had come to own me. Then came wine suppers with theatrical people. I met lots of women connected with the stage and they helped me spend my money. Business soon left me and I was ruined."
