

HADAR BOY DIES TODAY

HENRY BUSCH, DRAGGED YESTERDAY SUCCUMBS AT 2 A. M.

HE WAS ONLY 16 YEARS OLD

As a Result of Internal Injuries Received Because His Reins Were Wrapped About His Back, Henry Busch, Unconscious to End, is Dead.

[From Saturday's Daily.] Henry Busch, the boy who was dragged out of his wagon near Hadar yesterday morning because of the reins being wrapped about his back, and who was dragged for a short distance over the frozen ground, died at the home of his employer, John Krueger, a half mile east of Hadar, at fifteen minutes before 2 o'clock this morning.

Young Busch was only sixteen years of age, but was tall for his years. He was thin, however, and not very strong. He suffered from injuries in the head and it is probable that his death was due to this. He was unconscious when picked up after the accident, and never regained his senses from that time until death came this morning.

Had Hope For His Life. Hope was expressed by medical attendants last night, Mrs. Krueger said today, that the life of the young man might be saved, but he never rallied and shortly after midnight, when the night grew colder and darker, he succumbed.

It was not known today just when the funeral will be held, but it will likely take place in Norfolk. Mr. and Mrs. Busch, father and mother of the dead boy, came to Norfolk this afternoon to make arrangements.

The accident which caused the death of young Busch occurred at about 9 o'clock yesterday morning near Hadar, where he had started with a wagon to haul ice. The wagon tongue dropped and stuck in the ground, the team went on and the young driver, with the reins wrapped about his back, was drawn out into the road and, face down, dragged for about twenty rods. The horses did not run and were not frantic, but the bruises that the lad had received were fatal.

JOHNNY DUMPER.

Editor News: Our cook-stove is nearly all in an ma haz bin wantin pa to get a nue one for too years. Pa sed he'd see. But he's still a lookin an so is ma. Pa got stwindled onct by a lightning rod agent, an since then he wont hardly allow an agent on the place. One evening about a month ago a couple of slick lookin fellers with black mustashes druv up to the back gate while we was settin down to supper. Pa sed he'd bet it was agents an he'd dispose of em mity quick. He waz out the back door before they had time to get out the buggy an he sez, "Anything you fellers want?" One of em sez, "we are representatives, Mr. Dumper, of the Concentrated hot air stove and range company of Cincinnati, and we are buyin up old stoves and ranges for cash. We thot we'd stop in on our way up town for supper, an see if you had an old stove to sell." This struck pa right where he lived an he sez, "Yes, we've got one, how much do you pay?" "Anywhare from five to ten dollars," the man sed, as he waz getting out the buggy, "and since we are in a hurry to get to the hotel for supper, will you show me the stove now, Mr. Dumper, an I'll pay you haf down to bind the bargain." "Don't you worry about supper!" sez pa. "Put your team in the barn an cum in to an have supper with us." "O, no," sez the men, "we arranged to be at the hotel." "Never mind," sez pa, "you stay here for supper, an then we'll look at the stove." So the men put there team in the barn an my fried fore more eggs an they et supper with us. They waz awful nice talkin fellers an ast pa where he waz from. He sed Indiana, an they both sed they waz born there, an pa an them got along fine just like old friends. They talked awhile after supper an then went to look at the stove. They tapped on the iron an sed it waz the best stove iron, an they cud handel it fer ten dollars. Pa sed that

WILL STAMP OUT THE ITCH

WILL ENFORCE LAW ON RESERVATIONS.

SANTEE, OMAHA AND WINEBAGO

A Tank Will be Stationed at Niobrara Where it Will be Required That All Cattle and Horses be Dipped in Order to Save Quarantine.

All the horses and cattle on the Santee and Ponca reservation and in the neighboring country must be dipped according to plans now being formulated by State Veterinarian McKim and Indian Agent W. S. Mowley of the two reservations. A tank will be erected somewhere near Niobrara jointly by the lessees of Indian lands and others farmers, and during the next three or four months steps will be taken to force everyone to dip their horses. The growing prevalence of the itch throughout the two reservations has so endangered the stock business that the state authorities declare that they will take stringent measures to enforce the statutes against allowing diseased horses to run at large. The law provides a penalty of not more than $500 and imprisonment of not less than six months for allowing a diseased animal to approach within twenty rods of a highway or for selling same animal providing he knows it is diseased.

BATTLING WITH GLANDERS

A COSTLY FIGHT AROUND NIOBRARA AND VERDEL.

DISEASE NOW UNDER CONTROL

State Veterinarian McKim is Obligated to Destroy Eight Horses and Take Other Drastic Measures to Stamp Out the Disease.

A costly fight has been waged against the glanders in and around Niobrara and Verdel during the past week by State Veterinarian McKim. He has just returned to Norfolk today from Niobrara and reports that he killed and cremated eight horses afflicted with the glanders and burned the body of still another, which had died of the disease. After taking other precautionary measures Dr. McKim believes that the danger of more cases of the glanders has been reduced to a minimum.

The attention of the state veterinarian was first called to the presence of glanders by Dr. J. C. Meyers, deputy state veterinarian, who reported several suspected cases. On investigation six horses on the farm of John Hans were found to be infected and were shot. Their bodies were buried in an old straw stack and burned. A horse belonging to Joe Miller of Niobrara and one belonging to Arthur Wilson were also shot and burned. The body of a stallion, which had died of glanders was found in a log barn and both barn and body were burned to destroy all traces of the disease and danger of infection. In all the barns, where infected horses were found, the stalls, mangers and other woodwork was destroyed.

The farmers and townspeople cooperated with the state authorities in every way, even going to the point of whitewashing all the hitching posts in Verdel so as to reduce the danger of infection to a minimum. These precautionary measures in connection with the destruction of all infected animals it is believed will practically stamp out the disease in that locality.

EXTREMELY PRETTY PARTY

Four Young Ladies Give Unique and Delightful Dancing Party.

One of the most delightful and prettiest parties of the winter was given Friday evening at Marquardt hall by Miss Fannie Norton, Miss Edna Stafford and Misses May and Laura Durand. The evening was devoted entirely to dancing although a few tables were arranged for cards for those who did not care to dance. As an innovation one of the dances of the evening was a square dance in which the older people, for whom it was really planned, took but a small part because of the enthusiasm of many of the younger set who entered into it with good spirit.

The dance was Japanese in effect. Japanese lanterns, umbrellas and draperies entering largely into the scheme of decorations. The hand-painted programs and favors were likewise Japanese in intent, while the six young ladies serving were all dressed in Japanese kimonos. To one side of the hall space was inclosed where a dainty two course luncheon was served during the intermission. The young ladies serving were: Miss May Johnson, Miss Gladys Jenkins, Miss Helen Mayland, Miss Lucile Tracy and Miss Georgia Blakeman, and Miss Rosella Cole. More than fifty couples were present, a number being from out of the city.

TILDEN'S NEW SUNDAY.

Merchants of the Town Have Made a New Rule for Sabbath.

Tilden Citizen: Next Sunday will see an innovation in Tilden. Every place of business except the restaurants, hotels, bakery, railway station and long distance telephone office will be closed to the public. This step has been taken voluntarily by the business men, but it is hinted that an organization exists in town, which is pledged to see that the state law prohibiting labor is rigidly enforced hereafter. Be that as it may the merchants are to be congratulated upon their determination to take one day's rest in the week from business cares and anxieties. Sunday trading has grown into a habit with many families, both in town and country; but as with all other reprehensible habits, the inability to practice it will work no hardships and the community will readily adopt itself to the new conditions.

Farmers bring in your repair work for spring. I will save you 20%, as I have the time and am prepared to do the work. Paul Nordwig.
