He was well known all over northern Nebraska among the railroad men and business men, and was one of the magnetic type of men who immediately attract.

Mr. Roach entered the service of the Northwestern railroad company in 1886 as a locomotive fireman at Clinton, Iowa. Later he was made clerk in the master mechanic's office and then he became chief clerk under Superintendent Reynolds here, coming to Norfolk in 1890.

Several years after coming to Norfolk, Mr. Roach was appointed chief Charlestown, instead of Clarkson. clerk under General Superintendent C. C. Hughes, then of Omaha but now of Norfolk, and in 1904 he was promoted to be trainmaster for the road at Fremont, which position he held until his death.

Mr. Roach would have been fortyone years of age next Thursday, April 19. He is survived by a wife and one son, a boy of about twelve years.

Some weeks ago he was attacked with pneumonia and had almost completely recovered when he was stricken with a relapse. His constitution had been so weakened by the first attack that he was unable to withstand the second and his life was despaired of Sunday night. Yesterday morning his temperature had dropped some, tinue throughout the day and are sent but the physicians were unable to quiet his delirium and in this way his D. From Monday's Dully I E. P. Weatherby, city attorney of Norfolk and United States referee in bankruptcy here, suffered a syncope or a fainting spell, in the dining room able to attend to his work. He is of the Oxnard hotel just as he was much improved now and is leading about to be seated at a dinner table for Easter dinner, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Weatherby was taken to his home, corner Koenigstein avenue and Thirteenth street, at 8 o'clock last night and was much better this morning, with signs of continued improvement.

Mr. Weatherby, together with Mrs. Weatherby and her mother, Mrs. Warrick, had just come from Trinity church, where they attended Easter services, and were to be guests of Landlord and Mrs. O. P. Schoff of the Oxnard. They had entered the dining room, resplendent with its holiday decat a private table when Mr. Weatherby, remarking upon the pretty decorations, fainted away.

Physicians were present and gave their attention as soon as he had been removed to a room in the hotel. Later in the day he was taken home and this morning was feeling much better nolds went Sunday night, was at and it was said that he would be out before a great while,
