Madison, Neb., June 6.-Special to The News: In the biggest fire Madi son has experienced for years, the large livery stable of Walter Elly burned to the ground last night. The loss is about $3,000; insurance, $1,500. The fire started at about 10 o'clock in the big livery on Pearl street and for a time it looked as though it might not be confined to that building. Fanned by a high southeast wind, the flames raged furiously and sparks were carried half way across the town. Owing to the inflammable nature of the building and its contents, it was soon plain that the stable was doomed, although the volunteer firemen worked heroically to save it. All the horses and buggies in the building were taken out in time to save them, but the harness of the es-

CONSTRUCTION TO CONTINUE.

Northwestern Will Not Stop Building at Shoshoni.

Shoshoni, Wyo., June 6 .- The Northwestern will soon let the contract for the further extension of its track west 100 miles through the Shoshone or Wind River reservation, which is to be thrown open to settlement August 15 next. The line will cross the Big Horn river west of Shoshoni and coninue due west across the big bench lying between Wind river and Muddy creek. It will run along this bench for about sixty miles, entering the Wind river valley near the mouth of Crow creek. At the western terminal of the line, near the present site of Dubois, another town will be started.

The region through which this extension is to run will be one of the richest agricultural and mining districts in the state, and there is no doubt that it will do an immense business.
