Fremont Tribune: The republicans of Madison county have endorsed C. A. Randall for state senator, which means that he will be nominated to the position. In the flood time of 1886 Mr. Randall made the race. He went through the district like a whirlwind, fighting back the hosts of silver men and made such a campaign that he came within eighteen of overcoming a majority of 600 against his party in the district. Mr. Randall is a republican who can give reasons for the faith in him. He is a perpetual republican evangelist. It is a foregone conclusion that he will be a member of the Thirty-three club at Lincoln next winter, and one of the best of the bunch.

Fry's Wonderland magazine, published at Niobrara, for August, is the most attractive number that has yet appeared. The cover is featured with a trout fishing scene that makes you want to be casting flies in between the rocks. There is an illustrated article on the Santee Indians in History, a very interesting political review of the present senatorial contest in Nebraska in which John R. Hays of Norfolk is quoted in connection with Meiklejohn in the early days, and an article on Edgar Howard as a pioneer of anti-pass legislation, written by Dan V. Stephens. In the magazine is promise of an article for next month telling of President Roosevelt's visit to the Santee agency and the new ideas he got on Indian affairs from that visit. Ed A. Fry, the editor, writes many interesting anecdotes in regard to public men he has known, and the publication ought to grow in favor.

The town of Bristol (S. D.) has buried its third victim of the horrible wholesale poisoning at Everts of the excursionists to that place the first of July. Andover and Webster have each paid by a death for the part in the holiday, while all along the H. & D. division of the Milwaukee road that furnished the excursionists nearly one hundred victims are still tossing on their beds in the delirium of typhoid fever. The blame for it all seems hard to fix. While the lemonade can count its victims by the score the chicken stew served at the restaurants also claim a large number of victims as does also the ice water. It seems as if the whole place was cursed and in many a home in that part of the state the news that Everts is to be abandoned by the Milwaukee road and the site deserted is received with grim satisfaction. The name of Everts will always call up sorrowful memories.

BARGAIN DAY EVERY MONTH

MOVE FOR SPECIAL DAYS IN NORFOLK IS STARTED.

MERCHANTS WOULD HEAD LIST

A Norfolk firm has expressed a desire to contribute to a fund which would give Norfolk a special day now and then.

A movement has been started in Norfolk which may result in a special bargain day once a month, with street attractions, for the purpose of attracting special crowds of people into the city. The movement, which has long been needed and which is now being successfully adopted among many of the towns of Texas and Oklahoma, would unquestionably make headway in Norfolk if the merchants of the city would unite on the idea, and at least one firm has expressed to The News a desire to join in the plan.

"We would be glad to head a list of subscriptions for the purpose of giving entertainment in Norfolk to visitors who might thus be brought into the town," said this firm today.

The plan, as has been adopted in southern states, contemplates making a big day out of one day during each month, when people from a large territory can find amusement as well as bargains in the town. Besides these features, the southern towns make the day one on which trading or "swapping" is done by all of the visitors in town. Anyone who happens to have an old watch that he wants to get rid of, takes it into the town on that day and there finds a hundred of his acquaintances from miles away who are anxious to trade other articles for his watch. By making this a feature, interest is added without extra cost.

By having the special day come on the same day each month, such as the first Wednesday of each month or the second, and then by well advertising it at the start, the whole tributary territory soon becomes so acquainted with the day that crowds look for that day. Excursion trains could be run, with cheap rates, and when the visitors arrived they could find attractions in street shows, theatrical performances and any number of similar specialties.

It is probable that such a plan would find ready support among the Norfolk business men, if taken up by the Commercial club, and The News will be glad to act as a medium through which the idea may be discussed, if any care to enlist in the movement or criticize it in any way. If it would help the town of Norfolk, it is taken for granted that it would be a success and would be encouraged by the business interests.

TO FIGHT HORSE THIEVES

START IS MADE ON NORTH NEBRASKA ASSOCIATION.

NORFOLK FARMERS ORGANIZE

A Meeting of Citizens Interested Was Held in the City Hall Saturday Afternoon, and Officers Were Elected. Meet Again Next Saturday.

[From Monday's Daily.]

In accordance with The News suggestions, many citizens of the north-eastern part of Madison county met in the city hall Saturday afternoon and organized a North Nebraska Anti-Horsethief association. The purpose of the association is to organize in the northern part of the state to catch and prosecute horse thieves and to protect the members from them.

The association met at 3 o'clock and elected Geo. Evans temporary chairman, and Herman Buetow temporary secretary.

The association took for an example the Pilger Anti-Horsethief association. It is hoped that the towns around this will organize similar committees that will co-operate with one another, having one head over all these associations.

There is to be no discrimination between the members and non-members, for when a horse is stolen they will go after it and catch the thief if possible. Non-members will not have the protection of the association.

The association is to have a captain, who shall order his men where he will and who shall have full control of operations.

A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws.

After the drafting of the constitution by the committee it was read and adopted.

The officers elected were as follows: Geo. Evans, president; Herman Buetow, secretary; A. L. Carter, treasurer.

A membership fee of $2.00 will be charged with quarterly dues of $1.00. The meeting was then adjourned to next Saturday.

WILL LAND THE THIEVES

Plan for Farmers' Organization Commanded by Former Officer.

The plan to organize against horse thieves is commended by a former law officer in the following letter:

Norfolk, Neb., Aug. 2.—Editor News: As suggested by The News and taken up by the farmers, I will state that I have for years favored just such a plan. We are located only about two nights' drive from the best organized band of horse thieves in the country and to cope with them, the farmers must organize and have always on hand sufficient money to run them down and it takes money to do it. By an organization which would not cost more than twenty-five cents each month; this can be done.

During my experience in this line, I have never failed to get the horse and the man, too, when my expenses were guaranteed, but in the majority of cases when the owner got his horse or team he did not care to have further expense where he was standing it alone, consequently the thief was permitted to escape in many cases and this has been the experience of every sheriff in the country.

The move is a good one and I hope to see the farmers attend the meeting on Saturday and organize. Such an organization will not only land in the penitentiary many of the thieves, but will have a tendency to discourage their operations where they know of such an organization.

SOCIETY IS TAKING A NAP

SUMMER SIESTA SEASON IS ON JUST NOW IN NORFOLK.

AND THERE IS LITTLE TO IT

About All That Has Transpired of Interest in a Social Way Have Been Small Picnics, Which Have Become Extremely Popular Here.

[From Saturday's Daily.]

Society in Norfolk is taking a nap. The summer siesta season is on and the whole town, more or less, seems to be spending spare time at comfortable slumber in a hammock, rather than in playing bridge whist. There is little to it in a social way just now, outside small picnic parties, which have become extremely popular this season. Many Norfolk families are enjoying cool retreats in camp and many others are away from home for their outings.

Within a short time, however, picnickers will be returning, campers out will strike down their tents, lake resorters will come packing back to Norfolk, and there will be things in the air again.

The approaching season of horse races in Norfolk and in other towns of this vicinity promises to attract more than usual interest this year and, as the races are promised as good ones, it is very likely that many Norfolk people, after enjoying the events in Norfolk, will drive to surrounding towns to watch the continuation of the stepping contests.

KAY WILL RACE IN NORFOLK

Neligh Man Will Bring Parpina, Dash-On and White Wings.

Neligh, Neb., Aug. 7.—Special to The News: From all reports everything is looking up for the Neligh carnival and race meet, which will be held August 22, 23 and 24. Secretary W. W. Cole says that the concessions will outnumber those of previous years by at least a dozen. J. R. Davis of Monroe, Neb., has secured the exclusive right for a merry-go-round.

Stanton and Neligh ball teams are scheduled to play on the last day, August 24. Clearwater and Orchard for the second day. Manager Dr. W. F. Conwell of the Neligh team says that he is a ball team short, and if one can be secured they will play the home boys on the first day. The business men's association have hung up $50 a day for each game.

John Kay of the Riverside park stables says he will have at least three horses in the races here, and possibly four. The three that he will take to Norfolk next week are: White Wings, a 3:00 minute trotter; Parpina, a 2:25 trotter; and Dash-on, a 2:50 pacer. The entries close in harness races on the evening of August 14, here and also at Norfolk.

"You will learn to limp if you live always with lame people;" and you will become a "back number" if you are ambitious to compete, in your business, with only those who do not advertise.

ANNUAL STOCK RUN IS ON

EXTRA TRAINS ARE PASSING THROUGH NORFOLK NOW.

NINE SPECIALS LAST SUNDAY

The Cattle From Belle Fourche, S. D., Begin the Season and Later the Stock From This Section Will be Shipped—Enginemmen Scarce.

The stock rush on the Northwestern railroad has begun, and many trains are being run daily through Norfolk from the cattle country in the northwest to the packing houses at South Omaha. There is such a rush of business on that line at present, with the stock run and other heavy hauling, that enginemmen are at a premium, and engineers are being made of younger men than is usual.

Last Sunday nine special stock trains ran through Norfolk and the run may be expected to increase from now until late in the fall. It is probable that more than that number of trains will be run tomorrow, and each succeeding week will see the number grow.

The rush always begins with range stuff from the Belle Fourche country, and is ended later in the season with the stock from this section.

It is said that engineers are so rare, compared with the number of trains that are in use, that many a young fireman who shows ability is being promoted to the throttle, where in some seasons he might have to wait many months before gaining the locomotive for his own.

As a result he had Mrs. Clow arrested and had a warrant issued for the arrest of a young man by the name of Julian, who is wanted on the charge of seduction and giving the young girl a poisonous drug to avoid effects of his act. It is stated that when the girl was in a delicate state that Julian took her to the Clow home and there a quantity of pills were administered. They failed to have the desired effect and later she was taken to the same home and asked for some of the same liquid medicine that the Clow woman had given to other girls. This was refused, but that night Julian brought the girl a bottle of medicine which, upon being opened, was so strong that she could not take it. Young Julian left for parts unknown a short time ago and has not been seen since.
