Bassett, Neb., Sept. 19.—Special to The News: Noah Crandall, a photographer of Bassett, was accidentally shot and killed while hunting with freinds. Standing in the rear of the wagon, he received in the abdomen a charge from a gun which was in the seat.

Mr. Crandall went bunting with friends thirty-five miles southeast of here. He was a photographer and took a picture of his friends, Mr. Mc-Neill and Mr. James, before starting

Mr. Crandall stood in the buggy on the way home, his friends in the seat with the gun between them. It was discharged, the charge passing through the back of the seat and striking Mr. Crandall in the abdomen. He lived but an hour and a half. He was a much respected citizen and leaves a wife and three little children.

Fletcher of Orchard was nominated for representative on the first ballot, and before its conclusion SURROUNDED AND THEN SHOT his selection was made unanimous by acclamation. He thanked the convention and said that if elected he would carry out the wishes of the people; that he had not applied for a PROBABLY WILL FINISH FRIDAY railroad pass, received one or ridden on one; that if he went to Lincoln he would pay his fare, and it would remain paid; further that the pass sys tem was an evil, and he was opposed to and would vote against it.

No candidate for county attorney was placed in nomination, but the central committee was empowered to place one on the ticket. This result was brought about by the declination of the different attorneys to accept the positions, owing to the fact that private business would necessarily occupy their full attention. The resolutions adopted re-affirmed the state and congressional platforms and pledged support to the state, congressional and legislative ticket. The candidate for representative is a bright, clean, young man, very popular, and his election appears a foregone conclusion There are no dissentions in the party

Every man who has been caught, dreads the experience.

The latest popular method the women have of wasting time seems to be in the making of French knots, a sort of a fly speck in embroidery.

Speaking of the departure of old-fashioned customs, what has become of the woman who took the table cloth to the door after a meal and shook it? Notice the women's clothes. This fall when you think a woman is coming toward you she is very likely going from you. They are wearing their waists buttoned in the back, and their skirts fastened down the front. Their hats have broad brims in the back and little narrow brims in front. Everything they put on this fall is put on backwards.

When a man has saved a thousand dollars, his imagination leaps to $2,-000. If he sets the limit of his saving at $10,000 he finds when he reaches it that the limit has bounded to $20,000 It is the same way with the woman who is putting up fruit. The more jars she has on her shelf, the more she wants, and she will skin, pit and put up as long as there is fruit in sight. She has more than the family will eat, but that makes no difference; she has the greed in her veins as the man has who is hoarding money.

The women's pages in the newspapers are forever describing the sort of woman a man likes best. She is always bright, pretty, has perfect teeth, a perpetual smile, small hands and feet, is never tired, never has a headache, her waist is small and her ways agreeable. Still, all of us know men who are led to the altar and bossed forever after by women who are tall and thin, or short and fat, women who are always tired, women who go to bed with headaches or some other kinds of aches, women who do Hunting of a buyer-for anything not smile unless they feel like it, and whatever-is a pretty hard task if who, if they are agreeable, are so The story is written around the char- return until September 29, Inclusive, you have to do it in person; and a careful not to show it that most of
