

GREY SKIES A FEATURE

HEAVY MIST HUNG OVER NORFOLK DURING THE DAY.

TURKEY PLAYED STAR ROLE

Family Dinners, Church Services, a Football Game, Two Theatrical Performances and a Pair of Dances Filled the Schedule in Norfolk.

Thanksgiving weather, with grey skies and a half rain according to the weather forecast, was the feature of the day in Norfolk and northern Nebraska. A mist hung over this city for a good portion of the day. Turkey dinners held the boards universally and there was little time left for other diversions. Family reunions in many instances occupied the afternoon, with reminiscence stories, and now and then a game of cards was indulged in to pass the time of day. The musical comedy, "Miss America," drew two well deserved houses at the Auditorium, matinee and evening. The highschool team won at football from the business college team, 10-0.

Drummers Were Home. Early trains into Norfolk brought from all directions knights of the grip, happy in the holiday. They spent the day at their homes or, where their homes are far away, at the hotels and made it a day of rest. The hotels and restaurants served extraordinary dinners with turkey in the leading role. Many people left the city for other points, where they spent the day and, on the other hand, many guests were in Norfolk for the annual dinner.

Farmers in the Fields. In some places farmers were busy all day long in the fields, taking advantage of the weather to push along their husking bee. It was for no lack of a thanksgiving spirit that those farmers who did work, went to the fields in the morning, but rather it was through a genuine feeling of thankfulness for another good day in which to get their corn crop cribbed. Church services, held for the purpose of thanksgiving, were well attended.

After the theatrical performance in the evening two dances proved attractive to many. The band gave a dance in Marquardt hall and another dance was given at the Pacific hotel.

Norfolk schools closed Wednesday evening for a half-week vacation, due to Thanksgiving.

Whenever an issue of The News falls to arrive on schedule time, either in this city or in another town, this paper will appreciate notification from subscribers who have not received their papers.

The Creighton school board has decided to resume work on the new $20,000 school building at that place and R. H. Reynolds of Norfolk, together with his son, Marcus, have gone to that city to engage in the mason work.

D. F. O'Brien, who has just started a store in Norfolk, comes from Anoka where he was manager of the Forbes store for four years. He has been prominent in the social and business life of that town during his residence there and his departure was regretted by the people of Anoka.

Officer Livingstone, of the Junction police force, has taken the night work up town, Mr. Potras having been relieved from duty. Mayor Friday received a letter from Chief of Police John Hay stating that he intended to return by the first of the month. The mayor expects him today or tomorrow. He has been visiting his parents.

The railroad men who have duties on trains running through the city are again beginning to complain of the way in which small boys are jumping on and off moving trains that pass by the street crossings and at the depots. They say it will be a miracle if some one of them is not killed or badly injured.

The second number of the high school lecture course, given in the Congregational church on Wednesday evening, was largely attended and every one was very much pleased with the speaker, Mr. Adrian Newsom, who presented in his gifted manner Elizabeth Stewart Phelps' book, "A Singular Life." Before he began his talk the lights in the church went out and did not come on again, as there was some trouble with that circuit, but lamps were placed in front of Mr. Newsom, so that the different expressions of his face in presenting different characters was not lost.

The railway postoffice department has just placed an additional clerk on trains No. 1 and 2, running between Norfolk and Chadron, because of the additional work caused by the new service of that train. This, it is said, will relieve the delays in getting mail delivered to towns along the route. For several days after the new train was put on there was too much work for the force of clerks and much mail matter was brought back every day, unworked the afternoon before. Several towns missed issues of The News owing to this extra work on the trains. It was not the fault of the postal clerks, but the fault of the new condition which had not yet been met by the department. Elmer Surber, with headquarters in Norfolk, has been appointed as one helper.

"Miss America," the attraction that appeared at the Auditorium yesterday with matinee and evening performances, was the kind of an entertainment that pleases a Norfolk audience. And in the evening particularly, the house was well filled with an enthusiastic lot of people who thoroughly enjoyed the play. The recommendation of William Allen White, the well known Kansas writer, undoubtedly had much to do with attracting a crowd. The music of the piece was catchy, the choruses were good, the company is nicely balanced and the acting on the whole was above the average. Many of the selections were heartily encored and cheerfully responded to by the performers, who realized that their efforts to please were meeting with appreciation. Miss America is one of the few really meritorious attractions that has appeared at the Auditorium this season.

MAJOR PENROSE UNDER FIRE.

Army Officer Known in Norfolk Called on for Explanation.

Major Penrose, formerly at Fort Niobrara, and known in Norfolk, who was in command of the battalion of colored troops at Brownsville, is now under fire from the white house. He is alleged to have said, when the troops were mustered out, "There goes the last of the best drilled, best behaved battalion in the United States army." The department has demanded an explanation. If he admits saying it, it is said he will probably be courtmartialled for criticizing a superior officer.

Gilchrist Stewart, colored, there to investigate facts, asked him if that statement was for publication and he said, according to Stewart, "it certainly is."

General Nettleton, formerly assistant secretary of the treasury, has just investigated the case at Brownsville and makes this report:

The well attested evidence is that the colored troops were treated here with the same consideration that colored soldiers of like bearing are treated in most garrison towns of the northern states. That on the other hand the street conduct of some of them was often aggressively and causelessly insolent toward white men and women, and that there was no provocation for the murderous raid by the soldiers, unless it can be called a provocation that the drinkers among them were provided with separate bars in certain saloons and on two occasions individual insolence was resented by individual citizens, but one of whom happened to have been a republican federal official. There was no "riot" and no street "rows," as many newspapers persist in calling the occurrence. It was simply a most cowardly conspiracy to terrify, wound and kill unoffending men, women and children at the hour of midnight, when defense was impossible and was not even attempted. Evidently not an opposing shot was fired.
