

BANK ACCOUNT OF SCHOOL

NORFOLK'S SCHOOL TAX WILL BE LESS FROM NOW ON.

EVEN WITH NEW BOND ISSUE

After July Norfolk Will, Even With New Bond Issue of $24,000, Have $1,000 Less Burden Than Now—City Needs School—May Not Use All.

[From Wednesday's Daily.]

Voters of the Norfolk school district who will be called to pass on the proposed $24,000 bond issue at the April election are naturally and rightly interested in knowing the financial condition of the school district. Members of the board of education are also anxious that the financial condition of the district should be placed before the voters to show that the district stands well in money matters at this time. Acting under instructions from the secretary of the school board the county treasurer will call in $25,000 of the outstanding school bonds during the next few months. This will leave the bonded debt of the school district at $11,000.

Exact Standing Today.

The exact standing of the district's finances are set out in the following statement received yesterday from County Treasurer Christopher Schavland at Madison:

"In reply to yours of the 22nd instance, shall say that the $25,000 bond issue is dated August 1, 1889, and matures August 1, 1909 and may be paid after fifteen years from date of issue at the option of the officers of the school district.

"The $11,000 issue is dated May 1, 1898, and matures May 1, 1918. There is no option noted on my bond register.

"The bond sinking fund, including interest fund, now amounts to $25,234 and with real estate taxes soon to come in will be amply sufficient to take up the $25,000 issue at the next interest payment in July, possibly before. The sinking fund now on hand has been provided for that issue only, and is therefore applicable in its entirety. It has been made up in the short time of about seven or eight years. Arrangements will be made to take up the $25,000 on or before July 1, 1907."

Less Taxes From Now On.

Provided the new bond issue of $24,000 passes, before it will have been carried into effect the old bond issue of $25,000 will have been entirely wiped out of the records. The bonded indebtedness under the new issue will be at least $1,000 less than at present. The period of indebtedness will of course be extended over a longer period.

While in the end the taxpayers have to pay for every cent put into school building members of the board show that the taxpayers of Norfolk will not be called on to meet an increase in the tax rate for school purposes. The $25,000 retiring bonds carry six per cent interest while the new issue calls for five per cent bonds. Under the law ten years may elapse before the board will have to levy taxes to provide for a sinking fund against the proposed bond issue. In the meanwhile the $11,000 issue can be cared for. Where the district will lose will not be in an increase of taxes but through the fact that had the fire not occurred the sinking fund levy would have been practically wiped out of existence in a few years.

City Must Have School.

Norfolk must have a new high school building and she must have money to build it. If the $24,000 bond issue carries, added to the $15,000 insurance, it will place $39,000 at the disposal of the board for the rebuilding of the high school. Added to this is the salvage represented in the old building.

May Not Use All.

Members of the board declare that their aim will be to serve the interests of the district as economically as possible in securing a suitable high school building for the district and that if the cost of their building can be brought below the above amount the amount of bonds will fall that much below the $24,000 limit fixed in the board's request to the voters of the school district.

ENGAGED TO THREE AT ONCE.

Did Bessie Newton of Ponca Pay Penalty With Life for Flirting.

Ponca, Neb., March 27.—Did Bessie Newton pay with her life the penalty of flirting? It has been brought out at the trial that she was engaged to two men at the same time, the wedding days being set but one day apart, and it will be proved that she was also engaged to a third man, Bert Chase, within the last year. So deep was the love of Frank Brink that his mind became affected by the suspense in which he was held and in his demented condition he tried to kill himself and circumstantial evidence tends to show that he killed the girl. He will be taken to the Norfolk insane hospital.

Baking Economy.

By the use of perfect baking powder the housewife can derive as much economy as from any other article used in baking and cooking. In selecting a baking powder, therefore, care should be exercised to purchase one that retains its original strength and always remains the same, thus making the food sweet and wholesome and producing sufficient leavening gas to make the baking light.

Very little of this leavening gas is produced by the cheap baking powders, making it necessary to use double the quantity ordinarily required to secure good results.

You cannot experiment every time you make a cake or biscuits, or test the strength of your baking powder to find out how much of it you should use; yet with most baking powders you should do this, for they are put together so carelessly they are never uniform, the quality and strength varying with each can purchased.

Calumet baking powder is made of chemically pure ingredients of tested strength. Experienced chemists put it up. The proportions of the different materials remain always the same. Sealed in air-tight cans Calumet baking powder does not alter in strength and is not affected by atmospheric changes.

In using Calumet you are bound to have uniform bread, cake or biscuits, as Calumet does not contain any cheap, useless or adulterating ingredients so commonly used to increase the weight. Further, it produces pure, wholesome food and is a baking powder of rare merit; therefore, it is recommended by leading physicians and chemists. It complies with all pure food laws, both state and national. The goods are moderate in price, and any lady purchasing Calumet from her grocer, if not satisfied with it can return it and have her money refunded.

John J. Frey is Bound Over to District Court at Pierce in Sum of $1,000—it is Said He Will Sue Father-in-Law for Alienating Wife's Love.

Pierce, Neb., March 27.—Special to The News: The culmination of a miniature elopement was reached yesterday in the county court of this county when John J. Frey was bound over to the district court in the sum of $1,000 bonds on the charge of perjury. From the evidence adduced on the preliminary hearing it seems that for a year previously John J. Frey, a young man nineteen years of age and a son of a well-to-do farmer living west of Hadar in this county, was keeping company with a Miss Clara Cottrell whose parents are also in very good circumstances. An old justice of the peace statute book of the vintage of 1873 or thereabouts fell into the hands of the young couple and believing in every one being his own lawyer the loving pair decided that parental objections could not be successfully interposed under Nebraska laws if the miss was over the age of sixteen. Consequently on January 28, 1907, John J. Frey appeared in person before County Judge Kelley and made affidavit that he was over the age of twenty-one years and that his fiancée was over the age of eighteen years and thereupon procured a marriage license and on the same day was married to his sixteen-year-old sweetheart. Trouble between the families of the contracting parties was quickly brewing and a number of civil suits have already been commenced. Sympathy is about equally divided between the warring factions and the September term of court will be impatiently waited for by both the litigants as well as the lawyers who will probably have farms to rent when the storm has passed over.

And to cap the climax of the whole affair, it is said that Frey intends, after he is through with this scrape, to sue the girl's father for alienating his wife's affections.

District court adjourned after two days of jury work in which jury trials only included petty amounts. Mrs. Reida Clow of Plainview, being the only criminal case, was cleared of the charge of administering a drug to one Mattie Rall with intent to procure an abortion. Mattie Rall having been the complainant was touched with a sympathetic stroke and refused to substantiate her charge previously made and the defendant was acquitted by the jury.

WELL, THE GOLD WAVE CAME

IT IS NO TIME TO LAUGH AT THE WEATHER MAN.

FALL OF FIFTY-FIVE DEGREES

From Eighty-one in the Shade, Mercury Dropped Suddenly to Twenty-six—Snow Did Not Reach Norfolk But Came at Valentine, Neb.

[From Wednesday's Daily.]

No, the weather man is not to be scoffed at. His forecasted cold wave came at last and overcoats are not uncomfortable in place of negligees. From eighty-one in the shade Tuesday afternoon the mercury suddenly took a tumble of fifty-five degrees in Norfolk, stopping at twenty-six above zero early Wednesday morning.

And the Snow, Too.

"But where is the snow," asked the casual observer, thinking to put the weather man in a hole. The snow came alright, alright but not in Norfolk. At Valentine, Neb., a couple hundred miles west of Norfolk, several inches of snow fell. Norfolk chanced to be just east of the snow line. But the weather man, after all, was not so badly off.

The Reason For Delayed Cold Wave.

A reason for the delayed cold wave, which was forecasted Monday, lay in the fact that there was a low pressure over Norfolk and one in Oregon, with a high pressure area, bringing cold weather, between. It had been expected that this low pressure would bring rain or snow and that the high pressure got caught between the two low pressures, and was put off in another direction, being sent down toward Denver. Later, when the low pressure got out of the way here, the cold wave came as predicted.

Weather men say that such another warm spell as this section had for a week, will not be seen again for four weeks, and rather cooler weather will be the rule.

Fair weather is forecasted for tomorrow.

Rosa Hudspeth Moves.

WELL KNOWN WOMAN EDITOR GOES TO ATKINSON.

IT WILL BE ATKINSON LEDGER

From Stuart, Where She Conducted Famous Campaign Against Bachelors, Miss Hudspeth Carries Her Pen to Move on Atkinson.

Atkinson, Neb., March 27.—Special to The News: Miss Rosa Hudspeth, recently of Stuart, editor of the Stuart Ledger, has removed to Atkinson and will henceforth make her home here. The edition will be published the last of the week. As yet the new machinery ordered is not in place. It will be known as the Atkinson Ledger.

Miss Hudspeth recently attracted attention at the state editorial meeting in a paper telling of her troubles with tramp printers and wives of politicians whom she praised.

Among the unique phrases which appeared in the Stuart Ledger a year ago, when the editor was fighting bachelors, was this: "A man's social standing depends upon which side of the bar his stomach faces."

Findings Jail Inconvenient.

Fairfax Editor Writes Unique Letter From County Jail.

Gregory County Jail—Very Poorly Ventilated; Completely Inadequate in Every Way—Dirty and Inconvenient—Fairfax, S. D., March 27, 1907.—Dear Friend: As you will see by the heading of this letter, I am an inmate of the building—not much bigger than an ordinary coal shed—which this county dignifies by the name of county jail. Now just a little explanation: You who have been reading my paper, will remember that last fall I made a campaign for better men to fill county offices. In a great measure I was successful and take pride in the fact that I assisted in electing men whom I believe are men of integrity. One of the men whom I helped to defeat, was Fred Hutton, republican candidate for sheriff. You all know the charges I made, so there is no use of rehearsing them here. Suffice it to say, that Mr. Hutton felt himself very much aggrieved and thinking to make campaign ammunition out of the affair, he started a criminal libel suit against me and secured an injunction from the circuit court, ordering and restraining me from making any "false or malicious" statements about this would-be sheriff. You will also remember that my paper kept on in its independent campaign for right men and right measures.

Mr. Doherty, republican candidate for state's attorney, also started a criminal libel suit against me.

These men both hired the same attorney, one W. J. Hooper of Bonesteel. Hooper served a summons upon me, which demanded that I make and serve an answer on him at his office in Bonesteel, within thirty days from service on me.

This I attempted in good faith to do. The answers in both cases were executed properly and in plenty of time, and then, through the carelessness and neglect of the attorney who had my side of these cases in his care, the thirty days time was allowed to go by without my answers having been legally served. At least that is the ruling of Judge Smith of this circuit. I contend differently, however, and am fighting the case.

Be that as it may, default judgments were granted against me by the court in both cases. Hutton immediately placed his judgment on file, took an execution and it was returned by the sheriff, wholly unsatisfied. Thereupon Judge Smith issued an order committing me to prison, and that's where I am at the present time, and will be, probably, until my attorneys get the supreme court to work on my case, which I hope will be soon.

I am today a man who is locked in prison, without being given a chance to submit my proofs, for on my motion to reopen the case, Judge Smith turned me down. The matter will be straightened out, however, but in the meantime I am in jail, unable to make any money out of my business, which is in the hands of a young man not at all acquainted with the office or business.

Then, too, the work I did last fall was for the benefit of the residents and taxpayers of Gregory county. They showed that they believed it then by giving nice majorities to the opponents of Hutton and Doherty. I spent over $300 in that campaign in just getting information and assuring myself of the truth of my accusations, before I ever made a statement.

Now I ask that the people for whose benefit I spent my money, labor and am now giving up even my liberty who wagain that they appreciate my efforts in their behalf.

They showed that they believed it then by giving nice majorities to the opponents of Hutton and Doherty. I spent over $300 in that campaign in just getting information and assuring myself of the truth of my accusations, before I ever made a statement.

Now I ask that the people for whose benefit I spent my money, labor and am now giving up even my liberty who wagain that they appreciate my efforts in their behalf.

I do not ask, nor do I want charity. I have always, to the best of my ability, given value received for what I got, and I will continue to do so, but at this time I do ask that the people who owe me help me out. My family must have necessities and it costs me money to fight my way clear from my political enemies.

In the name of right and justice I ask that you send me whichever of the YOUTHFUL GROOM AT PIERCE IS HELD FOR PERJURY.

SWORE THEY WERE OLD ENOUGH

John J. Frey is Bound Over to District Court at Pierce in Sum of $1,000—it is Said He Will Sue Father-in-Law for Alienating Wife's Love.

Pierce, Neb., March 27.—Special to The News: The culmination of a miniature elopement was reached yesterday in the county court of this county when John J. Frey was bound over to the district court in the sum of $1,000 bonds on the charge of perjury. From the evidence adduced on the preliminary hearing it seems that for a year previously John J. Frey, a young man nineteen years of age and a son of a well-to-do farmer living west of Hadar in this county, was keeping company with a Miss Clara Cottrell whose parents are also in very good circumstances. An old justice of the peace statute book of the vintage of 1873 or thereabouts fell into the hands of the young couple and believing in every one being his own lawyer the loving pair decided that parental objections could not be successfully interposed under Nebraska laws if the miss was over the age of sixteen. Consequently on January 28, 1907, John J. Frey appeared in person before County Judge Kelley and made affidavit that he was over the age of twenty-one years and that his fiancée was over the age of eighteen years and thereupon procured a marriage license and on the same day was married to his sixteen-year-old sweetheart. Trouble between the families of the contracting parties was quickly brewing and a number of civil suits have already been commenced. Sympathy is about equally divided between the warring factions and the September term of court will be impatiently waited for by both the litigants as well as the lawyers who will probably have farms to rent when the storm has passed over.

And to cap the climax of the whole affair, it is said that Frey intends, after he is through with this scrape, to sue the girl's father for alienating his wife's affections.

District court adjourned after two days of jury work in which jury trials only included petty amounts. Mrs. Reida Clow of Plainview, being the only criminal case, was cleared of the charge of administering a drug to one Mattie Rall with intent to procure an abortion. Mattie Rall having been the complainant was touched with a sympathetic stroke and refused to substantiate her charge previously made and the defendant was acquitted by the jury.
