WILL BRAASCH SUCCEUMBS

LAST SURVIVING SON OF NORFOLK PIONEER.

DEATH WAS JUST BEFORE NOON

Norfolk Man Who Went to Hot Springs, Ark., in Good Health for a Pleasure Trip, Taken Suddenly Ill, Passes Away in Few Hours.

William R. Braasch of Norfolk, the last remaining member of the family of C. W. Braasch of this city, succumbed at 10:10 o'clock Saturday forenoon in Hot Springs, Arkansas, to which point he had gone but a few days ago for a pleasure trip. When he left here, accompanied by Mrs. Braasch, he was in the best of health. The father in Norfolk, grief-stricken over the sudden loss of his last remaining boy, has not yet learned of the cause of the death, none of the telegrams that brought the sad story to this city having contained any hint as to the nature of illness.

Taken Ill Only Friday.

First news of the illness which proved fatal was received Friday morning in a message that came to the father here. The dispatch merely stated that Will Braasch was seriously ill. A few hours afterward another message came, bringing the discouraging news that he was no better. A telegram received early Saturday morning stating that the patient was then dying and might have passed away before the wires could convey even this brief word, caused the worst to be feared and those fears were realized when a bulletin arrived at noon to tell the parent here that his son had succumbed at 10:10 o'clock.

Start Home With Remains.

The last telegram announced that the remains would be brought to Norfolk immediately, leaving Hot Springs at 7:05 o'clock Saturday evening. It is not known when Mrs. Braasch will reach Norfolk with the remains of her husband, so that it is impossible as yet to make funeral arrangements, but the funeral services will be conducted by Rev. J. C. S. Wells and will be held from the home of the bereaved father. It is thought probable that the services may be either Monday afternoon or Tuesday afternoon. When it was realized that death would likely come, H. C. Matraun started to Hot Springs but was intercepted by news that the end had come.

Another Chapter of Sorrow.

The sudden death of his last surviving son adds another chapter to a long story of sorrow for the father, C. W. Braasch, a Norfolk pioneer.

A few years ago the Braasch home was one of the happiest in the city. Besides the father and mother there were three splendid young men and a charming daughter in the household. They were universally esteemed by the community. The three sons had grown to manhood in the city and they had become business men of unusual ability. The first to be taken from the home was Ed Braasch, a banker who had gone to Tilden to engage in business. Not many months had elapsed after this before the good wife became ill with an attack of gallstones and succumbed in an operation. But a few short days had passed before the only daughter, Miss Gertrude Braasch, broken hearted at her mother's demise, followed into the world beyond. Of the two sons then surviving, Ralph Braasch was the only one in Norfolk. Will was in St. Paul, Minn. Long a sufferer from an illness which he was unable to combat, Ralph Braasch survived his mother and sister but a comparatively short time and last August he, too, passed away.

His ending left just one more member of the family of C. W. Braasch. This was Will Braasch, then in St. Paul, but who came to Norfolk at once with his wife to bring what of comfort he could into the grief-filled home. That was seven months ago. And today the remains of this son are being brought home for burial from the southland, where he went just a little while ago for a rest and pleasure trip. The father to whom this new gloom has been brought had planned to leave upon the return of his son, and take a trip for his own rest. He has no intimation as to the nature of the illness which has taken from him this, his last and eldest son who seemed to be in perfect health when he went away.

Was Born Near Norfolk.

William R. Braasch was born near Norfolk, on a farm, thirty-five years ago next July. As a young man he was clerk and assistant cashier in the Citizens National bank of this city for twelve years. In 1900 he left Norfolk for South Omaha, where he had secured a position in the office of Swift & Co., packers, and later he moved to St. Paul, where he was engaged in the same line of work until last August. For seven months he has been engaged with his father here in the coal business. He was married five years ago, his bride being from Dunlap, Iowa.

Deaths at Neligh.

Neligh, Neb., March 25.—Special to The News: Two deaths in highly respected families of this city occurred during the early hours of Sunday morning. McPherson, who has been seriously ill with a complication of diseases, but died of hemorrhage of the lungs. ## WORK ON NIOBRARA CUT.

Car Went Off Track There Monday. Steam Shovel is on Job.

Niobrara, Neb., March 26.—Special to The News: The work train and steam shovel on the Northwestern began operations Monday morning in the chalk-rock cut one mile west of town. This cut is about three miles in length and necessitates day and night watchmen, who make the rounds before every train. Each spring it gives trouble by crumbling, sometimes great rock slides covering the track and requiring extra gangs to open the way. For the past three seasons the steam shovel has been put to work here and made considerable improvement, but slow orders are given to all trainmen at this point.

A small wreck occurred at the cut on the westbound freight yesterday afternoon, one car jumping the track and going for considerable distance before discovery. Passengers and trainmen got to work and placed the car on the track after about two hours delay.
