DEMOCRATS TAKE IT ALL

C. B. DURLAND IS ELECTED MAYOR OF NORFOLK.

PAT DOLAN PULLS THROUGH

Dolan and Eiseley and Garvin Were the Only Salvage That the Republicans Were Able to Retain—Some Very Large Sized Majorities.

(From Wednesday's Daily.) Mayor—C. B. Durland, democrat. City Clerk—Julius Huff, democrat. City Treasurer—Julius Haase, democrat.

Police Judge—C. F. Eiseley, republican. City Engineer—H. Salmen, democrat.

Councilmen—S. W. Garvin, republican, First ward; E. B. Kauffman, democrat, Second ward; Julius Degner, democrat, Third ward; Pat Dolan, republican, Fourth ward.

Members Board of Education—Albert Degner, S. G. Dean and Tom Shively, democrats.

Tuesday's city election in Norfolk brought a democratic "landslide" that carried practically the entire democratic ticket to victory with a range of majorities that startled even the democratic leaders. Of the republican ticket C. F. Eiseley for police judge and S. W. Garvin for first ward councilman were alone elected. The $24,000 school bond issue carried the day by a vote of 575 to 145.

The election was marked by an unusual amount of independent voting. Most of it was done by the republican voters, the straight ballots indicating that the democrats as a whole did not jump far from their party lines. The range of majorities was greater than is customary in Norfolk elections.

The spirit of hope which had sprung up in the hearts of many republicans as election day drew to a close, was crushed by the first load of democratic ballots taken from the ballot boxes. Before the canvass of the votes prominent democrats conceded that the result might be close. As the monotonous counting of the white ballots progressed it became apparent that while the energetic campaign carried on by the republicans had won some democratic votes, large sections of the republican ticket had been deserted by republican voters.

Unofficial figures place Mr. Durland's majority at 187. The mayor-elect took no part in the campaign, but save for City Treasurer Haase he polled the largest vote of any man on the ticket.

Among the republican candidates losing by narrow margins and whose defeat may be attributed wholly to the democratic tendency of the voting were Chris Anderson, candidate for city clerk, and M. C. Hazen and C. P. Parish, nominees for the school board. Anderson lost by 47 votes, Hazen by 49 and Parish by 44. Tom Shively was elected over Parish by the vote of the Fourth ward, where Shively was looked on as the local candidate.

Judge Eiseley, the only successful republican candidate on the general city ticket, was elected by only 14 votes despite the fact that his opponent, Police Judge Westervelt, had publicly declined to be a candidate. The democratic label was nearly enough to send the office seeking the man.

In the election of councilmen the movement was not wholly democratic. In the Fourth ward it is said that Dolan's vote was not counted but merely "estimated." In the first ward Garvin worked up a private landslide of his own, securing an unusual majority in the fact of democratic victory.

As predicted in The News the $24,000 school bond issue encountered no serious opposition. The vote on the bond issue was nearly the same in all the wards, the total majority in approval standing at 430 votes.

The total vote cast on the head of the ticket Tuesday was 757 votes—not an unusually large vote in view of the favorable weather conditions. Few women took advantage of the opportunity to participate in the school election.

Tuesday vote in detail according to unofficial returns is:

Table with 5 columns: Candidate, First Ward, Second Ward, Third Ward, Fourth Ward, Total. Includes Durland, Sturgeon, Huff, Parish, Anderson, Haase, Klesau, Westervelt, Eiseley, Salmen, Bowden, Garvin, Kauffman, Degner, Lough, and Degner.

Dolan, r. 98 For school board, long term— Degner, d. 121 115 111 78 425 Deuff, d. 97 99 95 73 364 Hazen, r. 103 84 86 42 315 Taylor, r. 82 63 63 36 244 Degner's majority, 110; Dean's majority, 49.

For school board, two year term— Shively, d. 89 90 80 87 346 Parish, r. 107 78 88 29 302 Shively's majority, 44.

School bond issue— For 155 150 149 120 575 Against 48 42 33 22 145 Majority for bonds, 430.

Mrs. Charles Dales Dead. Tilden, Neb., April 3.—Special to The News: Mrs. Charles Dales died yesterday at the home of her son. The deceased was the widow of one of the earliest settlers of Madison county, having lived here since 1870.

WILL GO AFTER GOOD ROADS

COMMERCIAL CLUB DETERMINES ON IMPROVEMENTS.

MAY USE GRAVEL NEAR TOWN

An Active Campaign Toward Permanent Roads Southeast and Northeast of the City Will be Attempted—Road Districts to be Asked for Help.

Recognizing that good roads are an important factor in bringing retail trade to a town the directors of the Commercial club have voted to work for the immediate improvement of some of the poorer country roads leading into Norfolk. The roads which the directors have in mind as demanding immediate attention are the first half mile of road east of the Norfolk avenue bridge over the Northfork and the piece of road north of the bridge which crosses the Northfork above the dam and between the M. & O. track and the bridge.

At the morning meeting of the board a resolution was adopted that every possible effort of the Commercial club should be made to have these strips of country road improved. These roads were characterized as the poorest about the city and as offering an obstacle to Norfolk's retail trade from the north and east. If the plans of the Commercial club succeed a liberal supply of gravel will be used in good road making on these roads.

As the roads are outside of the city limits the directors hope to interest the road districts in the improvements. If additional financial help is needed the club may find some way of rendering assistance.

No other action of public moment was taken at the Tuesday meeting.

FINISH UP TRAINING.

New York Nationals Will Break Camp This Week.

Atlanta, Ga., April 3.—Today marks the beginning of the last week of training work for the highlanders, and it does not look auspicious. For the first time since the team reached Atlanta, bad weather set in, beginning Easter morning, and there was a continuous rain all day. The Cleveland club is here to play an exhibition game with Atlanta tomorrow, but from present outlook they will be unable to do so.

The New York players are in fairly good condition with the exception of Elberfeld. His back is still sore to admit of his playing, and he will not go on the diamond again in all likelihood until the season opens in Washington on April 11. Elberfeld's wife is also ill, and in answer to a telegram he left for home yesterday afternoon.

ARREST FOSTER FARMER

IRVING BEATTY CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTED RAPE.

HE WAS A SCHOOL DIRECTOR

It is Alleged That Beatty, Who is Well Known and a Man of Considerable Means, Took Improper Liberties With Miss Eva Jones.

Pierce, Neb., April 3.—Special to The News: Irving Beatty, a well known farmer living near Foster, and a well-to-do man of family, was arrested today charged with attempt to commit rape. Miss Eva Jones of Plainville is the alleged victim of the attempt. Beatty is a school director and Miss Jones was elected teacher in his district. The offense is alleged to have been committed last fall. Beatty is thirty years old and Miss Jones about nineteen. It is charged in the complaint that Beatty drove Miss Jones to Pierce to secure a teacher's certificate and that enroute home, in the carriage, he took liberties with the young woman which led to the arrest today.

Brink Not Yet Here.

Up to Tuesday noon Frank Brink, the young man recently tried in Ponca on the charge of murdering his sweetheart and finally ordered to the state hospital by the insanity board at Ponca, had not reached Norfolk. Brink is to be brought to the Norfolk hospital this week and had been expected Monday evening or Tuesday morning. Dr. Young, superintendent of the insane hospital, has received no additional word from Ponca and thinks that Brink will be brought to Norfolk this evening or tomorrow forenoon.

REGARDING HIGH SCHOOL

OMAHA ARCHITECT ANSWERS QUESTIONS OF BOARD.

HE ADVISES A NEW BUILDING

Says That if Norfolk Wants to Reconstruct Old School for Grammar Building, Later to Erect High School, Present Foundation Would Do.

(From Wednesday's Daily.) The following letter, received by the board of education last week, and touching upon the matter of school buildings, is today made public by the board of education:

Omaha, Neb., March 25, 1907.—Mr. H. J. Cole, President Board of Education, Norfolk, Neb.—Dear Sir: Referring to the visit of my Mr. Salisbury to your town on Saturday in regard to your proposed new high school building, will say:

Below find estimates you asked for: Cost of reconstructing from present foundation up, including heating, plumbing, electric wiring and blackboards, $32,200.00.

Cost of reconstructing building from second story up, $20,130.00. Salvage from the foundation, $2,500. Salvage from second story, $1,125.00. Total foundation and brick work entire, $3,290.00.

Cost of building the Blair school at this time, including heating, plumbing, electric wiring and blackboards, $38,000.00.

Looking at the proposition from a broader standpoint the question is, will a building reconstructed either from the second story, the first story or the foundation be a good building when finished?

Mr. Salisbury showed me a sketch of your building and I have a good idea of it.

I want to say emphatically that on your present foundation you can not construct a modern school house, for the reason that—

First—New foundations and new flues, two for each room about 2 feet by 3 feet each, would have to be built for heating and ventilation.

These flues by reason of the plan of your building could not be located so as to do the best work.

Second—The left hand wall of each school room would have to have about 110 square feet of glass. If that many windows are inserted in the wall it would effect the foundations and the corners would probably go down.

Third—Wardrobes should be along the exterior wall and should have exterior windows and this would be impossible in your present plans.

There should be one wardrobe immediately adjoining each room.

Fourth—Your rooms are all a bad size.

Fifth—The blackboards space in your school rooms would be bad. A modern school house should have the front wall reserved for blackboards exclusively without any flues, closets or interference because that is the only blackboard the children can see.

Sixth—A modern heating and ventilating apparatus requires great depth of boiler room because most of the heating coils are in the basement. None of your rooms would be deep enough for a boiler room.

Seventh—A modern high school building should be divided in two as to the sex.

The girls should have one stairway exclusively leading to the toilet rooms in basement and to their play ground and the boys should have one stairway exclusively. From these stairways both the building and the play ground should be reached with ease.

Eighth—You have not a chimney large enough.

Ninth—Outside basement openings would have to be broken for the heating and ventilating apparatus.

Tenth—The heating and ventilating apparatus would be awkward propositions as your building is planned.

These of course are trifling matters and they and others constitute the details of a modern school house.

It would be money illy spent to attempt to use any part of the present building even if you could save one-half the cost of a new building.

There would be no credit in it for any one and in a few years your board would be heartily condemned for the action.

If you could, however, reconstruct the present building for a grammar school with a view of building a high school in the future say in five or ten years, that would be another proposition. You might then cheaply reconstruct this building and call it a poor building, putting in such heat and ventilation as is possible and give it as near the required regulation of light as is possible, have the wardrobes the best you can and get along.

But you make a great mistake if you will attempt to make out of the present ruin a high school building which is worthy of your town.

Towns like Blair, Fairbury, Hastings and other towns have set a high level for school houses.

Nebraska City is voting bonds for a building to cost about $65,000.00 and I don't believe your town wants to take a backward step.

If you build you should build an assembly room for about twenty-five or thirty more seats than you have pupils.

The Blair might not be large enough for you.

You can find a full description of the Blair building in Fowler's yearly report when he was superintendent of schools of Nebraska.

Yours truly, John Latenser, Architect.

HE DROWNED BY ACCIDENT

FUNERAL OF CLARENCE ROTH HELD AT CLEARWATER.

NO CORONER'S INQUEST HELD

Dr. Conwell of Neligh Decides Drowning Was Purely Accidental—Lad Said to Have Gone Into Water Himself—Lip Bruised in Fight.

Clearwater, Neb., April 3.—Special to The News: The funeral of little Clarence Roth, who was drowned in a bayou near here Monday evening, was held here this morning at 11 o'clock.

Ran Into Water. Sentiment in Clearwater today seems to be that the lad drowned accidentally and that his three companions, who were reticent about speaking afterward, were too frightened at what had happened to come to town and give an alarm. It is said that the Roth boy had been fighting with the three others and that in the mix-up his lip was bruised. Indications are that he thought his brother was coming after him and that, frightened and eager to escape, he ran into the water, fell down and drowned in a shallow spot.

Dr. Conwell of Neligh, county coroner, was here last night to investigate the affair but left town.

No Inquest Held. Neligh, Neb., April 3.—Special to The News: Dr. Conwell, coroner, returned last night from Clearwater where he went to investigate the drowning of Clarence Roth. He held no inquest, having decided that the drowning was purely accidental.

Boy Walked Into Water. Dr. Conwell says that the Roth boy, as is apparent from shoe tracks, walked into the water of his own accord.

The lad was not swimming but had all of his clothing on when found.

Dr. Conwell says that there is a great deal of talk but he believes the affair was purely an accident.

Even if you are only "thinking" of moving, begin to watch the want ads.
