

BUSINESS COLLEGE WINS

NELIGH BALL TEAM GOES DOWN TO ANOTHER DEFEAT.

THE SCORE WAS EIGHT TO FOUR

Two-Base Hits Were Frequent Features of the Play and the Contest Was a Snappy One Throughout. Gate Receipts Were Ample.

The Norfolk Business college nine rounded out another victory in their baseball season yesterday afternoon, winning from Neligh in a snappy game of ball at the Norfolk driving park diamond. The college boys brought in eight scores during the nine innings, the visitors half as many. Errors were less than in previous contests of the season.

Alstott of Neligh walked six men, hit one and struck out eight of his college opponents. Haak, the business college ball twirler, let two Neligh men walk to first base and struck out six. Landers pounded out a three bagger for Norfolk, while the locals were credited with three two-base hits squarely earned. Neligh was credited with one two-base hit so earned. Hoffman throwing to Johnson brought a double play into action. The gate receipts more than covered expenses.

The line-up:

Drebert-Stark.

Pierce, Neb., May 16.—Special to The News: One of the most fashionable weddings that has taken place in Pierce was solemnized here at the home of William Stark at 7:30 p. m. when Frank Drebert was united in the holy bonds of matrimony with Miss Josie Stark. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Chas. H. Dains of the Congregational church of Pierce. She is a most estimable person and all wish her and her's unbounded joy through life's voyage. The groom is a nephew of H. A. Drebert of Norfolk and has planned a two weeks' wedding trip for himself and wife which will include sight seeing in a few large cities. The bridal gown was a rich creation of cream silk crepe de chene.

REFUNDS HIS SALARY.

Nebraska Episcopal Bishop Returns $4,800 to Church.

Omaha, Neb., May 21.—After drawing from the Episcopal diocese a salary of $600 dollars a year for nearly eight years Rt. Rev. Dr. George Worthington, bishop of Nebraska, just appointed to the bishopric of the American churches of Europe, has announced that he will return to the church the money thus paid him, amounting in all to about $4,800.

The announcement came as a surprise to the members of the diocese when it was read to the annual coun-cell which is being held at Trinity cathedral.

Eight years ago Bishop Worthington asked that there be appointed a coadjutor bishop of the Nebraska diocese, to have direct charge of the affairs of the church, because of his failing health. Rev. A. L. Williams was elected to the place and has been the active head of the church in Nebraska since that time.

Bishop Worthington reserved $600 a year from the salary paid the bishop, and that amount has been paid to him since that time, although he has lived in New York and has in no manner identified himself with the affairs of the diocese except as ex-officio bishop. He has drawn a salary of $600 a year, however, and this has brought a storm of protest from many prominent clergymen not only in Nebraska, but throughout the country. This opposition has been led by Rev. T. J. Mackay, rector of All Saints' church, of Omaha, who has caused the publication of considerable criticism in the Episcopal Journal and other periodicals. Dr. Mackay insisted that if he was unable to perform the duties of bishop he should relinquish the title and resign his position as head of an Episcopal diocese. The matter has been brought to the attention of the general council of the church, and in some quarters it was stated that body would take action.

Bishop Worthington has given as little attention to the criticism of his action as possible and has declined to dignify the charges made against him until recently. He made the statement some time ago that the Nebraska attitude would not permit him to reside in this state, but that he had been elected bishop for life and was bound under the canons of the church to accept and fulfill the mission. Not being able to actively perform the work, he believed it to be properly within his province to request the appointment of a coadjutor to assume these duties.

Rev. Dr. Williams, who now practically becomes bishop of the diocese, explains that Bishop Worthington has never had any intention of retaining the money paid him as salary. He declared tonight that Bishop Worthington had made a reservation of $600 a year from the salary paid the coadjutor in accordance with the canons of the church, which, Dr. Williams says, he was fully empowered to do. This custom is recognized as perfectly proper by the canons of the church, he says, and Bishop Worthington simply carried out a precedent set long ago.

The letter from Bishop Worthington was addressed to the secretary of the diocese, Dr. W. H. Moor, and created a sensation when it was read at the conference. Bishop Williams did not know such a communication had been received, although he has understood it was the intention of the bishop to return the money to the diocese.

"It was a handsome thing for Bishop Worthington to do on the eve of his appointment to the European mission," said the coadjutor bishop. "I have known all along that it was his intention, but had not anticipated he would do so at this time. The money will be turned into the diocesan fund."

NORFOLK PEOPLE IN SHOW

MRS. DAYE AND DAUGHTER PHYLIS ON STAGE.

SOON TO BE SEEN IN NORFOLK

Former Norfolk Music Teacher and Daughter, Who Was Clever Song and Dance Artist Here, Appear in "The Wizard of Wall Street."

Olive Oretta Daye and her daughter, Phyllis Daye, formerly of Norfolk and well remembered in this city, will be seen in "The Wizard of Wall Street," a musical comedy that comes to the Auditorium on the night of May 30.

Olive Oretta Daye was known in Norfolk several years ago as Mrs. Ralph Henry Daye. Mr. Daye was a commercial traveler out of Norfolk and the family lived at the Pacific hotel. At one time Mrs. Daye superintended a home talent play that was given in a tent on the lawn of the McClary home on Norfolk avenue. Mrs. Daye also taught music.

Little Phyllis Daye is remembered by scores of Norfolk children as well as by grown people, because of her clever singing and dancing specialties while in this city.

Concerning Mrs. Daye and her daughter, both of whose photographs are reproduced on posters issued by the company, the "Wizard of Wall Street" literature says: "Specially engaged from the famous Spooner Dramatic company, Phyllis Daye and Olive Oretta Daye, which adds to our cyclone of singing and dancing." Phyllis is booked for "Buster Brown and Mary Jane," a quick change act; for Chinese song and dance and for buck and wing dancing.

This is the company in which two members were recently married at Albion. It had been planned that the marriage ceremony should take place on the stage during the opera but the bride got stage fright and the ceremony was performed in the office of the county judge.

Popular prices will prevail for this attraction, which is said to be clever and funny. Seats will not go on sale until the day before the show.

DEPOT TO COST $25,000

ACCORDING TO GENERAL MANAGER WALTERS.

TO FINISH IT BEFORE WINTER

Speaking of the New Independent Uptown Station to be Built by His Road, General Manager Says It Will be a Handsome Structure.

The Northwestern will expend about $25,000 in building their uptown independent station in Norfolk according to General Manager Walters, stopping in Norfolk for the noon hour. It will, he says, be a larger and better station than the Northwestern depot at Fort Atkinson, Wis., which was outlined to the Commercial club as the model for the proposed Norfolk station.

Questioned as to the present state of union depot negotiations in Omaha, Mr. Walters replied that the contract for the new Northwestern depot had already been let by the Chicago office of the company and that the new station in Norfolk would be built with as little delay as possible.

"We are going to build Norfolk a fine station," the general manager said. "It will be a larger and a better station than the depot at Fort Atkinson, Wis., the general outline and architectural design of which will be followed in the new Norfolk station. As to the comparative size, the waiting room in your depot for example will probably be about a third larger than the Fort Atkinson station. The new depot will be built of pressed brick and stone.

Finish Before Winter.

"Work on the new depot will start as soon as material can be placed on the ground. Delay in getting material would of course delay the building of the depot. We will, however, be disappointed if we are not in the new station by cold weather."

General Manager Walters arrived in Norfolk at noon from Omaha in his private car bound on an inspection trip as far west as Deadwood. Mr. Walters was accompanied by A. A. Schenck, engineer of maintenance.

The Norfolk school authorities are determined that "senior sneak day" shall not become a recognized and annual holiday in the Norfolk high school. In Lincoln and in other high schools of the state the annual "sneak day" has flourished until it has become interwoven with the "traditions" of the schools. Sneak day in Norfolk, however, encountered the hostile frowns of the superintendent and the high school faculty and the senior class of the local high school having "sneaked" last Friday is to pay the penalty for appropriating an extra holiday. A rule of the local high school that pupils standing over "ninety" in department should be excused from the final examinations in studies in which they averaged over ninety, has been declared inoperative as far as the senior class is concerned. The senior class having "sneaked" with practical unanimity will run through the series of final examinations.

NEW TRAIN TO BONESTEEL

LEFT NORFOLK AT 7:10 FOR THE ROSEBUD COUNTRY.

RETURNS IN THE AFTERNOON

Bonesteel Country is Today Brought Into Closer Touch With Norfolk by the Additional Train Service That Has Been Installed.

Norfolk was today brought into still closer connection with the Rosebud country and with Nebraska territory to the north by the addition of the new passenger train over the Northwestern between the city and Bonesteel. Northwestern passenger No. 403 made its first bow to the Norfolk public this morning at 7 o'clock when it pulled out of the Junction for the uptown station.

Fifty-two passengers boarded the new train on its first run out of Norfolk. Save for three or four men these passengers stepped on to the train at the uptown station. Most of those who left for the north were traveling men starting out on their Monday trip.

Conductor A. B. Lane, Engineer C. J. Hibben, Fireman T. Wood, Brake-man W. S. Fisher, Mail Agent W. S. Toxword, and Express Agent P. H. Lanagan were in charge of the new train on its maiden trip. These assignments were not announced as permanent. In view of the daylight run places on the new train will be in demand among the trainmen.

The new train consisted of a combination baggage, mail, express and smoking car and two passenger coaches. It was pulled out of Norfolk by engine No. 1243. Leaving Norfolk at 7:19 the new train arrives in Bonesteel at 11:50 a. m. As No. 404 leaves Bonesteel at 12:35 p. m. and arrives in Norfolk at 7:15 p. m. and at the Junction ten minutes later, it is not a Sunday train.

The new service made effective today by the new Northwestern time card gives Norfolk two trains daily both ways between this city and Bonesteel. It was the only change in Norfolk passenger service introduced by the new time card. Introduced as a result of the rapidly growing traffic through Norfolk to the developing Rosebud country, the new train should bring Norfolk into closer touch with the country to the north. Doubled service in the way of passenger and mail facilities marks the rapid growth of the new country contingent to the Norfolk market.

With the installation of the new train, passengers will not be allowed to ride on the freight trains between Norfolk and Bonesteel. As one result of the new train, The News will be brought into closer touch with the Bonesteel line, so that extraordinary events will be given to News readers in that vicinity in early morning extras, ahead of all other papers.
