

WAS ACTIVE SOCIAL WEEK

CALENDAR WAS FILLED WITH INFORMAL EVENTS.

FAREWELL PARTIES A FEATURE

Then There Were Birthdays to be Celebrated, Brides to be Married, Brides-to-be to be Looked After, and Cards to be Played.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

It has been an active but informal week in social Norfolk. Brides and brides-to-be, birthdays here and there, farewell receptions and dinners for friends about to leave the city, a little music and a game of cards have all been features in the calendar. There's nothing startling scheduled for the coming week, though wedding invitations have begun to pour in upon Norfolk friends with wonted June abundance.

Pleasures of the Week.

On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hulff were guests of honor at a farewell reception given for them in Masonic hall by the Order of Eastern Star. Beautiful tokens of esteem in the shape of flowers and cut glass were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Hulff during the evening. Miss Harriet Allbery and Mr. W. R. Hoffman made effective presentation speeches in connection with the gifts. A drill in which all present participated, Mrs. George H. Burton presiding at the piano, was an interesting feature of the evening. Delicious refreshments were served.

The Norfolk band minstrel performance, which made such a hit in the Auditorium on the night of April 22, was repeated with success at the Norfolk insane hospital on Monday night for the benefit of patients at the institution. The inmates enjoyed the minstrel very much. A number of Norfolk people drove out to see the show.

Miss Ryth Mount was hostess in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Mount on South Ninth street, at a farewell party given Monday evening for Miss Marie Johnson and Miss Jola Sharp, who left the city next day. Miss Johnson went to Denver to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johnson, who have removed to that city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Greene were guests of honor at an informal farewell party given at the home of Mrs. Mary Davenport on North Ninth street by a number of the members of the First Congregational church Wednesday evening. A beautiful set of pearl handed knives were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Greene by the guests.

The China club was invited to assist Miss Martha Brummond in the celebration of her birthday on Wednesday night at her home on South Fourth street. The guests presented the hostess with a pretty set of China dishes. Music and games were features of the evening and dainty refreshments were served.

Members of the Ben Hur lodge enjoyed a pleasant evening Monday when they joined with Mrs. H. M. Luebbe in the celebration of her birthday. Refreshments were served during the evening and the occasion was much enjoyed.

Miss Ruby Macy pleasantly entertained eight friends at 6 o'clock dinner Tuesday evening in honor of her friend, Miss Gretchen Hulff, who is soon to leave the city with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hulff, for Los Angeles, California.

Friends of Mr. Gottlieb Pribbenow assisted him in the fitting observance of his birthday in his home on Sunday, the evening being much enjoyed by all present.

The West Side Whist club enjoyed a meeting last night with Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Rainbolt.

Hymenial.

A quiet wedding took place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Tannehill, South Fifth street, Wednesday morning when their daughter, Miss Maude Tannehill, became the bride of Dr. W. R. Peters of Stanton. The newly married couple are spending their honeymoon at the groom's old home in Wisconsin, after which they will visit in Chicago before returning to Stanton to begin housekeeping. Miss Tannehill was gowned prettily in white and carried bride's roses. The home was effectively decorated in carnations and ferns. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Clapp of Stanton. A number of beautiful gifts were received by the bride who is popular in Norfolk. Dr. Peters is a prominent young physician at Stanton.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Walker for the marriage of their daughter, Nina Everest, to Mr. J. Earle Harper on Tuesday morning, June 18, at 10 o'clock in the First Congregational church. Mr. Harper is in business at Clearwater.

A "cup and saucer" shower was given by Miss Small in her home on Koenigstein avenue Saturday afternoon for Miss Ida Von Goetz who is to be married in the fall to Miss Small's brother, Mr. K. D. Small of this city.

Mrs. E. A. Bullock very pleasantly entertained a few friends of Miss Nina Walker at a shower on Saturday afternoon. Miss Walker is soon to be married.

ded to Mr. J. Earle Harper of Clearwater.

Men's Banquet at Fairfax.

Fairfax, S. D., June 8.—Special to The News: The ladies of the Methodist Episcopal church of Fairfax could not have selected a more appropriate time of the year than the month of June to banquet the gentlemen. At this time it is befitting that men should temporarily free their minds of the cares and worries of the workaday world and rest.

On June 5 it was easily gathered from the conversation of the gentlemen that they were to be banqueted in the evening and further the real pleasure and freedom of the evening was anticipated with the explanation that there would be none other there than themselves.

At about 8:30 the guests one by one began to arrive at E. M. Thatcher's ice cream parlors which had been turned into a banquet hall for the evening, the ladies having laid covers for every man in town. The reception room was provided with many easy chairs, the wall hung with choice oil paintings and here and there the floor was covered with comfortable looking rugs.

By 9:30 the guests had all arrived and every guest was happy. Fellow townsmen greeted each other with a cordial smile once, twice and even a third greeting was tucked away in the social intercourse. Everyone was willing to talk and seemed determined to laugh. The evening not only gladdened the heart but quickened the appetite and in consequence Messrs. Oline and Parfah showed their fellow guests into the dining room and seated each near a beautiful red carnation.

Rev. Mr. Graf of Fairfax then asked a divine blessing which was followed by a choice selection from the male quartet and the banquet was in progress. As the beauty of the first course disappeared and the silent and unseen forces still continued to serve dainty and tempting dishes while somewhere from a piano could be heard beautiful strains of music, the silence that followed might have been interpreted in different ways, but Mr. Chas. E. Morrissy, who can do one thing quicker than any other and that is to think, arose and admitted that he missed the ladies. His voice, however, took on a peculiar softness that seemed to annoy him and he hastened to call upon C. A. Johnson. Mr. Johnson, who is not in the habit of losing out, appropriate to the situation, continued to mention the ladies in a most complimentary manner.

Following the second course Mr. Chas. E. Morrissy, whose duty it was to speak, pleasantly introduced Rev. Alfred Gregory of Bonesteel. Mr. Gregory sought to encourage the men to connect themselves with the church and commended their upright and manly traits in an impressive way, adding the experience of one married couple that he had known, who never agreed but once in twenty-five years and that was when the house was on fire and they agreed to get out.

A very pleasant smile met Rev. G. W. Gelvin of Gregory as he arose to speak. Mr. Morrissy having disclosed the fact that he was not told where to bring him in but knew he came after chicken.

Rev. Mr. Gelvin spoke for some time in a spiritual way of the children of God and their every day work, mistakes and unbelief.

The quartet then rendered another beautiful selection, having been called out by Toastmaster Chas. E. Morrissy. Mr. Morrissy feeling that something more needed to be said settled his gaze on John N. Ellerman and called upon him to speak for the man in the community. Mr. Ellerman responded in such a smooth and convincing way that it seemed that all were persuaded to conclude that the truly honest man is the successful man. Mr. Morrissy then arose, saying that he thought still more should be said in praise of the ladies and called upon G. O. Van Meter of Carlock. Mr. VanMeter responded with strength and power, leaving nothing unsaid in praise of the ladies.

Rev. Mr. Graf of Fairfax, the last course having been served, added a few final remarks bidding adieu to the banquet hall.

MAKE MONEY IN PANAMA

G. BAIN GETS $190 PER MONTH AND HOUSE.

FORMER NORFOLK RAILROADER

Mr. Bain Says the Panama Canal is a Much More Gigantic Proposition Than He Had Ever Imagined—Will Be Years Before it is Finished.

N. A. Rainbolt of this city has just received the following very interesting letter from H. G. Bain, formerly a well known Norfolk citizen and a prominent conductor on the Northwestern system while here, who recently went to the Canal Zone to accept a position as conductor on the government railroad in that region:

Culebra, Canal Zone, May 19.—Mr. N. A. Rainbolt, Norfolk, Neb.: Dear sir and friend.—I arrived here March 4 and have found the situation much better than I anticipated. I had a very pleasant trip from New York to Colon, seven days on the steamer Advance. Colon is just at the entrance of the canal and is composed principally of negroes and Panamanians. Cristobal, a suburb of Colon, is composed of Americans and is a very fine place. The front street is about four feet above the level of the sea and is paved with crushed rock and cement and is lined on each side with coconut palms. The general physical condition of the isthmus is very rough and reminds one of a broken mountain range. The highest elevation is not over 200 or 400 feet and are covered with all kinds of foliage. Bananas and oranges grow in abundance and they are certainly of the best quality.

Culebra, where I am stationed, is one of the highest points in the zone and I believe one of the busiest as well, as this is where the largest cut of the canal is being made.

The vastness of this canal proposition is beyond the imagination of anyone who has not seen it, and I guess those who have, also. One of the most serious propositions that the government has to contend with no wis the dam that they are trying to build at Gatun. This is to dam the Chagres river and is to be one of the largest dams in the world. It seems they are unable to find a solid foundation upon which to place the masonry and will have to go at least 200 feet through black mud and there is no certainty of solid bottom at that depth. I think it will be a good many years before the Atlantic squadron will pass through this canal. It is amazing the amount of French machinery that is standing along the canal and just rusting down.

It makes no difference which way you look, you can see excavations—engines, cars, pontoon bridges and every kind of machinery imaginable. Lots of it has never been used but has been standing so long out in the weather that it is absolutely useless now. We are using a good many of their locomotives and cars.

We are having fine weather now but it will not last much longer as the rainy season will commence about the first of May. It is not so warm as I expected to find it here. There is always a nice cool breeze at night. You always want a blanket over you. I suppose you will hardly believe me when I tell you I have only seen one mosquito since I have been here. I tried to kill that one but it got away. I have taken one trip out through the jungles to a native town. It was about fifteen miles out but was well worth the ride as one could see the way natives live and I never saw so many oranges in my life as on this trip. The trees were just bending with them and it was there I picked my first oranges and you bet I did the subject justice.

I like it very well here but of course will be better satisfied when I get my family here, which will be before so very long.

I think this is a good place for any young man who has to depend upon manual labor for his living as the wages are very good and I think that if one can keep his health for five or six years he can leave here with a goodly amount of cash. I received an increase of $20 per month in my wages since I came, to take effect May 1. This makes for me $190 per month and living quarters free, house furnished complete with furniture, electric lights, bath, etc., and fuel brought to your door.

Respectfully,
H. G. Bain.

ROSA HUDSPETH QUILTS

WOMAN EDITOR OF HOLT COUNTY HAS RETIRED.

SHE HAS LED STRENUOUS LIFE

After Many Queer Experiences, Miss Hudspeth Lays Down Her Newspaper Pencil to Take up the More Artistic Quill of Story Writing.

Rosa Hudspeth, formerly editor of the Stuart Ledger and lately of the Atkinson Ledger, who attained some notoriety a year ago as a result of a campaign which she waged in Stuart against bachelors of the village, this week announces her retirement from the field of country journalism to take up the broader work of writing stories for eastern magazines and the like.

For some years Miss Hudspeth has led a strenuous life in Holt county, trying to run a newspaper against odds. At the last meeting of the Nebraska Press association she read a paper in which she told of some of the many difficulties with which she was confronted in her endeavors. Whenever she employed a man print gossips in the vicinity got busy and the printer's wife would finally insist that the man quit his job because of town talk. Or else, in case the printer were single, he would only last a few days before he would land in the village jail, dead drunk.

When there were politicians in the field, Miss Hudspeth found that to make complimentary remarks about any of them meant more gossip and more jealousy from the wives, so she adopted the policy of roasting every man that came along.

A year ago she entered upon a campaign seeking to encourage more marriages. Bachelors immediately accused her of seeking a husband. Among the quaint remarks in the Ledger at that time was this:

"A man's social position all depends upon which side of the bar his stomach faces."

Miss Hudspeth's retirement from the Atkinson Ledger's editorial chair is announced in this week's Ledger in the following paragraph:

"With this issue of the Ledger the editor retires from the arduous labor of country journalism, to enter the wider field of metropolitan journalism and literary effort. A beautiful country home is being fitted up twenty miles north of Atkinson. Every convenience for pleasant living will be arranged for. The Ledger will continue along its old lines, and will count the Highgate editor as one of its staff. In the meantime a new book, by the author of the 'Juggernaut of the Moderns,' will be placed upon the eastern market. With a fine Holt county ranch to look after, and at odd times employed in the writing of western stories for eastern publications, the editor of the Ledger will be strenuously employed in a larger territory than that afforded by the newspaper field of Holt county."

TATMAN MAY LOSE EYE

Former Norfolk Man is Assaulted by Omaha Street Car Conductor.

Uriah H. Tatman, 2820 North Twenty-fifth street, Omaha, cashier of the International Harvester company of that city but formerly of Norfolk and the son-in-law of F. H. Blakeman of this city, is in danger of losing the sight of his right eye as the result of an assault alleged to have been committed by Robert Mumej, a street car conductor on the Twenty-fourth street line, last Monday night.

Tatman is under the care of Dr. Eicknell, and is said to be in a serious condition.

Complaint was filed Thursday against Mumej, who lives at Sixteenth and Corby streets, and he was arrested by Officer Heil. The case was set for June 13, when it is thought that Tatman will be able to appear against the man whom he says assaulted him. Mumej is charged with assault with intent to inflict great bodily harm. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned Friday.

Tatman's friends assert he was going home Monday night and seeing that he had been carried past his street, he pulled the bell cord and alighted from the car. They allege that Mumej followed him to the pavement, and that words followed when Mumej struck him in the eye, they think, using the butt of a revolver for a weapon.

Mr. Tatman's many Norfolk friends will watch the case with interest, trusting that the assailant may be punished and Mr. Tatman's eye saved.

TRIPP COUNTY OPENING.

Yankton Paper Expects Overwhelming Rush for Indian Lands.

Yankton (S. D.) Press and Dakotan: The rush for western land will never cease so long as an acre remains unappropriated. The people of the whole world seem actuated by the same hunger for land, and although the best of the agricultural domain has passed into private ownership there remains a great area of second rate and poorer land that has not been claimed. South Dakotans are familiar with the rapid exhaustion of public lands in this state and North Dakota, and are familiar with many exciting and remarkable episodes that have marked the occupation of our wild prairies by civilized people. We recall the scenes in Yankton two years ago during the registration for Rosebud lands, when nearly seventy-five thousand people came here during seventeen days to register, men and women from all walks of life but very largely from the intelligent, orderly and well bred classes. How the trains were crowded with passengers who could not find even standing room inside; and then the long file of applicants reaching a half mile back from the various booths waiting their turn to get numbered among those who would have less than one chance in twenty-five of securing the right to take a homestead.

And the experience of Yankton and other South Dakota towns was not exceptional but similar to the excitement and multitudes that visited North Dakota, Montana and Wyoming the same season. Scenes similar to those mentioned are now occurring in British America in the Saskatchewan country where a large tract of land formerly granted to the Doukhobors, but afterwards relinquished because of their religious scruples which would not allow them to take the oath of allegiance to Great Britain. The account says at Regina when the land office opened there were over a thousand people in the pouring rain, several hundred having waited all night. One old man had slept on the office steps and succeeded in making the first entry. Another who waited all night was a woman. Mounted police preserved order and no accident or injury occurred. At Yorkton similar scenes were enacted. Women and men and old age as well as younger, jostled each other, and not in a very patient manner, in their eagerness to get admission to the land office. At Prince Albert the crowd became so numerous and dense as to be dangerous. There was no getting through it and at times parties mixed up in it had difficulty in extricating themselves. The male and female employes of the land office were unable to get out of the building by the usual avenues, and made their exit through the cellar windows.

The next great rush will be for the million acres to be thrown open in Tripp county during the next twelve months. Taking a cue from the scenes alluded to it will be reasonable to look for more than one hundred thousand at the various registration points. The location and character of the land in Tripp county warrants the expectation that there will be an overwhelming rush of people here to register.

BOY FALLS INTO GULCH

LITTLE RAYMOND PARKS HAS A HARD STRUGGLE.

SWEPT TWO BLOCKS BY WATER

Little Norfolk Lad Thought to Wade Across Swift Corporation Gulch and Was Lifted Off His Feet to be Carried Down Stream.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Caught by the swift current of Corporation gulch last evening little eight-year-old Raymond Parks was lifted from his feet, tumbled over and over by the dash of water and carried more than two blocks down stream before a thrown rope brought relief from the shore. After the rain last evening water poured through Corporation gulch with all the force of a mill race. In places not more than a foot or two in depth the on-rush of the current tossed little Raymond Parks about like a feather until drenched, frightened and exhausted he was pulled ashore two blocks below Phillip avenue, where he went into the ditch.

Little Raymond made a brave fight against the rush of water that was tumbling him about. At times on his feet, then on his hands and knees, then rolled over and over the little fellow lived an experience that has ground itself deep into his memory.

Raymond Parks, sr., is a carpenter living near Phillip avenue and Twelfth street. Today Mr. and Mrs. Parks have their little boy with them none the worse for the adventure of yesterday.

Tried to Wade Gulch.

It was 7 o'clock last night when Raymond started out, bare-footed, to bring home a neighbor's cow from a pasture beyond the gulch. At Phillip avenue the water did not look deep and the little fellow thought of wading across. He misjudged the force with which the water was sweeping down the gulch. In a moment he had slipped and was being swept along by the turbulent tossing stream. A man and some boys at play saw Raymond fall and shouting aloud tried to keep up with the little boy as it was rolled along.

Some two blocks down stream where the gulch widens out and becomes shallower Raymond grasped some long wild grass. He held fast. Some young men reached the bank and the little fellow told them that he could hold fast while they sought a rope. A rope thrown out brought him to the opposite shore.

Save for a few bruises on his body the little boy received no injuries from his wild ride down the gulch in a stream, which while not deep enough to readily drown was rushing with such force as not to permit a moment's foothold.
