

SPRING AND THE CIRCUS

IN THE SPRINGTIME SPECULATE UPON THE CIRCUS.

SOME WILL COME TO NORFOLK

Mr. Schiller, an Old Time Circus Manager, Says Norfolk May Get Buffalo Bill's Wild West or Ringling's This Season.

In another week, on the Twentieth, the sun bobs across the equinox and spring with thoughts of circuses and other things formally arrives on the scene.

The circus "question" is a pertinent issue for all Norfolk wants to see two or three circuses here this summer and a good part of north Nebraska will visit Norfolk for one of the big shows.

Norfolk stands a good chance of landing something good in the circus line according to Robert F. Schiller of the Oxnard, who has been a circus manager and is in touch with the business. It was Schiller who first predicted the visit of Barnum & Bailey last fall.

The Barnum show will not, of course, visit Norfolk again this year, but Buffalo Bill's Wild West or Ringling's big circus may possibly come.

Mr. Schiller thinks that Norfolk is more than likely to get a visit from the old John Robinson circus or the Hagenbach & Wallace combined shows, the latter being one of the greatest exhibitions in America now, combining Wallace Brothers' circus and the famous Hagenbach wild animal show.

Campbell Brothers' circus, one of the cleanest in the west, will probably come to Norfolk again this year.

JEFFRIES TO BECOME PROMOTER

Will Erect an Arena Outside of Los Angeles—To Have Finish Fights.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 14.—Jim Jeffries, heavy weight champion, is going to revive the boxing game in Los Angeles. He is tired of looking at 10-round bouts and has secured an option on a piece of land just outside the city limits, where he plans to erect a monster arena.

"I have backing from some of the richest men in town," said Jeffries today, "and unless plans miscarry, will have fights to a decision soon. These 10-round affairs are jokes. They lead to many free fights among the men who bet on them."

"I expect to go to Europe this summer. I want to take my wife over to Germany, but if Burns and Johnson will mix about that time, I will referee the fight, but it will cost them $5,000. Nothing less goes."

"DOPE" AGAINST GOTCH.

Sporting Writers Select Hackenschmidt as an Easy Winner.

With the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match only three weeks away, sporting writers are busily engaged in "doping" out the fate of the American champion. All agree that he is a fast, clever wrestler, but few give him a chance for the capital prize. One reads only of Hackenschmidt, the muscular ponderosity, the human rock crusher. After reading of the mighty strength of the "Russian Lion," one is led to believe that Gotch is a weakling, instead of 210 pounds of bone and muscle. Hackenschmidt is undoubtedly the stronger man of the two, but Gotch is anything but a weakling. The American champion has won many matches by sheer strength and those who saw him pick up Tom Jenkins like a sack of salt and slam him to the canvas in Convention hall are convinced that he has strength enough to worry even the mighty Hackenschmidt.

While giving Hackenschmidt the credit for being the stronger man, there are still several points in favor of the man from Iowa. In the first place, Hackenschmidt has only been wrestling at the catch-as-catch-can style for a little more than two years and it is a certainty that he has a whole lot to learn about the new style of grappling. Hackenschmidt is also very fast for a big man, but when the writer saw "Hack" in action some three years ago he failed to show the speed required to trim a man of the Gotch caliber. Gotch has the speed, youth and cleverness in his favor. No American wrestler has ever been able to break his famous toe-hold and if he gets one of "Hack's" "tootsies" in his viselike grip there will be a big drop in Russian beef. Hackenschmidt may win the match and win easily. If he does he is the wonder he is supposed to be. The betting will undoubtedly be strongly in favor of the foreigner, the prices quoted at present being two to one, but favorites don't always win.

Jury Acquits Mrs. Mattson.

Duluth, Minn., March 17.—Mrs. Selma Mattson, charged with killing her husband at Chisholm, Jan. 14 last, by slinking a double blotted axe into his skull, was acquitted by a jury.

HORSESHOE CRABS.

The Necessity For Turning Them Over In the Aquaric Pool.

It is not an unusual occurrence at the aquarium for some humane visitor to approach an attendant and say: "There's a horseshoe crab turned over on its back in the pool here, and it can't get back again. Won't you please come and turn it over?"

climbs on to the coping around the pool in which the big horseshoe crabs are kept and reaches down in the water with it and turns the horseshoe right side up, whereupon the crab moves off comfortably.

This, however, as done in such case upon request, is only what sooner or later the attendant would have done of his own accord, for they here keep an eye on the horseshoes as they do on all the other impounded creatures.

It might perhaps be wondered if the horseshoe crab has to have a man to keep it turned over here what it does in the broad open water in which it finds a home, quite apart from man and where it can't have any such assistance. The answer is that in its natural home the conditions are very different and that there it is able to turn over itself.

The horseshoe crab has a long, stiff, spidery tail, which is joined to its body with an attachment that works like a hinge. In the sea when a horseshoe gets turned over on its back it digs the point of its tail into the sand or mud on the bottom, and with that to hold by it raises the tail end of its body up off the bottom. In that more advantageous position and with the tail helping some as a lever the horseshoe is able to turn itself over.

In an aquarium pool, which is lined with porcelain tiles so that it can't be kept clean, the horseshoe crab can't do this, because there it can't find sand or mud to stick its tail into to get a brace. Occasionally a horseshoe that has been overturned will by chance get the tip of its tail into the angle formed by the floor and the wall of the tank and so, with something to hold against, get leverage enough to turn itself over, but generally the big overturned horseshoes lie on their backs in the pool until they are righted.

The righting up of the horseshoes always interests the people standing around the pool, among whom there are likely to be some who view it with a more serious pleasure. A woman said to an attendant who had just turned over two big horseshoe crabs: "I am glad to see that you treat them with kindness."

STUDENTS WRECK THEATER

Police and Fire Department Unable to Quell Riot at Ann Arbor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 17.—College feeling among the students of the University of Michigan burst forth into a riot last night. More than a score of students were locked up in jail and the Star theater, a 5-cent place of amusement, was literally wrecked. Later in the evening, the mob of students, which numbered fully 2,000, directed a college "rush" against the front of the building, tearing away windows and doors and plaster and rolling the theater piano out into the street, where leaders of the students mounted the instrument and performed a dance to the accompaniment of mad cheers and yells from the unmanageable crowd. The trouble dates back to Saturday night, when a student in the audience, who persisted in repeating the Ann Arbor college yell too often to suit the management, was ejected and thoroughly clubbed.

The trouble started with a small crowd of students throwing eggs at the building. This diversion soon gave way to a fusillade of rocks, and when the police were called to quell the disorder the yells of derision sent up by the young men brought reinforcements from every direction. As the attacking party grew wilder, its aim broadened proportionately, and windows of the upper stories of the building and those of neighboring business places began to crash. Flaming the police unable to subdue the rioters, Mayor Henderson summoned the fire department. Several police officers had been felled with flying missiles and others fought on, hatless after their helmets had been stolen to decorate some student's den. The firemen had no sooner laid their line of hose to the scene to give the mob a drenching, than, with a wild yell, a detachment of the boys captured 100 feet of the hose and ran yelling down the street with it. The disorders increased until the work of devastation was complete.

IDAHO RIVERS OVERFLOW

Situation is Most Serious and Creast of Flood is Still to Come.

Spokane, Wash., March 17.—An incessant fall of rain in northern Idaho for forty-eight hours has caused the waters of the St. Joe river to overflow their banks, resulting in considerable destruction of property. The waters of Couer d'Alene lake have risen three feet and dwellings along the entire length of the St. Joe river have had to be abandoned, the people taking refuge on the uplands. All the docks have been washed away. The rain is still falling in sheets.

Lewiston, Ida., will be isolated for a week or more, for more than two miles of track and many bridges are washed out on the line down Potlatch creek. The Pine Creek Lumber company, near Kendrick, has lost a $100,000 dam and more than a million feet of logs. At Lewiston the Clearwater river is higher than at any time in two years and is still rising. All false work was washed from under the new $200,000 Oregon Railway bridge, which, however, still stands. The crest of the flood is still to come. One drowning is reported.

Taft Speaks in Plymouth Church.

New York, March 17.—Speaking before a representative Brooklyn audience at Plymouth church, Secretary Taft expressed an optimistic conviction concerning the future of the colored race in the United States. The occasion was a meeting held by the Armstrong association and in the interests of Hampton institute of Virginia. The historic church was crowded to the doors and many who sought entrance were disappointed. Only a handful of colored persons was present.

A STRONG TICKET NAMED

J. D. STURGEON NOMINATED FOR MAYOR BY ACCLAMATION.

ED HARTER FOR CITY CLERK

Chris. Anderson on the Ticket for City Treasurer, Bennett Seymour for Engineer, A. H. Viele and James Lough for School Board.

Republican city ticket: For mayor, J. D. Sturgeon. For city clerk, Ed Harter. For city treasurer, Chris Anderson. For city engineer, Bennett Seymour. For members board of education, A. H. Viele, James Lough.

For members city council: W. H. Widaman, First ward; Dan Craven, Second ward; Phillip Poesler, Third ward; Robert Beales, Fourth ward.

Norfolk republicans, meeting in a delegate convention in the city hall Monday night again picked J. D. Sturgeon to run for mayor and nominated a strong city ticket. Mr. Sturgeon was nominated by acclamation, his name coming before the convention without opposition.

The convention was called to order by R. H. Reynolds, chairman of the city central committee. Mr. Reynolds was chosen permanent chairman of the convention and N. A. Huse secretary. A committee on credentials, consisting of J. W. Ransom, Dr. Parker, J. H. Lough and James Gray, was named.

S. D. Robertson presented the name of J. D. Sturgeon to the convention as the republican nominee for mayor and moved that he be selected by acclamation. The convention acted on the suggestion and Mr. Sturgeon again received the mayoralty nomination. The nominee was called for:

"I want to thank you for the courtesy of this nomination," Mr. Sturgeon said. "If I am elected I promise you a good, fair impartial administration. And if I get as good a vote at the polls as I did tonight there won't be any question of the result."

Ed Harter was nominated for city clerk, his name being presented by C. E. Hartford. Mr. Harter thanked the convention.

For city treasurer Dr. Parker nominated Chris Anderson, H. G. Brueggeman nominated I. M. Macy, W. R. Hoffman nominated Ray Hayes, C. E. Hartford nominated E. E. Coleman. Coleman and Hayes withdrew in favor of Anderson. Anderson was nominated, the vote standing Anderson 17, Macy 8.

Bennet Seymour received the nomination for city engineer, his name being presented by J. W. Ransom. A. H. Viele, who is now president of the board of education, and James Lough, were nominated as members of the school board.

W. R. Hoffman wanted the convention to adopt a set of resolutions and precipitated a discussion which lasted several minutes. J. D. Sturgeon endorsed the suggestion. C. E. Hartford declared that the convention had nominated a man in every way capable and did not think that it was a part of the convention's work to map out a platform or policy for him.

"We have nominated a man who would have been elected mayor last year but for the fact that the republicans did not support him," said Dr. Parker. "The thing to do is to stand pat for the nominee."

"What Dr. Parker has referred to is a common trick with republicans," observed W. R. Hoffman. "The republican party has not been loyal as a party in this town. The party has taken the privilege of nominating a man and then cutting him to pieces. That's why we have to search for candidates. It is not that way on the other side of the political arena. Norfolk democrats stay with their candidates until after election, sometimes until a week after election! There is not a man here who will deny what I say because they know that it is true, a good many of them."

The city central committee was instructed to fill any vacancies that might result.

J. D. Sturgeon was authorized to select a chairman of the city central committee and named George N. Beels. The ward selections for committee members were: First ward, J. S. Mathewson; Second ward, S. D. Robertson; Third ward, R. H. Reynolds; Fourth ward, W. H. Livingston.

The convention adjourned, having been in session less than an hour.

Mr. Collins is known in Norfolk through his connection with the Collins' harp orchestra. Mrs. Collins has been in Norfolk several times since her marriage. The funeral was held Tuesday morning. Mrs. Collins was popular in Norfolk.

The Roosevelts got into the political game early. Back in the eighteenth century they were mixing in New York politics and getting mixed up in the ward contests. D. Mathewson of Norfolk has just received a copy of the first issue of the New York Evening Post printed on November 16, 1801, when that daily journal made its bow to the New York public. A part of that first issue was taken up with the affairs of one James Roosevelt who wanted to be ward alderman and who also wanted the public to understand his rather vigorous opinion of the consistency of his opponent in the race. Incidentally the personality of that early Roosevelt was so vigorous that his opponent instead of being referred to as a candidate for alderman was listed simply as the man who was opposing Mr. James Roosevelt. The old paper was found in an old book and forwarded to Mr. Mathewson by an aunt in the east.

Kearney Hub: It may not prove that the distance schedule will be the proper solution of the freight rate problem in Nebraska, but we believe that the opponents of the Iowa plan will have to furnish abundant proof to the contrary before the people will be convinced. There are little whiffs of wind which indicate that the railway commissioners have a slight bias against the distance tariff. Be that as it may, when the hearing comes up March 24 the commission should have but one thing in mind, viz: To find a way to break up the present and long-standing discriminatory system and establish something in its place that will be equitable to individual shippers and to communities. Kearney business men have concluded to take a hand in the hearing, prompted of course, by our own community interest, but at the same time demanding nothing that will be gained at the expense of some other community.

FIFTEEN ROUNDS TO A DRAW

"BOXING CONTEST" AT RAILWAY HALL MONDAY EVENING.

VERY NEAR THE REAL THING

Third of a Series of "Contests" That Has Been Puled Off in the City During the Past Few Weeks—Witnessed by Crowd of "Sports."

Jack O'Leary and the "Batting Dane" boxed fifteen rounds to a draw in Railroad hall Monday night. The main bout started at 10 o'clock and was witnessed by quite a representative crowd of Norfolk people. "Kid" Jensen, a fighter of some repute who is working in a Norfolk blacksmith shop, refereed and at the end of the fifteen rounds called the match a draw, a decision which seemed to meet with satisfaction.

O'Leary was the cleverer fighter of the two and in the "points" of the contest landed the more damaging blows. The Dane, who is sometimes known by the less euphonous name of Pete Jensen, while he fights unguarded often and is inclined to rush, has the capacity of taking almost any kind of punishment that local fighters seem able to manufacture. The Dane, too, got in the most blows but they were not as well landed as O'Leary's punches. O'Leary fights low and has two bad ears which worry him.

O'Leary had a shade the best of the opening round. The Dane took the second but received the most damage in the third. The fourth and fifth were even. The Dane got the sixth and put one of O'Leary's ears in bad shape. This was the only blood of the contest. The seventh and eighth were O'Leary's, while the Dane came up more aggressive in the ninth. The tenth was close while O'Leary made a strong showing in the eleventh. The twelfth was the Dane's round. The men pushed each other hard in the last three rounds, O'Leary crouching and the Dane footracing for an opening.

The match Monday evening was the third contest held in the hall during the last few weeks. The contests are fought with heavy gloves and for "points." The crowds have been orderly.

In the preliminary Claude Housh was given the decision on points over his brother, Earle Housh. They boxed five rounds. Dick Walton was referee.

THEIR FATHER WAS IN THE RING

Housh Once a Prize Fighter—Now He's Training His Boys.

G. P. Housh, rather of two youths who boxed five rounds at railway hall last night as a preliminary to the O'Leary-Batting Dane go, was once in the prize fighting business himself. In fact he lost his left leg in athletics. And he has been coaching his boys in the ring for some time. Over at their home in Edgewater park they have gloves and a mat and Indian clubs and trapeze. Claude, aged eighteen, is lighter but headier than Earl, who is seventeen. It was Claude who was given the decision on points last night.

It is at the Housh home that Jack O'Leary stays and he and Claude mix up in some pretty strenuous contests for the sake of O'Leary's training.

Housh, the father, fell from a thirty-four foot trapeze on a stage twenty-two years ago, injuring his knee so badly that amputation was necessary a couple of years later. And he used to box. Twice he engaged in ring fights, once getting a draw and once winning a decision over Greek George at Peoria, Ill. Greek George has attained some note since. Housh broke Greek George's leg in a wrestling match after the fight. It was not on a foul that Housh got the fight decision that time—it was because he refused to deliver a knock-out. Greek George looked up, his eyes appealing, and Housh felt sorry for him.

The father feels proud of his two boxing boys. At the ringside last night he helped take care of them between rounds. He says that some day Claude is going to surprise people. A few nights ago Claude boxed the Batting Dane at Meadow Grove.

Union Temperance Meeting.

Neligh, Neb., March 17.—Special to The News: One of the most enthusiastic audiences that has assembled in Neligh for a number of years met at the Congregational church Sunday evening. The occasion was the third series of union temperance meetings being held by the congregations of the Methodist and Congregational churches of this city. Rev. C. O. Trump was the principal speaker of the evening, and his subject, "Price of the liquor traffic in Neligh," was dealt with an open heart, and facts and figures that cannot be denied. The address was full of strong argument from start to finish.

TEN YEARS IN PEN FOR HERMAN BOCHE

GIVEN THE MAXIMUM PENALTY FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

SENTENCE IS STAYED TEN DAYS

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL OVERRULED BY JUDGE WELCH.

PRISONER NOW IN CUSTODY

Ten Days Allowed in Which Time Plaintiff Will Apply to Supreme Court for Rehearing and Ask for Release on Bail.

Ten years in the state penitentiary at hard labor was the sentence pronounced on Herman Boche, convicted of manslaughter as a result of the killing of Frank Jarmer, by District Judge A. A. Welch in the district court room at Madison Monday evening. Boche's attorneys will now appeal to the supreme court.

Boche was given the limit, receiving the maximum sentence permitted by law for the offense of "manslaughter." The penalty fixed by law is from one to ten years.

Herman Boche seemed staggered by the sentence. For the first time since the present murder trial began he appeared affected.

Sentence was pronounced at a night session of the court. Judge Welch had overruled the motion for a new trial.

The judge asked Herman Boche if there was any reason why sentence should not be pronounced on him. After a brief conference with his attorneys Boche said "Nothing."

At the request of Boche's attorneys Judge Welch issued an order suspending the execution of the sentence for ten days in order to permit them to go before the supreme court for an order admitting Boche to bail pending the appeal to the supreme court. Boche was assigned to the custody of Sheriff Clements until that time.

The Boche case will probably come before the supreme court within the next few months. Criminal cases have the right of way in the supreme court, depending for the time of the hearing largely on the attorney general. Attorney General Thompson will have charge of the case against Boche on appeal.

Senator Allen, chief counsel for Boche, made an exhaustive argument during the afternoon in favor of his motion for a new trial. The attorneys for the state did not speak on the motion. The motion was overruled at a night session of the court.

Judge Welch came up from Madison Monday night. With him were County Attorney Jack Koenigstein, Judge N. D. Jackson of Neligh, assisting in the prosecution, and M. D. Tyler, one of Boche's attorneys.

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY.

SIMPLE HOME RECIPES

PREPARE THIS SIMPLE RECIPE AT HOME AND TRY IT.

TEASPOONFUL AFTER EACH MEAL

Druggists Here in Town Say They Can Supply the Ingredients or Make up the Mixture—The Prescription of an Eminent Authority.

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:

Fluid extract dandelion, one-half ounce; compound kargon, one ounce; compound syrup sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered by an eminent authority, who writes in a New York daily paper, as the finest prescription ever written to relieve backache, kidney trouble, weak bladder and all forms of urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home when asked stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

were present and several candidates were introduced to His Royal Highness "Mr. Goat," who proceeded to perform a series of gymnastics that would have astonished even C. E. Doughty of Norfolk, at least so says J. C. Jenkins, the scribe, and he ought to know, for he looked like thirty cents the next morning.

The encampment recently presented the auditorium with some nice new scenery, and only a few days ago furnished the reception room of the Odd Fellows hall with a set of furniture, which all goes to show that the boys are not afraid to help a good thing along. A few more similar organizations would not hurt this or any other town, and it seems to be a singular fact that this organization numbers in its membership a lot of fellows that have their hearts on the left side and they are generally of more than normal size.

WAYNE SALOON WAR BITTER.

Vigorous Fight by the Anti-Saloon League.

Wayne, Neb., March 17.—The anti-saloon league has presented a petition, containing 120 names, to the city council asking for the repeal of all ordinances by which saloon licenses are granted. It is the general impression that the council will grant the wishes of the petitioners.

The saloon faction claim this will be a knockout for them, and the other side assert that it will give the people a chance to vote directly whether they want saloons or not.

The anti-saloon league is issuing a weekly paper and making a vigorous fight.

Just as "It is not the oath which makes us believe the man, but the man the oath," so it is not the ad. which makes us believe the merchant, but the merchant the ad.

The Bonesteel Motor is in Service in Wisconsin

Norfolk and Bonesteel line people will recognize an old friend in the motor car now doing service on a branch line of the Northwestern in Wisconsin. The "Bonesteel motor" as the motor car became known while running out of Norfolk is the only
