

REV. THOMAS WALSH LEFT NORFOLK AFTER ELEVEN YEARS OF SERVICE

Norfolk lost a very valuable citizen this week when Rev. Thomas Walsh, for eleven years past the Catholic priest in this city, moved over to the neighboring town of Battle Creek.

Twenty-two years in the Catholic priesthood, Father Walsh has spent thirteen of those years in Norfolk. He first came to this city in 1898. Three years later he went to Omaha, returning in August, 1897. The last eleven years he has been in this city constantly, save when he was away for four months in 1926 collecting for the new cathedral in Omaha.

Father Walsh's stay in Norfolk has been valuable both to the Catholic church, which he has served faithfully and intelligently, and to this city and its people.

At Battle Creek, Father Walsh will have charge of the Tilden and Battle Creek churches. The parsonage at Battle Creek was built last year at a time when it was thought that he would take immediate charge of the two churches.

Memorials call to the best church in town or to the invitation to some hardy tourist show.

Commonplace Excitement. Four negroes, playing on stringed instruments, toured the little city in an automobile; four painted, homely Indians, also in an automobile, made their way through the streets, with their white vicrome, following an invitation. An occasional gilt street merchant draws a crowd; the half dozen saloons appear to be abundant; patronized. But I have not seen any drunk men, and the women are neat and quiet and good looking.

Hot Water and Clean Towel. A young man standing on a corner called out: "Come right in, plenty of hot water and a clean, individual towel!" he was in charge of a face-washing booth.

Good Quarters. It does not seem necessary to strew the prairie in the lee of a steeple, but I found a room in a little frame house a short distance out of the city.

tracted by certain words added to his oft repeated formula. The words were these:

"The way of the transgressor is hard."

"Oh, holy church, thy scattered sheep may not be united for their very multitude; having them cannot thou keep them; and losing them, cannot thou not recover them again?"

Who is the fault? "I do not know, but this I know right well, that we who wonder far, like scattered sheep, yet love the priest who spends his leisure hours in prayer and fasting and loves his fellow men."

Viewing the Reservation. But this is wandering far from Dallas.

Automobiles, one and two-horse rigs, line the street early, soliciting customers who may wish to ride out on the reservation, which begins near the town, and on the west side. They take out many men who wish to get some impression of the possible prize which they may win in the drawing.

Where the Landseekers Come From. I have felt some interest in the states which have furnished this great army of applicants. A stranger who felt curiosity on this proposition, gave this order of states: Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Nebraska.

Hot Water and Clean Towel. A young man standing on a corner called out: "Come right in, plenty of hot water and a clean, individual towel!" he was in charge of a face-washing booth.

Good Quarters. It does not seem necessary to strew the prairie in the lee of a steeple, but I found a room in a little frame house a short distance out of the city.

The Gambling Places. Walking along the street I conceived it to be my duty to take a news paper man's view of the gambling establishment in a place called Brazzel's saloon. It was run quite openly, on the ground floor.

Invitations to Play. There was no loud urging to come and play, but one of the keepers repeated an invitation, and I was attracted by certain words added to his oft repeated formula.

"The Devil" Breaks Record. "The Devil," presented in Omaha by the Harwood stock company, the same company which will play in "The Devil" in Norfolk on October 29, has opened in its third week in the Nebraska metropolis.

"The way of the transgressor is hard."

"Oh, holy church, thy scattered sheep may not be united for their very multitude; having them cannot thou keep them; and losing them, cannot thou not recover them again?"

Who is the fault? "I do not know, but this I know right well, that we who wonder far, like scattered sheep, yet love the priest who spends his leisure hours in prayer and fasting and loves his fellow men."

Viewing the Reservation. But this is wandering far from Dallas.

Automobiles, one and two-horse rigs, line the street early, soliciting customers who may wish to ride out on the reservation, which begins near the town, and on the west side. They take out many men who wish to get some impression of the possible prize which they may win in the drawing.

Where the Landseekers Come From. I have felt some interest in the states which have furnished this great army of applicants. A stranger who felt curiosity on this proposition, gave this order of states: Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Nebraska.

Hot Water and Clean Towel. A young man standing on a corner called out: "Come right in, plenty of hot water and a clean, individual towel!" he was in charge of a face-washing booth.

Good Quarters. It does not seem necessary to strew the prairie in the lee of a steeple, but I found a room in a little frame house a short distance out of the city.

The Gambling Places. Walking along the street I conceived it to be my duty to take a news paper man's view of the gambling establishment in a place called Brazzel's saloon. It was run quite openly, on the ground floor.

Invitations to Play. There was no loud urging to come and play, but one of the keepers repeated an invitation, and I was attracted by certain words added to his oft repeated formula.

"The Devil" Breaks Record. "The Devil," presented in Omaha by the Harwood stock company, the same company which will play in "The Devil" in Norfolk on October 29, has opened in its third week in the Nebraska metropolis.

"The way of the transgressor is hard."

"Oh, holy church, thy scattered sheep may not be united for their very multitude; having them cannot thou keep them; and losing them, cannot thou not recover them again?"

Who is the fault? "I do not know, but this I know right well, that we who wonder far, like scattered sheep, yet love the priest who spends his leisure hours in prayer and fasting and loves his fellow men."

Viewing the Reservation. But this is wandering far from Dallas.

Automobiles, one and two-horse rigs, line the street early, soliciting customers who may wish to ride out on the reservation, which begins near the town, and on the west side. They take out many men who wish to get some impression of the possible prize which they may win in the drawing.

Where the Landseekers Come From. I have felt some interest in the states which have furnished this great army of applicants. A stranger who felt curiosity on this proposition, gave this order of states: Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Nebraska.

Hot Water and Clean Towel. A young man standing on a corner called out: "Come right in, plenty of hot water and a clean, individual towel!" he was in charge of a face-washing booth.

Good Quarters. It does not seem necessary to strew the prairie in the lee of a steeple, but I found a room in a little frame house a short distance out of the city.

The Gambling Places. Walking along the street I conceived it to be my duty to take a news paper man's view of the gambling establishment in a place called Brazzel's saloon. It was run quite openly, on the ground floor.

Invitations to Play. There was no loud urging to come and play, but one of the keepers repeated an invitation, and I was attracted by certain words added to his oft repeated formula.

"The Devil" Breaks Record. "The Devil," presented in Omaha by the Harwood stock company, the same company which will play in "The Devil" in Norfolk on October 29, has opened in its third week in the Nebraska metropolis.

"The way of the transgressor is hard."

"Oh, holy church, thy scattered sheep may not be united for their very multitude; having them cannot thou keep them; and losing them, cannot thou not recover them again?"

Who is the fault? "I do not know, but this I know right well, that we who wonder far, like scattered sheep, yet love the priest who spends his leisure hours in prayer and fasting and loves his fellow men."

Viewing the Reservation. But this is wandering far from Dallas.

Automobiles, one and two-horse rigs, line the street early, soliciting customers who may wish to ride out on the reservation, which begins near the town, and on the west side. They take out many men who wish to get some impression of the possible prize which they may win in the drawing.

Where the Landseekers Come From. I have felt some interest in the states which have furnished this great army of applicants. A stranger who felt curiosity on this proposition, gave this order of states: Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Nebraska.

Hot Water and Clean Towel. A young man standing on a corner called out: "Come right in, plenty of hot water and a clean, individual towel!" he was in charge of a face-washing booth.

Good Quarters. It does not seem necessary to strew the prairie in the lee of a steeple, but I found a room in a little frame house a short distance out of the city.

The Gambling Places. Walking along the street I conceived it to be my duty to take a news paper man's view of the gambling establishment in a place called Brazzel's saloon. It was run quite openly, on the ground floor.

Invitations to Play. There was no loud urging to come and play, but one of the keepers repeated an invitation, and I was attracted by certain words added to his oft repeated formula.

"The Devil" Breaks Record. "The Devil," presented in Omaha by the Harwood stock company, the same company which will play in "The Devil" in Norfolk on October 29, has opened in its third week in the Nebraska metropolis.

"The way of the transgressor is hard."

"Oh, holy church, thy scattered sheep may not be united for their very multitude; having them cannot thou keep them; and losing them, cannot thou not recover them again?"

Who is the fault? "I do not know, but this I know right well, that we who wonder far, like scattered sheep, yet love the priest who spends his leisure hours in prayer and fasting and loves his fellow men."

Viewing the Reservation. But this is wandering far from Dallas.

Automobiles, one and two-horse rigs, line the street early, soliciting customers who may wish to ride out on the reservation, which begins near the town, and on the west side. They take out many men who wish to get some impression of the possible prize which they may win in the drawing.

Where the Landseekers Come From. I have felt some interest in the states which have furnished this great army of applicants. A stranger who felt curiosity on this proposition, gave this order of states: Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Nebraska.

Hot Water and Clean Towel. A young man standing on a corner called out: "Come right in, plenty of hot water and a clean, individual towel!" he was in charge of a face-washing booth.

Good Quarters. It does not seem necessary to strew the prairie in the lee of a steeple, but I found a room in a little frame house a short distance out of the city.

The Gambling Places. Walking along the street I conceived it to be my duty to take a news paper man's view of the gambling establishment in a place called Brazzel's saloon. It was run quite openly, on the ground floor.

Invitations to Play. There was no loud urging to come and play, but one of the keepers repeated an invitation, and I was attracted by certain words added to his oft repeated formula.

TONE BROS SPICES advertisement with logo and text: Full of strong, rich flavor and aroma; perfect for your special occasions.

There are two kinds of Spices: "Others" and "Others". Grocers 10c. TONE BROS. 1314 W. 25th St., Omaha, Neb.

HOW HE BEAT THE LOAN GAME. Chicago Man Tries Bankruptcy Six Times and is About $10,000 Ahead. Chicago, Oct. 17, Court data on a professional bankrupt.

Date of Petition, No. of Creditors, Amount Owed, etc. Table with columns for petition date, number of creditors, and amount owed.

William Morden Marr is entitled to either a gold medal and a pension or the censure of the federal court, depending on the view of the victims of money lenders or Harry J. Cullen.

Ice Shortage. Valentine, Neb., Oct. 19.—Special to The News: W. D. Charlson, our city policeman, has notified the families that he is running short of ice and will have to discontinue furnishing ice to private houses.

Mrs. Fishto Society's Aid. New York, Oct. 19.—"Society does one of the silly things it is accused of I ought to know, for I lived in Newport more than fifteen years."

Newport Perfectly Sane. Newport society is perfectly sane and normal. It is high time the silly torques about it were stopped.

Admits Superior Class. After the game Superintendent Fisher of Neligh admitted that his eleven had been outplayed. "I still think, however," he said, "that leaving captain Weaver out of the game that Neligh is a match for Norfolk."

Two Western Teams in Great Struggle in Minneapolis. Nebraska and Minnesota played a tie game on the Minnesota field Saturday, the score standing 0 to 0.

"WANT AD" ENDS IN COURT.

Complete Divorce is Result of Wife's Reply to Husband. New York, Oct. 17.—A suit for absolute divorce filed by Alexander Sammis in the Kings county supreme court yesterday against his wife, Jessie, originally grew out of Mrs. Sammis' assiduous attention to the "housekeepers wanted" section of the want ads in the newspapers.

Dear Sir—I saw your advertisement in this morning's paper and could be pleased to hear from you, I am twenty-six years old, and hold a good looking, dark hair, and a fairly good education. I am a good housekeeper and would prefer to have a good home rather than a high salary.

Monday Mention. Mrs. W. A. Grubb of Tilden was a Saturday visitor. Miss Edith Barrett was down from here over Sunday.

J. F. Toy in Osmond. President of Citizens National of Norfolk interested in Osmond Bank. Osmond Republican: James F. Toy of Sioux City has closed a deal whereby he comes into possession of the interests of B. M. Smith in the Farmers State bank of this place.

The Prettiest and Best. Butte Gazette: Born in Norfolk to Mr. and Mrs. Cigarlos Hinds on September 27, a fine girl, Grandie Hinds says she is the prettiest and best baby in Nebraska.

Business Changes in the Northwest. Olin Hall has traded his Nolligh livery business to Will Van Patter for two quarter sections of land.

Purchase of the O'Neill Short Line. Omaha World Herald: Purchase of the Sioux City, O'Neill & Western road, 139 miles from Sioux City to O'Neill, has been made by the Burlington from the Great Northern.

Indians in Ugly Mood. Sioux Refuse to Allow Grave of Sitting Bull to be Moved. Minneapolis, Oct. 19.—Word has been received that an outbreak of the Sioux Indians is likely to occur at Fort Yates, North Dakota, if the government order providing for the removal of the Indian graves in the cemetery there be carried out.

Invitations to Play. There was no loud urging to come and play, but one of the keepers repeated an invitation, and I was attracted by certain words added to his oft repeated formula.