Nearly all the breweries laid off their carpenters, declaring they had not work enough to keep them employed. The men affected are electricians, millwrights, painters and some carpenters. A refusal to sign a new wage scale brought about the trouble.

Boyle's Tale Discredited. Youngstown, O., May 12.—Unless stronger proof than the word of James Boyle is offered to show that there is a mystery connected with the death of Daniel Reebie, Jr., which occurred here four years ago, there will be no official investigation of the story. Daniel Reebie, father of the dead man, and the police and county officials are unanimous in expressing the opinion that Boyle's story is untrue.

Sixteen Villages Laid Waste. Beirut, Asiatic Turkey, May 12.—Recent rioting in the vicinity of Marash has laid waste the entire district. Marash itself has been spared, although a few persons were killed, but within sixty miles to the southwest a total of sixteen villages with a population of 8,000 souls have been partly wiped out. The only survivors are boys under ten and old women. The girls were carried away and the men killed. Telegraphic reports declare that the hungry and naked number 1,400. Immediate relief is required. The interior districts are still far from settled and from all directions the most heartrending acts happening are being received here.

Big Balloons to Fort Omaha. Washington, May 12.—Owing to the failure of congress to provide funds for the construction of a gas plant and balloon house at the Fort Myer aerodrome, General James Allen, chief engineer of the signal corps, has been forced to change his plans for the aerodrome trials and tests and Fort Myer this summer.

The army motor balloon No. 1 purchased last fall will be shipped immediately to Fort Omaha where a modern hydrogen gas plant and a hangar or balloon house has been erected. Within ten days the balloon will be detached and Lieutenants Lahm of St. Louis, Foulers, Winter, Bamberger and Dickenson of the aeronautic division, will go to Fort Omaha.

In the meantime three flights will be made in the signal corps spherical balloon No. 11, which has a capacity of 35,000 cubic feet of gas and can carry three men. Lieutenants Lahm and Foulers will return to Washington for the aeroplane trips after instructing the other officers in the handling of the dirigible.

General Allen had planned to conduct numerous experiments with the dirigible at Fort Myer, including exhaustive tests with wireless telephone and telegraph. He had also planned to co-operate with the artillery corps in conducting various tests to demonstrate the feasibility of using dirigibles for the purpose of attack.

The change in the program for the balloon flights will not interfere in the plans for the Wright brothers and Herring aeroplane trials at Fort Myer.

BRIBE CHARGE IN WISCONSIN. Detective Says Stephenson Man Gave Democrats $35,000.

Madison Wis., May 11.—F. T. Wegner of Milwaukee, who said he was a private detective, started the senatorial investigation committee by testifying that he saw M. J. Regan, a Milwaukee politician, pay $35,000 to Assemblymen Ramsey, Farrell, and Towne, the three democratic members of the lower house of the legislature, whose absence from the joint session on March 4 resulted in the reelection of Senator Isaac Stephenson after the long deadlock.

The money was paid to the three assemblymen in a hotel in Milwaukee on Saturday, February 20, Wegner said. Wegner was in an adjoining room and peeked through the transom connecting the two rooms, he said. The charge is discredited, however.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Called the Deal Off.

A lad attending school craved a little holiday one morning when he started out to wrestle once again with the trials incident to getting an education. As he entered the schoolroom he hatched a plot to get the coveted holiday. He went up to the teacher's desk and told his story "My mother wants to know if you won't excuse me for today?" he began. "She wants me to do some work at home and thought if I'd study at home this evening and make up what I'd missed to-morrow you'd let me off."

Something about the lad's manner kept the words from carrying conviction. The teacher bluffed back as follows: "Tommy," said she, "you won't need to go home at all. Since you started to school your mother called me on the phone to tell me that she had changed her mind and for you to stay here."

The lad looked at her, started. "A-w, well," he said, "as long as both of us are lyin' about it let's just call it quits. I'll stay here."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Wealthy Soldier's Idea.

Australians still tell stories of the colonial volunteers, although the war is a far memory. One, a member of the Stock Exchange, was left one wet and miserable night to guard a wagon load of goods. He shivered in the unsheltered place for some hours pondering many things, and then a bright thought struck him just as the colonel came around on his tour of inspection. "Colonel," he asked, "how much is this wagon worth?"

"I don't know," was the answer. "Much or little, we can't afford to lose it."

"Well, but, colonel," persisted the amateur soldier, "you might give me a rough idea of the value."

"About £200," said the colonel testily. "Very well," was the answer; "I will come down to the camp and give you a check for the amount. Then I'll turn in. I won't enter my death of cold for twice that much."

What the colonel said is not recorded.—Melbourne Times.

Fourteenth Century Doctors.

Synge's "Social Life in England" quotes a number of fourteenth century hints to success for physicians. Suppose you know nothing, say there is an obstruction of the liver. Perhaps the patient will say, "Nay, master, it is my head or legs that trouble me." Repeat that it comes from the liver, and especially use the word "obstruction," which is important.

Never dine with a patient who has not paid you. It will be cheaper to get your dinner at an inn, for such feasts are usually deducted from the surgeon's fee.

When you are treating a wound or accident, the friends of the patient should be excluded, for they may faint and cause a disturbance, but sometimes a higher fee may be got from persons present fainting and breaking their heads against wood and the like than from the principal patient.

Secret Society Among Sese Islanders.

The Sese islanders have attained a peculiar notoriety in Uganda because of a secret society called the Bachtchi, which is not a burial society, although its members take a deep and intelligent interest in all deaths and burials in their midst. In the more retired villages, although greatly discouraged by the British authorities, it is said to be still the custom for the sorrowing relatives to bear the body of the deceased wrapped in bark on a rough bier to some forest thicket, desolate ravine or other unfrequented spot, where it is left unburied by the bearers, who never revisit the place again. The Bachtchi, who are denizens of a neighboring village, and distant relatives of the deceased avoid the necessity of burial or cremation and show their respect for the deceased by simply eating him.

A Disappointment.

"Yes," says the lady after an acquaintance of ten or fifteen years before has been renewed. "I remember you perfectly."

"Indeed?" murmurs the gratified man. "I am glad to know that."

"Yes; at one time I thought of marrying you."

"Oh," he replies dejectedly. "I thought for the moment that there might have been something that made me different from all the other men you ever knew"—Life.

His News Ads Got Results.

Omaha, Neb., May 11.—Special to The News: The second annual convention of the State Electrical society opened here today. President E. A. Bullock of Norfolk, in his opening address, emphasized the fact that the object of the association is not to raise rates but to derive mutual benefit from interchange of ideas regarding electricity and electric plants. Not even uniformly in rates is aimed at, due to different cost problems in various localities.

Mr. Bullock suggested the formation of a "new business" department for small plants of the state. He would have an expert solicitor employed who could devote a small portion of his time at each of several plants, getting new business for it. In this way each town could be carefully canvassed annually but without the heavy all-year expense on each plant. In this regard the speaker said:

"There is a great deal of business in your town that can be secured for you by some man who has no pecuniary interest in your plant, and who is a stranger to your customers. People are so apt to believe the stranger in preference to you, not because your reputation for truth and veracity is bad, but because anything you say is discounted."

Good Results From Advertising.

Mr. Bullock, who has secured exceedingly satisfactory results from his advertising in The Norfolk Daily News, told the convention that newspaper advertising pays big returns if used right. In this connection he said:

"I am a strong advocate of local newspaper advertising. Last year we used practically no other method of soliciting residence business, and our new customers from this source were almost double that of any other one year."

"You can use this space not only to secure new business, but to keep your customers and the people in your locality acquainted with your plant—it gives them a personal interest in it."

"You must get away from the theory advanced by Mr. Vanderbilt a great many years ago—that it is none of the people's business how you run your plant. It may not be any of their business, but they will make it their business if you act on any such hypothesis."

Service That Should be Given.

"You have agreed to grow and develop this property with the growth and development of the city. Which means that if you put in a plant for a town with a population of 2,000, and a midnight service, that when this town becomes a city of 5,000 or more, you must have a plant suitable for a city of this size, and probably operating a twenty-four hour service."

"Again, you have agreed to give the citizens of the city or town good regulation, and practically continuous service. "No city will be satisfied—and you ought not to expect it to be—with a service which is intermittent in its character."

"Accidents will happen, but there is no excuse for their being frequent; and you have agreed, as I stated before, that you will not have them happen."

"Again, while it may not be stipulated in your franchise, you have agreed to give them reasonable rates. This question of rates is, of course, the most serious one with which you have to deal. But, in my mind, the question of rates is almost self adjusting. In every community conditions are different, so that it is impossible to say from outside what would be the correct rate; but you will find that the lowering of some of your rates, especially to the long hour customer, will give you the greatest return on your investment, and when this is true, no one will discover it sooner than you yourselves."

"It will not be nearly so hard to satisfy your customers with the rates they are getting, as it is to satisfy yourself that you have established the right rate, because we all know that a rate too high is much more dangerous to the owner of the plant than to the consumers. The lower rate frequently may produce a greater net profit than a higher one. This is in your contract, although you possibly did not see it."

"I think, also, that in your dealing with the city for the lighting of its streets, that you should be more than liberal—doing the city lighting at very close to your cost."

"You should also thoroughly familiarize yourself with the best plan for lighting the streets of the city you are operating in, and you should give them the benefit of this information."

Balloon Lands at Jackson, Neb.

Omaha, May 11.—Army balloon No. 1, which ascended from Fort Omaha shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday, landed at Jackson, Neb., at 5:45 last evening. In making the landing, the gas bag exploded a few feet about the ground, but neither Captain Chandler nor Lieutenant Ware, who made the flight, was seriously injured.

Almost to Norfolk.

The town of Jackson is about seventy miles northeast of Norfolk. Lieutenant Ware declared that, aside from the destruction of the gas bag, the flight was an entire success. Captain Chandler believes that while at a high altitude the gas bag became charged with static electricity and on reaching the ground contact with the earth caused an arc to form, thus producing an electric spark which set fire to the bag.

The highest altitude reached was 4,400 feet, shortly after the balloon left the earth. A fair breeze carried the bag at a thirty-mile gait the first hour, when the wind died down and the balloon was becalmed for an hour and a half. The wind then sprang up and carried the big bag at a rapid rate to the northwest.

Running out of ballast in the vicinity of Jackson, Captain Chandler decided to make a landing. The balloon came down in an open field in an easy manner, but just as it reached the earth the explosion occurred.

Explosion Destroys Balloon.

Both Captain Chandler and Lieutenant Ware were knocked down by the force of the explosion, but not seriously injured. Captain Chandler said that, despite the destruction of the balloon, much was accomplished in an experimental way by the flight. The bag was a new one and had never before been inflated.

Reached Fifty Miles an Hour.

The distance traveled was about 120 miles, and, deducting the hour and a half that the balloon was becalmed, the flight was made in about six hours. Much of the time, however, up to 3 o'clock the wind was so low that the balloon moved only about five to eight miles an hour. The maximum speed reached was about fifty miles.

The occupants of the balloon were taken to town in a farmer's wagon and are expected to reach Omaha this morning.

Took Photographs Enroute.

The weather was ideal, the temperature being about 70. The occupants of the basket did not reach an altitude which would make it uncomfortable, and were able to take numerous photographs and measurements which, together with a test of the new balloon, formed the principal objects of the flight.

Loss of Balloon Will Stop Work.

The bag had a capacity of 19,000 cubic feet of gas and a lifting power of 1,300 pounds. It was built in France and was of considerable value. The destruction of this balloon will temporarily impede the work of the signal corps at Fort Omaha, but Colonel Glassford, the commanding officer, expects a new one will be soon on hand for experimental purposes.

This flight was the first of a series of aerial events arranged by the Fort Omaha signal corps station, which has recently been equipped with modern appliances for ballooning and other signal work.

Wayne Democrat Damaged by Fire.

Wayne, Neb., May 11.—Special to The News: Fire here last night destroyed a pool hall and gutted the Wayne Democrat building and plant. The pool hall and bowling alley of D. A. Jones was completely destroyed, Jones carried $1,900 insurance, which will not cover the loss.

Editor Goldie, of the Democrat, sustained a loss of about $1,000. He carried $1,400 insurance. The upper half of his building was burned, though the fire was kept off the presses. Much of the plant's equipment is out in the street. Some of the type is piled.

The fire started from the explosion of a gasoline lamp in the pool hall.

NATIONAL BANKS MAY INSURE.

Attorney General Wickersham Hands Down Opinion on Matter.

Washington, May 11.—It is a matter for the discretion of the directors and officers of a national bank to determine whether they will enter into a contract with an insurance company guaranteeing the bank's solvency, says Attorney General Wickersham, in an opinion forwarded to Secretary of the Treasury McVeagh. "This discretion," says the attorney general, "is to be exercised in view of the solvency and general financial conditions of the company making the insurance and the reasonableness of the rate of premium. Mr. Wickersham says that after the form of the policy is modified to conform to the suggestion he makes in his opinion he sees no legal reason why a bank may not enter into such a contract."

Fake Figures on Massacre.

Constantinople, May 11.—A telegram received here from the wall of Adana with regard to the recent disturbances there, states that 1,924 Moslems were killed and 533 wounded, while only 1,455 Armenians were slain and 382 wounded.

These figures, it is claimed, comprise the casualties throughout the entire vilayet. This statement by the wall is considered here an obvious and monstrous misrepresentation, made with the object of throwing the responsibility on the Armenians to justify the numerous arrests of Christians which, it is reported, still continue.

SEVER'S FATHER'S ARM.

Medal to Be Asked for Georgia Heroine Who Acts as Surgeon.

Bowden, Ga., May 11.—For her bravery in getting the members of her family out of the ruins of their stony wrecked home, a Carnegie hero medal is to be asked for 15-year-old Mamie Price, who lives near here.

The storm struck the Price home Friday night, wrecked it, and buried all the inmates in the debris except the girl. She procured an ax and, guided by the cries of the victims and a lantern, she began to cut them out. Mrs. Price died as the girl cut the last timber from about her, but she rescued her baby brother and a young sister practically unharmed. Her father had been caught by heavy timbers and his left arm was crushed.

The girl cut away the timbers from the body of her father, but the mangled arm was still held. Price realized that the arm held only by shreds of skin and flesh.

So he told the girl to sever the strings with the ax. The child objected, but when the father insisted she brought down the ax and Price was free.

Under her father's direction the child made a tourniquet to stop the loss of blood from the severed arm, and then went through the darkness for assistance. Doctors say Price will recover.

A handsome memorial will be given the girl by citizens of Bowden.

Big Hunt Planned for Coast.

San Francisco, Cal., May 11.—There is going to be a hunt here in August that temporarily at least may take the eyes of sportsmen off of Africa and the ex-presidential invasion.

The big roundup will be in Mendocino county, and 1,000 men will take part in it. It will begin on the third of the month and continue for ten days. The hunters will spread out over a large space of territory and gradually work in, beating up the quarry, which will include coyotes, bear and deer, finally closing in for one grand slaughter.

The big event, it is said, has the sanction of the state game warden, and a pleasant time is anticipated by all who intend to be present.
