BRIDGE DELAYS WORK.

Lull in Construction of Northwestern Double Track.

Construction operations on the Northwestern's double track between Fremont and Arlington are practically at a standstill pending the arrival of material for use in the bridges that must be built in the stretch of track.

The grade for the second track has all been thrown up and everything now awaits the building of the several bridges over the Rawhide and one or two sloughs that thread their way across the right-of-way.

As soon as the bridges are constructed the work of laying the track will commence and be pushed forward to completion. The double track will not run clear into the Fremont yards but will terminate at East end. It is designed to relieve the congestion that sometimes occurs as a result of heavy traffic of the Missouri Valley and Omaha lines.

Using Oil on Engines. The Northwestern is using Wyoming oil on many of its engines in Wyoming and is equipping other engines so that in a short time all engines in service as far east as Chadron will be using oil burners.

A splendid flow of oil has been struck at Lander and its use is proving very successful on locomotives. It makes a very cheap fuel, is better than coal and is more easily handled and more sure. One of the big tanks is completed and another is nearly completed near Lander.

Grade Reduction Work. Frank Walters, general manager of the Northwestern, announces that work is under way on the cut-off between Valentine and Thatcher which will reduce the grade from 1.4 per cent to .06 of 1 per cent and that it will be completed together with the new steel bridge across the Niobrara by January 1.

The company is also working on the Belle Fourche valley railroad from Belle Fourche to the government township in the irrigated district to the east.

Not So Easy After All. This conductor was not so green as he appeared to be. A woman gave him half a dollar and he handed her back a twenty-five cent piece and five nickels.

Seeing that the conductor had given her back a nickel too much, she hastily put the change into her pocketbook and in her zeal to get away with it she got off the car a block before she intended to. After she had left the car a passenger said to the conductor, "You gave that woman too much change; you handed her a quarter and five nickels."

"That's all right," responded the conductor, "but she'll have a hard time to pass that quarter I gave her."

LOST IN CORN FIELD. 3-year-old Son of Dick Oltjenbrun of Eden Valley, Gets Lost in Field.

Plainview News: The little 3-year-old son of Dick Oltjenbrun, who lives on a farm about nine miles north of Plainview, wandered away from home Friday afternoon and could not be found by the anxious parents.

The word was spread throughout the neighborhood by means of the telephone, and a large number of neighbors were soon on hand to assist in the search for the little fellow.

Search parties were organized at once and a systematic search of the nearby fields was begun. Word was received here in town by A. B. Schoenauer about 9:30 o'clock, and this was followed a little later by another message stating that the lad had just been found.

The searching party who nearly all carried lanterns, had just about finished looking over a large field of corn near the house and were going to begin on an adjoining field, when Wm. Kuhl discovered the boy fast asleep, lying behind some weeds between the rows of corn.

He came near being overpowered, and had they missed him the search would probably have been a long one and the child might have perished from exposure as the night air was quite cold and damp and the boy was thinly clad as it was warm in the afternoon.

The child began to cry and the sight of the youngster's tears aroused Mrs. Hildebrand, who was a passenger. Walking up to the conductor she demanded he give the little girl 20 cents.

A policeman on the car started to interfere with the woman, but she waved him aside. Then she calmly informed the conductor that he could take his choice between giving the child her money or taking a sound thrashing.

The conductor was impressed by the woman's 250 pounds of avoirdupois and as he was not exactly in the heavyweight class himself, he surrendered and handed over 20 cents to the little girl.

Dividing the "Swag." A motorman on the Sherman avenue line took no chances on securing his share of the "divvy" with the conductor. After the conductor had collected all the fares, the motorman slowed down his car to a snail's pace and continued to creep along for a block or two until the conductor came to the front end of the car.

Then the motorman demanded his "share" and after his associate had divided a handful of money the motorman shoved the lever around to the highest notch and the car soon made up for lost time.

No Money in It. "O you bunch of transfers," exclaimed the motorman on the Harney line passing Twenty-fourth street at 8:30 Thursday morning, and sailed by

ORPHANS PLACED IN GOOD HOMES

SEVENTEEN BROUGHT FROM NEW YORK TO PLAINVIEW.

BRIGHT, CLEAN LOOKING KIDS

A Dozen and a Half Little Children, Without Fathers or Mothers, Ranging From 8 to 12 Years of Age, Come West to Live.

Plainview News: Last Friday afternoon the opera house was crowded with people from Plainview and vicinity who listened to a brief lecture by J. W. Swan of Lincoln, regarding the conditions on which children were taken into homes.

Around him, sitting in a circle and numbered from one to seventeen, were a row of orphan children that had arrived direct from the city of New York the day before, to be placed in the homes of the good people of this locality, who desired them.

They were a nice, bright and clean looking group of children, from the ages of 5 to 13, and seemed to be looking forward to being placed in homes with a great deal of pleasure.

There were ten boys and seven girls and they were in charge of J. W. Swan, state agent, and Miss Anna L. Hill of New York, who had accompanied them from the orphans' home in that city.

To assist them they had selected a committee consisting of W. L. Mote, Phil Stein, P. D. Correll, C. F. Kalk, Dr. Hoagland and H. Buckingham. Applications were made in writing and the committee and agents proceeded to place the children in which they considered the most desirable homes, taking everything into consideration.

The applications were numerous, in fact, there were as many as five applications for one child. The committee worked faithfully nearly all day and before evening all the children were placed in homes, although some changes were made later.

These children were not adopted, but were placed temporarily, with the privilege of adoption at a later date should it prove satisfactory after a given time. Below is a complete list of the children and the homes in which they were placed:

Louis Hansen, 13 years old, placed with P. F. Boyens of Plainview. Frederick Nelson, 12 years old, placed with P. D. Correll, Plainview.

John V. Benham, 12 years old, placed with E. Wilmart of Creighton. Archie Benham, 8 years old, placed with Fred Young, Plainview. Janette Benham, 9 years old, placed with Rev. F. M. DeWeese of Plainview.

Anna Rahlke, 11 years old, placed with O. E. Engler, Plainview. Frederick Below, 9 years old, Harry Below, 7 years old, both placed with J. E. Shaw of Plainview.

Helen Kitchin, 10 years old, placed with R. J. Jewell of Plainview. Henrietta Kitchin, 5 years old, placed with Chas. Ulrich, Plainview. Elizabeth Dixon, 11 years old, placed with E. E. Goodspeed of Plainview.

Malena Chesna, 8 years old, placed with Sam Rake of Brunswick. Fred Zimmer, 9 years old, placed with Mrs. M. Paschen of Plainview. Lee Peterson, 9 years old, placed with James Hansen of Plainview.

Emory Stewart, 12 years old, placed with C. S. Winchell of Creighton. Wm. Freeman, 12 years old, placed with G. P. Ickler, Brunswick. Elizabeth Kenny, 11 years old, not placed.

OMAHA STRIKE NOTES. Making Change. Omaha, Oct. 2.—An effective lesson in the matter of returning change to passengers was taught to a conductor on the Florence line Wednesday by Ella Hildebrand of Florence.

A little girl gave the conductor 25 cents in payment of her fare and the strike-breaker promptly pocketed the coin, refusing to give her any change.

The child began to cry and the sight of the youngster's tears aroused Mrs. Hildebrand, who was a passenger. Walking up to the conductor she demanded he give the little girl 20 cents.

A policeman on the car started to interfere with the woman, but she waved him aside. Then she calmly informed the conductor that he could take his choice between giving the child her money or taking a sound thrashing.

The conductor was impressed by the woman's 250 pounds of avoirdupois and as he was not exactly in the heavyweight class himself, he surrendered and handed over 20 cents to the little girl.

Dividing the "Swag." A motorman on the Sherman avenue line took no chances on securing his share of the "divvy" with the conductor. After the conductor had collected all the fares, the motorman slowed down his car to a snail's pace and continued to creep along for a block or two until the conductor came to the front end of the car.

Farm Value Increased. Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 2.—To make a profit of $6,000 in four years from the increase in the value of his farm alone was the experience of John Hettinger, a farmer living in Aurora county, who has just sold his 400-acre farm for $6,000 more than he paid for it four years ago.

In addition he raised four crops on the land, which gave him a profit amounting to much more than the original cost of the farm.

The Norfolk band returned from Meadow Grove, where they gave a concert during the Woodman of the World celebration. The feature of the day at Meadow Grove was the load of fire watermelons which was given away to the visitors. The foot races and pony races were also a feature of the day, and members of the band report a pleasant time.

G. D. Butterfield, vice president of the Norfolk Country club, received a telephone message Friday evening from a number of country club members of Fremont inviting some of the Norfolk golfists to a social game of golf at the Fremont grounds. It is not likely that any of the Norfolk men will be able to go.

S. A. Stack of Niobrara stopped over night in the city, having just returned from a visit with relatives in New York and Pennsylvania. Mr. Stack says he would not trade twenty acres of Nebraska land for any amount of land in the east. He says the people there all seem to him dissatisfied and do not have the free and easy ways of the Nebraska people.

Only one car of hogs was shipped to the South Omaha market this week, owing, shippers say, to the fact that farmers are holding back for a stronger market. The car shipped by the Salter Coal and Grain company met a very poor market. The Farmers Grain and Stock company did not shipping this week, but received 1,000 bushels of oats and the same amount of wheat.

A little "found" ad in The News went columns restored a lost purse to its owner within thirty minutes yesterday afternoon. At 4:30 the paper was delivered to subscribers. At 5 o'clock a little girl walked into the Star clothing store and said: "I saw by a want ad in The News that you had found a purse. I lost mine." She described it and recovered the lost pocketbook.

Fire caused from sparks of the kitchen stove started a small blaze yesterday afternoon at the New Merchants cafe. The shingles around the chimney were slightly burned, but, outside of the plaster on the ceiling of the kitchen being soaked, little damage was done to the building. No other damage is reported. The fire department made a quick run to the scene of the fire and the flames were extinguished speedily.

Glenn Wrey went to Gordon last evening for a few days' visit with his parents. A ball was given in the railroad hall last evening. All present reported a fine time.

Guy Woodbury is seriously ill this week at his home on Cleveland street. Postal receipts at the Norfolk post-office for the month of September were $1,624.20, over $100 more than in the same month last year. The receipts here fell short last August for the first time in a number of years, on account of the small amount of stamps and stamped paper sold during that month.

Postmaster Hays, however, is confident that the receipts here for the entire fiscal year will be much higher than the receipts of last fiscal year, which ended in July. William Pace, a colored man about 35 years old, claiming he lives at 715 Leavenworth street, Omaha, was arrested by Patrolman O'Brien last night while wandering about the streets and acting queerly.

Today the man tried to beat his brains out, knocking his head against the bars of his cell. Collins Brunnette, porter at the Elmer Reed barber shop, claims he knows the man and says he believes some one named Pace, who has been a cook on a Union Pacific train between Cheyenne and Omaha, but lately has been working as cook for a railroad outfit near Benson. From the actions of the man he apparently thinks he is in Florence. Dr. P. H. Salter, who was summoned by Chief of Police Marquardt, says the man is insane.

George A. Brooks of Bazile Mills, who recently purchased the Oscar Uhle store on Norfolk avenue, is reported by his friends here to have solved the servant problem. It was noticed upon a recent visit to this city that a neatly attired, colored maid accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, to take care of the infant son of the Brooks family. Mr. Brooks was asked by a friend if the colored servant was better than a white girl, when Mr. Brooks explained the question by saying he had tried all kinds of servants with much trouble, when one day an idea came to him and he went down to Alabama and found an old colored man with his wife and daughter, to whom he made a proposition which they accepted. He brought the colored family to Bazile Mills, where he built for them a little cottage, furnished it neatly to the delight of the old colored mammy (who makes hoe-cakes and sings lullabies to the little one) "and now," says Mr. Brooks, "I think I have solved the servant problem. I can have meals any hour of the night or whenever I wish." Although the servants were engaged for two years, they want to stay with Mr. Brooks forever.

Among the day's out-of-town visitors in Norfolk were: M. C. Fawcett, Madison; Edward Johner, Niobrara; S. A. Stack, Niobrara; Chriss Hansen, Bloomfield; Paul Robinette, Niobrara; Mabel Brown, Gregory; George Nelson, Lamro, S. D.; L. Gill, Stuart; P. H. Pope, Wayne; A. C. King, Stanton; Hans A. Thompson, West Point; Frank Cejda, West Point; Louis Peterson, Naper.

With 5,000 little fish aboard to be distributed in ponds in the vicinity of Valentine, Neb., the Nebraska fish commission car, in charge of Superintendent O'Brien of the state hatcheries at South Bend, was in Norfolk a half-hour yesterday. The car came up from Lincoln.

This is the first trip for distributing purposes made by the car this fall, and marks the beginning of the fall work in this line. The fish, bass, crappies, perch and bull-heads, will be used to stock private ponds owned by farmers near Valentine. None of them will be put into running streams nor large lakes. The only ones used for that purpose on this trip were put into the waters near Wahoo on the way up.

The fish commission recently received fully 15,000 bass from lakes about Nebraska City and placed them in the waters of Cut-Off lake at Omaha. The lakes and ponds from which they were taken were rapidly drying up and the fish would have died had not the commission come to their rescue.

Omaha at Stanton Monday. Stanton, Neb., Oct. 2.—Special to The News: The Omaha Western league baseball team will be in Stanton Monday for a game of ball, and the local fans are looking ahead to a great game. Two or three of the best pitchers of these parts will be there to show their skill in pitching against league players. The Stanton team will be stronger than it has been this season, as all the old players will be in the line-up. Business houses will be asked to close, and everybody will be at the game. Game will be called at 3:30, so that visitors by train can come and return the same day.

Paving Brick Back in Library. Paving brick of rich, dark color has been substituted for ordinary brick at the last moment in the plans for the new $10,000 Carnegie library building, for which excavating is now being done at the corner of Norfolk avenue and Eighth street. The additional cost will be about $300, but it is believed that this small sum can be raised without difficulty, in view of the fact that the improvement in the appearance of the building will be very great. This was determined by the building committee of the library board after consultation with Contractor Woerth last night. To Mrs. George D. Butterfield, who is a member of the board, is due credit for accomplishing the change, as it was her suggestion which finally prevailed in the matter.

The building will now have the appearance that was originally planned for it, with paving brick and white stone trimmings. When the board passed, some weeks ago, that the building would cost considerably more than the $10,000 which Mr. Carnegie will give, a number of features were eliminated to save expense. Among the features stricken from the plans for a time were both paving brick and stone trimmings.

Efforts in behalf of both these features were finally successful, however, in re-establishing them in the plans, and the building will look, when finished, much as the first draft of plans contemplated.

Big Horse Show is Planned. Much interest is shown in the horse show which will take place in Norfolk the latter part of this month. The show, which is being arranged by G. L. Carlson, a prominent horsebreeder of this city, under the auspices of the Commercial club, with W. A. Witzgann and P. M. Barrett as the committee, will be given over entirely to horses, and many farmers are expected here to participate in the exhibition of breeding qualities.

Mr. Carlson had intended to open the show here next week, but on account of some of the officials of the state university, who will deliver addresses at the show, finding it impossible to be here at such an early date, it has been postponed to a date not later than October 30. W. S. Steel of Sioux City, well known in live stock circles, will be among those who deliver addresses.

Among the features of the program will be the microscopical demonstration by Mr. Carlson on the origin of life of the horse. Many prizes in money are to be contested for, in which the open class, open harness foals, best five foals and others will be entered.

Mr. Carlson, during the program, will put his draft stallion, Nicolas, against any draft stallion in the world for the five best foals. This stallion, which is 14 years old, has bred 300 foals this year, is a beautiful animal and is the sire of the yearling which was sold for $2,000 recently and for which its owner now has been offered $3,500. A brother of this yearling is now stalled at Mr. Carlson's barns on East Main street and, with the smallest stallion in the world, which is 3 years old and weighs 300 pounds, will be among the number of horses which Mr. Carlson will have on exhibition at the horse show here. A Belgian stallion and a black Shire, both of which arrived in Norfolk direct from Europe in March, are also among the number.

Mr. Carlson has been studying the horse for thirty-one years, and at one time purchased 100 Indian ponies, which were destroyed by him in his search for knowledge of the animal.

An artificial breeder has been invented by Mr. Carlson and patented, called by him the "capsule system." This new device for breeding horses is a very new invention and has been used with the greatest success and received with great enthusiasm by the Kansas City veterinary college, at which Mr. Carlson lectures each week on scientific breeding. Mr. Carlson is so far advanced in scientific breeding of horses that he can pick out of most any number of horses those which are breeders and those which are not. In Kansas City he surprised the professor of a veterinary college and a number of others when out of forty-three horses he selected three breeders.

"Norfolk," said Mr. Carlson, "is the best place in the west for selling breeding horses, on account of the railroad accommodations, and I expect very soon to have a live stock exhibition in this city."

The Carlson barns are a very interesting place, kept in the most sanitary condition, and those interested in horses can see many beautiful horses here when the shipment Mr. Carlson expects soon arrives.

Week Campaign for Y. M. C. A. Enthusiasm marked the meeting of the executive committee of the Y. M. C. A. board, at which J. P. Bailey, state secretary, was present. The meeting was held last evening at Mapes & Hazen's office and was well attended. Mr. Bailey has just finished a campaign at Lincoln, where $105,000 was raised for a new Y. M. C. A. building and where he was supported with great enthusiasm by the Lincoln people.

Committees of ten were appointed here, with a captain for each committee and nine assistants, to outline the campaign which will commence October 21 and end October 28. On the evening of October 21 these committees will meet at a dinner and discuss all plans of their campaign of one week, in which they have confidence of raising the necessary amount. During the week of campaigning these committees will meet at luncheon each day at a hall which they will obtain for the purpose, and the greatest possible care will be taken to make the short campaign effective.

"There is no reason why this campaign should not be a success," said Mr. Bailey last night. "On the last night at Lincoln there was great excitement created over the raising of the money for the new building there, and we not only got the $100,000 necessary, but $5,000 more. This campaign here will be on the same plan as in Lincoln.

There is no reason why you cannot have this building here. It all depends on the people of Norfolk. If they want the building I will do all in my power to get it for them. Many other towns around Norfolk, and even Lincoln, are watching this campaign for a Y. M. C. A. building here."
