

The Norfolk Weekly News-Journal

The News, Established 1881.
The Journal, Established 1877.

THE HUSE PUBLISHING COMPANY,
W. N. Huse, N. A. Huse,
President, Secretary.

Every Friday, By mail per year, $1.50.
Entered at the postoffice at Norfolk, Neb., as second class matter.
Telephone: Editorial Department No. 22, Business Office and Job Rooms No. H 22.

Bernard Shaw is coming to America to be insulted. Who will take the trouble to bother him?

We count last year's almanac to be of little value, yet an almanac dated 1667 brought $386 at a Boston sale.

Men conversant with the business situation say that the turn of the tide has come and that we shall soon see lower prices for the necessities of life.

There have been 22,000 bills introduced in this present session of congress. This is law making gone to seed. Let us reduce the quantity and improve the quality.

The United States will have to "go some" to welcome its former chief executive with more enthusiasm than is being shown him in the European countries he is visiting.

Colonel Roosevelt would command high salary as a land agent on his return home. It is said that his trip through Europe will increase immigration 200,000.

New York papers are complaining about the number of abandoned farms in the state. Too many of its agriculturists get into Wall street and farm the farmers.

Japan has 550 merchant ships in the water with a hundred more under construction. The United States has no merchant marine. Japan means to get all the business she can. The United States doesn't.

Emperor William's offer to defend Holland in time of war is looked upon with great suspicion by the independent Dutch people. They see in the offer a plot to defend first and annex afterward.

Since the controversy over the Fairbanks expedition to the summit of Mt. McKinley has been added to the north pole row, it is thought best to investigate as to whether there is a Mt. McKinley or a north pole.

A fake count was convicted of marrying nineteen women and was sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary. He must have found the solitary confinement of his cell an excellent rest cure after such a strenuous life.

Poor Philadelphia has had to suffer a good many criticisms of recent years and now it is called by the Japs who recently toured the country from Tokio in search of business information, the most impolite city in the country.

William D. Howells is decidedly optimistic regarding the outlook for good fiction. He says: "There are infinitely more bad novels now than ever before, but that is because there are more novels; the number of good ones is as great as ever."

The new socialist mayor of Milwaukee hits it right when he says: "The workers of our city are its most valuable asset." Any man who doesn't do a day's honest toll, who is in good health, is a drone and a menace to the prosperity and peace of any community.

The trolley extensions in the United States are increasing so rapidly as to form almost a network. St. Louis is congratulating herself that with the exception of a small gap a trolley ride may now be taken from that city to all important points in the middle west north of the Ohio and in the eastern and New England states.

President Taft stated a truth that needs emphasis in his address to the Daughters of the Revolution when he said that patriotism should not be an occasional outburst every four or five years but a constant feeling of allegiance which every man and woman entertains.

Governor Hughes does not want a place on the supreme court. This is satisfactory to the people. Splendidly equipped as he is for that position, he is such a dominant force for clean politics that he can exert a still greater influence for the common welfare by a more active participation in public affairs.

James J. Hill says the railroads of the country will need $10,000,000,000 in the next ten years for betterments. We are certainly dealing in big figures. A quarter of a century ago we were amazed when we contemplated ten million dollars. Now we—Jim Hill and the rest of us—are beginning to think in billions.

If ever a man in public life illustrated the everlasting truth the one man who is in the right is a majority, that man is Governor Hughes of New York. He is hated by almost every member of the state legislature and yet they dare not refuse to do his bidding. It will be due to the weight of his own fearless integrity if New York politics are purified and the rights of the people respected.

A mist of doubt continues to envelop the peak of Mt. McKinley. The Fairbanks party was financed to make the ascent to discover whether the records which Dr. Cook claimed to have left there. They claim to have made the ascent successfully, but found no trace of Dr. Cook. Now there is a disposition to question whether the Fairbanks party really reached the summit of this ice bound peak.

The Virginia man who obtained a divorce from his wife because of her violent temper, fully appreciated her good points and shortly after hired her as a cook. When he again entered the matrimonial relation, he chose a young, pretty and amiable school teacher who knew nothing of practical house-keeping. He boasts of his present household as the best organized in America.

While numerous great financiers and students of economics have accounted for the high cost of living by declaring the Americans the most extravagant and thriftless people in the world, the savings banks come to the front with an entirely different story. They present evidence that we have more money in the bank than any other people and own more than one-third of all the savings deposits in the world.

The United States government is the greatest builder in the country. It owns buildings worth more than $300,000,000 and spends $20,000,000 a year for new ones. The government carries no insurance on its property—that is, it acts as its own insurance company. It safeguards itself against loss by erecting buildings that won't burn. If it carried insurance the premiums would amount to $600,000 a year; as it is the yearly loss from fire is about $10,000.

A city is but the larger family. The streets, it has been well said, are simply an extension of the home. And so the street should be an expression of the home. That means clean, decent streets. When you invite a stranger into the home you know that cleanliness and decency is pleasant to him. When a stranger comes into the big family home called a city, what must he think of the dwellers therein, to find some, perhaps many, parts dirty, unclean, uninviting? Clean up the city, keep it clean, and the stranger will long to join the family.

Where so much criticism of the course of President Taft has been made throughout the country it is a positive pleasure to give him credit for real and valuable achievements. It is principally due to him that this country is not involved at the present time in tariff wars with France, Germany and Canada. If our trade with these three countries had been interrupted if retaliatory duties were being exacted on both sides and the hard feelings which accompany such a state of affairs were being cultivated not only would our business situation be far different from what it is, but there might be a possibility for actual war. More wars have sprung from such seed than from any other one cause.

Good citizenship as a creed will have an inning in Chicago among the membership of forty-four churches, religious bodies and clubs which have organized the Chicago Citizens congress with high hopes for big results. Its purpose is "to unite all men who profess religious principles of life in the application of their principles to the duties and responsibilities of citizenship." The congress has adopted a commission plan of government, with fifteen commissioners. The membership promises to be such a mixture of religious faiths as rarely has been seen—and still more rarely held together with any permanence. As one of its members says: "The first thing we know, respectability will stalk unbecked through the streets of Chicago. There is no telling where a movement of this kind will end. If we stick together we can do anything. Bye and bye we will judge a criminal by his crime and not by his money."

ATTEMPT TO BURN A SCHOOL.
The attempt on the part of boys to fire the Grant school building merits the serious attention of the city authorities. The fact that there is in the community a boy so depraved as to set a school house aflame, gives sound basis for alarm and the most drastic action in running down the guilty youth and punishing him should be taken.

ADVERTISING A CITY.
The city of Des Moines, which spends $40,000 yearly in magazine, newspaper and circular advertising, has this to say in an advertisement appearing in the current Saturday Post:
"In Des Moines there is no trouble over freight rates. The Greater Des Moines committee has a railway rate expert, employed by the year, to secure fair treatment and fair play for shippers. Des Moines is not discriminated against. The railways appreciate the present Des Moines as well as its future certainties."

THE REQUEST IS A FAIR ONE.
There is nothing unfair in the request of Norfolk and the traveling public of northern Nebraska and southern South Dakota that the Northwestern railroad company remedy an injustice now existing in the matter of incomplete train service to Norfolk. The city of Norfolk as the metropolitan city of half of two states and as the geographical and commercial hub of one of the best regions through which the Northwestern system runs, is entitled to consideration at the hands of that railroad.

The convenience of the traveling public ought to be enough of a factor to induce the Northwestern to grant this simple request.
BOOSTING A CITY.
Many people have a sense of humor too keen for the advance of their town. When any proposition looking toward civic or business betterment is suggested, their first thought is a perception of its weaknesses or absurd aspects. There is a certain self-satisfaction in being able to pick flaws not seen by duller fellow citizens. The contagion of fault finding spreads, and town rises to a guffaw about it, and one more chance to go ahead is laid to sleep under the daisies.
The power of criticism is an unimportant faculty compared with the power of construction. A corner loafer may make perfectly just criticisms on the governor or the president, but only one man in a hundred thousand or a million can do the work of those jobs.

T. R. SPEAKS OF CRITICS.
In all his sermonizing, Colonel Roosevelt has not hit the nail more squarely on the head than in his Saturday lecture when he paid his respects to men who strive and make mistakes and to those who stand by and criticize. His words are worth repeating:
It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or how the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, and comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds, who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least falls while doing bravely, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.

Shame on the man of cultivated taste who permits refinement to develop in a fastidiousness that unfits him for doing the rough work of a workaday world. Among the free people who govern themselves there is but a small field of usefulness open for the men of cloistered life who shrink from contact with their fellows. Still less room is there for those who decide or slight what is done by those who actually bear the brunt of the day; nor yet for those others who always profess that they would like to take action, if only the conditions of life were not what they actually are.

AROUND TOWN.
Did you plant one?
You had to rebuild that fire.
Be sure that the census man does get you.
Norfolk didn't get the worst of that weather, after all.

Going to enter any chickens in the Norfolk poultry show next December?
Hats and other things were high during the last three days of last week.
No wonder the meat bills are high. A Norfolk man paid $1 a pound for a horse.

It's safe to count the Norfolk chicken show before it's hatched. It's on the way.
Following that three days' wind, your head probably needed the services of a vacuum cleaner.

If the census man doesn't count you, just holler about it. Norfolk needs credit for every particle of population that it owns.

All the "Tom Sawyers" in town will be dug out and read over again, just to get another glimpse of the man who is gone.
But the bankers have to work like the very devils the day after they've had a holiday. There may be some consolation for you in that.

The new Elks lodge at Columbus ought to get along all right. Any bunch that would have the nerve to start a lodge on Friday, and the 13th, ought to succeed.
News item says that at the bankers' convention, Neligh, there were free cigars, soda water, and so forth. With free "and so forth" it's no wonder their eyes—but then they had to get up early to catch the train.

"I want to say this much," a Norfolk traveling man said. "In all my experience with trainmen, I've never found anywhere a bunch of fellows as obliging to deal with as the trainmen on Northwestern runs out of Norfolk. They're A-1."
The youths who started the fire in the basement of the Grant school building, seem to have proved that there are real fire bugs in the town. And it is so serious an affair that the city should bend every effort to run down the guilty parties and punishing them.

Who can have read "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn" without feeling a lump in the throat over an announcement of the death of Mark Twain? He has made us all laugh and made us all cry and he held a place in the hearts of his countrymen that was all his own. His humor was so quaint and wholesome, and so spontaneous that all the world regarded him with a reverence that is accorded to few. Some years ago it was reported that he had died but he reappeared and gave out a statement declaring the rumor to be greatly exaggerated. And all Americans wish that this message might be as greatly exaggerated as was that.

ABUSE OF PRIVILEGES.
Abuse of privileges is the usual cause for the enactment of stringent and restrictive laws. To illustrate, there was a time when a man could drive as fast as he pleased whether in country or city. Some men abused the privilege by not using common sense, people were injured, and the result is that nearly every town in the country now has a speed limit. People having milk to sell had the privilege of selling milk when and to whom they pleased; the privilege was abused, some sold impure and adulterated milk and now only licensed dealers can sell milk in the cities. Business places once could transact business on any day of the week and at what hours they pleased, but some of them made Sunday their chief business day while others continued throughout the entire night. Now the letter as well as spirit of the closing laws is strictly demanded and enforced. There was a time when a man could clean up around his premises or not as he pleased; some abused the privilege by allowing filth to accumulate, conditions became dangerous to the public health and the community and so, in self-protection, restrictions such as the cleaning up and kindred ordinances were passed.
Good citizens appreciate liberties given them but there is ever a class who have so little regard for their neighbors, no matter what privileges they enjoy and this is the element who are always making necessary the passage of this law or that law, that the rights of the people may be safeguarded. If you are abusing privileges you may enjoy, you may rest assured that some day the people will demand that they be taken from you. It matters not whether you be as rich as Rockefeller or as poor as Job, for abuse of privilege is not liberty, but license and is repugnant to the spirit of the American people, the great lovers of liberty the world has ever seen.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.
A cynic is always a liar.
Yours is the only hobby that is not foolish.
If we were a girl we would insist on being named Roberta.
Doesn't it often occur to you that the devil has a grudge against you?
When you say a man refuses to listen to reason, it means that he fails to agree with you.
It usually takes a stronger hint to induce a visitor to go than was required to get him to come.
If a woman has proper pride she will never forget her dignity, not even when running to a fire.
Our idea of an unusual man is one who doesn't have a lot of worthless junk he considers valuable.
Many people imagine that unless they show their bristles constantly they will be imposed upon.
An old-fashioned mother's idea of "neglecting duty" is to hire a nurse to take care of the children.
No man wants to live long after his range of usefulness is restricted to helping the doctors make a living.
The older people get, the less regard they have for looks in their "nights," and the more for comfort.
It has been our experience that when the weather is pleasant and fishing agreeable fish won't bite.
"I don't care what the fools think," an angry man said today. "Then you don't care what anybody thinks," another man said.
Since women are transgressing the rights of men more and more each day, how long will it be until they tip their hats to men?
Every boy is willing to do some work, and most of them specialize on irrigating the grades with a hose and nozzle.
There is a certain man in Atchison who is very cold. Church White complains that he walked down town with him this morning, and froze one of his feet.
When a young mother goes insane, there is always a suspicion that her insanity is due to puzzling her brain trying to invent an entirely new name for her baby.
An old-fashioned woman's idea of public disgrace is for any man member of the family to get so mad he stays down town at a hotel all night.
This is the time of the year when a man feels like giving up his business for his hobbies, if he believes one interferes with the other.
When a man makes a lot of money, the people look at him as if to say, "Now what share of that do you intend to give to your wife's kin?"
A certain man in Atchison will never be content until some woman takes poison for him, and thus forever establish the fact that women love him.
The girl with new low shoes, pretty ankles and fancy hose does what she can to avoid contaminating the home by dragging in the germs from the sidewalk.
What has become of the old-fashioned man who sat around down town until noon, and then said, as he started away: "Well, I'll go home and see if the neighbors have brought in anything!"
Among the things which every woman knows may be mentioned the fact that man objects to house cleaning, and objects if the house isn't clean.
An automobile agent said today, "I know that I represent the best automobile in the world, and to save my life I can't understand why people buy other machines."
Several years ago an Atchison woman became famous for home-made pies. Finally her reputation became so great that she employed a professional baker to make them.
Speaking of the wisdom of age there are very many more foolish old men than there are wise ones. But it is also a fact that the "young blood" idea has been greatly overdone.
The chief of police say that when a citizen is accused of maintaining a nuisance and a policeman goes to him, the citizen claims that the man making the complaint wants to buy his property, and is trying to make it so hot for him that he will sell at a low price.
Are you as good a workman as there is in the shop? Or do you admit that others are more competent than you are, and then fuss because they receive more pay than you receive? If you want to get ahead, be the best workman on the job; it won't be long before your pay is raised.
Chauncey Devereux Appleton, the boy statistician, has figured that that reason there are not so many marriages these days is that young men no longer walk with the young men no longer walk with the young women in the gloaming. He finds that in the old-time marriage engagements, "What," he asks in clarion tones, "has become of the gloaming anyhow?"

MOINES COMMITTEE HAS A RAILWAY RATE EXPERT, EMPLOYED BY THE YEAR, TO SECURE FAIR TREATMENT AND FAIR PLAY FOR SHIPPERS. DES MOINES IS NOT DISCRIMINATED AGAINST. THE RAILWAYS APPRECIATE THE PRESENT DES MOINES AS WELL AS ITS FUTURE CERTAINITIES.

ABUSE OF PRIVILEGES.
Abuse of privileges is the usual cause for the enactment of stringent and restrictive laws. To illustrate, there was a time when a man could drive as fast as he pleased whether in country or city. Some men abused the privilege by not using common sense, people were injured, and the result is that nearly every town in the country now has a speed limit. People having milk to sell had the privilege of selling milk when and to whom they pleased; the privilege was abused, some sold impure and adulterated milk and now only licensed dealers can sell milk in the cities. Business places once could transact business on any day of the week and at what hours they pleased, but some of them made Sunday their chief business day while others continued throughout the entire night. Now the letter as well as spirit of the closing laws is strictly demanded and enforced. There was a time when a man could clean up around his premises or not as he pleased; some abused the privilege by allowing filth to accumulate, conditions became dangerous to the public health and the community and so, in self-protection, restrictions such as the cleaning up and kindred ordinances were passed.
Good citizens appreciate liberties given them but there is ever a class who have so little regard for their neighbors, no matter what privileges they enjoy and this is the element who are always making necessary the passage of this law or that law, that the rights of the people may be safeguarded. If you are abusing privileges you may enjoy, you may rest assured that some day the people will demand that they be taken from you. It matters not whether you be as rich as Rockefeller or as poor as Job, for abuse of privilege is not liberty, but license and is repugnant to the spirit of the American people, the great lovers of liberty the world has ever seen.

AROUND TOWN.
Did you plant one?
You had to rebuild that fire.
Be sure that the census man does get you.
Norfolk didn't get the worst of that weather, after all.

Going to enter any chickens in the Norfolk poultry show next December?
Hats and other things were high during the last three days of last week.
No wonder the meat bills are high. A Norfolk man paid $1 a pound for a horse.

It's safe to count the Norfolk chicken show before it's hatched. It's on the way.
Following that three days' wind, your head probably needed the services of a vacuum cleaner.

If the census man doesn't count you, just holler about it. Norfolk needs credit for every particle of population that it owns.

All the "Tom Sawyers" in town will be dug out and read over again, just to get another glimpse of the man who is gone.
But the bankers have to work like the very devils the day after they've had a holiday. There may be some consolation for you in that.

The new Elks lodge at Columbus ought to get along all right. Any bunch that would have the nerve to start a lodge on Friday, and the 13th, ought to succeed.
News item says that at the bankers' convention, Neligh, there were free cigars, soda water, and so forth. With free "and so forth" it's no wonder their eyes—but then they had to get up early to catch the train.

"I want to say this much," a Norfolk traveling man said. "In all my experience with trainmen, I've never found anywhere a bunch of fellows as obliging to deal with as the trainmen on Northwestern runs out of Norfolk. They're A-1."
The youths who started the fire in the basement of the Grant school building, seem to have proved that there are real fire bugs in the town. And it is so serious an affair that the city should bend every effort to run down the guilty parties and punishing them.

Who can have read "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn" without feeling a lump in the throat over an announcement of the death of Mark Twain? He has made us all laugh and made us all cry and he held a place in the hearts of his countrymen that was all his own. His humor was so quaint and wholesome, and so spontaneous that all the world regarded him with a reverence that is accorded to few. Some years ago it was reported that he had died but he reappeared and gave out a statement declaring the rumor to be greatly exaggerated. And all Americans wish that this message might be as greatly exaggerated as was that.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.
A cynic is always a liar.
Yours is the only hobby that is not foolish.
If we were a girl we would insist on being named Roberta.
Doesn't it often occur to you that the devil has a grudge against you?
When you say a man refuses to listen to reason, it means that he fails to agree with you.
It usually takes a stronger hint to induce a visitor to go than was required to get him to come.
If a woman has proper pride she will never forget her dignity, not even when running to a fire.
Our idea of an unusual man is one who doesn't have a lot of worthless junk he considers valuable.
Many people imagine that unless they show their bristles constantly they will be imposed upon.
An old-fashioned mother's idea of "neglecting duty" is to hire a nurse to take care of the children.
No man wants to live long after his range of usefulness is restricted to helping the doctors make a living.
The older people get, the less regard they have for looks in their "nights," and the more for comfort.
It has been our experience that when the weather is pleasant and fishing agreeable fish won't bite.
"I don't care what the fools think," an angry man said today. "Then you don't care what anybody thinks," another man said.
Since women are transgressing the rights of men more and more each day, how long will it be until they tip their hats to men?
Every boy is willing to do some work, and most of them specialize on irrigating the grades with a hose and nozzle.
There is a certain man in Atchison who is very cold. Church White complains that he walked down town with him this morning, and froze one of his feet.
When a young mother goes insane, there is always a suspicion that her insanity is due to puzzling her brain trying to invent an entirely new name for her baby.
An old-fashioned woman's idea of public disgrace is for any man member of the family to get so mad he stays down town at a hotel all night.
This is the time of the year when a man feels like giving up his business for his hobbies, if he believes one interferes with the other.
When a man makes a lot of money, the people look at him as if to say, "Now what share of that do you intend to give to your wife's kin?"
A certain man in Atchison will never be content until some woman takes poison for him, and thus forever establish the fact that women love him.
The girl with new low shoes, pretty ankles and fancy hose does what she can to avoid contaminating the home by dragging in the germs from the sidewalk.
What has become of the old-fashioned man who sat around down town until noon, and then said, as he started away: "Well, I'll go home and see if the neighbors have brought in anything!"
Among the things which every woman knows may be mentioned the fact that man objects to house cleaning, and objects if the house isn't clean.
An automobile agent said today, "I know that I represent the best automobile in the world, and to save my life I can't understand why people buy other machines."
Several years ago an Atchison woman became famous for home-made pies. Finally her reputation became so great that she employed a professional baker to make them.
Speaking of the wisdom of age there are very many more foolish old men than there are wise ones. But it is also a fact that the "young blood" idea has been greatly overdone.
The chief of police say that when a citizen is accused of maintaining a nuisance and a policeman goes to him, the citizen claims that the man making the complaint wants to buy his property, and is trying to make it so hot for him that he will sell at a low price.
Are you as good a workman as there is in the shop? Or do you admit that others are more competent than you are, and then fuss because they receive more pay than you receive? If you want to get ahead, be the best workman on the job; it won't be long before your pay is raised.
Chauncey Devereux Appleton, the boy statistician, has figured that that reason there are not so many marriages these days is that young men no longer walk with the young men no longer walk with the young women in the gloaming. He finds that in the old-time marriage engagements, "What," he asks in clarion tones, "has become of the gloaming anyhow?"

ABUSE OF PRIVILEGES.
Abuse of privileges is the usual cause for the enactment of stringent and restrictive laws. To illustrate, there was a time when a man could drive as fast as he pleased whether in country or city. Some men abused the privilege by not using common sense, people were injured, and the result is that nearly every town in the country now has a speed limit. People having milk to sell had the privilege of selling milk when and to whom they pleased; the privilege was abused, some sold impure and adulterated milk and now only licensed dealers can sell milk in the cities. Business places once could transact business on any day of the week and at what hours they pleased, but some of them made Sunday their chief business day while others continued throughout the entire night. Now the letter as well as spirit of the closing laws is strictly demanded and enforced. There was a time when a man could clean up around his premises or not as he pleased; some abused the privilege by allowing filth to accumulate, conditions became dangerous to the public health and the community and so, in self-protection, restrictions such as the cleaning up and kindred ordinances were passed.
Good citizens appreciate liberties given them but there is ever a class who have so little regard for their neighbors, no matter what privileges they enjoy and this is the element who are always making necessary the passage of this law or that law, that the rights of the people may be safeguarded. If you are abusing privileges you may enjoy, you may rest assured that some day the people will demand that they be taken from you. It matters not whether you be as rich as Rockefeller or as poor as Job, for abuse of privilege is not liberty, but license and is repugnant to the spirit of the American people, the great lovers of liberty the world has ever seen.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.
A cynic is always a liar.
Yours is the only hobby that is not foolish.
If we were a girl we would insist on being named Roberta.
Doesn't it often occur to you that the devil has a grudge against you?
When you say a man refuses to listen to reason, it means that he fails to agree with you.
It usually takes a stronger hint to induce a visitor to go than was required to get him to come.
If a woman has proper pride she will never forget her dignity, not even when running to a fire.
Our idea of an unusual man is one who doesn't have a lot of worthless junk he considers valuable.
Many people imagine that unless they show their bristles constantly they will be imposed upon.
An old-fashioned mother's idea of "neglecting duty" is to hire a nurse to take care of the children.
No man wants to live long after his range of usefulness is restricted to helping the doctors make a living.
The older people get, the less regard they have for looks in their "nights," and the more for comfort.
It has been our experience that when the weather is pleasant and fishing agreeable fish won't bite.
"I don't care what the fools think," an angry man said today. "Then you don't care what anybody thinks," another man said.
Since women are transgressing the rights of men more and more each day, how long will it be until they tip their hats to men?
Every boy is willing to do some work, and most of them specialize on irrigating the grades with a hose and nozzle.
There is a certain man in Atchison who is very cold. Church White complains that he walked down town with him this morning, and froze one of his feet.
When a young mother goes insane, there is always a suspicion that her insanity is due to puzzling her brain trying to invent an entirely new name for her baby.
An old-fashioned woman's idea of public disgrace is for any man member of the family to get so mad he stays down town at a hotel all night.
This is the time of the year when a man feels like giving up his business for his hobbies, if he believes one interferes with the other.
When a man makes a lot of money, the people look at him as if to say, "Now what share of that do you intend to give to your wife's kin?"
A certain man in Atchison will never be content until some woman takes poison for him, and thus forever establish the fact that women love him.
The girl with new low shoes, pretty ankles and fancy hose does what she can to avoid contaminating the home by dragging in the germs from the sidewalk.
What has become of the old-fashioned man who sat around down town until noon, and then said, as he started away: "Well, I'll go home and see if the neighbors have brought in anything!"
Among the things which every woman knows may be mentioned the fact that man objects to house cleaning, and objects if the house isn't clean.
An automobile agent said today, "I know that I represent the best automobile in the world, and to save my life I can't understand why people buy other machines."
Several years ago an Atchison woman became famous for home-made pies. Finally her reputation became so great that she employed a professional baker to make them.
Speaking of the wisdom of age there are very many more foolish old men than there are wise ones. But it is also a fact that the "young blood" idea has been greatly overdone.
The chief of police say that when a citizen is accused of maintaining a nuisance and a policeman goes to him, the citizen claims that the man making the complaint wants to buy his property, and is trying to make it so hot for him that he will sell at a low price.
Are you as good a workman as there is in the shop? Or do you admit that others are more competent than you are, and then fuss because they receive more pay than you receive? If you want to get ahead, be the best workman on the job; it won't be long before your pay is raised.
Chauncey Devereux Appleton, the boy statistician, has figured that that reason there are not so many marriages these days is that young men no longer walk with the young men no longer walk with the young women in the gloaming. He finds that in the old-time marriage engagements, "What," he asks in clarion tones, "has become of the gloaming anyhow?"

ABUSE OF PRIVILEGES.
Abuse of privileges is the usual cause for the enactment of stringent and restrictive laws. To illustrate, there was a time when a man could drive as fast as he pleased whether in country or city. Some men abused the privilege by not using common sense, people were injured, and the result is that nearly every town in the country now has a speed limit. People having milk to sell had the privilege of selling milk when and to whom they pleased; the privilege was abused, some sold impure and adulterated milk and now only licensed dealers can sell milk in the cities. Business places once could transact business on any day of the week and at what hours they pleased, but some of them made Sunday their chief business day while others continued throughout the entire night. Now the letter as well as spirit of the closing laws is strictly demanded and enforced. There was a time when a man could clean up around his premises or not as he pleased; some abused the privilege by allowing filth to accumulate, conditions became dangerous to the public health and the community and so, in self-protection, restrictions such as the cleaning up and kindred ordinances were passed.
Good citizens appreciate liberties given them but there is ever a class who have so little regard for their neighbors, no matter what privileges they enjoy and this is the element who are always making necessary the passage of this law or that law, that the rights of the people may be safeguarded. If you are abusing privileges you may enjoy, you may rest assured that some day the people will demand that they be taken from you. It matters not whether you be as rich as Rockefeller or as poor as Job, for abuse of privilege is not liberty, but license and is repugnant to the spirit of the American people, the great lovers of liberty the world has ever seen.

AROUND TOWN.
Did you plant one?
You had to rebuild that fire.
Be sure that the census man does get you.
Norfolk didn't get the worst of that weather, after all.

Going to enter any chickens in the Norfolk poultry show next December?
Hats and other things were high during the last three days of last week.
No wonder the meat bills are high. A Norfolk man paid $1 a pound for a horse.

It's safe to count the Norfolk chicken show before it's hatched. It's on the way.
Following that three days' wind, your head probably needed the services of a vacuum cleaner.

If the census man doesn't count you, just holler about it. Norfolk needs credit for every particle of population that it owns.

All the "Tom Sawyers" in town will be dug out and read over again, just to get another glimpse of the man who is gone.
But the bankers have to work like the very devils the day after they've had a holiday. There may be some consolation for you in that.

The new Elks lodge at Columbus ought to get along all right. Any bunch that would have the nerve to start a lodge on Friday, and the 13th, ought to succeed.
News item says that at the bankers' convention, Neligh, there were free cigars, soda water, and so forth. With free "and so forth" it's no wonder their eyes—but then they had to get up early to catch the train.

"I want to say this much," a Norfolk traveling man said. "In all my experience with trainmen, I've never found anywhere a bunch of fellows as obliging to deal with as the trainmen on Northwestern runs out of Norfolk. They're A-1."
The youths who started the fire in the basement of the Grant school building, seem to have proved that there are real fire bugs in the town. And it is so serious an affair that the city should bend every effort to run down the guilty parties and punishing them.

Who can have read "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn" without feeling a lump in the throat over an announcement of the death of Mark Twain? He has made us all laugh and made us all cry and he held a place in the hearts of his countrymen that was all his own. His humor was so quaint and wholesome, and so spontaneous that all the world regarded him with a reverence that is accorded to few. Some years ago it was reported that he had died but he reappeared and gave out a statement declaring the rumor to be greatly exaggerated. And all Americans wish that this message might be as greatly exaggerated as was that.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.
A cynic is always a liar.
Yours is the only hobby that is not foolish.
If we were a girl we would insist on being named Roberta.
Doesn't it often occur to you that the devil has a grudge against you?
When you say a man refuses to listen to reason, it means that he fails to agree with you.
It usually takes a stronger hint to induce a visitor to go than was required to get him to come.
If a woman has proper pride she will never forget her dignity, not even when running to a fire.
Our idea of an unusual man is one who doesn't have a lot of worthless junk he considers valuable.
Many people imagine that unless they show their bristles constantly they will be imposed upon.
An old-fashioned mother's idea of "neglecting duty" is to hire a nurse to take care of the children.
No man wants to live long after his range of usefulness is restricted to helping the doctors make a living.
The older people get, the less regard they have for looks in their "nights," and the more for comfort.
It has been our experience that when the weather is pleasant and fishing agreeable fish won't bite.
"I don't care what the fools think," an angry man said today. "Then you don't care what anybody thinks," another man said.
Since women are transgressing the rights of men more and more each day, how long will it be until they tip their hats to men?
Every boy is willing to do some work, and most of them specialize on irrigating the grades with a hose and nozzle.
There is a certain man in Atchison who is very cold. Church White complains that he walked down town with him this morning, and froze one of his feet.
When a young mother goes insane, there is always a suspicion that her insanity is due to puzzling her brain trying to invent an entirely new name for her baby.
An old-fashioned woman's idea of public disgrace is for any man member of the family to get so mad he stays down town at a hotel all night.
This is the time of the year when a man feels like giving up his business for his hobbies, if he believes one interferes with the other.
When a man makes a lot of money, the people look at him as if to say, "Now what share of that do you intend to give to your wife's kin?"
A certain man in Atchison will never be content until some woman takes poison for him, and thus forever establish the fact that women love him.
The girl with new low shoes, pretty ankles and fancy hose does what she can to avoid contaminating the home by dragging in the germs from the sidewalk.
What has become of the old-fashioned man who sat around down town until noon, and then said, as he started away: "Well, I'll go home and see if the neighbors have brought in anything!"
Among the things which every woman knows may be mentioned the fact that man objects to house cleaning, and objects if the house isn't clean.
An automobile agent said today, "I know that I represent the best automobile in the world, and to save my life I can't understand why people buy other machines."
Several years ago an Atchison woman became famous for home-made pies. Finally her reputation became so great that she employed a professional baker to make them.
Speaking of the wisdom of age there are very many more foolish old men than there are wise ones. But it is also a fact that the "young blood" idea has been greatly overdone.
The chief of police say that when a citizen is accused of maintaining a nuisance and a policeman goes to him, the citizen claims that the man making the complaint wants to buy his property, and is trying to make it so hot for him that he will sell at a low price.
Are you as good a workman as there is in the shop? Or do you admit that others are more competent than you are, and then fuss because they receive more pay than you receive? If you want to get ahead, be the best workman on the job; it won't be long before your pay is raised.
Chaunce