YES, HE ANNOYED HER. Well Dressed Young, but Drunk, Looked at Norfolk Bookkeeper. A stranger in the city entered a local business house and walked up to the desk, where the young lady clerk was busily engaged with her books. The stranger, whose attire of dress was perfect and whose general appearance was that of an upright young man, stood at the desk for almost three minutes staring the young lady in the face. He often smiled and for some time the lady believed him to be a long lost brother or some friend whom she did not recognize at the moment. But he kept on staring and smiling sweetly until the young lady became frightened. Then he relieved her anxiety by suddenly lifting his hat and with a low bow made his way out of the store. When he arrived at the sidewalk he was seen to stagger and enter a saloon. The young lady is wondering what he wanted and who he was. The question was solved later by a city official who says the man was "drunk."

Egan Will Back Vessey. Sioux Falls, S. D., June 11.—George W. Egan, of Sioux Falls, will not make the race for governor of South Dakota as a petition candidate or in any other way. He says so himself in language which cannot be mistaken and which sends forth the ring of absolute loyalty to his party and to the recognized rules of fairness in a fight in which he lost out by a small margin in the best contest ever put up by a man single handed within the state. He said today: "Complete returns show that I am beaten, which ends the campaign so far as I am concerned. All talk of my independent candidacy is without foundation. I am a republican and the men endorsed by the people at the republican primaries, shall have my support. I am proud of the fact that the official returns show that the voters who defeated me were men into whose faces I had never looked and into whose counties I had never gone. I am proud of my home county with its 3,128 for Egan and 715 for Vessey. I am doubly proud of the fact that where the most slander and vilification of my private life and public character was conducted was where I received the greatest endorsement from the men and women of South Dakota. "It was a great fight. I had no organization, no newspapers and support except the voluntary contributions of time and money from a few loyal friends. I fought the fight free from personalities and directly to the people. I had nobody looking after my interest at the polls except in my home town. The greatest vote that was given me was the free and voluntary offering, uninfluenced and unimpeded, from the people who had attended my meetings, read my platform and understood the situation. The consideration and favor shown me during the campaign is honor enough for one man and although defeated, financially embarrassed and without a profession or a business, I yet count myself rich and fortunate. "George W. Egan."

Party May Reunite. Sioux Falls, S. D., June 11.—Stalwarts and progressives alike are rejoicing over the victory of Governor Vessey after it was feared Egan had won out. It is believed on good result of the scare from Egan's heavy vote, will be the reuniting of the republican party in South Dakota, and doing away with the factional fights in the future. As the ticket which will be placed before the voters of the state at the election in November will be made up of both stalwarts and progressives, the factions will have no difficulty in reuniting and fighting upon common ground for the cause of republicanism. The ending of the party for future campaigns will leave no further opportunity for scares such as that just experienced.

Richards to Continue Fight. Haron, S. D., June 11.—Returns on the state or congressional tickets are not complete, but Chairman Richards announces the nomination of Vessey and predicts the nomination of a large proportion of the state ticket by large pluralities. Burke and Martin are leading, indicating their nomination. For this Richards declares that several hundred postmasters over the state are responsible, they having been especially active during the latter part of the campaign. Mr. Richards will continue to oppose Senators Crawford and Gamble assigning as his reason that in his opinion both are identified with railway interests, Crawford with the Northwestern and Gamble with the Milwaukee; that neither are consistent on the tariff and railway measures as advocated by progressive republicans, and therefore not entitled to the support of that organization.

Johnson for State Treasurer. Aberdeen, S. D., June 11.—The stalwart committee claims the nomination of W. G. Smith for railroad commissioner and H. B. Anderson for state auditor. Johnson's renomination for state treasurer is conceded by the insurgents. The remainder of the state ticket is still in doubt.

ON THE Stage

"A Fool and His Money" Tonight. The Kennedy Stock company will be seen for the fifth consecutive Saturday at the Auditorium tonight in a society comedy, "A Fool and His Money." It is said to be a scream. The company has shown Norfolk theatergoers its ability to cleverly produce good comedy and the audience should be a large one. Popular prices.

Commencement Recitals. The second of the conservatory recitals was given at the Auditorium on Thursday evening, by the intermediate class under the direction of Mrs. Cora A. Beels. The performance was complete in every detail, the class exhibited the amplex of their teaching, and the audience had an opportunity to witness the musical culture which now constitutes such a large part of the system of education in Norfolk. On Tuesday and Thursday evenings of next week, June 14 and 16, the final programs will be rendered, with an exhibition of skill in playing classical music. Mrs. Beels has drilled her pupils during the entire year with the view of bringing out the very best development of the student, and in giving that interpretation of music so much sought for by the world's great masters.

Wayne Normal Notes. The advanced education class gave a most enjoyable entertainment Monday evening in the chapel. It was well attended and most thoroughly enjoyed. Professor Hunter returns this week and will be found at the head of the manual training department for the remainder of the year. Messrs. Christenson, Sears and Ward are the Y. M. C. A. delegates departing for Cascade, Colo., to attend the students' conference this week.

Among the new students to enter this week are: Misses Lulu Taylor, Burbank, S. D.; Mary Brink, Battle Creek; Della Larsen, Wausa, and Joseph Chicoine, Jefferson, S. D. The summer term opening June 20 promises to be one of the largest in the history of the school. Many alumni are planning to be here, as well as many new students. The courses offered are what teachers and prospective teachers wish. No expense has been spared in arranging to make this a most valuable two months for those in attendance.

Mystery in These Rings. A large number of genuine diamond rings have been brought into Norfolk by a mysterious stranger and sold at remarkably low prices within the past few days. Where have the rings come from? This is the question asked by local jewelers who have been asked to determine the value of certain gems brought to them by purchasers of the jewels who "got them cheap" from a "certain party." The rings are all about the same size, a small stone of about one-eighth karat, set in an engagement ring.

Theaterical Notes. May de Sousa, lately a prima donna, but now a comedienne, and who will play one of the principal parts in James Forbes' new comedy success, "The Commuters," which opens at the Criterion theater, New York, on Monday, August 15, will spend her summer near Lake Placid.

Wallace Edinger, who opens in Winslow Smith's new comedy, "Bob by Burnt," at the Theater Republic, New York, on Monday, August 22, under the management of Henry B. Harris, will return from abroad on July 15, to begin rehearsals.

Gertrude Coghlan is summing at Kennebunkport, Me. Miss Coghlan will continue next season with "The Traveling Salesman," playing her original part of Beth Elliott.

On Saturday, May 28, E. A. Eberle, who has been playing Dr. Bernstein in "The Third Degree," rounded out his fiftieth consecutive year as an actor.

FARM TALKS IN THE TOMBS.

Prisoners Shown the Way Back to the Soil. New York, June 11.—A course of lectures on agriculture in the Tombs may seem an odd combination, but it is being tried and is pronounced a success by the prison authorities. All the prisoners in the institution heard the first lecture of the series yesterday and were highly interested. The lecturer was George E. Manchester, a farmer of Winsted, Conn. He pointed the way for those who desire to turn from their old ways and go "back to the soil" after their release.

Not long ago the Rev. Charles P. Tinker of the Protestant Episcopal city mission, a regular visitor at the Tombs, decided he could interest the prisoners in a series of technical lectures. The plan was approved by the department of correction and may be adopted in other prisons and reform institutions throughout the country.

To Submit Option Amendment. Lincoln, June 11.—Editor The News: At the regular monthly meeting of the headquarters committee of the Anti-Saloon League, held on Wednesday afternoon, the following were present: S. K. Warrick, D. C. John, W. R. Patrick, with proxy from B. F. Fellman, T. M. Wimberly, M. M. Claffin, J. M. Guile, S. Z. Batten, J. M. Leidy and M. S. Poulson. Inasmuch as Lyle C. Abbott has been appointed receiver of the Independent Telephone company, and is unable to give the time for the work, W. R. Patrick was asked to frame a short amendment to the Bloom law that will give the people of a county the right to settle the question of license or non-license by direct vote. This amendment is to be submitted to several lawyers for their opinions, and will then be sent to the state headquarters for the consideration of the headquarters committee. This is in harmony with the plan of the league as announced last winter, at which time it was determined to call either the long or the short measure of the Nebraska county option bill. The principle involved is the same in either case; i. e., the right of the county to settle the saloon question by direct vote of the people. If it is decided to seek the amendment (as is probable) it will not be a change of policy, but simply a change in the method designed to secure the right of direct mandatory vote. This action on the part of the headquarters committee is not in any sense to be construed as reflecting upon Mr. Abbott, who has been simply prevented from doing the work because of the detail work incident to his receivership.

Two Attempts at Burglary. Last night was a great night for burglars in Norfolk, but none proved successful, for the thieves went away fruitless. The Krahn tailor shop was the scene of an attempt at robbery, the thieves, using a glass-cutter, cut half the pane of a rear window away and endeavored to take the pane out by cutting away the putty. They were probably frightened away by employees working in the kitchen of the Merchants cafe. The Ed Becker cigar store was another goal for the thieves, a similar attempt at burglary being made there. The panes in the rear windows were loosened, but had they been taken out the opening would have been too small to allow an entrance and the thieves probably gave it up as a bad job.

Some years ago when the Krahn shop was located on Second street and Norfolk avenue thieves got away with $300 worth of clothing.

Had to Fight the Pair. James Miles, a Norfolk liverman, had an encounter with a white man and a negro, employes at the S. T. Napper ranch west of town, over a livery bill, and is walking with a cane. Miles could have whipped either man alone, he says, but when two combined against him, he stood no show.

The negro was Joe Phillips, the notorious Battle Creek colored citizen who has a long police court record in Norfolk and who was jailed circus day for lying drunk under the seats at the show.

Phillips and the white ranch employe were being driven home by Miles when a dispute over the fare arose. "We'll not argue this," said Miles. "We'll drive into this farm yard and I'll whip you," speaking to the white man.

So he drove in and stopped the team. The fight started and Miles was getting the better of the battle when the negro jumped in and made an uneven fight against Miles.
