Round About NEW YORK

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 21.—New York has recently been the scene of several spirited meetings, having for their purpose the adoption of a national flower.

Prof. Frederick LeRoy Sargent, formerly of Harvard but now instructor of botany at the University of Wisconsin, heads the columbine forces, and has just delivered a telling blow upon the laurel adherents.

On the subject of his favorite flower, the columbine, Mr. Sargent has waxed enthusiastic. Blooming red, white and blue in various parts of the country, the columbine, says Mr. Sargent, is certainly a patriotic flower.

Meanwhile, the members of the Kansas club of New York, in the interests of peace, are planning to run the sunflower as a dark horse.

Speaking of centenarians—you were, weren't you?—tomorrow will be the centenary of the birth of Dr. Edwin H. Davis, famed throughout the world as a physician, medical instructor, author and archaeologist.

Dr. Davis was born in Ohio January 22, 1811, and died in this city May 15, 1888. He gained immortality through his work, "The Ancient Monuments of the Mississippi Valley," which the distinguished Swiss scientist, Morlot, declared was "as glorious a monument of American science as Bunker Hill is of American bravery."

Another centenary soon to be observed is that of William Page, the artist and portrait painter, which falls on Monday next. Albany was the birthplace of Page, but most of his life was spent in this city, and he died at his home in Staten Island in 1885.

The tendency of young ladies to alter the spelling of their names is by no means confined to shop girls. "The Colonel's lady and Judy the Ogradeigh are sisters under the skin."

The number of people who have discovered South America is constantly increasing, and a considerable addition to the popular knowledge of the southern continent will be made by the excursion of the steamship Bluecher, which sails from New York today on a seventy-four day cruise to South American and West Indian ports.

Recent bank failures have caused a feeling of uneasiness in the business and financial circles of the metropolis, and, despite the assurances of great financiers and captains of industry, the more timid are fearful of a panic. Much money is being withdrawn from the banks of the city, probably to be hidden away in old socks or such substitutes for banks, and if this should continue for any considerable length of time all the "makings" of a real panic will be ready at hand for the purposes of any stock jobbers who think to profit by such a catastrophe.

LAMY BROTHERS, SPEED AND JUMPING ICE SKATING CHAMPIONS.

F. C. Lamy, father of Edmund Lamy, the world's champion ice skater, is probably the most picturesque character in the realm of sport today, for in addition to having in his charge the most illustrious ice speed merchant of the present time he has also two younger sons, Ernest and Claudius, who give promise of occupying the place held by the older brother in a few years to come.

Lamy the elder is probably as much responsible for the success of his son Edmund as any other agency which has had to do with making the boy a champion. When Edmund started out in the sport the father attended to the most minute detail of the training of the boy, and he would not let any other hands care for the skater, either just before or immediately after a race.

Edmund broke the world's amateur skating record for the 220 yard dash at Saranac Lake, N. Y., recently, when he negotiated the distance in 17.25 seconds, taking two and two-fifths seconds from the record of 19.45, held by Leroy See since 1909.

The Lamy brothers are the three-speed and jumping champions. The two smaller ones, Claudius and Ernest, have won international championship races in Montreal, Cleveland and Saranac Lake for their respective ages fifteen and seventeen years.

The picture shows Edmund on the left, Ernest in the center and Claudius on the right. All three entered in the international outdoor skating championship to be held at Saranac Lake Jan. 24, 25 and 26.

TALK THROUGH FIVE WALLS. A New Wireless Instrument Being Tested in New York.

New York, Jan. 21.—Wireless telegraph messages were sent through five brick walls between No. 53 and No. 59 Fifth avenue today. They passed from building to building as easily as if the partitions were of copper and connected by the best conductors of electricity.

The present instrument, as applied to the device that does away with the spark and eliminates danger from the contact of the wireless instrument with the gasoline engine.

The Well Dressed WOMAN

New York, Jan. 21.—It is true that times ring in many changes on the fashions of the day, but fashions, too, have their inuring and spring unique surprises on Father Time. If one were to study early periods by the dresses which are supposed to be borrowed from such times, it would indeed be a queer lesson in anachronism.

It would not be correct to call the little new coats boleros, for their fronts are cut into deep Vs and left open to show a vest or chemise and the finish is more like a fish than a bolero. Too, they are sleeveless, and built with wide girdle, with a band of some kind of trimming above, to shorten the waistline.

Little jackets and blouses are always safe to use as tryouts for a new season's modes, because they lend themselves to more variety by reason of their readiness to be "detached." In these days of weekly changing modes, one is always safe in having one really elegant foundation blouse which may be worn with various little accessories and in consequence changed in appearance according to the frills and furberows which adorn it.

There are many good blouse models in combinations of satin and chiffon, the satin being of the very light, supple crepe kind. Some of the showy models, just sent over from Paris to be worn at the winter resorts have big directoro revers embroidered in gold or silver or are of chiffon or net handsomely embroidered in color and gold.

For youthful or slender wearers the blouses with basques are becoming and some of these are exceedingly good looking. In line they remind one of the once popular jersey, but resemblances ceases there, for these new models are of silk mostly covered by fine embroidery design of cord and braid and silk.

Dinner frocks are prominently to the fore, and those need not necessarily be expensive. Certainly the dinner frock has grown to be an indispensable garment in the wardrobe of the woman who has any social pretensions whatever. Of course the cost of the frock is controlled by one's particular needs and social importance, but a dinner frock there must be. For the women who must make a little go a great distance, there are delightful soft silks and satins to be had at moderate prices, especially at this season.

A great deal of green, especially the apple tones, and dark purple is worn. The black satin dinner gown is another model to be highly recommended. Without being extreme, it echoes all the leading fashion notes, the high directoro or empire waist line, the deep color or fish draperies, the short, loose sleeves. A more practical frock it would be hard to find and if one can be sure of a good skirt pattern, narrow and clinging without exaggeration, one should be able to copy the best models without great effort.

A new note has been struck in the latest fashions sent over by what smart American shopkeepers call the Palm Beach trade. These fashions are as soft, sheer, white and yellow linen (yellow, supposedly by age) which are embroidered with steel, gold or silver. The fashions are draped very generously over the front and shoulders of a bodice so that it gives the bodice much of the effect of being one embroidered in the metal used to garnish the fish. Worn with black satin dresses cut in one piece, these fashions are quite the most charming decorative features of the winter resort styles.

William Krotter, the well known lumberman of Stuart, was re-elected president of the Nebraska Lumbermen's association.

The Norfolk firemen, delegates to the state convention at Alliance, Neb., upon a decree of foreclosure rendered by the district court of said county, on the 28th day of November, 1910, in favor of David Rees, for the sum of $135.80, with interest at 7 percent from November 28, 1910, and also for the sum of $2,338.35, with interest at 8 percent per annum from November 28, 1910, and the further sum of $192.90, with interest at 10 percent per annum from November 28, 1910; experiments are likely to be on view on the Cote d'Azur and will furnish to the knowing in the matters of dress indications of the direction in which fashions current are setting; but so far all is in the air. Paris is playing with the extreme classic, as was to be expected when empire and directoro modes gained firm hold, but these extreme modes are always for the few and a blessed conservatism preserves the many from lines too radical.

More and more are the ultra fashionable freeing themselves from the confining trappings of corsets. Even here certain elastic corsets absolutely without stays or boning much in favor. So far, so good; but when along with this one finds the frank revelations of the first empire, the clinging supple folds, the deep décolletages, the very short sleeve or the sleeveless corsage, the narrow skirt cut up at bottom to show the ankles, in word the latest phase of a line as worshipped in Paris—then the fashions are becoming a trifle too classic for the average modern woman's sense of the fitness of things.

Coiffures are showing striking changes and the dressmakers are responsible for the transformation. A frock of a certain period demands at least a modified version of the coiffure of the same period, and when the pendulum of fashion swung back to the first empire and directoro versions of the classics, it was a foregone semblance of classic lines. The expected happened. Where sleek, smoothly brushed hair had clung so closely to the crown, puffs and curls and loose fluffy coils broke forth, and the rage has continued until the fashionable coiffure is a veritable work of art.

Although the matter has been in the railway officials' hands over a year.
