Kelley has commenced suit in the district court of Madison county against the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company asking for damages in the sum of $100,000. Mr. Kelley represents in his petition that on Feb. 23, 1911, while he was operating a steam shovel for the defendant at Houghton, S. D., a locomotive turned over against the steam shovel by reason of which he was pinned beneath the shovel for a period of five hours and sustained therefrom a fractured skull, the loss of his right eye, and hearing in his right ear, a partial loss of vision in his left eye and hearing in his left ear, several ribs broken, and one limb scalded to the extent that it is paralyzed, and other serious fractures and injuries. Mr. Kelley alleges that he was receiving at the time of accident $175 per month, but now he is wholly incapacitated from pursuing his vocation as an engineer and from performing any manual labor whatever. Mr. Kelley has returned from Mayo's hospital, Rochester, Minn., where he has been undergoing operations and taking treatment. Being a man of about 30 years of age and having an expectancy of 34 years, he estimates the damage that he has sustained on the basis of $175 per month to be $100,000.

Flynn returned from Lincoln yesterday afternoon, having delivered safely into the hands of the dispensary hospital authorities Augustus M. Lowther, who claims to have used morphine for the past twenty years. Just before reaching Lincoln the victim of the drug made pitiful pleadings for more whiskey and morphine, but the constable, who took charge of this drug, withheld it from him until the journey from the depot to the hospital was made in a carriage. When Lowther saw the hospital buildings from the carriage window he again begged for "just one more shot." He got this and a last drink of whiskey.

One of Bandits Dead in River. Omaha, Aug. 22.—The body of a man found in the river at Florence Sunday was today declared to be one of the murderers of Marshal George Butcher at Missouri Valley last week. Sheriff Rock of Logan is authority for the statement that the drowned man is one of the murderers. He came to Omaha today and learned that a shirt sleeve had been torn from the clothing on the dead man. A sleeve of the same material was found on the island near Modale, where the battle between the posse and desperadoes occurred.

Judge Cobbe Dies Suddenly. Beatrice, Neb., Aug. 22.—Judge J. E. Cobbe died suddenly today at a local hospital following an operation for appendicitis. Former Norfolk Man Built Triplane. Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Hook, once residents of Norfolk and later of Big Muddy, Wyo., are visiting with their daughter, Mrs. G. A. Peters of this city. They now reside in Long Beach, Cal., and are delighted with California and with Long Beach in particular, which is said to be the prettiest resort on the coast.

Mr. Hook has become interested in aviation and although not young expects to see the day when navigation of the air will be as safe as on land or water. He has constructed a tri-plane which he claims can not turn over. It consists of three planes, each sixteen feet long. The lower plane, which is much the narrowest, carries the engine and the operator, so that all the weight is below. The propeller is on the front end of the middle plane and pulls the machine instead of pushing it, and throws the air backward under the two upper planes and above the lower plane. The operator has an adjustable seat on the lower plane and can move himself so as to balance the machine while in the air. The machine has wheels and it moves endwise when in motion instead of sideways. Thus it can pass down a narrow street the same as an auto. The whole machine without engine weighs less than 150 pounds. He has had difficulty in obtaining an engine, but expects as soon as he can obtain or have a suitable engine constructed to be able to demonstrate the capabilities and advantages of his aircraft, which is constructed along entirely new lines from all machines previously made.

Mrs. Busch Dead, Leaves 12 Children. Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Henry Busch were held by Rev. Otto Bergfelder of the St. Johannes church at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the Busch home on South Sixth and Grove streets. Interment was made in the Prospect Hill cemetery. This husband, who has been a patient at the state hospital for several months past, was brought to his home by hospital attendants to attend the services. Mrs. Busch leaves besides the husband twelve children ranging in age from 6 months to 20 years. Constable A. W. Finkhouse, administrator of the Busch estate, had charge of the funeral arrangements and has also had some hard work in the care of the many children, five of whom Mrs. Finkhouse has in charge at her home. The other children are in the care of Mrs. Olson, wife of a Stanton county teamster.

Several months ago Henry Busch attempted to kill himself and his entire family. He was arrested and taken to the state hospital for insane. A few days later Mrs. Busch was found very ill from dropsy and physicians gave up hope of saving her life. A few weeks ago she called Attorney Arthur Koenigstein and Constable A. W. Finkhouse to her home and willed her home on South Sixth street to her children. The property is in her name and she declared that there were no debts outstanding against her, but that she had no money. Constable A. W. Finkhouse was made administrator and since has taken active charge of the Busch family.

The 6-months-old baby, a bright little boy, is now in Mrs. Finkhouse's care and the other children, bright youngsters, are asking for their mother. The constable is at a loss to know what to do with them. The county, he declares, should come to his aid.

Last Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock Mrs. Busch passed away. Before she died Mrs. Busch notified the officials that a horse, harness and wagon should be given to her 20-year-old son, who is now employed as a teamster.

Wycoffs Leave Madison. Madison, Neb., Aug. 23.—Special to The News: Fully 500 of the citizens of Madison evidenced their esteem and friendship for Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wycoff and family by participating in a public farewell reception given last evening at the opera house and K. P. hall by friends and neighbors.

Mr. Wycoff having disposed of his hardware, lumber and grain interests here, will start with his family, in a few days, to Harrison, Ark., where they will reside. The master of ceremonies, Dr. F. A. Long, after a few appropriate remarks, introduced Mr. Wycoff's old neighbor and friend, Judge M. B. Foster, who made a stirring address which touched a responsive chord in the breasts of all present. Mrs. R. G. Mossman also spoke in a reminiscent strain calling attention to several of many incidents of noble generosity and public spiritedness which have endeared Mr. and Mrs. Wycoff to the people of Madison. Other short addresses were made during the evening. Mr. Wycoff responded to the many expressions of good will and friendship feeling although his heart was almost too full of utterance at the thought of leaving his old home and friends. The Madison Commercial band furnished music at suitable intervals, and the young ladies served punch and cake. A general social occasion followed the speaking.

Mr. Wycoff came to Madison about thirty years ago, as did also Mrs. Wycoff. It was here that they began their married life. Sterling honesty, integrity and an unselfish public spiritedness made for him in many respects, not only the most prominent, but the most esteemed and trusted business man in Madison. He has always been loyal to the city's best interests and never failed to assume his share of the labor and responsibility attached to any enterprise calculated to benefit Madison. As a member of the board of education, president of the County Agricultural society, president of the Commercial club, member of the city council, and mayor of the city, he devoted his time and energy unstintingly for the common good. Just a few days ago he resigned as president of Crown Hill Cemetery association.

ADVANCED STYLES. In Paris Smart Women Are Wearing All White Velvet Hats. At the fountain of fashion, Paris, the marked feature of the moment is the all white velvet hat. The frame is of buckram covered plain with pure white velvet. The crown is high and rounded at the top. The trimming is of white aigrets, wings or large ribbon bows. The lace or plaited mousseline de soie plume is now the vogue, and it is to be introduced on the early fall and winter models. There is a fancy for wearing gray gloves in the morning with all informal costumes. These have one button at the wrist and are then turned widely over the hand into a cuff, which is lined with empire green or Egyptian braid. It is quite a fashion of the moment to have this top cuff of the glove carry out the color scheme of the costume. Beaded ribbons are among the novelties in millinery that are meeting with approval. Here is a smartly cut six gored skirt with a box plaited effect in front. As illustrated, the scalloped edges are used, but when this trimming is not desired the effect is good if stitching is substituted. JUDIC CHOLET.

This May Stanton pattern is cut in sizes for misses of fourteen, sixteen and eighteen years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 703, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If you have sent an additional ten cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

Boy Billiard Expert is Here. Jake Schaefer, Jr., of Chicago, 16 years old and the best billiard player of his age, was in the city Tuesday enroute to Niobrara to spend a few days with friends. Schaefer is the son of the late Jake Schaefer of Chicago, once champion billiard player of the world. Young Schaefer was accompanied by E. J. Hill of Omaha, Tim Fritsch of Oskaloosa, Ia., and Eddie Kane of Brooklyn, N. Y., manager of many crack billiard players and a close and intimate friend of Jack Johnson, the heavyweight pugilist. The party stopped off in Norfolk for a short visit with Mike O'Hara and at the same time called on the management of the Bates pool and billiard parlors, where it is believed Schaefer may be induced to give an exhibition on his return trip from Niobrara, probably next Friday evening.

Schaefer's party is made up of clean and sport loving men and after a few months' visit in Chicago Schaefer, accompanied by his manager, Eddie Kane, will probably go to Paris, from which place he has received many requests for contracts for exhibitions, or to San Francisco, where he now has contracts to fill. Last year young Schaefer played good billiards for a boy of his age. In the game he made runs of 50 and 60, and would average around 4 and 5. This year he has made a run of 552 at 18.2 ballgame and has had an average of 22. This is the most wonderful billiards ever played by any billiardist at the age of 16. It is better than Willie Hoppe played at that age. "So there is little wonder," says Sam Perkins, sporting editor of the Sioux City Journal, "that Schaefer is being looked upon to take the place of his father in the world of billiards."

Jake has not been matched with anyone at Niobrara, but he goes there on invitation of friends to "rest up" for a few days. Tim Fritsch is a well known billiardist of Oskaloosa, Ia., where he conducts billiard parlors. Mr. Fritsch has taken a great fancy to Jake's playing and has joined the party just for the mere interest he derives from watching Jake play. The party expects to return to Norfolk by Friday afternoon.

MOOSE CONVENTION ON. Detroit, Mich., Aug. 23.—The official announcement of the results of yesterday's election and night parade are the big features of the third day of the annual convention of the Loyal Order of Moose. With the election over, the only contest confronting the convention is the selection of the 1912 convention meeting place. This will probably be decided Thursday. The fight over the 1912 convention has to a certain extent resolved itself into a contest between the east and west. It is conceded, however, that either Kansas City or Denver will win out. It is expected that close to 12,000 members will march in tonight's parade.

MCCOY'S NEW COIN GETTER. Former Pugilist is Now Doctor of Physical Science. Norman Selby, otherwise known as Kid McCoy, having fought 125 ring battles, has decided to become a "doctor of physical science." Selby, as he prefers to be called, has been studying and practicing his system since February, and he says he has in that period gained twenty-five pounds in weight, added four inches to his chest measurement, reduced his waist eight inches, and most remarkable, grown an inch and one-quarter in height. A straightened spine and correct breathing are, he says, the principles which spell health. He has settled in Stamford, Conn., and he will put the principles into practice in a sanatorium. He has framed ten "health commandments," nature's laws, he calls them. Here they are: First—Thou shalt keep thy backbone straight. Second—Thou shalt use all thy lungs all the time. Third—Thou shalt drink half a gallon of water daily. Fourth—Thou shalt take sufficient nourishment. Fifth—Thou shalt masticate thy food properly. Sixth—Thou shalt sleep eight hours daily. Seventh—Thou shalt cleanse the body daily. Eighth—Thou shalt walk three miles daily. Ninth—Thou shalt think pleasant thoughts and banish unpleasant ones. Tenth—Thou shalt praise the Creator for the result these laws bring and tell thy neighbor.

STORY OF A MUD HEN. And the Man Who Tried to Shoot or Drown the Bird. "It is a mighty hard thing to down a mud hen," said a Portland official. "Every one knows this homely bird, so clever that it can dodge the flash of a gun, making it very hard to kill if any one ever wanted to kill one. "A friend of mine who was a great hunter, but not acquainted with the mud hen, was out hunting on the Columbia sloughs some years ago when he saw what he thought was some kind of duck floating on the water. He aimed his shotgun and fired, but the bird dived as the gun was discharged, and the shot struck the water where the bird had been a moment before. As the smoke cleared away the hunter saw the bird come to the surface, and he gave it the other barrel, with the same result. "His obstinacy was now aroused, and he determined to kill that bird before he left the place. He shot away every round of ammunition he had, but the bird dodged every one and still floated in the same spot. In great disgust my friend sat down on the bank and lit his pipe. At the first puff of smoke the bird dived again, and this gave him his inspiration. "To make a short story, he smoked up all his tobacco in an effort to drown the mud hen, but when darkness fell and he started for home the bird was still floating in the same old spot."—Portland Oregonian.

A Wedding Ring Superstition. Although there was a lifelong friendship to back up their business deals, the jeweler was not surprised when his old customer who had married a second time bought the wedding ring at another shop. "If he should take a third wife he would buy the ring at still another store," the jeweler said. "That is one of the superstitions of the trade. A man may have the marrying habit ever so bad and require several wedding rings in his time, yet he never buys any two of them from the same place. Jewelers do not expect it. They don't want to sell two wedding rings to the same man. Bad luck would surely light on all concerned, and there is enough trouble in the world anyhow without deliberately inviting more of it by defying a good old wedding ring superstition."—New York Times.

An Auto Race to Be Feature. The floral hall display is in charge of the ladies and while the ladies have made this department a feature of the fair in the past, it is their intention to make it distinctly a surprise to every one this year; so no one should neglect to visit the floral hall while on the fair grounds.

Another big attraction of each day, which the fair management has procured at great expense, will be the Cretos Novelty Acrobat company, in

As teachers we shall count ourselves happy if, even in a small degree we can reflect, throughout the year, something of her professional skill and spirit, her devotion to duty and the beauty of her life and character."

Miss Miller is the candidate for reelection to her office as a republican, the democrats recognizing her worth and refraining from presenting any other candidate against her.

JOE JACKSON TELLS GOOD ONE ON AN UMPIRE. Joe Jackson, the Cleveland star, tells this one on how an umpire decided a championship game between two rival South Carolina towns. "I was playing with Greens against Buffalo," said Joe. "We had Buffalo beaten 10 to 5, but they scored three runs in the last of the ninth and had three men on bases with none out. "The Buffalo catcher hit a ball that seemed to travel about a mile. It fell foul by two or three feet, but the umpire called it fair, and four runs scored. "We kicked on the decision. The umpire said, 'Well, I don't want to see my home town boys lose, and I don't want to cheat Greens, so I'll compromise and call it a double.' That just beat our team."

LAUGHTER AND TEARS. A Comedy Scene in Which Grief Played a Leading Part. "Stage fright is not one of the emotions which get across the footlights," writes Miss Alice Crawford. "Audiences are for the most part as serenely unconscious of it as they are of other individual sentiments in the actors having no relation to the incidents of the play. "I shall never forget an instance of this curious insensibility of the crowd. Once when I was touring one of the most charming and popular girls of the company died after only a few days' illness. She was one of those sweet, tranquil natures and had endeared herself to us all. Her death in lodgings in the small provincial town had an element of real tragedy in it. "The news that she was dead reached the theater in the evening just as two of the actors and I were about to go on for a scene of broad comedy.
