Notorious Woman Leaves.

With tears in her eyes Edna Ingham, ill-famed woman and formerly a resort keeper of this city, bade goodbye to her friends in Norfolk before leaving the United States for her childhood home in England. The Ingham woman sold her business here sometime ago. She came back to Norfolk from Omaha where she has been stopping to make final settlement of her business affairs and she declares she will "sail" very soon. The Ingham woman has been in many shooting scrapes here, some that have been made public and some that have not. The woman was reported to have come into possession of a large fortune in England but she has confided to friends here that the "fortune" is not "so large after all." There are heavy debts against it, so she will not enjoy much of it. She declares she goes to England to stay.

Charged With Starving Baby.

Charged with the neglecting, mistreating and starving their 2-months-old baby boy, Mr. and Mrs. George Stevens, 305 North Eighth street, were arrested early this morning and taken to Madison to appear before County Judge William Bates to answer the charges made in the county court yesterday by Mrs. Ida Schultz, a sister to Mrs. Stevens. According to reports there has been ill feeling between the complainant and defendants. Mrs. Schultz, it is said, will endeavor to get possession of the child. In her complaint Mrs. Schultz says that the infant is being starved and unless immediate action be taken by the court it will die. She asks that the child and its parents be taken into court. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens took the baby with them to Madison this morning. Mrs. Schultz says that Stevens will not allow anyone to assist or aid in the care of the infant.

Mr. Stevens was getting ready to go to work this morning when the constable put him under arrest. The man seemed surprised and when he was told his sister-in-law was the complainant, he declared he had her arrested recently. Records on the docks of the local police do not show this however.

Switch Track for an Alley. Signed by owners of nearly all property from the east side of First street to Fifth street, between Norfolk and Braasch avenues, the petition asking that the city council grant a franchise to the Union Pacific railroad company to build a spur track from their right-of-way on Fifth street down the alley between Braasch and Norfolk avenues east to the Sugar City cereal mills and thence south to the city pumping station, for the benefit of the city, and all business buildings in that section of the city, who receive and ship freight in carload lots, was granted by the council last evening and the ordinance committee and the city attorney were instructed to draw up an ordinance to that effect.

The ordinance is to be taken up at the next meeting of the council when it will be rushed through to enable the railroad company to get to work immediately on the new improvement. According to the petition, the railroad company is to build the track so as not to inconvenience traffic in any way. Cars will not be allowed to stand on the track. H. A. Pasewalk and A. W. Hawkins, who were present at the meeting in the interest of the petition, declare that the railroad company will probably construct planking between the tracks in this alley, which will enable teams to drive there just as they are doing at the present time. The building of this track, say a number of the councilmen, will not only increase the value of the property affected by the track, but will induce new business enterprises to come here. The granting of the petition alone, says one business man, assures the establishing of a wholesale buggy and machinery house here.

James Dignan, a local plumber who the council believe did some digging for the city some time ago, will be asked to make settlement with Claude Housh, who not long ago ran into a ditch in the southern portion of the city and sustained several broken ribs and other injuries. Housh asks the city for $250 damages. The city will endeavor to hold Dignan responsible under his bond. The bond, however, is only good for one year and the work having been done over two years ago may leave Dignan out.

Mayor Friday would establish a hay market square in Norfolk. He recommended last night that the public works committee get busy and find a location for farmers who come to the city to sell hay. The Foster lots which heretofore have been used for this purpose are now occupied and the farmers are without a lot for the selling of hay. The public works committee was instructed to find a place for a hay market. The committee was given power to act.

Through the untiring efforts of Councilman Koerber of the Fourth ward, the Northwestern road will not be inconvenienced by a long wait for a petition to be signed in New York City asking the city council to create a sewer district on the south side for the connection with the new depot and other new buildings being constructed there. Councilman Koerber had ready an ordinance at last night's meeting which was passed with speed. After its passage City Engineer Tracy handed in plans and specifications and an estimate and bids for the construction of this sewer will be advertised for immediately. Within eleven days the bids will be opened and the lucky contractor ordered to get busy at once.

After an exhibition of a "disc" meter by a representative of an eastern factory, it developed that the city has been paying $12 for a meter which is not as good as a meter costing but $8. It also developed that the ordinances prohibit the purchase of the cheaper and better meter. The disc meter is being installed in many other cities and has proved its superiority to the $12 meter used in Norfolk. The city council ordered that the city attorney change the city ordinances to allow the use of the disc meter. No reason was given why the ordinance prohibited, heretofore, the use of the cheaper meter.

Several of them have been prowling around the Hans property and Mr. Hans captured one in the act of "peeping" through the tent in which Mrs. Hans was working. At the suggestion of a good sized revolver the tramp made fast time from the place, leaving behind him his hat. Guy Nistel, who is assisting Hans, reports that the tramps are becoming too bold on the island and that their presence there is beginning to be a menace to the housewives of that neighborhood.

A man was found in company of Mrs. Whittemberg but because he was the sole support of his aged mother, he was turned loose. Mrs. Whittemberg was given a fine of $10 and given until next Monday to pay. "I haven't a cent but I will try to get it by next Monday," she said. "My husband is working on a farm. He has been away since last Monday."

Hanford was hanged in effigy here last night while a mass meeting was being held to protest against his action in granting a temporary injunction sought by the Seattle, Renton & Southern railway.
