

Omaha Car Conductor Is Shot.

Omaha, Oct. 11.—In an attempt to resist two masked bandits who held up Harney car No. 175 on Thirty-third and Parker streets, at 12:55 this morning, Motorman George Rosenkild received a bullet in each leg from the gun of one hold-up and was struck over the head with the butt of the revolver of the other robber. At 3 o'clock this morning Detective McDonald arrested Baron Butts, aged 17, and Detectives Leahy and McDonald arrested John Gaines, aged 19, who were identified by the victims as the men who held them up. Gaines was declared to be the man who did the shooting. A mask was found among their effects. Both have been before imprisoned in police cases. Butts is said to be the son of a wholesale fruit dealer of this city.

FALL CAUSES DEATH.

Ewing Man Slips from Street Car and Succumbs to Injuries.

Ewing, Neb., Oct. 12.—Special to The News: Warren B. French was born at Rome, Noble county, Ind., and died at the home of his brother in Omaha Monday at 11 a. m., aged about 55 years. The cause of his death dates back a year or more ago, when in Omaha he had slipped and fell from a crowded street car, since which time he has been continually ailing. Mr. French was a man of quiet and unassuming disposition, and up until the death of his parents about two years ago was their constant solace and comfort in their declining years. The deceased leaves one brother, William, of Omaha; an uncle, G. W. French, proprietor of the Elkhorn hotel, and several cousins in Ewing to mourn his loss. His remains were brought to Ewing. Rev. Eggleston preached the funeral sermon. The Modern Woodman had charge of the obsequies, which were held from the M. E. church.

Orders Lights Off the Street.

The mayor has ordered the strings of incandescent lights taken off Norfolk avenue. The lights were originally bought and paid for by popular subscription, to be used on special occasions for the purpose of illuminating Norfolk avenue. Not a light has been turned on during the Rosebud land rush, although public sentiment favored having the lights blazing on Norfolk avenue when night trains passed through. And now the mayor has ordered the lights torn down, offering the reasons that there will be no poles to hang them on when the electric light, telephone and telegraph poles are all removed.

Will Leave Street Dark.

The mayor says he thinks Norfolk avenue will be dark when the poles go down. The poles will be removed, he believes, before any plan is devised for future lighting and how the street will be illuminated after that, if at all, he doesn't know.

All poles have been ordered off the street at once and will be taken down within a couple of weeks. Three strings of incandescent lights have been kept burning at the south side during the land rush, but just why they have not been turned on up-town is not explained. These strings were taken to the Fourth ward from Norfolk avenue.

Meridian Road Reaches Norfolk.

The Gulf-to-Winnipeg transcontinental meridian automobile road has reached Norfolk from the south and by tomorrow will have extended to Pierce on its way to Canada. The present plan is to run the road from Norfolk to Yankton and thence across South Dakota to White Rock, and from there to Fargo, N. D. Sioux City, Ia., would like to have the road out from Norfolk to Sioux City, instead of to Yankton.

The road is being laid across the United States by state commissions. Under the state commissions, county associations are working. The Nebraska road has been finished as far as Norfolk and N. A. Huse has promised the state commission to make a map showing the road from here to Pierce. This will be done in conjunction with C. B. Salter, secretary of the Madison County Automobile association.

The plan is to map out the entire road and then post signals along the road to guide travelers. Telephone posts are to be marked whenever the traveler is approaching a turn in the road.

That the road will be of inestimable value to the territory through which it passes, is apparent. The line is following pretty closely the route laid out a few years ago for a Yankton-Gulf railroad through Norfolk.

More Students Than Last Year.

Norfolk schools have shown a steady increase in enrollment for the past five years. The building of additions to two of the schoolhouses has made it possible for the admission of more students but it is believed more room will be needed next year. The Grant and Lincoln schools, which have been enlarged, show a greater increase of students this year than any other school and with the additional room, the classes are comfortably filled.

There are 1,238 students in the Norfolk schools including the high school. This is an increase of 100 students over last year's enrollment of 1,138 and further increase over 1909 when the enrollment was 1,013. The greatest increase this year is shown in the high school, Grant and Lincoln schools. In the six following buildings of the city the following official enrollment is announced: High school, proper, 143; grades in high school, 155; grant, 370; Lincoln, 374; Washington, 158; Jefferson, 28.

Tuesday night's cottage meetings, held in sixteen districts of the city, were well attended and the ministers of the five churches who are taking active part in the coming revival meetings made it known that next Wednesday night would see the last prayer meetings held in the five churches which are to take part in the revival meetings and all those interested in the coming meetings are cordially invited to attend any one of the five churches. WERE THEY SANDWICHES?

Landseeker Buys Six But Throws Them Back at Vender.

While the hamburger men are telling hard luck tales, some passengers returning from registration points can "come back." An eye witness to one incident of the landseeker's life in Norfolk believes both sides have a right to kick. When the noon train from Gregory arrived in Norfolk Tuesday, a hungry looking landseeker jumped from the last coach and hurriedly ordered six sandwiches. These were dropped into a sack, making a noise like so many beans dropping into a gourd. In his hurry the landseeker did not hear this noise and made his way back to the coach just as the train started east. As the coach neared the lunch stand, a window was thrown up and the angry face of the landseeker was seen directing threatening looks at the vender. Suddenly he reached back and threw the entire sack of sandwiches at the stand from which they came. "Take 'em back—yes; take 'em back," he yelled. Then the sack struck the stand with a thud.

A hungry bird came along, picked up the sack and carried it down the tracks where he was seen later in the day gnawing away at the land rush food.

BOY'S SAD END.

Discharge of Gun Empties Both Barrels and Death Follows Instantly. Grand Island, Neb., Oct. 11.—De-lighted over the return of his mother, who has been in the hospital in this city for some weeks, Carl Lucas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Lucas, hurriedly placed a shotgun in a spring wagon to run up the road and meet his parents, and in doing so met his death. Either the gun was cocked and the jar caused the explosion of both barrels, or a little wire hanging like a key to a seat struck the trigger. The loads entered the abdomen and the lad fell over dead.

Carl had been shooting blackbirds during the afternoon. When he and his sister saw their parents coming, they hurried toward the house, one going around toward the front one way and the other took the other way around so that only the mute evidences after the discharge of the gun related the details. The mother only sufficiently recovered to leave the hospital, was prostrated and had to receive the attentions of a physician. The coroner was notified, but an inquest was unnecessary. It was the only son of the family and he was just approaching the age of manhood, being in his eighteenth year.

MORE STRIKEBREAKERS IN.

200 Nonunion Men Imported for Burnside Shops at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Two hundred non-union machinists from eastern cities arrived at the Burnside shops of the Illinois Central railroad today in a special train of four coaches and were assigned to work.

Strikers stood in groups outside the fence surrounding the plant and quietly watched the strikebreakers marching into the shops, guarded by police and railroad detectives. There was no attempt at a demonstration. There are now said to be more than 1,000 shopten at work in the Burnside plant, or nearly one-third of the regular force.

Strike leaders expressed disappointment that no definite step toward peace resulted from the conference held yesterday by President Markham, Gov. Earl Noel of Mississippi and union shopmen at Jackson, Miss.

Twenty more striking car builders returned to work today. J. A. Franklin, international president of the boilermakers, and M. F. Ryan, international president of the railway carmen, are in the city conferring with the committee managing the strike in Chicago.

Would Help Strikers.

New Orleans, Oct. 10.—A plan to make the strike of shop employees against the Illinois Central a long fight has been evolved by Ben Commons, president of the National Street Railway Carriers union. It calls upon every member of labor unions of whatever character not on strike to give one day's pay a week to the striking members of the federated workers union in each city involved to care for its strikers.

President Commons said the present struggle is the final stand of capital against labor and would be one of endurance. He regards it as a fight on which every union man is interested, and believes his plan better than a sympathetic strike of all craftsmen, a plan to fight capital with the money being paid to men now employed.

New Orleans and vicinity last night were quiet. Strikebreakers were at work at Stuyvesant docks and in the Southern Pacific shops at Algier.

After Striving Two Years to Solve It, It Boos Up Once More.

Washington, Oct. 10.—After striving for nearly two years to interpret the Sherman anti-trust law in the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases, the supreme court of the United States was brought face to face again on this, the first day of argument of cases in the new term, with the same Sherman anti-trust law.

SHERMAN LAW UP AGAIN.

The tobacco case was the last case decided at the preceding term of the court ending May 9. The so-called, "hard coal case," another governmental "trust busting suit," was to be found at the head of the list for consideration today. A case from California and a customs revenue case were on the docket ahead of the "hard coal case," but attorneys in both were not ready to argue them today. So it was that the Sherman law was able to impress on the court that it was still a trouble maker.

"The hard coal case," originating in a dissolution suit begun in the United States circuit court for eastern Pennsylvania against the principal railroads carrying anthracite coal and coal-owning companies. A general conspiracy to reduce competition in the transportation and sale of coal was charged, and in addition a number of special conspiracies by various groups of defendants were charged. The lower court decided against the government on every point except that of the Temple Iron company, where the railroad defendants owned the stock. This was held to be a violation of the law. The government, however, was not content with the decree even in regard to the Temple Iron company, and the whole case went to the supreme court. The railroads and the coal companies also appealed.
