Rev. J. M. Caldwell of Chicago spoke very entertainingly at the M. E. church yesterday, both morning and evening. Yesterday was a scorching and the tendency of humanity was to find some shady, secluded nook where at least a degree of comfort might be obtained. In the sweltering heat the desires of a few weeks ago, when everyone was wishing for warm weather, was forgotten and the universal want was a cool breeze. Today started out with every promise of duplicating the weather of yesterday but the weather bureau promised cooler weather and with the hope that the forecast might be a correct one the worst heat of the day was endured with some degree of complacency.

Mrs. Sprecher, mother of P. F. and G. T. of this city, passed away at her home in Schuyler yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the funeral takes place at 4 o'clock today. She had been sick for about a month but was not seriously ill until about a week ago, since which time she has been gradually failing, although at times being apparently improving. She was 73 years of age and had been married for 50 years. Her husband survives her, but is in feeble health and it is thought that he will not be long in following her to her long home, as he has expressed himself as having nothing to live for, now that she is gone. Twelve children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Sprecher, two of whom died in infancy. Of the ten living children, all but two are now at Schuyler to attend the last sad rites. The many Norfolk friends of the family will heartily sympathize with those who are left, in their loss of wife and mother.

THE STOCK YARDS CASE.

All the Defendants are Now at Madison and the Preliminaries to the Trial are Under Way.

From Monday's Daily:

The famous stock yards case, the particulars of which are more or less familiar to the people of Norfolk, is now on trial at Madison and if the opening of the case may be taken as an indication the trial is one that is likely to be largely attended and prove of more or less interest to those who delight in a sensation.

The case was commenced in the county court with Judge Wm. Bates on the bench, the day, up to the time this paper goes to press, being consumed in arranging the preliminaries and getting ready for the more serious business of the case.

The defendants are now all present, the sixth and last one having come in on the morning train from Sioux City and accompanied the witnesses and others interested to Madison on the 10:40 train, so that nothing now remains but the preliminaries to be attended to before proceeding to trial.

The counsel in the case consists of Attorneys Mapes, Harrington and Free for the prosecution, while Robertson and Robinson will appear for the defense.

The defense enters court with the utmost confidence that the charge of rape cannot be proven, although free to admit that a misdemeanor was practiced.
