HONORS TO A SCHOLAR.
A Brother of T. M. Hull of This City Gets a Professorship in Dartmouth.

The subject of the following sketch is a brother of T. M. Hull, night watch at the hospital for insane. The article is taken from the Lewiston, Maine, Evening Journal and was a special from Waterville, the same state. The paper also contains a good half-tone likeness of the doctor. Dr. Gordon Ferrie Hull, who since the death of the renowned Dr. Rogers has held the professorship of physics and astronomy at Colby, has resigned his position here, to accept the associate professorship of the department of physics at Dartmouth college.

"The announcement that Dr. Hull is to leave Colby, for Dartmouth comes as a surprise to his many friends both in the college and in the city, where he has won the esteem of all.

"When questioned as to when his resignation will take effect, Dr. Hull said: "In view of the proximity of the opening of the college it is probable that I shall not leave Colby until Christmas. Moreover I have not yet formally resigned, but the resignation will be handed in at once."

"Although a young man Dr. Hull has had much educational experience. When only 13 years old, he passed an examination, qualifying him to teach in the public schools of Ontario. Not being permitted to teach at that age he continued in the high school and after three years there graduated with first class honors in mathematics. He was graduated from the Ontario Normal college in 1889, obtaining a professional certificate allowing him to teach in the higher schools and collegiate institutes of Ontario as a specialist in mathematics. After one year as instructor in the Collegiate Institute of Hamilton, Ontario, he resumed his course in the University of Toronto, graduating with the degree of A. B. in 1892. For three years following his graduation Dr. Hull was Fellow and assistant in physics at his Alma Mater. Leaving Toronto he held a similar position at the University of Chicago from '95 to '97, in 1897 taking his degree as doctor of philosophy. In the spring of '97 Dr. Hull accepted the appointment to the chair of physics at Colby, continuing instruction at Chicago however until early in '98. Both last year and this Dr. Hull has spent his long vacation at Chicago where he has held the position of professor of physics during the summer quarter. Dr. Hull has made a special study of light waves and electricity and he is regarded as an authority in this field of physics—the department of the science, whose investigation and development he intends to make his life work."
