

The Norfolk News

W. N. HUSE, Publisher. DAILY. Established 1857. Every day except Sunday. By carrier per week 15 cents. By mail per year $2.00.

The best hustler that any Norfolk firm can employ is a live advertisement in THE DAILY NEWS. Try it.

As an illustration of the uncertainty of fame it is said that Ouida, whose works were all the rage twenty years ago is scarcely read at all.

T. Dewitt Talmage says, "No power on earth is so strong to build up a town as a newspaper well patronized, and its power should be appreciated."

Nebraska evidently wants Bryan nominated for president again next year. Well, he will make about as easy a victim as anyone the democrats could name.

The Newport (R. I.) Mercury claims to be the oldest newspaper of continuous existence, without a change of name, in the United States. It was established in 1773.

If every county had shown the returns Madison county does Mr. Holcomb would not have been allowed to sit on the supreme bench with his pass-grabbing and recount record as bowers.

The fusionists may take comfort from the results in Nebraska, but they will have to search the country closely for any other crumbs of satisfaction that fell from the administration's table.

A rather queer result of the election is shown in the returns, and that is that while the republicans about held their vote the fusionists made large gains. Where the votes came from is a question that has many answers.

Nebraska is the only state with the courage to deny an evident fact—the voters say by their votes they see no prosperity. They will require another season of Clevelandism or Bryanism to bring them to their senses.

Some one well says, "If everyone would carefully and skillfully perform his own work and let alone those things outside of that for which he is especially fitted, a world of trouble would be saved in this day and generation."

The value of your advertising depends not alone on keeping your location before the public, the goods you have to offer, and the prices at which you will sell them, but vastly more in keeping every promise that you make your customers.

The result, even in Nebraska, is no great cause for rejoicing to the democrats. Holcomb was elected governor by 21,000 majority while this year he will receive less than 15,000 majority. Bryan and all the national force of workers for the party brought into the state couldn't bring the majority up to its old standard of excellence.

The success of the scheme for the utilization of power from Niagara falls appears to be assured. This is certified by the announcement that bids will be received for the construction of a new wheel pit. The pit now open accommodates ten turbine wheels, with an aggregate of 50,000 horsepower. The new one will accommodate ten more wheels of the same power, so that the aggregate will be 100,000 horsepower. Thus the power available from the great cataract seems to be almost limitless.

In an article just published by Mulhall, the eminent English statistician, on "Five years of American Progress," some very interesting facts are brought to light. Among them these: The average daily school attendance is increasing much faster than the population: The national banking business has increased three times as fast as the population: That the amount of money in actual circulation is $240,000,000 more today than it was five years ago: That the area of land under tillage has increased 10,000,000 acres since 1893, while the number of live stock has fallen off. It is also very evident that population in the United States is now advancing at a slower rate than at any previous time in its history.

Prof. Bourne of Yale in a recent able article puts in a strong plea for a trained civil service to administer our colonial governments. Such a plea is a most timely one. The success or failure of our handling the new possessions will depend on whether we adopt a rigid civil service system demanding of all applicants thorough training for the position sought, coupled with honesty of character, or shall allow the fellow who has the strongest pull on account of his skill to bring about party success by questionable methods, to have charge of affairs. Disguise it as we may, attempt to evade it if we choose, the fact remains that the stability of this government depends very largely on the character of its civil service.

Chasing The Pigskin.

The football season is now fairly upon us, and those who take an interest in vigorous and manly athletic sports—a no inconsiderable element, by the way, of this great American nation—are turning their eyes toward the college gridiron. The teams have lined up for the intercollegiate and varsity battles, scheduled to be played between this time and Thanksgiving day. Already we begin to read in the news columns of broken limbs, unhinged joints and battered noses, but this is to be expected and does not lessen the enthusiasm of the players nor the interest of the public. However much some may decry the brutality of the game, the collegians will continue to wrestle for the possession of the pigskin with unabated vigor.

Public interest, particularly in the east, naturally centers around the "big four"—Harvard, Princeton, University of Pennsylvania and Yale. Never in the history of the game has there been such widespread interest in these four teams, and never has the question of comparative merit been so much involved in uncertainty. Last year the remarkably brilliant record of Harvard in its splendid victories over Yale and the University of Pennsylvania gave an impetus to football at Harvard which should serve as an inspiration for many seasons to come. Princeton, too, emerged from the season victorious over its old rival, Yale, and maintained its reputation as the abiding place of the genius of football. While Yale and Pennsylvania were the victims last year, there was no discredit in the defeats. It was the fortune of that mimic war, and if any one imagines that these reverses imply their uninterrupted defeat he little knows the spirit and stamina of the young men of these two institutions.

While the teams of the "big four," which year in and year out unquestionably have the best players and set the pace, attract the widest attention, there are hundreds of other universities, colleges, training schools and academies whose vigorous young men pursue the pigskin at this season of the year with unvarying devotion and varying success. The game is indeed more than any other game the universal college game, and the results of the play are watched with keen interest by the public as the college yell resounds throughout the land.

The champion horse thief of America, one Peter Zimmerman, has just been arrested in Indiana, Pa. Peter is 75 years of age and claims to hold the horse stealing record, and there is likely to be no counterclaim to the championship. He has served off and on 40 years of his life for taking horses that didn't belong to him, and, according to his count, he has during his career stolen 150 steeds, varying in value from $50 to $250 each. Mr. Zimmerman is altogether proud of his record. He has never, he declares, stolen a horse from a widow or an orphan or from a hard-working man who had no horses to spare. Only from people who could lose horses without serious inconvenience has Mr. Zimmerman's delicate conscience ever permitted him to steal, and now in his old age he naturally looks back with pride and satisfaction upon his long and honorable career as a horse thief.

The agricultural department at Washington has sent agents to the Mediterranean regions to bring here the Bulgarian rose and other plants from which are derived the fragrant extracts used in making perfumes, and their culture will be tested in various sections of the United States. Nearly all the perfumes used in this country or the essential oils employed in their manufacture are imported, and the department wisely desires to make the experiment of producing them at home. As there are said to be sections of this country which do not differ very materially in soil and climatic conditions from the Mediterranean region, the experiment ought to be successful.

One of the cruisers bought of the Armstrongs in England was to have been completed for the United States navy in April last, but is now advanced only 87 per cent. Though there is perhaps no great rush for the completion of the vessel, the incident is another reminder that our own shipbuilders, like our locomotive makers and bridge builders, are the best and most expeditious in the world.

A Montreal paper returns an advertisement to an Albany firm with the remark that "we do not publish any advertisements having for object the emigration of our people to the United States." This is perhaps prudent. Should the stream of Canadians coming this way be greatly augmented the Dominion would be depopulated.

The Mexican government offered to give President Diaz $100,000 with which to have a good time, and he refused it. Diaz evidently would not be a fit man to put on an American legislative junketing committee.

The University of Texas owns something over 3,000 square miles of land. As that state is developing quite an oil field the university may yet become as richly endowed as Rockefeller's Chicago college.

SAMOAN ACT IS REPEALED.

Powers Will Dissolve Partnership and Make Division of Islands. BERLIN, Nov. 9.—It was officially announced yesterday that an agreement, subject to the approval of the United States, had been arrived at between Great Britain and Germany, by virtue of which the Samoan act is repealed and the islands of Upolu, Savali and the small adjacent islands fall to Germany as free property, and the island of Tutuila and the subsidiary islands go to the United States.

Great Britain, it is added, renounces any claim to the Samoan islands and Germany, in turn, renounces any claim to the Tonga islands and to the Savage islands in favor of Great Britain, and also cedes Choiseul and San Isabel, the two easterly islands of the Solomon group, with their insular surroundings, to Great Britain.

Phelan Retained as Mayor. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Corrected returns show that the Democrats made almost a clean sweep in the municipal election held here Tuesday. The Republicans succeeded in but seven cases on the entire ticket. The Democrats elected the mayor and all other county officers and 15 supervisors. Mayor Phelan's plurality over Davis (Rep.) is 7,756.

Sparks Ignite Freight Depot. HASTINGS, Neb., Nov. 9.—The freight depot at the St. Joseph and Grand Island railway station was completely destroyed by fire. The fire originated from sparks from an engine.

A Very Useless Insect. A writer in the Philadelphia Times who has been looking up the record of the mosquito in natural history has come to the conclusion that it is a very useless insect. Here is the result of his investigation:

"Just why the mosquito bites people is not yet known. It is not to furnish it food, for it is an established fact that a mosquito, after gorging himself with human blood, dies within a few hours, whereas mosquitoes that have never tasted blood have been known to live very comfortably, even through the entire winter and into the next season. The adult mosquito does not need food. During its larval stage it has stored up enough nourishment to last all its life, and it is a normal state for it to go without food for the rest of its existence. All that it needs is moist air, adult mosquitoes being known to pass the winter in damp cellars, living on nothing but the moisture.

"The fact that it is estimated that only one out of 10,000 ever tastes human blood also proves that it is not necessary. Why it persists in torturing mankind, therefore, has not yet been found out, and scientists can only swear softly with the rest of mankind and make the general statement that the mosquito is born with a vitiated appetite for human gore, an appetite that causes the death of the indulger."

Home of the Edam Cheese. While the Edam cheese is a familiar visitor on the table not every one knows whence it comes nor how its cannon ball proportions and gay coloring have been achieved. The northern part of Holland is the seat of the Edam cheese industry, and the consequent cleanliness of the relish is therefore doubly assured.

In making it the fresh cow's milk is carefully strained and the rennet added. As soon as the milk curdles the whey is drawn off, and the curd, thoroughly kneaded, is pressed into molds. This process is repeated until the whey has all been extracted and the curd is comparatively dry. It is then wrapped in a linen cloth and kept for 10 or 12 days until quite solid. Then the cloth is removed and the cheese put into salt lye. Afterward a little more dry salt is sprinkled on the cheese until the maker thinks it is salt enough to insure its keeping.

It is next put into a vessel and washed with whey and scraped to remove the white crust. It is next carried into a cool room and laid on shelves, where it is frequently turned. The ripening process lasts from two to three months, the round balls growing the fine yellow or reddish color peculiar to Edam cheese. The cheeses intended to be exported to this country are rendered still more brilliant by dyeing the rind with a vegetable dye.—New York Tribune.

Saved the Vase.

The little son of an English gentleman, in mischievously playing with a vase, managed, after several attempts to get his hand through the narrow neck, and was then unable to extricate it. For half an hour or more the whole family and one or two friends did their best to withdraw the fist of the young offender, but in vain. It was a very valuable vase, and the father was loath to break it, but the existing state of affairs could not continue forever. At length, after a final attempt to draw forth the hand of the victim, the father gave up his efforts in despair, but tried a last suggestion. "Open your hand!" he commanded the fearful young captive, "and then draw it forth." "I can't open it, father," declared the boy. "Can't?" demanded his father. "Why?" "I've got my penny in my hand," came the asounding reply. "Why, you young rascal," thundered his father, "I drop it at once!" The penny rattled in the bottom of the vase and out came the hand.

Then Do Your Cussing. If you feel like cussing the paper and editor, remember that he can't run it and make it better without financial support, and that he will appreciate it more and it will do you as little harm if you go over and pay up your subscription for if you are a delinquent subscriber, or, if not, pay a subscription for your friend.—Lawrence Democrat.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists; 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.
