Two Pleasant Wedding Parties Yesterday.

PARTIES WELL KNOWN IN NORFOLK

Miss Jessie Westervelt and Swinthen Reynolds, and Miss Fischer and C. M. Hartman joined in the Holy Bonds of Wedlock—Received Handsome Gifts.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Westervelt on South Second street was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday when their youngest daughter, Miss Jessie, was united in marriage to Mr. Swinthen Reynolds.

Rev. G. H. Main of the M. E. church officiated and spoke the words which united the two young hearts for life.

The couple were the recipients of many valuable presents among which was a check for $50 presented by the parents of the bride.

After the ceremony the guests, consisting of relatives and friends, were served with a very sumptuous wedding dinner, to which due justice was done.

The bride was very becomingly attired in a handsome gown and was the cynosure of all eyes. She has a large circle of acquaintances in Norfolk and all who know her admire her for her becoming modesty and charming manners.

Her brother, Jeffrey, who was present at the wedding, is the youngest and only remaining unmarried child of Mr. and Mrs. Westervelt and the date for his nuptials are set for next Wednesday, with Miss Mildred Terry of Meadow Grove, who was also present.

Thus will the last two members of a happy and interesting family drift away from a kindly home that has been their shelter.

The parents are valued citizens of Norfolk and they are responsible for a family of children who are an honor to society and a credit to themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will make their future home in Denver, Col., for which city they will soon leave. THE NEWS joins their many friends in hearty congratulations and extends its best wishes for their future welfare.

The parlors of the Pacific hotel were the scene of a most delightful time last evening. The occasion was the marriage of Mr. Clarence M. Hartman of Sioux City and Miss Fischer of Norfolk. Miss Fischer belongs to an old and large Norfolk family and has been identified with the Pacific as housekeeper for the past ten years.

The parlors were beautifully decorated with roses, carnations and fern leaves. There were about forty guests present, including relatives and near friends.

Mr. Frank Sheets of Sioux City acted as best man and Miss Estella Hartman as bridesmaid. The bride was attired in a lovely gown of brocaded white satin and a veil.

The knot was tied at 9 o'clock in Gordon-like fashion by Rev. J. J. Jefferies of the Second Congregational church. Mrs. Caulfield played Mendelssohn's wedding march and Miss Nellie Morrow played the Flower Song while the guests were extending their congratulations.

They departed on the noon train for their new home in Sioux City where the groom has a home already prepared for housekeeping.

Mr. Hartman formerly made Norfolk his headquarters when he held the position of brakeman on the C. St. P. M. & O. with a run between here and Sioux City. He still holds a like position with the same company with a run on the main line between Sioux City and Omaha.
