The first thunder storm of the season prevailed here during the night and a considerable amount of moisture fell. The lightning was quite vivid at times and the thunder occasionally roared and reverberated in true summer fashion. Toward morning the rainfall was quite chilly and formed in icicles on the trees, wires and other objects. This feature was probably viewed with alarm for a time by the telephone and telegraph men who remembered a similar calamity of several years ago, but the rain ceased about 8 o'clock and up to the present time the ice hasn't broken any wires.

Brunning Courier: Wouldn't a dido like this which was received the other day pull your cork under: "Send me a few copies of the paper which has the obituary and verses about the death of my child a month or two ago. You will please publish the enclosed clipping about my niece's marriage, and I wish you would mention in your local columns, if it don't cost anything, that I am going to have a public sale and will rent part of my farm; also that I have a few extra calves to sell at public auction. Send me a few papers this week, but as my time is out you may stop my paper, as times are too hard to waste money on a newspaper."

During drill at the armory last night one of the members of the company accused another of having his gun. He was promptly told that he was a liar. This brought on a blow on the part of the one accused of untruthfulness and the incident was ended for the time being. After drill, however, the two got together and according to reports appointed a referee, time keepers and other necessary attendants of a ring contest and proceeded to settle the matter in true prize ring style, the decision being averse to the soldier who supposed he was sustaining his record for truth and veracity. It is said the bout was very entertaining to those present.

To Believe Coughing.

A persistent and annoying cough which occurs at night and keeps the patient awake may frequently be controlled by a glass of warm milk with seltzer, or some mineral water, a cup of warm cocoa drunk slowly on retiring. Cough makes cough. "To control cough," says Dr. Abrams, of San Francisco, in one of his popular lectures at Cooper Medical College, "is a matter of discipline. If we are in a public place and our skin itches, we do not always scratch the part, but suppress the sensation by will power. Cough, like itching, is a reflex act and can be controlled by will power. Many individuals exhaust themselves by unnecessary exertion in coughing. Take your cough coolly. Avoid cough remedies if possibly during the daytime; avoid a crowded room before retiring, or, if this is impossible, smoking or anything which will taint the atmosphere must be interdicted. The application of a warm poultice or a hot bag to the chest will often relieve coughing."

The total moisture precipitation thus far for March exceeds that of any month since September, 1899, except the month of December. Since September the total precipitation has been 4.07, the time elapsed being a few days short of seven months. The precipitation as recorded for each month is as follows in inches and hundredths of inches: September .86, October .95, November .26, December 1.85, January .14, February .34, March, up to the present time 1.17. The precipitation for January was remarkably small, being a little more than one-seventh of an inch.

Beatrice Express: A new one was worked in Beatrice recently. A stranger (it was probably Richard Roe in disguise) called upon a prominent dentist, groaning horribly with the toothache. He explained between groans, that he had suffered so long that an alcoholic stimulant was necessary before he could undergo any work on his teeth. He would not enter a saloon under any circumstances, and being a stranger, could not buy what he wanted at the drug store. Thereupon the dentist volunteered to get him a little whisky, and went away and purchased a four ounce bottle of it. Then he returned and handed the poison to the stranger, and went into his little dark room to get his instruments ready for the torture. When he emerged from the room, ready for business, the stranger and the bottle had disappeared and haven't been seen since. This is an absolutely new dodge in Beatrice, and it is particularly funny because the dentist who was so successfully worked is an active prohibitionist.

Self Denial Week.

The week of self denial of the Salvation Army commences March 25th and continues until April 2nd. A circular letter sent from Army headquarters gives the following review of the object: "Self-denial! Self imposed—not as a punishment, but as a profitable, joyful privilege, for practical purposes. This is what the Salvationists are arranging to do for a week. There is no special tax imposed, and yet each member voluntarily assumes a given responsibility. The total raised, they hope to reach $50,000. Last year the same effort produced $38,000 in the United States. But America did not do as well in this regard, however, as some smaller countries. Australia raised $135,000, while England raised $300,000. All of this sum was used for the development of the enormous Christian and humane work the Army has in hand in the countries that raised it, a portion being contributed to the work in the heathen countries.

"This year there is a specially pathetic cause that is not alone appealing to their hearts, but to the world as well, by the thousands stricken with famine and starvation in India. The rain failed to fall, and consequently the crops were ruined, and over thirty millions of poor heathen are on the verge of starvation. Thousands and tens of thousands have already succumbed. The Salvation Army proposes to set apart a portion of the proceeds of the self-denial results to relieve their fellow mortals.

"It is easy sometimes to give a mere donation, but to deny one's self to give the proceeds of that self-denial is another story.

"This is what they propose to do, and what they call upon the nation to do. They propose not only to deny themselves of some necessary article of food or clothing, or walk when perhaps they would prefer to ride, and save that, but they will go further, and canvass every office and every home and store in nearly every town and city in the United States, and request co-operation from everybody. The noble soul-saving, home-building, drunkard-reclaiming work they do all over the world upon such a magnificent scale makes the purpose of the effort and appeal for self-denial most commendable and worthy."

Somehow there is an indescribable strength in the suggestive title of the musical farce-comedy, "The Air Ship," which appeals with a sort of magnetic influence to the amusement loving public. This fact is demonstrated by the unusual demand for seats for the initial performance in this city of Mr. J. M. Gaites' humorous skit at the Auditorium on next Thursday evening, and by its having been almost universally pronounced superior to any of the late farce-comedy offerings. Wherever the play has been presented theatres have had their seating capacity fully tested and standing room has been at a premium, and critics everywhere have been enthusiastic in their praises not only for a well constructed play but for the clever artists engaged to present it. The scenery, mechanical and electrical effects and costumes are especially attractive, while the music is of a bright and catchy order that readily appeals to the public ear. The many specialties are up-to-date and the gorgeous and stunning gowns worn by the ladies have been highly commented on.

S. R. McFarland, candidate for city clerk on the republican ticket, is one whom it will be an honor to support. He is industrious, upright and competent. He has for a number of years past been employed in the coal office of H. E. Hardy and has made friends of all with whom he has come in contact. He is a young man and not a politician. He will be an honor to the office and give satisfaction to the people he represents. There is no reason why he should not be voted for and many reasons why he should.

ENGLAND MADE APOLOGY.

Voluntarily Took Notice of Macrum's Complaint and Answered It.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—It is said at the state department regarding the story that Great Britain has apologized to this government for the action of the censor in opening letters addressed to the United States consul at Pretoria, that the United States government has made no demand upon the British government for an apology. The British government itself voluntarily took notice of Mr. Macrum's complaint and finding that as an incident to the transfer of a large quantity of mail from Durban to Cape Town, resulting in great congestion and the handling of mail by new agents, there had been an indiscriminate opening of letters which probably had affected the consular mail with others. Lord Pauncefote, speaking for his government, disavowed the action of the censor and declared that it was unauthorized in respect to Mr. Macrum's mail. This assurance was given long ago and some of the members of the house committee on foreign affairs were made acquainted with it at the time.

It was supposed last fall that the stations had supplies sufficient for all winter. A good many Indians have come in from distant parts to be fed.

The distance from St. Michaels is too great to carry provisions overland. The first boat up the river from St. Michaels in June will be compelled to unload at these stations in order to relieve the shortage.
