Six coats and vests recently stolen from a Stanton store were found Tuesday in Smithberger's wheat field near that town, where they had been hidden under a shock of grain.

Mrs. Ralph H. Day, concert pianist, and Miss Mildred E. Sisson, soprano, will open the amusement season September 6th with a piano and song program, embracing selections from standard composers.

The choir of St. Paul Lutheran church gave Otto Hellerman a farewell surprise party last evening at his home on South Sixth street and an enjoyable time resulted, there being a goodly company of young people in attendance.

Geo. McPherson, formerly an employee at the hospital for the insane, was in the city yesterday greeting friends. He went to Omaha last evening where he is learning the barber business. He hopes to return to Norfolk after he has completed his course of instruction.

Madison Chronicle: Deputy Revenue Collector Seely went to the circus last Thursday to feed the elephant and make a little collection for Uncle Sam. There is a government license of $100 for a circus and $10 for a side show in every state in which a performance is given. Ringlings contributed $110.

The enterprising little city of Wayne is to have a street fair September 20, 21 and 22. The citizens have appointed committees which are now enthusiastically at work. They propose to have band concerts, races, vaudeville street performances, bowery dances, speaking, political demonstrations and other things going toward the creating of a good lively time.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Covert returned yesterday from Ewing, where they visited Mrs. Covert's parents. They were accompanied by her two aunts and a cousin, Mrs. Wheelock and son of Wisconsin and Mrs. Swanton of Meno, S. D., who are on their way to Custer county to visit a sister. Mr. Covert reports that the populists of Holt are now complaining that they cannot obtain sufficient help in putting up their crop of hay.

A contest at trap shooting was indulged in yesterday by a number of local sportsmen at the grounds north of the city.

J. J. Jones of Sioux City was of the opinion that H. E. Glissman would be an easy competitor and challenged him to a live bird shoot, in which the latter won and he is now probably convinced of Henry's quick eye and steady nerve. A party will go out again this afternoon to engage in a contest, with blue rocks as targets.

John Krantz received a dispatch from his brother-in-law, H. S. Fritz, this morning announcing the death of his youngest daughter, Emma, aged 15 years, at their home in Gordon. The telegram gave no further particulars. Mr. and Mrs. Fritz made Norfolk their home for a number of years and Miss Emma was quite well known here, especially to the young people. Mr. and Mrs. Fritz and family have the sympathy of their many Norfolk friends. The funeral will probably be held tomorrow and it is probable that some of the relatives from here will attend. Emma had been sick for some time and seriously ill the past few days, so that her death was not unexpected.

The News has been informed by a reliable business man that the Canton Bridge company which has some contracts in this county has been trying in for several days to get help in Norfolk to assist in their work but was unable to do so and finally sent to Meadow Grove to secure the help required. This same business man has also been wanting help in his business but was unable to secure it. The Times-Tribune's 20 men wanting work for their bread and butter can probably secure work for some cash besides. If they can't get it here they surely can by referring to the World-Herald want ads in which 400 men are advertised for today in two ads, at wages of $1.75 to $2.25 per day.

The boating party on the North Fork last evening was indulged in by 23 young people and proved very enjoyable. The party found it easy boating up stream the wind being about all the motive power needed. A picnic supper was eaten at the old camp meeting grounds at the mouth of Spring Branch. The return trip was delightful; the moonlight being splendid and the boats were lashed together and allowed to drift, while singing and instrumental music were enjoyed. Some important facts were ascertained by the party. One was that hay fever causes red eyes and another that moonlight may be responsible for dizziness. Both facts are recommended to the man who has been engaged in downing the liquor evil—or evil liquor. When he can scarcely keep on the sidewalk he can explain his condition as moonlight dizziness and his red eyes in the morning as an attack of hay fever.

It is said that the Mormon missionaries who are working in this vicinity are making a house to house canvass. The ladies brought refreshments with them which were served during the evening. The happy couple was presented with a fine new range from members of the church while the choir left a handsome couch to remind Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder of their friendship.

The weather has today taken an agreeable change. Although there was nothing better than a slight shower this morning, the atmosphere has been perceptibly cooled. While the temperature reached 98 degrees yesterday it is doubtful if it registers above 90 today, and will be the first day in more than two weeks that it has not gone so high. The wind has changed from the south, from which direction it has been blowing a regular gale every day for nearly two weeks, and is now coming from the southeast with a good prospect for rain.

Bicyclists are again urged to do their part in obeying and enforcing the bicycle ordinance. The city has been kind enough to allow them sidewalk privileges when necessary and they should not abuse them. With the condition the streets are now in there is no excuse whatever for using the sidewalks, and occasional reports that they are being used by cyclists is discouraging to the riders who appreciate and do not abuse the privilege. Those who do not desire the bicyclists to have any sidewalk privileges whatever would be pleased to have the riders themselves furnish a pretext for repealing the ordinance that will be convincing to the average citizen, and riders should not give them this pretext.

A severe rain and hail storm is reported from Randolph and the country surrounding, having taken place yesterday about noon. There was every evidence of a severe storm east of Norfolk also, but little rain fell here.

Yesterday was the first day since July 29 that the maximum temperature registered below 90 degrees. Today it has apparently reached the old standard. Thirteen days of hot sun and a warm south wind is enough to try the temper of anyone.

The West Point fire bug is said to have started five separate fires in that town last week but in each case they were discovered before any damage was done. In three instances the fires were started in broad daylight and the Republican is inclined to believe that it is being done by an imbecile.

Earl Perry of South Norfolk was badly injured yesterday while riding a bicycle. He was going at quite a rapid pace when he lost control of the wheel and ran into a lamp post. A spike in the post caught him on the inside of the thigh, lacerating the flesh severely. Dr. Tashjian was summoned and did what he could to ease the sufferings of the injured boy.

Fred Christman, aged 15 years, was instantly killed by lightning Saturday morning at 2 o'clock at the farm home of Mrs. T. Sullivan eight miles east of Madison. He was sleeping on the floor between two doors. The bolt also damaged the house to some extent. The deceased was an orphan and had no relatives. Mrs. Sullivan secured the lad nine years ago from the Catholic Brothers' home of Chicago.

The St. Paul Lutheran missionfest held at Pasewalk's grove yesterday was a very successful affair in every particular, a crowd being in attendance and the collections were large. There were three choirs to render the singing, which was very excellent. Rev. King of Hadar spoke in the afternoon and Prof. Notz of Avoca, Minn., also addressed the audience. The collection taken resulted in the sum of $120 while $102 was taken in at the stands.

The resting place of the late Dr. F. Verges of this city is to be marked by a handsome monument, the following from Sunday's State Journal concerning it being explanatory: "Kimball Bros. of this city have just finished a beautiful monument for the late Dr. Verges of Norfolk, Neb. Dr. Verges was well known throughout the state and his many friends will appreciate the excellent work shown on this stone. While simple in design, the perfect lines, and large polished faces make the monument very handsome. It is made of dark Barre, Vermont granite and upon it are engraved the inscriptions of Dr. Verges and his wife. The monument is of sarcophagus style and weighs about 2,000 pounds."

Geo. N. Beels returned yesterday from a ten days' trip to the Black Hills mining district. He reports it very dry in and about the Hills. All small streams are kept dried up and larger ones running at very low ebb. In the agricultural districts crops are a total failure. Hay is shipped in and sold at $15 per ton. Mining interests are generally waning where previously prosperous except the Homestake mines where they seem to have unusual combination of means and methods. The city of Lead is the most prosperous of any portion of the Hill country. A large crowd is at the Hot Springs but they suffer considerable inconvenience from the heat and dryness. Many ranchers are talking of taking their herds to the eastward for feed during the winter.

Four young men of Pierce who are inclined to consider themselves as "the bloods" hired a team from one of the liverymen of that place yesterday, ostensibly to drive a few miles into the country. The liveryman afterward learned, however, that they had been abusing the team and had driven to Norfolk where they tied up and were proceeding to enjoy themselves in a manner that they considered both smart and entertaining. He at once telephoned to the officers here asking them to get the team for him, but the young sports, hearing of the arrangement, drove away on their return to Pierce. The livery man armed himself with a shot gun and met them about seven miles from home, where he compelled them to unload and walk home. It is considered by those here who know of the circumstances that the punishment was a just one and it is likely that they will not soon apply to the same person for a team.

S. L. Gardner moved Saturday afternoon from his old home on South Eleventh street to a cottage on South Sixteenth. During the process Sam had an exemplification of what the powers want to do with the celestial empire anyway china was broken up, without a doubt, the horse attached to the wagon acting the part of the powers and he was powerful enough to accomplish the purpose. The buggy was loaded with dishes and standing in front of the old home on Eleventh street when one of H. E. Hardy's ponies passed by, frightening Mr. Gardner's horse and he started to run away. Hugh Gardner was in the buggy but was thrown out on the start and the horse ran to Main street and west on Main at a lively clatter scattering dishes broadcast. Mrs. Gardner's entire service being broken. The buggy was also badly damaged. The horse was stopped near the residence of G. A. Luikart, but the damage was done beyond repair.

A report was received here yesterday to the effect that Editor R. D. Scott of the Battle Creek Enterprise was very low at his home in that city and it was not expected that he would live through last night. The many Norfolk friends of the genial editor will hope that the report is exaggerated and that he will yet regain his old-time vigor.

H. W. Christoph, general agent for the Osborne company at Terra Haute, Indiana, arrived in the city yesterday and visited a short time with his brother Geo. B. He hopes to meet many of the surviving members of his command and regiment.

An excellent rain fell in this vicinity last night, the precipitation amounting to about half an inch. The earth so quickly and thoroughly absorbed the welcome moisture that this morning there was but the evidence of a light shower. The storm was accompanied by a vivid and almost constant electric disturbance and there was probably some damage done by lightning although none has yet been reported. The rain will benefit corn to some extent and be especially beneficial to vegetables and pasturage.

A couple of youngsters whose homes are on Madison avenue were much impressed with the appearance of some goslings being raised by Mrs. C. H. Krahn and in reply to one of their many questions they were informed that the young geese live in water. They concluded to prove the assertion, and captured a couple of the fowls and put them in a pail of water, holding them under. The birds bobbed up several times when the boys would leave loose, but were finally drowned and the boys are now firmly convinced that they won't live in water.
