The most striking evidence of "imperialism" since the Kansas City convention was the action of Victor, Colorado, and Chicago mobs in their endeavor to throttle free speech and the free action of those opposed to them in political beliefs.

Bets in New York have been two and a half on McKinley to one on Bryan, but they have recently advanced to three on McKinley to one on Bryan, with few democratic takers.

The war records of W. J. Bryan and A. E. Stevenson are not of a character that would particularly appeal to patriotic voters and to reduce the comparison with the records of Wm. McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt to the minimum their supporters have endeavored, by hook and crook, to drag the latter records down to their level, but the facts of history and record remain to confuse and frustrate them.

If an issue is "paramount" a candidate should be willing to risk his cause on it and sink or swim with the issue.

General Low Wallace was, early in the campaign, quite extensively quoted by the fusionists, who thought they recognized in him a recruit from republican ranks to their party. It is safe to say that they will not give any great degree of prominence to this sentiment expressed by him: "I hold Mr. Bryan directly and personally responsible for every American soldier slain in the Philippines." It is unnecessary to add that the famous author of "Ben Hur" has come out strongly and firmly for McKinley.

Chairman Lindsay of the republican state committee claims that Nebraska will go for McKinley this fall, not by a large majority but by enough to carry the state. He bases this prediction on facts and figures gleaned from a very perfect state organization. He said to a Daily News reporter, "I do not care to mention the size of McKinley's majority, but I am sure that he will carry his state as I am that I am sitting in this chair here." The News goes on to state that Chairman Edmisten of the populist committee claims the state for Bryan by 20,000, but adds: "This statement is not as well founded as that of Chairman Lindsey. Some of the committee members who attended yesterday's conference in this city are by no means as hopeful as either Chairman Hall or Chairman Edmisten. Several of them were ready to admit that, owing to the prosperous condition of the state, it would be no surprise party to them if Bryan's majority was considerably cut down this fall."

Not Very Sanguine.

Dr. F. Englehard of Rising City, one of the most prominent German democrats in the state, and who is about to go on the stump for the state ticket for the rest of the campaign, is not of the ultra-sanguine type. "The democratic committee is making claims of numerous defections among the Germans to the democratic ticket," he said yesterday. "I have seen no figures nor anything else to support the statement. Until something of that kind is forthcoming I am not inclined to take that claim at its face value. "As a matter of fact, how could the German-Americans be persuaded to come over to the democratic side? When the German papers of influence and weight in this country at the opening of the campaign began to speak of the evils of imperialism, they were very promptly squelched, and today they are telling their readers that no harm need be feared from the republican imperialistic policy. With papers of that character on the side of the administration, how can we expect that German-Americans will come to us?"—Joe Polcar in the Omaha Daily News.

YOUTSEY CASE PASSED

Serious Condition of the Defendant Renders It Impossible to Proceed With the Trial.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 11.—Henry Youtsey remains in a comatose condition. Whether it is due to the opiates administered to quiet him cannot be ascertained. He has answered no questions addressed to him by his nearest relatives and physicians, but once or twice during the day he held up his hands and exclaimed: "There is no blood on my hands—there is no man's blood on my hands." The only nourishment he has taken was a glass of milk, which was almost forced down his throat by the physicians. Dr. Carriek says he is in an extremely critical condition, which may take a sudden change for the better or worse at any moment, and if for the worse Youtsey will be permanently insane.

Judge Cantrill said that the trial would certainly proceed, but if Youtsey is absolutely unconscious the judge may abandon his purpose.
