ATCHISON & NEBRASKA R. R. CO. GENERAL MANAGERS OFFICE, ATCHISON, KANSAS, MAY 19, 1879.

M. K. TURNER, Esq., Editor 'Columbus Journal,' Columbus, Neb.

Dear Sir: In reply to yours of 15th inst. I take pleasure in giving you our present schedule of freights from ST. LOUIS ON CHICAGO INTO LINCOLN.

Table with freight rates for various goods like Lumber, Agricultural implements, Fire brick, etc.

MERCHANDISE.

Table with commodity prices for 1st Class, 2d, 3d, 4th, Special, Hops, etc.

The Attending Physician Objects.

A physician, we will suppose, is attending a patient, plying him with medicines, and he keeps getting worse instead of better.

We are informed that Jay Gould said, when he was here last Thursday, that if Columbus didn't defeat those Lincoln & Northwestern bonds, he'd have to 'wipe her out.'

It is not an unusual thing to find business men working to prevent too great competition and cutting of prices, and this seems perfectly natural when the character of human nature is considered.

Mr. Editor: In regard to your local of the 21st, you say you are informed that D. C. Loveland is at work throughout the county against the L. & N. bonds.

The truth is, no other road that has ever looked toward Columbus has received a tithe of the attention from the U. P. that this has.

They will defeat the voting of these bonds if such a thing is in their power, and because this is the case it becomes every intelligent man of spirit to work all the harder for the bonds.

Look on That Picture and then on This.

The last year's shipments from this point were about 3000 cars; if we could ascertain the exact number of each class we could estimate pretty nearly the saving, but from these tables you can cipher until you are convinced of the enormity of the transportation load that is being carried by the wheat raiser.

products of the great northwest above us. Jay Gould professes to have a sort of pre-emption right on all this region, but it will be only with our consent that he will 'prove up.'

If we shall agree to hand him over, in addition to the hundreds of thousands he has already had from us, all the rest of our available credit, doubtless he would consent to bind us hard and fast in the meshes of his web, and dispose of us at his leisure.

As to opinion, it is every man's prerogative to have opinions and to express them, leaving truth free to combat error. It is human to have some pride of opinion, and we notice that, like Lord Bacon, our friend appeals to the future.

With reference to the revelations of the future concerning the "right" in Platte county's present railroad situation, we await them with no anxious forebodings.
