On Friday a game of base ball was played here between two conglomerate clubs, David City and Columbus, mixed. What might be called the David City club beat what might be called the Columbus club by a score of 26 to 16—ten of a majority, so to speak.

The county seat of Nance county is on Fuller's site, west of Cedar river, and is to be called Fullerton. B. D. Slaughter has bought a half interest in the town site, and purposes making Fullerton his future home. We always gave "Gad" credit for good judgment.

Capt. John Hammond deserves considerable credit for always being in the "under dog in the fight." When a man can find no one else to befriend him or do him a kindly deed, let him go to John with a certain prospect of finding one soul with a spark of generous fire.

The big fish sent was excellent, but from whom forwarded all agents disclaim any knowledge and it remains a mystery. The sack in which it was sent bears the name of P. H. Kelley, but it may be supposed that some one borrowed Patrick Henry's sack to deceive us. The owner can obtain the sack at the JOURNAL office.

Rosa Mills has been afflicted for two years past with a cancer on one of her fingers. At first it appeared as a reddish-purple spot, having somewhat the appearance of a blood-blisters; afterwards it became callous, but latterly has developed into a rose cancer. Her cousin, Lee D. Mills, has had the cancer under treatment now for several days, and the little enemy seems to be losing his grip.

Jasper Pixley, whose home is near Osakis, Douglas Co., Minn., and who has traveled more than a thousand miles in Nebraska and Kansas, started for his home last Tuesday. He says, if he was a young man, he would like to come to Nebraska, and believe the best land he has seen is in the new county of Nance. We wish him a pleasant and safe return to his home.

The first number of the National Magazine and Instructor, a monthly publication by E. H. Mortimer & Co., of Omaha, Neb., is before us. Subscription price $2.00 per year, payable half yearly in advance. The aim of the author of this magazine is the improvement of the moral, mental and physical welfare of mankind. The essay on Truth, inserted in the first number, is alone richly worth the subscription price. It is a home publication, and, judging from the contents of the first number, it will be entirely worthy of home patronage.

It has been suggested to us to call the attention of the proper authorities to the fact that there are quite a number of dogs in the city, all owned by one gentleman, and upon which, so far as known, he has never paid any tax—never, in fact, returned them for taxation. Their number is variously estimated at from four hundred to a thousand. It would certainly increase the revenue of the city if the animals could be put upon the tax-list. It might be well enough for the city fathers to appoint a committee of one to wait upon the owner and ask him to show cause why, under the law, he should not pay tax on prairie dogs.

The Surgical and Medical Institute has had some changes made upon it that will add to the convenience of patients. A case of surgery took place at the Institute lately that deserves mention. Florence, daughter of John A. Green, of Boone county, had suffered for three years with a fever sore in the thigh bone, and had had several operations performed, without permanent relief. She came to the Institute one day and went home the next, and has been doing well ever since. A section of the thigh bone about two inches in length, that had separated from the sound part, was extracted, the operation taking about five minutes time, the patient being placed under the influence of chloroform.

On last Friday evening, about dusk, John McGinn, who lives on Elm creek, lost his dwelling-house and all its contents by fire. The family were not left even a bite of victuals from the burning, but everything was taken, food, clothes, furniture, beds, &c., &c., and it was a mercy that the little ones, two, were not burned. We are not personally advised of Mr. McGinn's needs, but doubtless some substantial aid in his time of trouble will be out of place. His house, we learn, was insured, but whether he will be able to make satisfactory settlement with the insurance company remains to be seen. It would not be out of place for some of Mr. McGinn's friends to help him in the matter.

David Anderson says that after the completion of the A. & N. road, Columbus will be the most important hog and cattle mart in the State; he believes fat cattle for Chicago and St. Louis will be driven from the Upper Loup, Niobrara, and the Elkhorn, to this point for shipment, having here the advantage of two routes to the two best markets in the west, and that hogs from other stations of the two roads will be shipped and re-shipped from Columbus. It seems that Mr. Anderson has studied the transportation and railroad question pretty thoroughly, and informed Spurr Clark at the beginning of the late bond contest that our people were thoroughly aroused to the importance of a competing road, and that the bonds would undoubtedly carry by a large majority, when the people had a chance by ballot to express themselves. Mr. Anderson speaks, though, in high terms of the good management of the U. P. R. R., and the gentlemanly and courteous treatment shippers receive from the officials and employees of the U. P. road.

L. M. Cook, of this city, was arrested last Thursday on complaint of Ella Cook, his own daughter, charging him with the attempt to have sexual intercourse with her. A hearing of the case was had before Judge McAllister, who bound him over to answer to the charge before the District Court in the sum of $3,000. Mr. Cook failed to give the required bond, and is now confined in the county jail. A child so young and artless would not invent a story of this kind, and it would be sad indeed to be compelled to believe that we have had among us a man who would be guilty of such a heinous crime. In such cases, however, it is altogether best for individuals and communities, as far as it is possible, to suspend judgment until a full, fair and impartial legal trial is had, so that even-handed justice may be done. Because of the enormity and the loathsomeness of the crime, if for no feeling of sympathy for the accused, should the judgment be suspended until proof fastens him to his just punishment, or clears him from the reproach of the accusation.

Police Court. Frank Queen and Chas. Watson, arrested on charge of burglary. Bonds fixed at $1200. Sent to prison.

L. M. Cook, arrested on a charge of incest; bond fixed at $3,000. Sent to prison.

Chas. Magoon, of the State University, who has friends residing in this county, was in the city one day last week.

W. B. Coffin of this county, went last week to Santee Agency to visit his wife who is principal in the school at that place.

J. R. Kinnan of Polk county called in Monday. He says that Osceola shows considerable more business activity since the completion of the railroad.

G. W. Brown of Boone county shipped nearly 2700 lbs. of wool from this place Saturday last. Geo. reports the crops in his section as looking "splendid."

Messrs. Towne and Nettleton of the A. N. R. Co. were in the city a few minutes Monday morning, coming over from David City to take the east-bound train.

Martin Burke, nephew of M. Hoagland, was kicked by a horse last Saturday, and is not expected to live. The accident took place near Thos. Flynn's on Shell creek.

Miss Serena Olson, of this city, and Miss M. B. Little, of Boone Co., step daughter of Mr. Sutton, returned to this city last Saturday evening from the State Normal School, where the former graduated with many honors.

S. L. Holman, Esq., of Laporte, Ind., was in the city Thursday. He is making arrangements to become a citizen of Nebraska, again, and will this time locate at Norfolk. He has landed interests in this city and vicinity.

W. B. Dale returned from Madison county yesterday morning. He reports considerable excitement on railroad matters and prospects there. He passed through a storm yesterday morning this side of Madison, the worst storm he has ever in.

James Murrin, representing the Campbell printing presses, was in town Saturday and Sunday. The Era and JOURNAL have been doing business in Columbus long enough to be able to buy good power presses, but their prices haven't been high enough to lay that much ahead.

Osceola.

Rising Star Lodge No. 75, I. O. O. F., was instituted last Thursday night at Osceola, by Grand Master D. H. Wheeler and Deputy G. M. C. A. Speice. There were four initiates, and the lodge numbers some of Osceola's best citizens. The following are the officers selected: N. G. Alexander, Jay; V. G. F. F. Vogle; Secretary, F. M. McCarty; Permanent Secretary, W. F. Kimble; Treasurer, G. W. Gregg.

A delegation of ten from Wilder Lodge of this place was present on the occasion, and speak well of their brethren there, as well as of the general interests of the town, which is full of life and increasing vigor. The recent advent of the O. & R. V. R. has given an impetus to the growth of young Osceola which will long be felt. The depot is located a short distance and in a westerly direction from the Louger House, which, by the way, was some time since enlarged, and is a credit to Osceola—one of the noticeable public buildings of the place. An other recent improvement is the Methodist Church, which would be an ornament to many a larger town. The business portion of the city is concentrated around the public "square," and there seems to be no reason why she shall not continue to go forward on the highway of prosperity into which she has entered.

Police Court.

Frank Queen and Chas. Watson, arrested on charge of burglary. Bonds fixed at $1200. Sent to prison.

L. M. Cook, arrested on a charge of incest; bond fixed at $3,000. Sent to prison.

C. I. Bennett, for drunkenness, fined $2 and costs.

Just Received.

At Galbraith Bros., a car load of Walter A. Wood's machinery,—harvesters, binders, reapers and mowers.

The Burglars.

Thursday night John Wiggins's hardware store on 11th street was entered by burglars at a rear window, one of the lights being taken out so that they could get at the window fastener. They took three revolvers, a screw-driver and about 30 to 50 cents that was in the money-drawer. Nothing else was found missing. The same night they got into Weber & Knobel's meat shop, and took perhaps 50 cents. The same night some one reached into John Hempleman's bed-room, got his pants and vest, and searched them, evidently, but left them.

The watchman knew nothing of these performances—the night being dark, and a heavy rain falling all the time, so that ordinary noises could not be heard. But John McMahon saw two men get on the train at 4:30 in the morning and, hearing of the burglaries, he telegraphed to know where the men had been put off, and was answered "at Schuyler." Taking the train at 11 o'clock, he found his men at Schuyler, and succeeded, with the aid of Henry Hasbarger, City Marshal of Schuyler, in arresting them after some show of resistance. Wiggins's pistols and seventy cents in money were found on their persons, besides a good gold watch and a pair of burglar's nippers. Columbus may be a good place to break into, but it is a bad place to break out. McMahon has worked out several cases lately and deserves credit for being active, vigilant and persevering and having a certain other good quality in a policeman which may be named bull-dogism.

The Great Day of Rest and Recreation.

Both the brains and bodies of hard-working men cry daily for rest, until complaining nature finally breaks beneath the burden of the toil and the unheeded voice of warning is stifled forever in the premature grave. Rest and recreation are the very handmaidens of intelligent, successful and profitable labor, and he who dismisses them as idle, worthless companions, closes the door against those recuperative agencies, without which the machinery of both mind and body runs with dull, heavy, constantly increasing friction, and finally suddenly goes all to pieces, like the denizen's celebrated one-horse chaise. Time is valuable—in fact, invaluable—but not for the slavish pursuit of gain alone. At the needed and proper time it is invaluable for rational relaxation and amusement, and he who teaches his child and himself to rest in the Scriptures themselves, will make of them wiser, and better, and healthier, and more useful, and more noble men and women. The task-master should not be the sole companion of the old, to make them the young, to make them prematurely old. He should, at the proper season and within proper bounds, be locked up in the office, the workshop, the barn and the school-house, while the world's children, of all ages, go in for a regular, out and out, unrestrained, mirthful holiday. Take our advice, then, and let us the hard-hearted, iron-fisted, wrinkled, grimy old curmudgeon there, when Anderson & Co.'s Great World's Menagerie and International Circus exhibits at Columbus, don't go back to your homes with lighter heads, clearer heads, stronger hands and sunnier minds, the price of admission will be refunded and all expenses paid.
