

Communications to insure insertion in the next issue, should be in hand on Monday; if lengthy, on Thursdays preceding issue-day. Advertisements of whatever class, should be in hand by noon, Tuesday.

Advertisements under this head 15 cts. a line first insertion, 10 cts. a line each subsequent insertion.

Upholstered lounges cheap at Gerber's. New fresh lemons and oranges at Hill & Lubker's.

Dwelling house to rent. Call on L. Jaggi, at the Bank. For lounges of the latest styles and prices, go to Gerber's.

Improved oil stoves, the best in the market at Wiggins's. A. M. Jennings's child we are sorry to learn is quite ill.

FOR SALE—A good buck-board. Call at Becker & Price's office. Becker has received a car-load of steel-beam plows, the Monitor.

Spring chickens always on hand at Godfrey's, opposite the post-office. The Presbyterian church at Cresco was to be dedicated Sunday last.

We are told that L. A. Pepper has the best wheat crop in Monroe precinct. If you want the best sulky rake that is made, get the Hollingsworth at Becker's.

John Wiggins on 11th street sells the Adams & Westlake improved oil stoves. If you want to keep out flies and bugs, go to Hennenman's and order a screen door.

Anderson paid J. P. Maple of Colfax county $100 last week for three bull calves. The best of Wisconsin, hard finish, white lime for sale at Hennenman and Tolman's.

If you want the best cheap sulky rake in the market call at Becker's and get the Keystone. Becker has the largest stock of hay rakes in the market. Call and get one before they are all gone.

FOUND.—Friday, July 25th, a long woolen shawl. The owner can have it by calling at the JOURNAL office. I buy Croquet sets cheaper, and sell them cheaper than any other man in Columbus. At Doland's Columbus Drug Store.

Improvements of every kind are being made at the Pruyn House. A considerable addition, two stories high, is being made at the south end. The lightning Sunday that preceded that heavy clod of thunder during the rain, struck at Henry's hog-yard near the depot, killing two hogs.

Bureaus, lounges, rocking-chairs, pictures, safes, and everything in the furniture line at F. Gerber's on 11th St., one door east of Heintz's drug-store. Material for the Genoa Headlight was transferred from the Depot to wagons, last Wednesday. G. R. Nunnally was superintending the transfer.

John Stauffer, as chairman, has given notice of a meeting of the Democratic Central County Committee, at the Court House, 2 p. m., August 13th. Rev. Shelton, a member of the New York M. E. Conference, delivered two very good and interesting discourses last Sabbath at the M. E. church this city.

To the P. M. at Neoma: The JOURNALs for your office are mailed here every Tuesday evening, and should be at Albion every Wednesday. Will that suit? W. A. McAllister, who has been in Germany for two years, is expected home the last of next month. We suppose that Columbus will have a new law-firm on his return.

Alph. N. Burgess & Co. desire us to say that his closing out sale at cost is no humbug, and all those waiting goods will now have an opportunity to get them cheap. Willie, son of J. R. Meagher, U. P. R. agent, had a leg fractured very badly last Thursday. The bone was twisted in a wagon wheel, and was broken in several different places.

The original mixed paint is the Averill and it is the best. It costs no more to paint with it than with poor paint. For sale at Doland's Columbus Drug store at $1.50 per gallon. Now is the time for the hungry editor to offer a year's subscription for the largest watermelon. Of course the expectation is to get a great many watermelons for a small outlay.

A move is being made to organize a gymnasium. Mike Morrissey and F. Brodfehrer are the agitators and already have some of the paraphernalia in use back of Brodfehrer's store. Two games of base ball will be played here Friday next by a Central City club, first with the Independents of this place, then with a nine from David City. The tournament will doubtless be interesting.

C. L. Hill has commenced the foundation for a new store building on the corner of Olive and 13th St., east side, the lot formerly occupied by the residence of Hugh Compton, deceased. The building will be frame, 22x50. On yesterday evening Father Ambrose and a friend while returning to this city from St. Bernard met with quite a serious accident. The horses they were driving somehow became entangled in the lines which caused them to run away, upsetting the buggy, and it is reported that Father Ambrose was very seriously injured.

—David Anderson, of this city, had two valuable hogs killed last Sunday at his stock yards by lightning. It is fortunate for him that the lightning did not come down where his stock was crowded close together.

—A rushing job that was when Anderson arrived from the west at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning last, hustled around and bought 30 head of half-blood yearling bulls, and shipped them to Laramie the same day.

—The society of Friends held a meeting at Monroe school-house on Sunday last. Spencer Roberts and wife, representative Friends from Philadelphia, were there. Several of our townsmen attended the meeting.

—A. H. Simpson, Esq., will remain in Iowa till about the 1st of September to close up his law business there and get ready to bring his family with him to Columbus. He will be here in time for the Sept. term of court.

—We are informed that the Very Rev. J. J. Coghlan of Chicago, supposed to be one of the best preachers in America, will be here Sunday Sept. 7th, and will officiate at St. John's church in this city. People of all denominations and of no denomination are invited to attend.

—T. C. Ryan has a pet on his right arm, about four inches below the shoulder, and he has his hair cropped very short; in fact, he is ready to fight any man who slaps him on that spot, as every one of his friends seems instinctively inclined to do. We note these facts in the interest of peace.

—We glanced in at the dwelling-house just being finished by James Pearsall, for A. Henry. For its size it is the most convenient and roomy of any house we know. We have not space to describe it at length, but those who want to build a model house should look it all over. The carpenter work is excellent.

—A demonstration of the truthfulness of the gospel story will form the subject of the Rev. R. Christenson's lecture at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath evening. The professional and business men of the city, all with "brains," and those afflicted with "Ingersollism" or "sectarianism" are especially invited to attend.

—Jos. Gross is of the opinion that the disease which attacked cattle last fall was largely due to an imperfect supply of pure water or to a perfect supply of impure water. Water, he says, should be fresh and pure, and not supplied, either from stagnant sloughs or from large troughs, left standing partly filled with water long exposed to the air.

—Byron Millet, Esq., returned from Lincoln last Sunday, where he had been attending the session of the supreme court. A friend at our side suggests that it is interesting to see a lawyer on his trip overland to the capital, draw his boots and socks, turn civil engineer, and plunge into the little streams to hunt up the chuck holes and quicksand to save his team from being injured or stuck.

—The Hospital committee are to have a meeting next Friday evening, seven o'clock, in the Bank building. The Sisters of Charity have been at work soliciting for several months past, and have raised a modest sum of money to begin with, and it is to be hoped that the good work will proceed without delay. We have already understood that these hospitals were conducted on strictly humanitarian and charitable principles, open to the world's afflicted, of whatever nationality or creed, and as such should receive a helping hand from every man who loves his fellow.

—W. H. H. Llewellyn, the lost detective who had been in pursuit of the notorious horse thief Doc. Middleton, and who was believed to have been killed in the recent meeting of the two parties on the Niobrara, comes out with only a slight wound. He arrived at Fort Hartsville on the 23d, and says Hazza was killed, and I expect Lykens, from Cheyenne, was also killed or badly wounded, as I could see nothing of him after the fight ended. He thinks Doc. Middleton was badly wounded as he saw him running down through the brush with his hand to his side. The horse of Doc. Middleton, a black George, a Texan, was killed, and another outlaw, whose name I do not know.

Hazen was not killed but dangerously wounded in two places, one ball, it is believed, passing through one of his lungs. He passed this city last Friday on his way to Omaha. Dr. Higgins, of this city, went on the train as far as North Bend closely watching his condition and dressing his wounds. Llewellyn says a detail of twenty men was to start from the Fort on the 23d to ascertain the fate of his comrades.

—Rev. W. B. Slaughter, D. D., died at his home in West Omaha, at 6 o'clock, p. m., on the 26th inst., of inflammation of the bowels. His dangerous condition was not known to many, and after an illness of eleven days his spirit returned to God who gave it. He has resided in Nebraska for the past fifteen years, and has been a diligent worker in the Methodist Episcopal Church for about thirty years, ever esteemed a christian pastor, an intelligent man, a good speaker, and a writer of no ordinary ability. The church knew his worth and conferred upon him many important trusts; that of Presiding Elder of the Omaha district was one which he held at the time of his death. All over this district the news of his death will be sad tidings to his christian friends, but if they follow his teachings and example, and prove faithful to the end, they will realize what he believed, a joyous and glorious reunion in the spirit land.

—Next Saturday there can be gained by every faithful Catholic, after having received the sacraments, a plenary indulgence, as often as they visit the Franciscan church. Masses will be said from 10 o'clock a. m. in the morning. At 10 o'clock a. m. solemn high mass.

Notice. If you have any real estate for sale, if you wish to buy either in or out of the city, if you wish to trade city property for lands or lands for city property give us a call. WADSWORTH & JOSSELYN.

Personal. Byron Millet returned from Lincoln on Saturday. Judge Higgins returned from Omaha last Friday.

Hon. E. W. Arnold, of Grand Island is in the city. Wm. Draper of Colfax county was in the city Monday.

Jno. Eymann goes to Ill. some time soon, probably this week. Platte Baker and wife came down from Colorado on Sunday.

Mrs. Wm. Spice is slowly convalescing from a severe illness. Mrs. Frank North, who has been very sick, is able to be out again.

C. Kramer, of the New York State, returned from Chicago on the 25th ult. Messrs. Brainard & Galbraith of the Boone Co. Argus were in the city Monday.

Rev. J. J. D. Scoles of Norwalk, Ia., is visiting his brother-in-law, E. A. Sage, of Creston. Mrs. Bonesteel of Canada, mother of N. G. Bonesteel, arrived in the city last Thursday on a visit.

A. M. Post, Esq., returned from Lincoln last Saturday, where he had been attending the Supreme Court. Henry Carrig of Shell Creek, who is convalescing from a severe spell of sickness, was in the city Saturday.

Miss Clara Albertson, of Schuyler, spent Sunday and Monday visiting the family of Mr. John Rickly of this city. S. C. Smith, Esq., returned from his western trip on Friday last, bringing with him some fine specimens of gold bearing quartz.

G. W. Brown of Boone county is down on business. He looks well notwithstanding the fact that he has been disturbed by ague. Mrs. T. H. Saunders, of Richland, returned from the east last Friday. Mr. Saunders remained in New York for medical treatment.

Mrs. Col. E. F. Smythe and child, and Mrs. Lowe, of Omaha, arrived in this city last Tuesday on a visit to friends at the Lindel House, returning home Sunday morning. Dr. Alex. Bear of Norfolk was in the city Monday. He says the U. P. precinct bond propositions in the eastern part of Madison was carried by a large majority. We have not the vote at hand.

Mrs. Robt. McPherson started yesterday for a visit to Scotland, to be gone two or three months, perhaps. Katie, daughter of Jno. McMahon, accompanies her to New York City, where she will visit with her aunt, until Mrs. McPherson's return.

J. R. Kimman had ripe Nebraska-grown peaches on the 29th of July. How is that for early? These are from the celebrated Alexander stock originating from a neglected, seedling tree in an old, deserted garden in Ill. in 1872, from which the owner and a nursery man cleared $10,000 in two years.

It is the JOURNAL's habit, first to look up the local news; second, the general news; then, if we have space still left and are in a hurry and can not find any more delightful theme, we look after our numerous city contemporaries of the Bourbon faith. We notice that the last Democrat, published by Wentworth & Son, late of Racine, Wisconsin, contains what purports to be paid space in their pure, classical Bourbon paper, with the following legend printed thereon in not very "loud" type: "This space is paid for at advertising rates by a Democrat, as he says, to sustain and encourage the only genuine Democratic paper ever published in Columbus." The other Bourbon sheet, now for many years under the immediate tutelage of the JOURNAL, makes no reply or objection of any kind, except, it may possibly be, the following, which we find in its columns: "A man who is naturally mean can't help but edit a mean newspaper," which is expressing all there is really to say, and in a manner wholly free from personal abuse. We are glad to know that the Era, seeing in the Democrat as in a looking-glass, its own worst traits enlarged, is beginning to recognize, appreciate and apply the thousand lessons that it has received in the past eight years at the hand of the JOURNAL. We are not now without a faint ray of hope that we may yet succeed in making even the Democrat a decent and moderately truthful paper, in—well, say about thirty years, with the aid of the Era. This, of course, is intended to apply only to the general, social tone of the paper, and not to the discussion of political principles,—for the truly Bourbon paper has nothing that might be called "principles," and nothing that might be called "discussion."

—Next Saturday there can be gained by every faithful Catholic, after having received the sacraments, a plenary indulgence, as often as they visit the Franciscan church. Masses will be said from 10 o'clock a. m. in the morning. At 10 o'clock a. m. solemn high mass.

For the JOURNAL. THE NEW PAPER. Its Bellicose, Boastful and Jealous Disposition Rebuked. A Dispassionate Spectator says a Few Words to Say.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—When it was announced a few weeks ago that Columbus was to be augmented by a new Democratic newspaper, with a huge outfit of presses, types and ponderous material, renovated or reconstructed for this locality, I was neither elated nor troubled by the news. It is this institution with all its paraphernalia and its adjuncts had outgrown old associations, here was ample room in our prairie country. I saw but little enthusiasm however, and but few inquiries as to whether it were coming by rail, by coach or lumber cart, nor did we hear of any loud demonstrations of joy on its arrival, as we did of the A. & N. railroad after the bonds were voted. If it was an individual enterprise, or a business experiment in an honorable calling, it was to be welcomed like all others calculated to add to the wealth, the enterprise or the intelligence of the community. If it was to be a teacher of morals and good breeding, or an exponent of public sentiment, its success would materially depend upon its merits; if it was demanded by the wants of a political party, or by any ring or clique therein, let them shoulder the burden, the responsibility and the result. Such, I doubt not, was the conclusion of nearly all Republicans in this city and county, and if I mistake not, of a good portion of the Democratic household. New life is often inspired by competition, and big fish, when lank and hungry, sometimes dive into a deep pool and eat up the little ones. Nothing could be said then against free, fair and open competition. The Era had never yielded an inch from the unadulterated faith, nor a hair from the standard plumb-line of the party or its mandates; its editorials were often written with considerable ability and it truckled to all the party required with the most graceful submission, as it seemed to be a combination of bread and butter and justice, and hence when the oracles of the party took snuff, the Era always sneezed. If the editor was either too lazy, or too careless in his business habits, he should not be blamed for his nature, and his early training, and these trivial affairs did not affect his constancy or his devotion; he was a good, joking, jovial democrat, of unquestioned origin and of standard weight, measure and qualification, and even though his press was not as big as a Dutch barn, his paper was satisfying all the absolute needs of the party.

Well, in due time the outfit arrived and after a little flourish of trumpets and some profuse promises the Platte Valley Democrat was ushered into existence. As a business experiment, so long as it should maintain an honorable bearing, I know of no individual or business firm who did not express kind regards and good wishes for its success. As Republicans, we care nothing for its general attacks upon the Republican party or its leaders. We expect to see criticism of all the distinctive Republican measures, both in the state and general government; we expect to see the acts of public men assailed, their motives called in question, and all the progressive ideas of freedom openly discarded or denounced—all these things we are accustomed to, and as a general rule a democratic paper or its editor that cannot pull down the Republican platform (on paper) tear its ensign into tatters and do all the dirty work of a partisan vassal under the mask of patriotism, is not considered worthy of his calling, or is not properly qualified to discharge the duties of his position. All this tendency in our democratic ranting, even before the moon had completed a single revolution so as to enlighten its comprehension, presented no new nor alarming features, because we are accustomed to it, and are impervious to all falsetto and stereotyped assaults. In one thing however many of us have been disappointed, or rather our hopes have not been realized. From one who claimed long fellowship in the editorial fraternity, we had reason to expect decency and fair treatment to his town associates, but instead of this we find a bellicose, boastful, and jealous disposition, mingled with the most foul and unwarranted personal abuse and misrepresentation of the JOURNAL, enough to disgrace a street urchin or a carpet bagger from the land of Hottentots. In this I know that the editor of the JOURNAL is fully competent to defend and take care of himself, in his own way, but on behalf of outraged decency and on behalf of many representative citizens whom I have heard freely express their views, I protest against the unbridled license (not liberty) of the press, either from a lack of judgment or a lack of sense, and if such people must cast out foul words and live-lived epithets, let them keep to their own level and retire from respectable journalism. The JOURNAL has been dignified in its bearing and even charitable in its indignant retorts to defamation and slander. It is too well known and established to be frightened by threats or led astray by braggarts, and it has too much respect for itself and its readers in the family circle, aside from its sense of justice and its own best interests, to be enticed into the slough of vituperation. Its history thus far shows that it is not likely to be driven from its moorings by invective reflections or personal abuse, which can only recoil upon and injure their author. Such a course persisted in by the Democrat will not only strengthen the JOURNAL, but will soon make the Era, in comparison with itself, quite a respectable newspaper.

I have no controversy with the Democrat man, but I am addressing the readers of the JOURNAL in relation to our duties in the premises, believing we are not wholly clear if we permit our community to be disgraced, simply stand aloof, conclude it is no matter of yours, and allow such petty scandal, low wit and degrading personalities to go unrebuked. A CITIZEN. July 25th, 1879.

Postville Items. John Mallalieu and family are visiting friends here. Dr. Armstrong has returned home with his new wife. The boys gave him a stupendous charivari; he passed out the cigars, and the boys went on their way rejoicing.

Miss Julia Lee has closed her school in district 51. Patrons and children were all well pleased with her work as teacher. J. Murdock & Son have rented the old shop of Loveland & Ellis. They are good workmen, and understand their business.

J. C. Elliott has taken the contract to build R. S. Clark's house in Columbus. James McLean has sued Abel Wilcox for an account, and levied on some personal property—he is a non-resident. The late storms have damaged several houses in this vicinity. R. S. Clark is here on business; he is arranging his herd of cattle for sale.

J. C. Elliott has gone to Neligh to look up his pumps. He is picking up quite a pump and wind-mill trade. SUBSCRIBER. July 21st, 1879.

In Memoriam. At a regular meeting of Wilsey Lodge 44, I. O. O. F., held July 15, 1879, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted: WHEREAS, in the general dispensation of an all-wise Providence it has pleased the Ruler of the universe to remove by death our brother and friend, Wm. H. Thomas.

Resolved, That by his death the lodge loses a good and worthy member, the family a kind and affectionate father, the wife a faithful and industrious husband, and that we as a lodge deeply sympathize with the family and relatives, and that we shall hold in remembrance the virtues of the deceased brother. Resolved, That the lodge room be draped, and the members wear the usual badge of mourning 30 days. Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon our records, and a copy be sent to the family, and also published in the city papers.

H. A. HENSON, Secy. C. A. SPENCE, Com. Game and Fish Laws. J. Sterling Morton, as president of the State Sportsmen's Association has issued a circular, the substance of which is "each person who engages in the arrest and conviction of violators of the game laws of Nebraska shall be paid at the next annual meeting of the State Association, the sum of ten dollars." Every man of any self-respect, whatever, should obey the laws, but those who will not should be made to suffer all the penalties of their violation.

Columbus Weather Report. During the week ending 8 p. m. of the 27th, winds and extremely light, variable winds have prevailed. On the average, three-fifths of the sky's surface have been covered with clouds. Four principal storms have occurred, during which one and one-half inches of water fell at Columbus. B. F. HOYT, Observer.
