Temperance. ED. JOURNAL :- The prime movers in this cause in Columbus are well known, and I am sorry to see so wide a chasm between them. There are undoubtedly two distinct factions here, the church temperance and the anti-church faction. I have respect for both parties and would like to see them work together harmoniously for the common cause. We all disagree on points of religious doctrine, while on the general bearing of the great temperance ling will contest with any like numquestion we are nearly all united. ber of pupils in the county. Our citizens should meet in perfect freedom, irrespective of religious soul in this great work, if we wish to achieve a victory in our young united action our ends will not be accomplished. All that is good and pure and holy, yes and divine is unfolded in the banner of temperance, and under this glorious streamer no distinction is known, and no creed observed. The motto is "Work." This means to put your hands into your pocket-books, and zealously labor for an end. And what is that end? To labor on and on till the manufacture and sale of intoxicating one coal shed, and many other drinks is made a crime before the law. If it does not come in our generation it may in the next. Yours respectfully, History of Nebraska. Hon. Harrison Johnson, a farmer residing near Omaha, has completed a history of Nebraska to date, and a few advance copies have been published. It is a good sized volume of near six hundred pages, well filled with solid information concerning Nebraska interests, her topography, climate, soil, productions, rainfall, temperature, water supply, educational advantages and prospects, religious privileges, railway advantages, and market facilities, besides an account in brief of the struggles of the early settlers, and its organization as a state of the Union. Along with these the work embraces a full and complete description of every county, city and town in the State and the territory, from which it was organized, from 1803 up to date The "introduction" is a fine piece of writing, well worthy the theme The work should be in the library of every family in the State as demonstrating that "nothing in this age of wonders is so wonderful as this western civilization that is measuring a score of miles every year into the unbroken wilderness. and making it literally 'bud and blossom as the rose.'"
