Diphtheria.

An exchange gives the following: We call special attention to a cure for one of the most fatal diseases to which this climate is subject, Diphtheria. Don't fail to preserve it.

"When it was raging in England a few years ago, I accompanied Dr. Field on his round to witness the so-called wonderful cures he performed, while the patients of others dropped off on all sides. All he took with him was powdered sulphur and a quill, and with these he cured every patient without exception. He put a teaspoonful of flour of brimstone into a wine glass of water and mixed it with his finger, instead of a spoon, as the sulphur does not readily amalgamate with water. When the sulphur was well mixed he gave it as a gargle, and in ten minutes the patient was out of danger. Brimstone kills every species of fungus in man, beast and plant, in a few minutes. Instead of spitting out the gargle, he recommended the swallowing of it. In extreme cases in which it had been called just in the nick of time, when the fungus was too nearly closed to allow the gargling, he blew the sulphur through a quill into the throat, and after the fungus had shrunk to allow of it, then the gargling." If the patient cannot gargle, take a live coal, put it on a shovel and sprinkle a spoonful or two of the flour of brimstone at a time on it; let the enfever inhale it, holding the head over it, and the fungus will die. If plentifully used the whole room may be filled almost to saturation, and the patient will be able to walk about in it, inhaling the fumes, with the doors and windows closed. The mode of fumigating a room with sulphur has often cured most violent attacks of cold in the head, chest, etc., and is also recommended in cases of consumption and asthma.—Ez.

We regret that the Republican State convention of Pennsylvania, which met at Harrisburg on the 4th inst., felt it to be its duty to instruct its delegates to the national Republican convention to vote for General U. S. Grant as the presidential candidate. The probable bad feeling which this action will engender will last to the end of the next presidential contest, and by no light in which we can view the subject is it calculated to produce either good feeling or harmony in the Republican ranks. We can characterize this action of the Pennsylvania convention in no milder terms than the unwisdom proceeding of a body of men under the influence of partisan office-holders and office-seekers. The delegates to the national convention should be selected from intelligent, honest, independent and fearless voters of the states and left free from the influence of any instruction, so that they can cast their votes, after comparing notes, for the best and most available man.

On the final vote in the Pennsylvania convention to instruct the delegates to the Chicago convention, the resolution for Gen. Grant was adopted by a vote of 143 to 113 against.

Last week a lady came to St. Louis who gave her name as Retta Helfritz and applied to Witten & Hagen, detectives, for employment, claiming that she was a detective, and from letters she bore and her conversation no one could doubt her profession. She stated she had a little girl who was living with her grandmother in Davenport, Ia. She was a nice looking and intelligent woman, but from some cause unknown committed suicide by taking morphine at her room at the Garrett House.

We have heard rumors for some time past that the U. P. intended to abandon its route through Pierce county to Niobrara, and now this report seems to be fully verified. The U. P. will now build from Norfolk to Sioux City, and will commence grading just as soon as spring opens. This move, if carried out, will be of incalculable benefit to Boone county, for it will give us an almost direct line to the great lumber district via Sioux City, and also insures the Albion road as being the main line to the Black Hills, placing us on what is destined to be one of the great thoroughfares of the West.—Boone Co. This is the way politicians are trying to manufacture public sentiment for honest voters. The Maryland republican committee sends word to Pennsylvania that the nomination of Grant will be openly bolted. Similar threats are published from prominent leaders in Delaware, New Jersey and Massachusetts. They might just as well go a little further at once, and declare that they will openly bolt the election of any other republican, for in plain English that's what they mean.

Last week a terrible snow and wind storm visited New York. At Long Branch the wind blew with great fury, carrying away Summer houses, pavilions, bath houses, portions of piazzas, and the roofs of nearly all the hotels on the shore. The storm at several places along the coast is represented as terrific, and the snow fell in many places from a foot to fifteen inches deep.
