—A Heinrich writes us a vote of thanks for mention of his short-horns, but begs to correct the name we gave his farm. It is not Springdale but Bloomingdale. We are sorry that he didn't call it Springdale, as the many fine springs on the place would make that name very appropriate.
—We received Monday a characteristic note from J. A. Baker, writing from Golden, Colorado, under date of June 10th: "DEAR JOURNAL.—Enclosed find $1 providing some P. M. don't find it. Send paper. All well. Regards to all." He is evidently the same Jo, that we all so well know, by tricks and jokes of the long time ago.

—J. B. Shillit tells us that about sundown Friday a storm struck Shell creek and Grant prairie doing considerable damage to growing grain, the hail being the severest of the season. The dwelling-house, granary, &c., of Dan. Kelly, about two miles east of Gleason's were torn to pieces, entailing a loss of three or four hundred dollars.

—The chief business at the meeting of the City Council Monday evening was the estimate for taxes certified to the County Commissioners, as follows: On general fund, 6 mills; on street fund, 2 mills; on sinking fund, 2 mills; on dogs $3, slugs $5. The charge of metesand-across policeman Walker was laid over until next Saturday evening.

—Wm. Ripp has lately been traveling through the counties north of us. He says the crops look better this spring as you approach the Elk-horn valley, where they are excellent, that region having been visited by numerous rains. Mr. R. says that John Flynn, at Norfolk has made the best brick he has seen in the State. The clay there seems to be especially adapted to making brick.

—E. J. Baker and E. Johnson returned from Colorado Monday morning. E. J. says if a man is well fixed he wouldn't advise him to go into Colorado. He would advise no man to go into the Gunnison country now because everything is taken in the way of claims. He believes he has a good investment there, and is going back to look after it. He is alongside of a claim for which $200,000 has been refused.

—One of our business men was roused on Sunday morning early by a noise, and found a man, almost naked, on his hands and knees, crawling over the floor. The disturbed sleeper felt for his pistols but couldn't reach any of them in time to pepper the disturber of his dreams, but got after him with a pole, when the partially conscious intruder opened his mouth, revealing who he was. Further deponent sayeth not.

—The Clarksville Messenger says that Miss Cole, of Silver Creek, was killed by lightning on Thursday last. She was riding in a buggy with her sister, Mrs. Hamlet Foster, near Silver Creek, when the lightning struck, killing her and the horse hitched to the buggy, and knocking down Mrs. Foster was not seriously injured, but ran half a mile across the prairie to get assistance. Miss Cole was about 12 years old.

—Enumerator Theinhardt relates a little incident in his official exercises: At one Bohemian household the head of the family reported as follows: "One boy, he pe four years old; den one leetle girl, she poust two year old; den one leetle bapen two months and a half old; den another leetle bapen he two months and a half old." Mr. T. suggested, "Twins may be?" "O, no, no, no, he was born twice"—"was the poor foreigener's American way of explaining the twins."—Schuyler Star.

—John Harrigan was at Platte Centre Monday, and tells us that the storm there was pretty severe,—the wind, although a stiff breeze, did no particular damage, but the rain was very abundant, and John says he believes the water in Elm creek was about 15 feet deep. It rained all of Sunday night, and the cellars were filled with water. About a mile of railroad track was washed out, more or less. Mr. Scheidel claimed a loss of $300. Mr. Tasker said they had a considerable loss—the water burned the lime and the lime burned the coal.

—H. A. McCrea sold his household and other chattel property Saturday, and intends moving back into the oil regions of Pennsylvania, where he says he can make more money than here. We are very sorry to see him leave. Those unacquainted by experience with the fine weather of Nebraska, can scarcely be upbrided for not being in love with what this spring has had in store for us. Part of the time heavy winds with dust, and now heavy winds with rain, and plenty of it. But every country has its exceptional seasons.

—Hon. T. C. Ryan of Platte Centre spent the Sabbath in the metropolis. He was likewise somewhat reluctantly compelled to stay here over Monday, on account of reports in regard to the storm of Sunday night carrying off bridges over Shell creek. He tells us that on Friday evening last at about 7 o'clock a fierce storm of rain, wind and hail struck Platte Centre from the west, doing considerable damage to the windings in that direction, besides moving things in a general way. Macken's front was demolished; a great deal of glass in Field's new hotel was broken out, nearly all the glass in Mahlon Clothier's front was smashed, and also in Scheidel's place; a large barn was pushed back from its foundation,—showing the strength of the breeze.

—Fremont, it seems, is to have a creamery. The Board of Trade of that thriving city have pledged themselves to secure three-fourths the necessary stock, the other fourth to be taken by Mr. Avery of N. Y., the practical man of the proposed enterprise. A central establishment is to be erected at Fremont with capacity to take charge of the milk of 1,000 cows. Receiving stations at different points throughout the county are to be erected, and cream and cheese will be shipped from these to the creamery. Every county in the State of Nebraska could easily have a similar institution, on a greater or smaller scale. There are enough opportunities for making money go to waste in Nebraska that, utilized, would make every family prosperous,—the men with money in bank, the women with some grateful leisure time for social intercourse, the children fat and happy. We congratulate our sister city on an enterprise, which may result in untold good to the State by setting a bright example to other communities.

Death of J. C. Henry.
On Saturday morning last, June 12th, John C. Henry of Fremont met with a tragic death.

He was the youngest son of A. Henry and brother of R. H. Henry of this city, and the circumstances of his death were peculiarly heart-rending. With R. H., he was on their cattle range engaged in "cutting out" some cattle from the herd, when his horse stumbled, pitching him over his head, Mr. Henry falling squarely upon his head, as we are informed upon the solid ground. He was not conscious afterwards, and died within three hours. They were at the time eight miles from the rancho and about 55 miles from Plum Creek, the nearest railroad station. A spring wagon was sent for to the nearest rancho, and one of the employes carried water in his hat a distance of five miles, and everything done which could be, under the circumstances, but without avail.

His remains were brought to this city on Sunday, and taken on Monday to Fremont, his home, where they were buried yesterday, a very large concourse of friends and acquaintances witnessing the last solemn rites to the generous-hearted and mild-mannered man who was so suddenly precipitated from vigorous life into that unconsciousness which precedes the final dissolution of the spirit from the body.

The deceased was a man of very excellent character, whose memory will long be cherished by his hosts of friends.

On Thursday morning last Gustave Hellborn, who has for some time been engaged here in the tailoring business, left at the time for parts unknown, going off on the A. & N. morning train. It was at first supposed, judging from the manner of his departure, that he was leaving quite a number of debts unpaid, but, so far, we have not been able to learn of many. One man, whom we saw early in the morning, and who was one of the security at the bank for a note of $150, was considerably exercised over it until he found out that the note had been paid, which information he was not slow in getting. Hellborn was put under arrest by Sheriff Spielman, at Seward, we believe, but released when the claims were satisfied. One of Hellborn's old acquaintances declared that he believed the blank little tailor was as honest a man as there was in the town.
