Another Consideration

Shall the state convention place in nomination a United States senator, to be voted for in November? We say yes, and most emphatically, yes. The most important reason for so MORLEY M. BALDWIN, a wealthy doing is that if it is not done the republican state of Nebraska will be enator. How so? some one says. Because the democratic convention will nominate some one who will receive the democratic vote of the in county Tipperary, Ireland, by passed by the last legislature; and concentrated upon one man, the the state convention decide to leave it to the legislature to elect as before, the democratic senator will and demand his seat, upon the grounds that he was elected in acordance with the laws of the state, and will be seated. If Nebrasks is in nomination by the party and voted for at the November election.

The above is from the Juniata Herald, and is worthy of all consideration, when the well-known fact is remembered that the U. S. enate is the sole judge of its membership, and that any excuse to admit a democratic member from a republican state will be eagerly made use of. The best way, the safest way, the only way for fairminded men is to obey the constitution and the law. It was a mistake for the Central Committee to omit from its list of candidates to be nominated that of U.S. senator; it will be a mistake, and a serious political blunder if the Republican convention of September 1st omits to place a candidate on its ticket; it will be a violation of duty if the Governor also shall omit a reference to the subject in his proclamation; honest legislators, when they come to meet next winter (if the people don't pass judgment upon this mat- rather a good step for David Davis ter), will find but a few hours out of to take, for being an aspirant for their 40 days to devote to their legi- that high office himself, his present timate duties, and will deplore the course will clearly define his blundering imbecility and wrong position so as not to mislead the headedness which, in its supreme public in the future. plan a single trial. If the people could now fully ap preciate the one reason why they adopted this method there would be no doubt of their prompt action at the coming state convention in making arrangements to express their choice for United States Senstor. Heretofore the time of the Nebraska legislature which should have been devoted to proper legislation for the interests of the state, has been, when there was a U. S. Senator to elect, squandered in electioneering and the squabble for that office, and legitimate legislation neglected. Gladly would the honest and faithful representative get rid during the session, of the waste of time in electioneering for U.S. Senstor, and many other unpleasant things connected with the contest, and accept with pleasure the candidate selected by the people, just as readily as the presidential electors do in voting for president of the United States nominated by the people. We have yet to learn of a single instance in which any elector has violated good faith by voting contrary to instructions, and we believe the legislature of Nebraska would keep the same good faith.

THE board of managers of the Nebraska State Fair held a meeting at the Creighton House, Omaha, on the evening of the 10th. They transacted considerable business, and express themselves well pleased with the fair buildings and grounds. Special trains it is thought will run from the city to the grounds every half hour during each day of the fair. It is believed that all the roads coming into the city will give reduced rates, and probably run special trains. It is hoped that St Julien and Hopeful will be on hands for a trot.
