ANOTHER fatal accident occurred on the A. & N. R. R. at or near Highland station Monday evening. Hardwick Klein, an engineer, while stepping from the caboose to the car platform fell between the cars, the train passing over him. His remains were sent to Atchison, where his family lives.—State Journal.

THOMAS McDONALD, a notorious bully at Commercial Point, in Pickaway county, Ohio, was hung to a tree by a mob on the night of the 1st. He was shot two weeks ago while creating a disturbance and was supposed to be dead. But he was found and taken from his grave by masked men and hanged, and left in full view of the public road.

How a citizen is regarded at his home and what his neighbors think of him is, as a general rule, a very good test of the genuine character of the man. This test applied to Gen. Garfield shows that in his congressional district in 1874 when he was a candidate to represent his majority was 6,343; in 1876 it was 8,633; in 1878 it had increased to 9,613.

MICHAEL PENO, of Grand Rapids, Mich., believing he had cancer in his stomach two months ago, abstained from eating food and died of starvation last week. From an examination made after his death all his organs proved healthy except the brain, and that was slightly disordered. His abstinence lasted two days longer than Dr. Tupper's.

THIRTEEN years ago Dexter astounded everybody when he trotted his mile in 2:17 3/4; Goldsmith Maid brought down the record to 2:14, and then horsemen believed the score would never be lowered. But three years ago Rube Macomber trotted in 2:12; but the other day St. Julian surprised everybody by reducing the figures to 2:11 1/4. Some one predicts that the colt is now living that will make a mile in 2:10.

A FEW greenbackers met at Lincoln last Thursday and nominated the following state ticket: For Governor, O. T. B. Williams; Lieut. Governor, B. Lansing; secretary of state, B. F. Allen; treasurer, A. V. Herman; attorney general, Noah A. Shecker; land commissioner, David Neal; for superintendent, Dr. Mansfield, congress, Allen Root; for presidential electors, Geo. Watkins, S. C. Case and W. W. Conner.

A SERIOUS accident recently befel a ten year old son of Jacob Miller near Dodge county. A party of small boys were playing on an old straw stack at the time the accident occurred, and young Miller was lying on his back in the straw, when one of his playmates tossed an iron rod several feet into the air, which in its descent struck the boy in the eye, penetrating to the brain and killing him instantly.—Tribune.

The Grand Veterans re-union at Canton, Ohio, on the 1st, was a grand success. The decorations were the finest ever made in Canton, and over 50,000 were in the city and fifty regiments were represented. The procession was three miles long and contained 10,000 men in line, with forty bands. President Hayes, Gen. Garfield, Sherman and other distinguished persons were present. Speeches were made by President Hayes, Garfield and others.

A DISEASE known as the glanders recently broke out among Fred. Theinhardt's horses at Richmond, and have led, a thin one being afflicted. Mr. T. runs a threshing machine, and it is feared other horses in the neighborhood will contract the disease through contact with the diseased ones. We understand a lawsuit has been planned to come to trial between Mr. T. and the gentleman who sold him the horse which first exhibited symptoms of the disease.—Schuyler Sun.

The German citizens of New York were considerably excited last week over the arrival of the eight victorious American Turners from Frankfort-on-the-Maine, where they took in the international amateur gymnastic athletic tournament. Among the 400 competitors from England, France and all parts of Germany, the representatives as a Turner band carried off a greater part of the twenty-two prizes given for general excellence in gymnastics. Before leaving for home the U. S. consul general at Frankfort gave them a banquet in honor of their victory.

SAYS an ardent Republican in writing to us: "I hope the Democratic politicians will be more wise than the Republicans, and take measures to express their preference for U. S. senator, and then we shall see whether it makes no difference or not. I could almost be tempted to sustain such a candidate, for the purpose of administering a rebuke to the ring."

Our correspondent's republicanism is undoubted, because he is not of the number whose business has been either the holding of office, or the hunting for office. He believes in doing things right, and on principle, and therefore feels like wringing the necks of those who are responsible for this thing. It is safe to say that if every sound republican in the state had attended the recent primaries, and selected men for delegates to the state convention who were known to be on the side of right and not in the interest of a particular "state" as against the wish of the people, then our friend, who is an ardent lover of liberty, and the people's right to rule, would have no complaint to make on this score.

We consider that the resolutions unanimously adopted by the Platte county convention covered the whole ground of right in the matter, but the probability is that there were too many aspirants for the legislature and senate in that convention, and too many candidates for the U. S. senate for the good of the party.

The strong probability is that the republican majority in the State will be 20,000. If it were a great deal less there would be more consideration of right principles, and intelligent, competent, honest men more frequently selected as candidates.

MANY very curious things happen in the action of political leaders, so much so, that one is often puzzled to comprehend the motive, or discover the correct principle involved. The constitution and laws of the State fully authorize the people of Nebraska to say by a popular vote whom they want to represent them in the Senate of the United States, and this nomination so made by a popular vote of the people is simply intended to be submitted to the state legislature for their approval. It is intended to relieve the legislature from the waste of precious time which should be devoted strictly to legitimate legislation in the interests of the State, as well as the corrupting influences in the way of bargain and sale which are claimed to exist to a less or greater extent in every senatorial contest.

The recent action of the republican state convention in refusing to place the matter properly before the people will be difficult for many to comprehend. But still more puzzling is it to a political friend to find where this same body of men oblige the legal right of a nomination authority by which they put in nomination a candidate for "contingent" congressman. No question whatever was made when this nomination was proposed to the convention, and it passed off as quietly as if it had the sanction of the constitution and laws of the state to warrant it. Consistency is a jewel, to be sure.

The test of the new railroad bridge at Plattsmouth, which joins the B. & M. and C. B. & Q., came off last week, witnessed by two thousand people. The test was made by eight heavy engines of the C. B. & Q. road passing on to the bridge in sections, and were afterwards coupled together on the 400 feet eastern span, making the test weight 440 tons, distributed over 320 feet of the span, and the result proved entirely satisfactory. The engines then moved to the second span, where the trial gave the same satisfaction and a photograph was taken at the moment of the trial, which showed that when the immense weight of 440 tons was placed on the spans, the deflection was only three inches, and when the engines were removed the bridge resumed its original position. The bridge is built of iron and steel, and 3,900 feet long. It has 1440 feet of an iron viaduct joined to three deck spans, 200 feet in length. Next to the Nebraska shore, and over the river proper, are two spans, of 400 feet each, all steel truss. The bridge was constructed by the Keystone Bridge Co., of Philadelphia, G. S. Morrison, chief engineer.

DAN. CONDON, who captured he supposed Benders in consequence of the loose and queer way in which they have been discharged by the Kansas authorities, has thereby been induced to give to the public, thro' the columns of the Schuyler News his opinion of the whole proceeding, and condemns the action of the Kansas authorities in discharging Bender and his wife in strong and unmistakable language, and still believes that they are "part of one of the most notorious and blood thirsty gangs which ever infested this or any portion of God's green earth."

RICHMOND, VA., was visited by one of the fiercest storms last week ever known in that vicinity. Shooke creek in the lower part of the city was flooded, and the houses and cellars filled with water. Citizens in that part of the city were wandering about in the water and darkness of the night to save their friends from drowning, while their property was being washed away. Considerable damage was done to property in cellars and some damage to property in the country.

W. S. HANCOCK'S initials seem to give the Democrats much glory in that they are also the initials of "Will Succeed Hayes." That's no sign; they are also the initials of "Won't Succeed Hayes," "Will Stay Home," "Won't See Heaven," "Will See H—," "Will Sink Hancock," "Washington Shuns Him," "Winfield Scott Hancock, With Southern Help, Will Sell Himself," and so on ad infinitum. It's a poor mule that won't kick both ways.—Staubenville Gazette.

Who Quelled the Rebellion? EDITOR JOURNAL: I noticed a few weeks ago in your Journal that some one said there were more Democrats in the Union army, than Republicans, and then in the next issue of the Era, Mr. Geo. V. Hines came out and attempted to prove that it was the case, with so many false and foolish remarks that I considered it not worth notice, and in fact he wandered off on other things that he thought he was better posted on, but in fact showed his ignorance in many instances.

In talking with some three or four democrats of Columbus I find that ignorance still exists, as they refer to that article of Mr. Hines's for proof, law and gospel.

Now, Mr. Editor, I wish to make a few points and correct report as near as can be got at.

"As several of the states passed laws allowing their soldiers in the field to vote, and send home the ballots and returns and have them counted in the state elections, the soldiers who considered themselves democrats naturally voted that ticket. Each party sent canvassers to collect and return the votes, and here is a true statement of the votes polled by the soldiers in the field at the elections of 1861, '62, '63 and '64 from those states which permitted their volunteers to exercise the right of suffrage while in the military service of the government:

State. Year. Rep. Dem. Pennsylvania, 1861 11,251 3,173 Iowa, 1862 14,874 4,117 Wisconsin, 1862 7,273 2,046 Colorado Territory, 1862 567 17 Wisconsin, 1863 46,315 2,571 Ohio soldiers in Liberty, 1863 4,143 140 California, 1863 17,041 3,091 Missouri, 1863 8,857 777 Pennsylvania, 1863 1,392 53 Ohio, 1864 32,751 4,500 Pennsylvania, 1864 12,142 2,948 Iowa, 1864 17,310 1,921 Wisconsin, 1864 18,450 3,291 Michigan, 1864 9,492 2,856 California, 1864 2,690 289

The total vote for Republican candidates, according to the above figures, was 226,437, and 41,803, for the Democratic candidates. This is the best proof that can be furnished of the politics of the soldiers in the Union army."

Now, Mr. H., don't claim that the Democrats put down the Rebellion, nor don't say which party struck the first blow against the flag.

ONE OF THE SOLDIERS. Those Sunflower and Cockle-burrs.

MR. EDITOR: The sunflower seems to be getting so thick in our fields that some of the latter are almost ruined now. Farmers ought to tend to their sunflowers, but by cutting down before they get ripe, or which would be still better, they ought to be plowed under, thus furnishing a large amount of manure. A good sickly plow will turn them under nicely, or if you have not that attach a chain to your walking plow, and turn them under. But whether cut down or plowed under, either ought to be done before the seed ripens.

Going from Platte Centre to Columbus a few days ago the writer was struck not only by the immense fields of sunflowers, but by something even a great deal worse. Noticed some corn fields so full of cockleburrs that I am sure more burrs will grow there than kernels of corn. If not cut down now they will ripen and then attach themselves to the legs and tails of cattle, sheep, horses, hogs, and be carried and sowed all over the country. Farmers who care so little for their own and the country's welfare as to let such crops grow, ought to be placed under guardianship. Cut them down at once, before they get ripe. It will pay you a great deal better than some other work, I may say better than anything else you can do.

OBSERVING FARMER. Republican State Convention.

The Republican State Convention which convened at Lincoln on the 1st, was fully represented and largely attended by interested outside politicians. The convention nominated for presidential electors G. W. Collins of Pawnee, J. M. Thurston of Douglas, and James Laird of Adams. For state officers Hon. E. K. Valentine of Cumming county, was nominated for congress; for contingent congressman, T. J. Majors of Nemaha; for Governor, Albinus Nance of Polk; for secretary of state, S. J. Alexander of Jefferson; for auditor of public accounts, John Wallichs, of Hall; for treasurer, G. M. Bartlett of Lancaster; for attorney general, C. J. Dilworth of Phelps; for commissioner of public lands and buildings, A. G. Kendall of Howard; and for superintendent of public instruction, W. W. Jones of Lancaster.

The action of the convention was very harmonious and the nominations made unanimous.

LITTLE Willie Norman, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Norman, who have been residents of Hastings for the past two years but now live in Franklin county, met with a fatal accident one week ago last Friday. He was riding a horse hitched to a hay rake. The horse became frightened and threw him off in front of the rake, where he was caught by two of the rake teeth which pierced through his side. Medical aid was of no avail, and four days later, Aug. 24, he died. He was nine years old, and his sudden and painful death is a source of great sorrow to his heart-stricken parents.—Hastings Journal.

A SAD accident occurred last week on the western bound Union Pacific emigrant train. A little girl about five years old unnoticed went out on the platform and fell upon the track, two cars passing over her arms and crushing them off up to the elbows. Her arms were amputated at Fremont and she was reported to be doing well. She was the daughter of a Mrs. Rogers from Ohio, who with two other children were coming to their home in the west.
