JAS. G. BLAINE spoke to 10,000 people at Wheeling on the 29th. It was the largest and most enthusiastic demonstration of the campaign in that part of Virginia.

S. M. WATTS was assigned last week at Bellows Falls, Vt., on eight indictments and plead not guilty to each. He is charged with larceny, forgery and the negotiation of forged notes.

The daughter of ex-president Zachary Taylor was said $10,000 last week, the balance of the salary which Gen. Taylor would have received had he lived until his term of office expired.

On the 27th ult. at Jacksonville, Tex., immense swarms of grasshoppers appeared coming from the north, at times obscuring the sun. Farmers near that place are demoralized; even cotton stalks are being destroyed.

TOM MCGIFF, a desperado, who brutally assaulted a citizen of Lincoln a short time since, was captured the other day at Red Oak, Iowa. He will be brought to Lincoln, and most likely receive his just deserts.

SENATOR BLAINE while on his road to Wheeling expressed last week the opinion that the result of the election in his state would not be known until after the November election, and that it would be all right.

WILLIAM MAYER, a young man near Detroit, while trying to climb over a threshing machine last week, fell into the cylinder, and was drawn in to the hips, and most horribly mangled. He died in six hours after the accident.

OLESSY, MOORE & Co's. large paper mill at Middletown, Ohio, was burned one morning last week. The loss was very heavy, and the fire was especially a calamity on account of the recent death of W. M. Moore, the head of the firm.

MRS. GEO. HAMILTON, of San Francisco, on the 21st inst., sent a note to her husband asking an interview. He called, and during the conversation she shot him dead. She had previously separated from him on account of jealousy.

BISHOP SIMPSON, while delivering his sermon at the First Methodist church in San Francisco, Sunday week, was suddenly seized, before the immense audience, with sickness and compelled to stop. The president and Mrs. Hayes were in the audience.

DYER D. LUM, assistant secretary of the national green-back-labor party, has resigned his position. He charges the party leaders with treachery, and says that Gen. Weaver's expenses for campaigning are borne by the republican national committee.

COLLECTOR CLARK at Atlantic, Ga., reports to Washington last week that a party of thirty armed men entered Dalton, Whitefield Co., and forcibly rescued property seized for violations of the revenue laws.

GOV. ST. JOHN of Kansas issued on the 29th ult., on the request of the county attorney of Labette county, a requisition for the Bender family. It is not known what state the requisition is made, but the governor declares his belief that no mistake has been made this time, and that the Benders have really been found.

HANCOCK'S letter on Rebel claims was intended particularly for the northern trade; and the sentiments were sound enough, but the fact that the letter does not make itself very numerous in the newspapers of the south, where the dominant portion of the democracy lives, is sufficient proof of the object for which the epistle was called into being. As in Tilden's case four years ago, it will not be sufficient.

GEN. GRANT presided at the great meeting at Warren, Ohio, on the 28th, and made his first political speech, giving his views at length on the importance just at this juncture of supporting and keeping the republican party in control of government affairs. Senator Conkling and Logan followed Gen. Grant making powerful speeches to the enthusiastic audience numbering at least 12,000 people.

The democratic state convention held at Hastings last Wednesday made the following nominations: Presidential electors, J. E. Boyd, T. Hinman and V. Vignaux; congressman, R. R. Livingston; governor, T. W. Tipton; lieutenant governor, S. H. Calhoun; secretary, Mr. Johnson; auditor, D. C. Patterson; treasurer, F. Folds; attorney general, E. H. Pritchett; land commissioner, E. H. Andrus; superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Bear.

SECRETARY SCHURZ on the 1st inst., addressed a large audience at Cleveland, Ohio, in German. He stated that any change in the administration of the government could not but be injurious to all business and manufacturing interests of the country, for all the dangerous elements in politics were in the democratic party, and communists were attracted to that party, feeling that by its means was the only chance of accomplishing their designs.

SENATOR VANCE of North Carolina uses the mild term "scaling down," when referring to the partial repudiation of the state debt. Instead of the country being "Mexicanized," ready at any moment for repudiation, revolution, anarchy and bloodshed, let it be redeemed by free schools, unfettered political discussions and the constant and equable enforcement of the laws. Instead of the methods of brute force (which the south has always practiced), let the intellectual method have sway. Then, repudiations of debt, in whole or in part, will cease, even in the south; more school houses will be built and more churches; there will be an awakening of all the better instincts, and a consequent re-energizing of old methods—in fact a regeneration of the political soul that has believed in home rule, state-rights, nullification, secession and rebellion, under the specious plea of justice.

What the Republican party desires is a government whose benign sway shall be felt within all our borders and by every citizen according to his capacity; it desires every man's road to prosperity, physical, mental and spiritual, to be unobstructed; it desires a government strong enough to secure every man in his right; a government strong enough to punish the obdurate wrong-doer, no matter whom he may be. The intelligence, the patriotism of the country demand such a government, and, as the ideal, they will approach nearer to it year by year.

No political party should by any means permit any presidential or other election to be carried in the United States by illegal votes. This is a country governed by laws both as it regards legal and illegal voting, prescribing in each state the qualifications of electors, and these rules should govern all the citizens. It should be the duty of every good citizen of the Union to guard the purity of the ballot-box in every locality, and prosecute every man, from judges down to illegal voters, who may wilfully and knowingly violate the election laws. And, politicians begin to cry out "illegal voting." New York and Indiana are being mentioned as suitable places for the practice of this kind of fraud, in connection with pipe-laying of electors. It is the duty of all republicans throughout the Union to guard the ballot-box from all frauds. It looks like a large work to accomplish, but a committee of republicans acquainted with the voters in each voting place throughout the Union might be authorized before the presidential election, to be present at such places and report all violations of law, and prosecute the same. With such a plan in successful operation we might occasionally hear of a republican vote, now and then, counted in Alabama. We should use every lawful means to protect the ballot-box from fraud, as through it alone, when kept pure, our liberties are perpetuated.

SENATOR CONKLING spoke at Cleveland, Ohio, on the 30th ult., to a large audience, notwithstanding the disagreeable condition of the weather. Among other things he said: "The rebellion, which produced a procession of mourners wearing an inky cloak, and a procession of cripples of extraordinary length, piled up against the present generation a mighty debt, which in time must be paid. The pensions must be paid, and the cost of maintaining the government, all of which requires a vast annual revenue. Under the constitution, there were three ways in which that could be paid, and of these modes, in the logic of history and experience, no one in the north, with common sense, dared advocate fully, with a view of carrying it out, free trade. The money to meet the current expenses of the government and pay up the debt must not be got by crippling the business and manufacturing interests of the country. It was asserted that the present tariff had crippled agriculture, but Conkling said he could readily prove that not to be the case, and proceeded to give illustrations and statistics in support of his arguments. The heavy southern end of the democratic party lifted the great northern end till it dangled in the air. The majority in the country should rule, and when the majority attempted it the rebellion resulted. The north furnished a majority of both people and property, above the south."

FIVE thousand people were at Cooper's Institute New York, on the evening of the 29th, to listen to the speech of Secretary Everts, who was most happy in the delivery of one of the best addresses of the campaign. Read a brief extract: "Twenty-four years ago the people trusted to a Pennsylvania democrat, Buchanan, to-day it is proposed to you that you shall restore the government to another Pennsylvania democrat. Twenty years ago the people trusted the government to the republican party, born of patriotism and devoted to liberty. If next November the Pennsylvania democrat is placed in power, it will show that the people are tired of patriotism and weary of liberty. But the people will answer again as they have answered before. Never, no never. During the war every coward and politician in the north was found in the army of non-fighting traitors. But the republican party had decided that the liberty should prevail, if it took the last dollar and the last man, and the people when the war was over, said that the party that carried us through the war shall conduct the government. That party expects to gain power no longer by acts of war, but by appealing to the generous, confiding nature of the American people. But the people see that the candidate of the democratic party is better than the party itself, while they know that the republican party has made liberty universal."

Secretary Fish on Garfield. The Hon. Hamilton Fish presided at the great meeting in New York on Friday night, and here is what he said of Garfield: "Of Gen. Garfield [prolonged cheers and applause.] I can speak with confidence, which an intimate acquaintance of very many years and a close official relation during at least eight years of that time justifies. No purer or abler man ever assisted in the councils of the nation. In private life he exemplified the affectionate, dutiful son, a kind and careful parent, a good neighbor, an honest, upright citizen, in public life a noble, far-seeing, and truthful. None doubt his ability; none question his integrity; and although the necessities of partisan politics and the spiteful calumnies have called out attacks upon him, he stands unstained, uncorrupted, and no better man can be found."

The Philadelphia Press comes to the point in this way: "We may safely challenge any man of the democratic party to name a single act to preserve the union or to restore our prosperity which he has not done, and which he has not opposed. What part has it borne in either of these great movements except that of obstruction and hostility? No act of history is more clearly demonstrable than this persistent and vicious antagonism of the Democratic Representatives and senators to the measures adopted to save the Nation and re-establish its business progress."
