Washington's Dream.

(Cor. National Tribune.) LITTLE SIOUX, IA., June 18, '80. I see a request for Washington's Dream, and as one of my neighbors chanced to have it. I borrowed the paper containing it and take the liberty to send you a copy of the dream. J. W. H.

WASHINGTON'S VISION. "The last time I ever saw Anthony Sherman was on the 4th of July 1859, in Independence Square. He was then nine-nine years old, and becoming very feeble; but, though so old, his dimming eyes rekindled as he gazed upon Independence Hall, which he had come to gaze upon once more before he was gathered

"'Let us go into the Hall,' he said. 'I want to tell you an incident of Washington's life - one which no one alive knows of except myself, and if you live you will before long see it verified. Mark the prediction, you will see it verified. * * From the opening of the Revolution we experienced all phases of fortune-now good and now ill, one time victorious and another conquered. The darkest period we had, I think, was when Washington, after several reverses, retreated to Valley Forge, where he resolved to pass the winter of '77. Ah! I have often seen the tears coursing down our dear old commander's care - worn cheeks as he would be conversing with a confidential officer about the condition of his poor soldiers. You have doubtless heard the story of Washington going to the thicket to pray. Well, it was not only true. but he used often to pray in secret for aid and comfort from God, the interposition of whose Divine Providence brought us safely through those dark days of tribulation.

"One day, I remember it well, seemed to be something on his mind | heard the mysterious voice saying : Returning just after dusk, he dispresently in attendance. After a preliminary conversation, which lasted about half an hour, Washington, gazing upon his companion with that strange look of dignity which he alone could command, said to the latter: 'I do not know whether it is owing to the anxiety of my mind, or what, but this afternoon as I was sitting at this very table engaged in preparing a dispatch, something in the apartment seemed to disturb me. Looking up I beheld standing opposite to me a singularly beautiful female. So astonished was I, for I had given strict orders not to be disturbed, that it was some moments before I found language which Alice played when a child, time did I repeat my question, but and about which she wrote long received no answer from my mysafterward, is still standing near her | terious visitor except a slight raising of the eyes. By this time I felt strange sensations spreading thro' me. I would have risen, but the riveted gaze of the being before me rendered volition impossible. I essayed once more to address her, but my tongue had become powerless. Even thought itself suddenly became paralyzed. A new influence. mysterious, potent, irresistible, took possession of me. All I could do was to gaze steadily, vacantly, at my unknown visitant. Gradually the surrounding atmosphere seemed as though becoming filled with censations and grew luminous. Everything about me seemed to rarify, the mysterious visitor herself becoming more airy, and yet even more distinct to my sight than before. I now began to feel as one dying, or rather to experience the sensations which I have sometimes imagined accompany dissolution. I did not think, I did not reason, I did not move; all were alike impossible. I was only conscious of gazing fixedly, va-

as before. The dark cloud was then drawn back to the ocean, in whose heaving waves it sank from view A third time, I heard the mysterious voice saying: 'Son of the Republic, look and learn.' I cast my eyes up on America and beheld villages and towns and cities springing up one after another, until the whole land from the Atlantic to the Pacific was dotted with them. Again I heard the mysterious voice say: 'Son of the Republic, the end of the century cometh; look and learn.' At this the dark shadowy angel turned his face southward, and from Africa I saw an ill-omened spectre approach our land. It flitted slowly and heavily over town and city of the latter; the inhabitants presently set themselves in battle array against each other. As I continued looking I saw a bright angel, on whose brow rested a crown of light, or which was traced 'Union,' bearing the American flag, which was placed between the divided nation, and said: 'Remember, ye are brethren.' Instantly the inhabitants, casting from them their weapons, became friends once more and united around the national standard. And again I heard the mysterious voice saying : 'Son of the Republic, the end of the century cometh; look and learn. At this the dark shadowy angel placed a trumpet to his mouth and blew three distinct blasts, and taking water from the ocean he sprinkled it upon Europe, Asia, and Africa. Then my eyes beheld a fearful scene. From each of these countries arose thick black clouds that were soon joined into one. And with the cloud, marched by land and sailed by sea to America, which country was enveloped in the volume of the cloud, and I dimly saw the chilly winds whistled through these vast armies devastate the the leafless trees, though the sky was whole country and burn the villacloudless and the sun shone bright- ges, towns, and cities that I beheld ly; he remained in his quarters springing up. As my ears listened nearly all the afternoon alone. When | to the thundering of cannon, clashhe came out I noticed his face was a | ing of swords, and shouts and cries shade paler than usual, and there of millions in mortal combat, I again of more than ordinary importance. Son of the Republic, look and learn.' "'When the voice had ceased the patched an orderly to the quarters dark shadowy angel placed his of the officer I mention, who was trumpet to his mouth, and blew a long, powerful blast.

"Instantly a light, as if of a thousand suns, shone down from above me, and pierced and broke into fragments the dark cloud which enveloped America. At the same moment I saw the angel upon whose head still shone the word 'Union.' and who bore our national flag in one hand and a sword in the other, descend from Heaven attended by legions of bright spirits.

"These immediately joined the nhabitants of America, who, I perceived, were well nigh overcome, but who, immediately taking courage again, closed up their broken ranks and renewed the battle. Again, amid the fearful noise of the conflict, I heard the mysterious voice saving: 'Son of the Republic, look and learn.'

"'As the voice ceased the shadwy angel for the last time dipped water from the ocean and sprinkled it upon America. Instantly the dark cloud rolled back, together with the armies it had brought, leaving the inhabitants of the land victorious.

"'Then, once more, I beheld villages, towns, and cities springing up where they had been before, while the bright angel, planting the azure standard he had brought in the midst of them, cried in a loud voice : While stars remain and the heavens send down dew upon the earth, so long shall the Republic last.' And taking from his brow the crown, on which blazoned the word 'Union,' he placed it upon the standard while the people, kneeling down said 'Amen.'

"'The scene instantly began to fade and dissolve, and I at last saw nothing but the rising, curling va por I had at first beheld. This also disappearing, I found myself once more gazing on my mysterious visitor, who, in the same voice I heard before, said: 'Son of the Republic, what ye have seen is thus interpreted: Three perils will come upon the Republic. The most fearful is second, passing which the whole world united shall never be able to prevail against her. Let every child of the Republic learn to live for his God. his land, and the Union.'

"'With these words the vision vanished, and I started from my seat and felt that I had seen a vision wherein had been shown me the birth, progress, and destiny of the United States. In union she will have her strength, in disunion her destruction.' "Such, my friends,' concluded the venerable narrator, 'were the words I heard from Washington's own lips, and America will do well to profit

Worry. If you find yourself disposed to give way to that mind-weakening, happiness-destroying disease of worry, try to recuperate your nervous system. Go to bed and sleep your imaginary troubles away. . If you can not sleep, it is a sign that your blood is sluggish; your nervous system is used up; your muscular system has had little or no employment. Then do something to tire muscles, and start the blood. Do not fall into the delusive snare of "gentle exercise;" that is admissible only to invalids. Whatsoever you do, do it with all your might. Take a tramp on the hills; saw wood ride horseback; give fifteen minutes to an Indian club or a pair of not too heavy dumb-bells ;run,jump, anything to exert your body and stop the exertion of your mind, to set your muscles into exercise and give your nerves a rest. Get into a glow and a prespiration, and make yourself thoroughly and healthily tired. Then take a bath, get on clean clothes, eat a light meal with a good appetite and go to bed; and ten chances to one, you will go to sleep and wake in the morning cheerful and hopeful, prepared to laugh at your former melancholy

Kind Words.

Here are four good reasons why we should use kind words when we speak to others.

1. Because they always cheer him to whom they are addressed. They soothe him if he is wretched; they comfort him if he is sad.

2. There are words enough of the opposite kind flying in all directions-sour words, cross words, fretful words, irritating words. Now let kind words have a chance to get abroad, since so many and so different are on the wing.

3. Kind words bless him that uses them. A sweet sound on the tongue tends to make the heart mellow. Kind words react upon the kind feelings which prompted them, and make them more kind. They add fresh fuel to the fire of benevolent emotion in the soul.

4. Kind words beget kind feelings. People love to see the face and hear the voice of such a man. Kind words are, therefore, of great value. As good old George Herbert says, "Good words are worth much and cost little,"

Young Men, Don't be Helped.

Dr. Prime has very little sympathy to waste upon young men who get their education by forced loans from relatives. He says to an earnest young fellow who wants an education, but cannot afford to pay for "The way of the world now is for you to look about and see who will help you to get it. That is not the right way. Look about and see what you can do to help yourself. Grind your own ax. Support yourself by honorable industry and carn your bread while you improve the odds and ends of time and study. When you get something ahead, use it to support yourself while you learn. Ten thousand men are now serving their generation with usefulness and honor who never asked anybody to grind an ax for them."

This is very sensible advice. The young men of this country, as a rule, are helped altogether too much. If they have the right stuff in them they can get the education they need without begging or borrowing.

Advice to Girls.

Do not estimate the worth of a young man by his ability to talk soft nonsense, nor by the length of his mustache. Do not imagine that an extra ribbon tied about the neck can remedy the defect of a soiled collar and un-tidy dress. If your hands are browned by labor, do not envy the lilly fingers of Miss Fuss and Feathers, whose old mother works in the kitchen, while her daughter lounges in the parlor.

If a dandy, with a cigar between his fingers, asks you if smoking is offensive to you, tell him emphatically, 'Yes.' The habit should be. even though the odor may not.

Do not waste your tears on the imaginary sorrows of Alonzo and Melissa, nor the trials of dime novel heroines. Seek rather to alleviate the woes of the suffering ones of

A little girl of twelve years, the daughter of a clergyman, was asked: "Sadie, does your father ever preach the same sermon twice?" After thinking a moment, Sadie replied: "Yes, I think he does, but I think he hollers in different places."

He who laughs at cruelty sets his heel on the neck of religion and
